TRAIN AND TRACK.

Japan's first interurban railroad was recently opened.

A Paris syndicate is seeking permission to build six new railway lines in Spain.

The Vavarian railway authorities as a temperance measure have directed that coffee, with sugar, be supplied free to train attendants and to a large class of station and permanent way men while on duty to the amount of one liter—little less than a quart—a day.

Henry F. Shaw, the well known mechanical engineer, of Roxbury, Mass., has recently had patented a new type of his famous balanced locomotive, which he maintains would if adopted by all the railroads of the country on which high speed is made reduce the liability to accident at least 57 per cent.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

School children in Freiburg, Germany, now have "tooth cards," with instructions as to the care of the teeth. Dental service is provided free of charge.

Johns Hopkins university will henceforth admit women as students after the same manner that the German universities adopted. Each professor may admit women to his classes if he chooses.

F. H. Storer, of the Bussey Institute, Cambridge, Mass., has resigned, to take effect next September. He has been professor of agricultural chemistry in the institution since its foundation.

Boston will begin next fall a girls' high school of practical arts to correspond in purpose with the commercial high schools for boys. The school will attempt to teach girls practical courses to fit them as home makers.

LAW POINTS.

The liability of doctors for performing an unauthorized autopsy on a dead body for the purpose of complying with a rule of the board of health and securing a burial permit is denied in Meyers versus Duddenhauser (Ky.), 5 L. R. A. (N. S.), 727.

The right of a wife to enforce a promissory note executed to her by her husband is sustained in Mathewson versus Mathewson (Conn.), 5 L. R. A. (N. S.), 611, under a statute replacing unity of property rights with equality in legal identity and in ownership of property.

A note payable to a director or official of a railroad company in his personal capacity and for his personal benefit on condition that a railroad is built to a certain point by a certain time is held in McGuffin versus Coyle (Okla.), 6 L. R. N. (N. S.), 524, to be void as against public policy.

Quay and His Letters.

The late Senator M. S. Quay, of Pennsylvania, kept all the letters his constituents wrote to him asking for favors. He had stacks of them when his last fight for the Senate came along. Then he sorted out the letters, eliminating those from people who were dead, and on the back of each letter wrote:

"Dear John or Bill—Do you remember when you wrote me this letter and do you remember that I did what was asked? I want your help now in my fight for the Senate. Can I have it?"

The politicians in Pennsylvania say those letters, mailed to the original senlers with Quay's request on the backs of them, had as much as any one thing to do with Quay's winning his fight.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Doctor's Assistant.

A doctor whose large practice has made an assistant necessary was told that the man he selected was hardly competent.

"He's good enough for what I want him for," said the doctor. "I don't expect him to prescribe for my patients, but to listen to their gossip. In many cases the privilege of talking over his troubles with the doctor constitutes the biggest part of a patient's cure. I haven't time to listen to all these compalints myself, hence the need of an assistant. This man is good looking and sympathetic. Callers will readily unburden their hearts to him, then when they are ready for real medical advice he can pass them on to me."—Columbus Dispatch.

Don't Hurry.

Do nothing in a hurry. Nature never does. "More haste, worse speed," says the old proverb. If you are in doubt, sleep over it. But, above all, never quarrel in a hurry; think it over well. Take time. However vexed you may be overnight, things will often look different in the morning. If you have written a clever and conclusive but scathing letter, keep it back till the next day, and it will very often never go at all.—Lord Evebury.

his views of the proposed suspension of the Frelinghuysen law.

"I know I have been quoted as saying that I would sign the bill if passed by the Legislature," said the Governor, "but that is incorrect. It will be time enough for me to give my opinion when the Senate acts. That body will not meet until next week and there is, therefore, no fear that anything will be done until Mr. Frelinghuysen returns if he is coming back by that time. No, I have not said that I favor the measure and would sign it; that is incorrect."

The Governor added that he had received Mr. Frelinghuysen's telegram.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Frances L. Pelletreau.

Mrs. Frances L. Pelletreau, widow of Charles H. Peletreau, died Sunday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Thiers, of Craig place. Mr. Pelletreau died in Plainfield several years ago. Both he and Mrs. Pelletreau lived in Brooklyn most of their lives, and had a wide acquaintance there. The family is one of the oldest on Long Island. Mr. Pelletreau was for over forty years the chief accountant of the Board of Water Commissions, and opened the original books of theWater Board when the system of water supply was established in Brooklyn. Mrs. Pelletreau is survived by two daughters, Miss Frances L. Pelletreau and Mrs Charles R. Thiers.

James Cubberley.

The typhoid epidemic that has been prevalent in Trenton, claimed another victim Saturday in the person of James Cubberley, a former resident of this city and son of Rev. J. A. Cubberley, formerly pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church. He died after a brief illness with the disease. The funeral will be held at Hamilton Square, near Trenton, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The young man was twenty-six years old and had a wide acquaintance in this vicinity. Since their removal from Plainfield, his parents have been living at Worcester, N. Y.

SEWING ROOM NOTES.

If a yoke is not desired on the back of the waist, it is always advisable to put one of muslin across the shoulders on the inside. The waist wears much better, for the strain is lessened.

Tucked shirt waists are much more satisfactory in appearance and fit if the tucking is done before the waist is cut out. Tuck a long strip for the two fronts. In this way they are sure to be alike without so much tiresome measuring.

The temptation to keep one's thimble on when not in use is a great one, but it is one which should be resisted. The constant pressure will partially change the shape of the end of the finger, and the heating and consequent moisture will soften the nail.

Something to Wash Down.

One day last July little Freddie and his mother went to visit the boy's cousin, Martha. The day being very warm, Martha served lemonade and cake. Freddie, who was very fond of cake, ate all of his piece before he had drung any lemonade. Martha, noticing this, said:

"Freddie, drink some of your lemonade and it will wash the cake down."

Freddie drank a little lemonade and sat looking longingly at the cake on the table and finally said:

"Please, Martha, can I have one more piece of cake, so as to have something to wash down with this lemonade?"—Judge's Library.

Finger Cakes.

Beat two eggs very light, add one tablespoonful of vanilla and a cup of sugar, reserving two tablespoonsfuls. Stir in one cupful of cream of tartar and one-half teaspoonful of soda, adding a half saltspoonful of salt. Add flour to make stiff dough. Roll into a thin sheet, dredge with reserved sugar, pressing it in lightly with rolling pin. Cut into strips a finger in width. Bake light brown in a quick oven, being careful that the strips do not touch one another.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT ON THE P. C. C. COURTS

PRELIMINARY FIRST AND SECOND ROUNDS ARE PLAYED.

The invitation tennis tournament, men's doubles, open to teams in New York and New Jersey, which was held Saturday under the auspices of the Plainfield Country Club, attracted many of the crack players throughout the Metropolitan district, and a large gallery had the privilege of seeing some exceptionally fast tennis play.

A feature of the first round was the fact that the playing was so close and exciting that nearly every match required three sets to be played. All of the Plainfield players went out in this round.

The surprise of the day was the defeat of S. A. Westfall and E. S. H. Pendergast, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, by Williab Barlow, Jr., and W. V. McGee, the latter team taking two sets rather unexpectedly. Westfall held the championship in singles in the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association, and the result of this match was contrary to expectation. Both teams played brilliant tennis, the Park Club pair being very steady throughout, while their opponents failed to show the expected strength.

Barlow and McGee are scheduled to meet W. B. Craigin, Jr., and Dean Mathey in the semi-finals and this should be a match well-worth seeing. Craigin has held the championship in the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association during the past two years, having defeated Westfall. While the attached Plainfield teams are out of the tournament, there is still local interest by reason of the fact that H. J. Cochran, of this city, with his partner, C. Cole, of Morristown, are left in the semi-finals.

The Plainfield Country Club has offered a pair of silver cups to the winners and another pair of cups to the runners-up. The results of Saturday's play follow:

Preliminary round—F. E. and L. H. Ferris, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, beat W. L. Righter and A. L. Otterson, Plainfield Country Club, 7-5, 6-2; W. Barlow, Jr., and W. V. McGee, Park Club, beat P. Langdon and S. W. McAneny, Fanwood Club, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

First round—H. J. Cochran, Plainfield, and C. Cole, Morristown Field Club, beat Willard Wadsworth and Thomas M. Day, Plainfield Country Club, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4; G. W. Case, Jr., and N. F. Charlock, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, beat T. L. Gavett and Monroe H. Long, Park Club, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2; L. Dunham, Ilderan Outing Club, and G. C. Thomas, Jr., Elizabeth Town and Country Club, beat A. Lovell and H. L. DeForest, Plainfield Country Club, 6-4, 6-2; R. N. Black and C. Miller, Ilderan Outing Club, beat F. E. and L. H. Ferris, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 5-7, 8-6, 6-4; W. Barlow, Jr., and W. V. McGee, Park Club, beat C. A. Porter, of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, and Owen H. Fleming, Plainfield Country Club, 6-3, 6-1; S. A. Westfall and E. S. H. Pendergast, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, beat H. S. Brown and J. F. Stimson, Plainfield Country Club, 6-1, 6-2; W. B. Craigin, Jr., and Dean Mathey, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, beat H. H. Foster and H. Eggleston, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 6-0, 6-1; Miles S. Charlock and R. A. West, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, beat H. T. Eaton, of Plainfield, and W. L. Hildeburn, of New York city, 6-3, 6-2.

Second round—H. J. Cochran, Plainfield Country Club, and C. Cole, Morristown Field Club, beat G. W. Case, Jr., and N. F. Charlock, Elizabeth Town and country Club, 12-10, 6-4; L. Dunham, Ilderan Outing lub, and G. C. Thomas, Jr., Elizabeth Town and Country Club, beat R. N. Black and C. Miller, Ilderan Outing Club, 6-4, 6-3; W. Barlow, Jr., and W. V. McGee, Park Club, beat S. A. Westfall and E. S. H. Pendergast, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 917, 6-3; W. B. Craigin, Jr., and Dean Mathey, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, beat Miles S. Charlock and R. A. West, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

The semi-finals and finals will be played on Saturday.

Unfortunate Royalty.

Horse accidents caused the death of William I. and William III., William II. and Richard I. were killed by arrows, Richard III. was slain in battle, Charles I. was beheaded, Edward II., Richard II. and Edward V. were murdered, a surfeit of lampreys cost Henry I. his life, poison or a surfeit of peaches killed John, poison is suspected to have been administered to Edward VI., and the death of Henry VI. is by some historians laid to the charge of Richard, duke of Gloucester.—London Standard.

VALUABLE SAND DEPOSITS.

Midlesex Farmers Excited Over Recent Discovery.

The residents of the farms between Old Bridge and South River are in great excitement over the discovery by Charles W. Fisher, of Sayreville, that the land belonging to Ezekiel Letts contains valuable deposits of glass sand, moulding sand and fire clay, which will raise the value of the place to over $50,000.

It is suspected that large veins of the valuable substance runs through that locality, and the property owners in the vicinity may realize untold wealth if the veins go through their farms.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The recent visit of the Prince of Wales to India, cost $297,915.15.

Prince William of Sweden is expected to visit Newport in August on the cruiser Eyglia.

The baby prince of Spain's name has been entered upon the roll of a regiment, and he wears the number of it in gold pinned on his bib. A bed in the barracks is reserved for him as the latest recruit.

Ranjitsinhji, the Indian prince who was formerly the best cricket player in all England and familiarly known as "Ranji," has set 200 guineas to his old cricket club, half of which is commemorate of his accession to the throne of Jamnagar and the other half an annual gift.

The Word "Widow."

As a word "widow" is most interesting. Max Mueller traced it back through thousands of years with hardly any change of form or meaning. "The word at its original formation meant simply a woman left without a man, just as it does today, and it has remained all these ages materially unchanged both in sound and meaning." A thousand years ago the Anglo-Saxons used the word in England and North Germany. The Meso-Goths and, earlier than they, the Latin people knew it centuries before the Anglo-Saxons, and the Sanskrit records show that a thousand years before Latin was written the same word was spoken on the slopes of the Himalayas.

Most Nearly Perfect Vacuum.

It was Professor Dewar's achievement in liquifying hydrogen that led to the discovery of an easy method of obtaining an almost perfect vacuum, and that in a single minute. When a glass tube filled with air and closed at one end has its open end dipped into a cup of liquid hydrogen, the intense cold condenses the air into a kind of snow that settle to the bottom. If, then, the upper part of the tube, from which the solidified air has fallen, is removted by heating and cooling it off it becomes a vacuum chamber so free from air that it is difficult to force an electric current through it.—New York Herald.

His Old Letters.

A Wall street business man showed a visitor a bundle of old letters that he was taking home from his office to burn in his furnace. "I wasn't always so particular about these useless business letters," he said, "until I learned that the women cleaners were sorting them out of the wastebaskets and selling them to certain firms which make a business of furnishing lists of names for various purposes, mostly to speculative concerns. Then I concluded that I owed it to my clients to protect them from the nuisance that follows getting one's name on a mailing list."—New York Sun.

Sewer Case Conference.

Representatives of Peter Morgan, the south side sewer contractor, and the Metropolitan Surety Company, of New York, bondsmen of the former, will hold a conference with Street Commissioner Gavett and Mayor Fisk this afternoon. POLICE WERE ON THE JOB

Down in the old Ninth ward—far west of Broadway and south of the lower fringe of the artificial palm belt—there still exists an old-fashioned chophouse where bad music and gilt ceilings have not been substituted for good cooking and intelligent service. In addition to the front entrance the place has a door in the rear, opening out on a side alley. On this second exit hinges the story of how a former head of the New York police force became confirmed in the opinion that he had the very finest police force in the world.

When the superintendent, as the chief of police was then called, first began to dine at this little chop house there was consternation among the policemen of that and neighboring posts, for many of them were in the habit of dropping in there for refreshment at times when they should have been on duty.

Their discomfiture was not for long, however. Some wise cop with all the instincts of a good detective, familiar with the door on the alley, devised a plan whereby he and his companions were enable to enjoy their evening chop and ale without fear of detection by their chief.

His scheme, like all good schemes, was simple. When a man on post—one man was always left outside—spied the superintendent coming around the corner he would walk nonchalantly by the chop house, giving the wink to Johnny, the cashier, who sat at the desk by the door. Johnny in turn would tip the dining cops, thus giving them ample time to slip out the back way and through the alley while the unsuspecting superintendent sauntered in by the front entrance.

One evening, just after some policemen had slipped out in response to the customary warning, the superintendent entered with a guest. The guest was a London inspector who had been sent to this country to study our methods.

"Well, you may say what you like," the Englishman said as the waiter was clearing away the dishes, "but I'd be willing to wager you ten of your American dollars that if we were to step around the corner right now and call for help there wouldn't be a bobby within hail."

The waiter began to prick up his ears.

"You're on with that bet," said the superintendent. "As soon as we've had our coffee we'll just step around the corner here and try it. And if you don't find that inside of—"

The waiter did not stop to hear more. He snapped his fingers as though he had suddenly remembered something and hurried toward the kitchen.

"Say," he blurted out to the cook, "tell George to serve the chief's coffee and to take his blamed time about it, too! I can't wait."

Before the astonished cook had time to ask an explanation the waiter was darting up the alley in search of the man on post. Luckily he knew where to find him.

"Listen," he gasped. And he breathlessly related what he had just heard in the chop house.

"Gee!" exclaimed the cop. "When? Whereabouts? Hold 'em as long as y' can, will yer?"

With that he was off in search of the men on neighboring posts, and they in turn hunted up still others.

Back in the chop house the superintendent was apologizing to the inspector.

"I'm sorry the service has been so bad here to-night. I've never known it to be like this before. Well, and now for our bet," he said when he had at last succeeded in getting his check made out.

They strolled around the corner to a quiet place in the middle of the block.

"Here," said the superintendent, here's a good place. Now, I'l grab you by the shoulders and you yell for help. Good and loud, mind you, just as a man naturally would, you know."

The Englishman drew a deep breath and started in:

"Help! Help! Murder! Mur—"

But he got no further.

Scrambling up out of areaways, tumbling down out of doorways—cops, cops, cops, cops—it seemed as though every nook and corner in the neighborhood were raining fat cops.

Biff! Bang! Biff! They beat in the superintendent's hat.

Then, as each one apparently saw who it was, he drew off with "Oh, the superintendent! Sorry, sir," and started in to beat up the superintendent's English friend.

"Well," admitted the battered London inspector when explanations had been made and it was all over, "you've certainly got a very effective organization."

"Finest in the world," declared the superintendent, wincing slightly as he started to expand with pride.

Complains of Noise Nuisance.

"It is a distressing fact that some of our most efficient labor-saving devices are peace disturbing and nerve destroying because of the infernal racket they create. The pneumatic hammer, swaging machine, swaging hammer and most percussive tools are capable of much greater usefulness than they have yet attained, but," remarks the editor of Machinery, "one cannot consistently wish them to come into general use until some means is invented to mitigate the noise nuisance."

BY CHARLES CLARK MUNN

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

It startled him somewhat, however, for Old Cy's youthful history was unknown to him, and suspecting that some mystery lay beneath this information, he told no one, but started for Riggsville at once.

The tide of emotion that had upset the even tenor of Uncle Jud's home life slowly ebbed away, and a keen sense of expectancy took its place.

Chip, after giving him her letter, explained that Old Cy was most likely in the wilderness, and that the letter might not reach him for weeks.

And then one day a broad-shouldered, rather commanding, and somewhat citified man drove up to the home of Uncle Jud.

"Does Mr. Judson Walker live here?" he inquired of Aunt Mandy, who met him a tthe door.

Her admission of that fact was scarce uttered when there came a rustling of skirts, a "Why, Mr. Frisbie!" and Chip was beside her, at which Martin, collected man of the world that he was, felt an unusual heart-throb of thankfulness.

A little later, when Uncle Jud had been summoned into their newly furnished "keeping-room," disclosures astonishing to all followed.

"We have been searching for you, Chip, far and near," Martin assured them, "and Old Cy is still at it. He left us at the camp, almost a year ago, came to Greenvale, found you had run away, and came back to tell us. It upset us all so that we broke camp at once, taking Amzi with us, and returned to Greenvale. Old Cy there bade us good-by and started to find you. Ray also began a search as well. I've advertised in dozens of papers, have kept Levi on watch for you at Grindstone ever since, and now I hope you will return with me to Greenvale."

"I thank you all, oh, so much," answered Chip, scared a little at this proposal, "but I don't want to. I'm nobody there and never can be. I'd be ashamed to face folks there any more."

"I guess she best stay with us," put in Uncle Jud, "fer we sorter 'dopted her, 'n' not meanin' no disrespect to you folks, I callate she'll be more content here. I'd like ye to get word to Cyrus, though, soon's possible. I hain't sot eyes on him fer 40 years, 'n'," his eyes twinkling, "I'm jest spilin' to pull his hair 'n' cuff him."

"I will help out in that matter at once, and more than gladly," replied Martin, again looking at Chip and noting how improved she was; "but I still think Miss Runaway had better return with me. We need you, Chip," he continued earnestly, "and so does some one else I can name, more than you imagine, I fancy, and my wife will welcome you with open arms, you may be sure. As for that foolish Hannah, she's the most penitent person in Greenvale. There's another reason still," he added, glancing around with a smile, "and no one is more glad of it than we all are. It's a sixty-thousand-dollar reason—your heritage, Miss Vera McGuire, for your father is dead and that amount is now in the Riverton Savings bank awaiting you."

Martin had expected this news to be overpowering, and a "Good God!" from Uncle Jud, and a gasping "Land sakes!" from Aunt Mandy proved that it was.

Chip's face, however, was a study. First she grew pale, then flashed a scared glance from one to another of the three who watched her, and then almost did her shame and hatred of this vile parent find expression.

"I'm glad he—no, I won't say so, for he was my father," she exclaimed; "but I want Old Cy to have some of the money, and Uncle Jud here, and you folks, all. I was a pauper long enough," and then, true to her instinct of how to escape from trouble, she ran out of the room.

"She's a curis gal," asserted Uncle Jud, looking after her as if feeling that she needed explanation, "the most curis gal I ever saw. But we can't let her go, money or no money, Mr. Frisbie. I found her one night upon top o' Bangall hill. She was so starved an' beat out from trampin' she couldn't hardly crawl up on to the wagon, 'n' yet—she said she wouldn't be helped 'thout she could arn it. I think she's like folks we read about, who starve ruther'n beg. But she kin have all we've got some day, an' we jest can't let her go."

Something of chagrin also came to him, for, broad-minded as he was, he realized how partial neglect, the narrow religious prejudice of Greenvale, and unwise notice of her childish ideas about spites and Old Tomah's superstitions had all conspired to drive her away. She was honest and self-respecting, "true blue," as Old Cy had said, grateful as a fawning dog for all that had been done for her, and in spite of her origin, a circumstance that carried no weight with Martin, she was one, he believed, who would develop into splendid womanhood. That she was well on her way toward that goal, her improved speech and devotion to these new friends gave ample evidence.

And now Ray's position in this complex situation occurred to Martin; for this young man's interest in Chip and almost heart-broken grief over her disappearance had long since betrayed his attachment.

"I suppose you may have guessed that there was a love affair mixed up with this episode," he said to the two somewhat dazed people.

"I callated thar was, that fust night," Uncle Jud responded, his eyes twinkling again, 'an' told Mandy so. 'Twas that more'n anything else kept us from quizzin' the gal. I knowed by her face she had heart trouble, 'n' I've seen the cause on't."

"You have," exclaimed Martin, astonished in turn, "for heaven's sake, where?"

"Oh, down to the Corners, 'most a year ago, 'n' a likely boy he was, too."

"And never told her?"

"No, why should I, thinkin' she'd run away from him. We didn't want to spile her plans. We found out, though, her name was McGuire, but never let on till she told us a spell ago." And then Uncle Jud told the story of Ray's arrival in Riggsville in search of Chip.

"That fellow is my nephew, Raymond Stetson," rejoined Martin with pride, "he also is an orphan, and I have adopted him. Chip has no cause to be ashamed of his attachment."

"I don't callate she is," replied Uncle Jud. "'Tain't that that jineraly makes a gal kick over the traces. Mebbe 'twas suthin some o' you folks said." And then a new light came to Martin.

"Mr. Walker," he answered impressively; "in every village there is always a meddlesome old maid who invariably says things she'd better not, and ours is no exception. In this case it was a dependent of our family who took a dislike to Chip, it seems, and her escapade was its outcome."

"Wal, ye've got to hev charity for 'em," replied Uncle Jud, with a broad smile. "Never havin' suffered the joys 'n' sorrows o' love, they look at it sorter criss-cross, an' mebber this 'un did. Old maids are a good deal like cider—nat'rally turn to vinegar. What wimmin need more'n all the rest is bein' loved, 'n' if they don't get it, they sour up in time an' ain't no comfort to themselves nor nobody else. Then ag'in, not havin' no man nor no babies to look arter, they take to coddlin' cats 'n' dogs 'n' parrots, which ain't nat'ral.

"I think," continued Uncle Jud, "now that we've turned another furrow, you'd best stop a day or two with us, 'n' sorter git 'quainted. We'll be mighty glad to hev ye, me an' Mandy, an' then ag'in thar's a lot o good trout holes up the brook. We hev plenty to eat, 'n' mebbe a few days here in Peaceful Valley'll sorter reconcile ye to leavin' the gal with us." And nothing loath, Martin accepted.

Aunt Mandy and Chip now bestirred themselves as never before. The dressmaker was left to her own resources, Martin and Uncle Jud rigged fishpoles and started for the brook. Chip, with pail in hand, hurried away to the fields, and when tea-time arrived, the big platter of crisp fried trout, saucers filled with luscious blackberries, and ample shortcake of the same with cream that poured in clots, assured Martin that these people did indeed have plenty to eat.

"How did this come to be named Peaceful Valley?" he queried, when they had gathered around the table. "It's very appropriate."

"Wal," answered Uncle Jud, "we got it from a feller that come up here paintin' picturs one summer, an'," chuckling, "'twas all we got for a month's board, at that. He was a short o' skimpy critter, with long hair, kinder pale, and chawed tobacco stiddy. He 'lowed his name was Grahame, that he was in the show business 'n' gittin' backgrounds, as he called 'em, fer show picturs. He roved up 'n' down the brook, puttin' rocks 'n' trees 'n' water falls on paper, allus gittin' 'round reglar 'bout meal time—must 'a' gained 20 pounds while here. An' then one mornin' he was missin', 'n' so was Aunt Mandy's gold thimble 'n' all her silver spoons. She'd sorter took to him, too, he was that palaverin' in his way."

There now ensued a series of questions from Uncle Jud in regard to Old Cy—how long Martin had known him, and all that pertained to his history.

It was gladly recited by Martin, together with all the strange happenings in the wilderness, the finding of Chip, the half-breed's pursuit and abduction of her, and much else that has been told. It was almost midnight ere Martin was shown to the best front chamber, and even then he lay awake an hour, listening to the steady prattle of a near-by brook and thinking of all that had happened.

A tone of regret crept into his voice, however, when, after thanking Uncle Jud and Aunt Mandy, and bidding them good-by, he addressed Chip.

"I wish I could take you back with me," he said; "your return would be such a blessing to Aunt Comfort and my wife. You may not believe it, but you are dear to them both. I must insist that you at least pay us a visit soon. Here is your bank book," he added, presenting it. "You are rich now, or at least need never want, for which we are all grateful. And what about Ray?" he added, pausing to watch her. "What shall I say to him? Shall I tell him to come and see you?"

Chip shook her head firmly. "No, no," she answered, "please don't do that. Some day I may feel different, but not now."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Sad news arrived in Peaceful Valley a week later, for Captain Bemis had passed on, Aunt Abby was in lonely sorrow, and wrote for Chip to come at once.

Her fate was now linked with these people. Aunt Abby had been kind and helpful, and Chip, more than glad to return a little of the obligation, hurried to Christmas Cove.

It was a solemn and silent house she now entered. Aunt Abby, despite the fact that it was not a love match, mourned her departed companion. The mill's pertinent silence added gloom, and Chip's smiling face and affectionate interest was more than welcome to Aunt Abby.

And now that concealment was no longer needed, Chip hastened to tell her story in full.

How utterly Aunt Abby was astonished, how breathlessly she listened to Chip's recital, and how, when the climax came and Chip assured her that good Old Cy Walker was still alive, Aunt Abby collapsed entirely, sobbing and thanking God all at once, is but a sidelight on this tale.

"I couldn't tell you before," Chip assured her, while her own tears still flowed. "I was so ashamed and guilty all in one, I couldn't bear to. I never did so mean a thing in all my life, and never will again. But when Uncle Jud told me what you didn't, and how much he cared for me, and how you once cared for Uncle Cy, I went all to pieces and told the whole story and sent word to Uncle Cy that day. I feel so guilty now, and so mean, I don't see how you can forgive me."

But Aunt Abby's forgiveness was not slow in coming. The past ten days of sorrow had left her heart very tender. In spite of being "book-larned," she was very humane. Chip's sad life and misfortunes appealed to her, as they had to Uncle Jud, and true Christian woman that she was, her heart opened to Chip.

"I hope we shall never be parted while I live," she said, as the tears came again. "I have no children, and no one to live for but my sister. I am so wonted to Christmas Cove, I could not feel at home anywhere else. If Uncle Jud will consent, I will adopt you legily, and when I am laid away all I have shall be yours."

And so Chip McGuire, waif of the wilderness, child of an outlaw, once sold to a human brute, yet fighting her way upward and onward to a better life, despite every drawback, now found a home and mother.

No light of education had illumined her pathway, no Christian teaching and no home example, only the inborn and God-given impulse of purity, self-respect and gratitude; and yet, like a bud forcing its way up out of a muck heap and into the sunshine, so Chip emerged to win respect and love.

But all her history is not told yet. She still lacked even a common education. There was still an old man seeking to find her, who was yet wandering afar. A homeless, almost friendless old man was he, whose life had gone amiss, and whose sole ambition was to do for her and find content in her happiness. A wanderer and recluse for many years, he was still more so now, and out of place as well among the busy haunts of men. More than that, he was an object of curiosity to all grown people and the jest of the young, as he tramped up and down the land in search of Chip.

And what a pitiful quest it was—this asking the same question thousands of times, this lingering in towns to watch mill operatives file out, this peering into stores and marts, to go on again, and repeat it for months and months.

There was still another link in this chain—a boy, so far as experience goes, who was only deterred from unwise haste by a cool-headed man.

"You had better not go to Chip now," Martin said to him on his return from Peaceful Vallely. "She is an odd child of nature, and you won't lose by waiting. My advice to you is to forget her for the present, find some profitable occupation, and then, when you have made a little advancement in life, go and woo her if you can. To try it now is foolish."

Y. M. C. A. NINE DROPS

CAN'T HIT RANDOLPH

West Enders Take Kindly to Minford's Shoots, and Garner Hits When They Are Needed.

Pennant aspirations sour the milk of human kindness or words to that effect. Take the case of Manager Listman, of the Y. M. C. A. nine. Seeking consolation for the loss of an untamed appendix that ravening surgeons lifted from his interior three weeks ago, he went to Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, counting on the invigoration that would spring from a victory of his colts over the careering Clinton Avenues. Ordinarily, those Clinton Avenues are kind of heart, but they couldn't find an active germ of sympathy for the carved Association manager anywhere on their persons Saturday afternoon. "What's a vanished appendix to a dawning championship?" sternly demanded Ernest Derflinger, turning an unrelenting gaze on the hopeful face of G. Listman. "Have at them!" Whereupon, the Clinton Avenues, heartlessly clearing from their minds all thought of the place where the Listman appendix used to be, turned to and walloped the Y. M. C. A. athletes thoroughly, Score, 5 to 1.

There was nothing at all in the game to soothe Mr. Listman's aching void. The Y. M. C. A.'s were outfielded and outbatted. Minford wearied under steady clouting, and his playmates were not there with footwork, the scoop or the wallop with which to balance the slump. C. Randolph, on the other hand, had a large stock of kibosh, which he plastered thickly over threatening batters, and his support would have served for pitching that didn't fly the Indian sign so disconcertingly. Craig and Nelson were the only ones who could wrench safeties off his delivery, and two of the four welts were suggestive of the itch. Jack Martin glittered at short. Brutal fans say that none of Jack's vests fits him now, but these things must be written, if they bust every button on all his coats. He has to pay the tailor, not us.

Y. M. C. A. scored that lone run in the third, on Ralph Schoonmaker's jog, two steals and Craig's slashing hit to left. There were two out, and Jack Martin—here goes another button—pulled the side up short by a workmanlike stab at Nelson's whizzing liner. They had scarcely a look-in at the game after that.

Clinton Avenue took the lead in the fifth on Dupee's error, which gave Gilman a life, O'Loughlin's bunt, on which Gilman went to third, and Schott's hit to right. Both runners scored on the leftfielder's clout, O'Loughlin having stolen second. O'Loughlin was caught stealing, and Randolph and Barnes whiffed.

In the sixth, Giles, first up, hit to left, Brit Martin flied to Schoonmaker, but Emery walloped one to right, sending Giles to third. Emery stole. Jack Martin flied to center, but Gilman was there with the punch and bashed the bulb to deep center for two bags, scoring Giles and Emery. O'Loughlin fanned. The fifth run was scored in the eighth. Brit Martin, first up, banged a turf-cutter to Ralph Schoonmaker. The shortstop set for the ball, but it found a hole he hadn't covered and kept on going. Emery flied to left. Jack Martin beat out a roller, and brother Brit went to third in the excitement. Jack started for second, and Nelson took a chance on a snapback. Brit gave Dupee the opportunity, but the second baseman lost valuable seconds in an attempt to tag Jack, and lost both runners. O'Loughlin went out, third to first, and Schott died at the plate.

THE FORUM.

Custom Ignored.

Editor The Daily Press:

The First Presbyterian and Congregational Sunday-schools will go on their annual excursion to Asbury Park, Thursday July 18. This date being secured months ago. Notwithstanding this, the committee of another church has succeeded in getting permission from the railroad company to run their excursion to the same place one day before ours, the usual courtesy of allowing a week's time between dates being ignored. We hope the many friends that have gone with us in the past years will not forget the date is Thursday, July 18, and will go with us as usual.

The Elm Beetle.

Editor The Daily Press:

The destructive elm beetle has now assumed its fourth form, viz., that of a greenish gray caterpillar about five-eighths of an inch long, and where it prevails is now to be found running up and down on the bark of the elms. Every owner of an elm, and every citizen with elms on his side-walk, can do great service to the city by killing all the worms he can reach. It can be done with a stiff corn-broom or any small stone or stick. In its present form the worm is seeking a place under the rough bark or on the ground right at the foot of the trunk where its next change results in the beetle with wings which again lays its eggs on the leaves producing a second crop of larvae and worms. As it is now too late to do any good by spraying, I strongly urge everyone having elm trees nearby to kill all the worms possible to prevent a second crop. What happens to the beetles after their eggs are laid?

Yours truly,
ALEX. MILLAR.

WON ON A TECHNICALITY

Loop Hole in Law Used to Secure Acquittal of Man Violating Game Laws.

HIS HOUND AT LARGE

But James Gunn Did Not "Permit" Animal to Run Around Unchained According to His Plea.

Before Justice Mundy, yesterday afternoon, James Gunn, of North Plainfield township, was acquitted of a charge preferred by Deputy Game Warden Freeman Strait for permitting a hound dog to run at large in the woods and fields about Watchung in volation of the fourth section of the fish and game laws, the penalty for which is $20. The assistant of the Attorney General appeared for the State as plaintiff, and the defendant was represented by S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer.

Two witnesses were produced by the prosecution to show that a hound dog belonging to the defendant had been running loose and that the dog had been followed home by the assistant game warden and his workmen. The defendant's mother had admitted the dog belonged to her son and that the defendant afterward admitted it also. After producing Freeholder Demler and Charles Cleaves, who showed that the defendant was in the habit of keeping his dog thoroughly secured, and that they did not see the dog at large on the day in question, and after showing by the defendant that he had cooped his dog up in the pig pen and did not know that it had been out until he returned at night, Mr. Swackhamer read the section under which suit was brought. He argued that there was no offense against the law proved by the evidence inasmuch as the law provided that it was unlawful to permit a dog to run at large while the facts showed that the defendant had tried in every reasonable way to prevent it.

The defendant was acquitted and no notice of appeal was given by the representative of the State.

STREET COMMITTEE TO SETTLE SEWER TROUBLE

CITY FATHERS ORDER THAT IT STRAIGHTEN OUT CONTRACT TANGLE.

The present condition of the south side sewer muddle was explained at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night by Chairman Ginna of the street committee. He announced that representatives of the Metropolitan Surety Company, and of Contractor Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, with city officials, held a conference yesterday, and an adjournment was taken for one week to give those interested an opportunity to learn all the facts in the case and ascertain the amounts due the various creditors and the city. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., represented the unpaid Italian laborers.

At the suggestion of Mr. Ginna, it was decided to give the surety company and Mr. Morgan's representative another week to get matters in shape. He said that the was a possibility that the man representing Mr. Morgan might arrange to complete the contract, and if this could be done, in his opinion, it would be good judgment to allow him to do as under the present circumstances he did not believe that the city cared to undertake the contract. The matter being in the hands of the street committee, by unanimous consent it was decided to let those members use their judgment.

It is approximately estimated that when Mr. Cusack left the city there was an outstanding indebtedness incurred by him of $4,500, including a bill of J. D. Loizeaux & Co., for lumber, amounting to about $1,500. Since Mr. Cusack left bills have been received nearly every day.

The Dunellen Cement Block Company which has the sub-contract for building the wells for the pumping station on Randolph road, is said to be anxious to complete its work, but as no one has any authority to let the concern proceed it will probably have to wait another week. According to the terms of the contract the company forfeits a certain amount of money every day it fails to work after the provisions are in force and it is now under that penalty.

Police Trials Net $9.

Three men arrested in the borough yesterday on charges of disorderly conduct were given a hearing before Recorder Dolliver last night and fined $3 apiece. They were James Hauned, Arthur MacDonald and Calvin Sutton.

SENDS FORMAL NOTICE OF ILLEGALITY OF FIFTY LIQUOR PLACES.

By order of the Grand Jury, Chairman Charles J. Fisk sent a registered letter, today, to Mayor P. J. Ryan, of Elizabeth, calling his attention to the fact that over fifty liquor dealers of that city, holding inn and tavern licenses, which call for provision of lodging places for guests, were not obeying the law in that respect to any degree, and should be closed.

So far, the jury has examined ninety such places, with the result cited. The examination of the rest of the 238 license holders is being continued steadily. Violations are being brought to light in every batch of cases. Mayor Ryan will receive notice of every case calling for action.

Mayor Fisk and Assistant Prosecutor John English held a conference yesterday, and agreed that the fifty places complained of had no right whatever to do business under the licenses held, and the notice to the Elizabeth executive followed.

"It is up to Mayor Ryan," said Mr. Fisk today.

CONTINGENCY FUND OF $13,000 PROVIDED

COUNCIL ALSO SETS TIME FOR RECEIVING BRICK PAVE BIDS.

Reporting back the communication from Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, informing the Common Council as to the necessity of providing an additional appropriation to meet emergencies during the year, Mr. Tolles, at the adjourned meeting, last night, offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the contingency fund be $13,000. The members voted to furnish a copy of the certificate to the local taxing body and also to the Union County Board of Taxation.

The second step toward securing brick pavement for the business section of the city was taken, when Mr. Ginna, chairman of the street committee, offered a resolution authorizing the usual two weeks' notice in the local papers that the Common Council will meet Monday night, August 5, at 8 o'clock to receive bids for doing the work. This resolution was adopted as was also another resolution by Mr. Ginna authorizing the laying of the necessary sewer connections in the streets to be paved with brick, before the improvement is made. These connections will be laid to the curb on East and West Front street, Park avenue and Watchung avenue.

Walter Manning and William R. Codington, owners of the land on the west side of Watchung avenue, adjoining the railroad, petitioned the Common Council for permission to erect a building there of concrete, the front to be constructed of brick. Later Mr. Mellick, acting for Chairman Hibbard, of the fire and building committee, who was absent, recommended that the petition be granted, provided Building Inspector Doane approves to concrete blocks being used. On his motion the petition was granted.

In Memory of Col. Tyler.

In recognition of the long and valuable services rendered to the city, Councilman George P. Mellick offered a resolution at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, in reference to the recent death of Col. Mason W. Tyler, father of Councilman William S. Tyler. The resolution spoke of the many acts of Col. Tyler looking toward the advancement of the interests of the city and of his active work in many local organizations. The resolution was adopted unanimously and the clerk was instructed to send a copy to the family. Councilman Tyler thanked the members for the kind expression of opinion.

Fought at Fire.

William and Thomas Mullen, brothers, were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the City Court, this morning, charged with fighting, by Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy. They were arrested at the Voehl fire, shortly after 2.30 o'clock this morning, while scrapping over some bananas that Thomas had bought for the firemen. Judge Runyon released them, after a talking to.

NO PAVE FOR NORTH AVE.

Ordinance For Concrete Referred to Counsel and one for Brick Laid on the Table.

DIVERSITY IN VIEWS

City Fathers Much Divided On Merits of Various Types of Pave —A Long Argument.

Believing that they had a sufficient number of votes to pass an ordinance providing for the paving of North avenue with either brick or Hassam pavement, Councilmen Buxton and Gloak endeavored to have it adopted at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. The ordinance calling for concrete pavement was finally referred to the corporation counsel for his opinion as to whether the city has the right to lay a patent pavement, and the ordinance providing for brick pavement was laid on the table just before it was moved to pass it as a whole on the second reading.

It was noised about before the meeting that the pavement question for North avenue would be brought up, but a majority of the members did not seriously think that either one of the ordinances would pass. Before the matter was finally disposed of there was some straight talk on the part of President Daniel, Councilmen Tolles and Mellick, which prevented the adoption of either ordinance. The supporters of the movement eventually gave up the fight and it was decided not to do anything with North avenue for the present, it being the opinion that its excellent condition does not warrant any hasty action.

Mr. Buxton started the discussion when he offered an ordinance providing for the permanent pavement of North avenue with concrete, understood to be the Hassam pavement, and to be laid equally as well as that on Summer street, Lynn, Mass. The ordinance provided that the avenue should be paved from curb to curb at a cost of $6,000, six municipal bonds of $1,000 each to be issued, bearing 4½ per cent. interest, the same to run from 1910 to 1915. It also called for the appointment of commissioners by the court to assess benefits.

Following the first reading of the ordinance, Mr. Tyler interposed several objections, the chief ones being that he was unacquainted with concrete pavement, that North Plainfield proposes to try it and that Plainfield can well afford to wait and see whether it proves satisfactory there before trying it on North avenue, especially as there is not now any urgent need for paving the avenue.

Mr. Mellick supported Mr. Tyler, adding that he coincided entirely with the latter, and if concrete pavement should prove all right in the borough he would be willing to vote for it on North avenue another year.

Mr. Gloak in support of the ordinance said that he favored the permanent pavement of North avenue because of the unanimous sentiment in favor of it as expressed by property-owners along that thoroughfare and in other parts of the city.

At this time a vote was taken to place the ordinance on second reading and it was carried, Councilmen Buxton, Gloak, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph and Tolles voting in favor, and Councilmen Ginna, Mellick, Tyler and President Daniel in the negative.

Mr. Montgomery then moved to amend the ordinance by substituting vitrified brick for concrete, explaining that he was opposed to concrete.

Mr. Gloak was ready for the Second ward member, and jumping to his feet said that he had an ordinance in his hand providing for a brick pavement on North avenue, and he asked Mr. Montgomery whether that would suit him, to which he replied that it would.

While this discussion was still warm, Mr. Tyler said that he would like to ask Mr. Buxton, the father of concrete pavement, what he knew about Summer street, Lynn, Mass.

Mr. Buxton replied that he had been in Lynn, had ridden through Summer street. He said that the concrete pavement there had a nice appearance, there were no cracks in it and that the residents there seemed to be satisfied with it. When Mr. Ginna asked Mr. Buxton whether Hassam pavement was not a patent pavement, the latter replied that he didn't know. He thought that the city might as well save $2,000 or $2,500, the difference in the price between the concrete and brick pavement, as it would be possible to save all of the telford pavement if concrete is used.

Mr. Tyler then moved to have the ordinance referred to the corporation counsel to ascertain whether the city has the right to lay a patent pavement without first obtaining the consent of the abutting property-owners

REPRESENTATION AT COUNTY CONVENTION

DECIDED UPON BY THE REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE LAST NIGHT.

Considerable interest in political affairs was shown at the meeting of the Union County Republican Committee in Elizabeth, last night. There was a full attendance of members and a discussion of matters pertaining to the coming campaign. The question of fixing a date for the county convention at which time three candidates for the Assembly and a candidate for Surrogate will be nominated will probably be fixed at the next meeting, and if necessary to decide it before that time. County Chairman F. H. Smith is given the power to arrange for the time.

The proportion of delegates is one for every 100 votes cast for the party candidate for Governor at the last Gubernatorial election and one for fraction of more than forty votes over 100. On this basis the representation will be as follows:

Plainfield, 27; Elizabeth, 62; Rahway, 11; Summit and Westfield, 8 each; Cranford, 5; Union Township, 3; Roselle Borough, 3; Roselle Park, 2; Fanwood Township, 2; Clark Township, Fanwood Borough, Linden Township, Linden Borough, New Providence Township, New Providence Borough, Springfield, Garwood and Mountainside, one delegate each.

The representation of delegates to the State Republican Convention will be one for every 200 votes cast by the party at the last election. The secretary was instructed to notify each election district of the number of delegates to which it is entitled.

The resignation of Corra N. Williams, of Summit, as a member of the county committee, was accepted and J. W. Clift, of that place, was elected in his place. Resolutions were also passed on the death of George W. Bauer.

It was learned from the political gossip of the evening that Assemblyman Perkins, Tillman and Moxson desire to be returned to the Assembly and that George T. Parrott would again like to be considered candidate for the office of Surrogate.

GARBAGE MAN AND HIS SON GET IN TROUBLE

ONE FOR VIOLATING ORDINANCE: OTHER FOR RESISTING VIGILANT OFFICER.

Fernando Brown, arrested for sending out his garbage wagons without proper covers to the cans, and for not having his name and license number properly printed on the vehicles, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. He denied the charges, but testimony by Patrolman George Dobson, who made the arrest, and Health Inspector William Addis, who saw the wagon, after Dobson acted, knocked the denial out. Judge Runyon suspended $10 fine in each case over his head, and warned him that the fines would be collected if another violation of the health regulations was detected.

Arthur Brown, son of the garbage man and a driver for him, was arraigned with his father. He drove the cart that attracted Dobson's attention. He sassed the officer when the arrest was made, and attempted to drive on when Dobson seized the bridal of his mule. He refused to drive the patrolman to the police box, and was defiant even after the patrolman threatened to use his billy. He gave in, however, when Dobson had dragged him half-way from the wagon. Young Brown and his father tried to make it appear as it Dobson had persecuted the youth, and had sworn at him and threatened to club him without cause. They couldn't detail any circumstances to bear out the charges, and Judge Runyon caught them up sharply.

"I know this officer's record," he said, "and I know he has made good in a life of wider experience than any other man on the force. I do not believe any such charge as this."

Young Brown was fined $5.

Funeral of E. S. Hyatt.

The funeral of Edgar S. Hyatt, whose death occurred in Chicago, was held at his late home on East Ninth street yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. E. M. Rodman, assisted by Rev. A. S. Phelps, of Bound Brook and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made today in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

FIRE CRIPPLES BAKERY

LOSS PLACED AT $3,500

George Voehl's bakery establishment on West Front street was again visited by fire, this morning, this time in the building devoted to the making of bread. The structure is a two-story affair midway between Front and Second streets and connected with the rest of the plant by a passageway. The blaze was in full progress when the city department arrived and before it had been extinguished a loss of $3,500 had resulted. Less than a month ago the barn and storehouse belonging to the establishment sustained damage to the extent of $500 from the same source.

This morning's fire was due to carelessness on the part of employes while cooking crullers. It is done in a large pot holding boiling grease and while the men were in another part of the shop it splashed over the sides. The grease caught fire from the stove and in an instant streaks of flame were shooting toward the ceiling.

The bakers made an effort to stay their progress, first using a patent extinguisher and then by shovelling sand, but without success. The blaze spread with the rapidity of a prairie fire and when the men saw it was useless to give battle alone, they dashed outside and made for No. 1 house on Second street, yelling at every step. Their cries were heard by the the all-night fruit dealer in front of Endress' market on Front street, who turned in an alarm from box 12 at 2.26.

With the arrival of the department two hydrant streams were laid into the building and a third was put at work when Chief Doane reached the scene. On the lower floor of the shop was all the valuable machinery that is used in bread-making, including a modern mixer and steam oven, while upstairs were stored 100 barrels of flour in sacks and a large quantity of paper and bags. The fire and water were kept from the oven but everything else suffered from either one or the other. In addition to the materials mentioned, the entire night's output of bread and rolls ready to be loaded in wagons, was made useless by water.

Chief Doane placed his men so that the flames were held back from the rest of the plant and the cake bakery and store proper escaped all damage. It was 3.46 before the last spark had been killed and the back taps sounded. The loss on the building will be about $1,500 with an insurance of $2,500; on contents the damage is estimated at $2,000 with insurance of half that amount.

When seen by a Daily Press reporter this morning, Mr. Voehl said that the plant would be re-equipped in about a week. In the meantime part of his bread supply will be made in the cake bakery and the remainder would be secured from other sources, thus enabling him to keep up his trade. The indirect loss through the temporary suspension of trade will also amount to a large sum.

Newarker Lost in Plainfield.

An intoxicated man, who claimed Newark as his place of residence, mysteriously found himself on the lawn at the home of Joseph C. Martin on Duer street, Sunday afternoon. As near as could be ascertained the man came to Plainfield with a party of friends and they deserted him Mr. Martin finally learned, that the man's wife was on West Fifth street, an a cab was engaged to take the man there. Later he regained his normal condition and returned home with his wife. He had no idea as to how he reached Duer street.

Nearly Lost His Eyesight.

Attempting to light an acetylene gas lamp on an auto, which had gone out but a few minutes before, nearly cost Horace J. Martin, Jr., of the borough, the sight of both eyes a few nights ago. He opened the door to the lamp with one hand, hiding a lighted match in the other. The light came in cntact with the escaping gas, causing an explosion. Mr. Martin's eye-brows and hair were considerably burned, as was also his face. That his eyes were not seriously affected was remarkable.

Mrs. Pelletreau's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Frances L. Pelletreau was held this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Thiers, of Grove street. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Chambliss and was private. The body was afterward sent to Brooklyn for burial.

INQUEST WILL NOT BE HELD UNTIL NEXT WEEK

FULLEST INVESTIGATION TO BE MADE INTO DEATH OF C. H. WEEKS.

The inquest in the death of Clarence H. Weeks, who was killed by a dangling electric wire Friday morning, will be held next week. Coroner C. B. Lufburrow arrived home from his vacation last night, and issued a venire for the jury this morning. Deputy Sheriff Peter Weaver drew the six men early this afternoon.

The jury will view the body this afternoon. No other action will be taken today by the six inquisitors. They will adjourn until some day next week, when the examination of witnesses will be begun. The investigation will be pursued by the coroner and the local and county authorities in the meantime, and all the facts will be marshalled for presentation to the jurymen.

The officials are determined to find out if blame rests anywhere. The investigation will be pursued rigorously and vigorously, regardless of where, what or who the facts point to.

JOE GLASEL'S NEW HORSE ORDERED SHOT

ANIMAL WAS NEW ONLY IN POINT OF TIME IT WAS JOE'S.

Joe Glasel bought a horse two weeks ago. This morning, City Judge Runyon issued an order marking the horse for death, and Detective-Sergeant John Flynn executed it with his revolver.

Joe lost a horse, but the horse gained peace. It was through the vigilance of a society woman, who is active in S. P. C. A. work, that the horse was put out of misery. She saw the animal hitched to Joe's cart yesterday afternoon, and one look was enough for her. She filed complaint against Joe at once, and an order for his appearance in court this morning was issued.

Dr. Herbert, the veterinary who examined the horse for the S. P. C. A., testified that it was completely worn out. It was so old, the vet. said, that the only recommendation he could make was to put it to death. Nothing could ease the misery in its ancient frame. Joe said he guessed the veterinary knew his business; it was all true, and he was willing to have the horse shot.

Joe bought horse and cart together, to engage in carting for a farmer in Willow Grove. He didn't have the money necessary for the enterprise, and the farmer advanced it. Horse and cart cost $53. Joe doesn't know where he is to get the price of another horse or the $50 he still owes the farmer.

Immediately after the horse case, Joe was rearraigned on a charge of peddling without a license. Joe said the only peddling he knew of was the sale of some second-class vegetables, valued at about twenty-five cents, that the farmer had given his son, who helped him on the wagon, in lieu of a tip. Judge Runyon said he guessed Joe had enough to carry, and dismissed the case.

SEEK TO PREVENT THE OBSTRUCTION OF HIGHWAYS.

For the purpose of preventing the unnecessary blocking of sidewalks and streets with vehicles, boxes, lumber, etc., Chairman Ginna, of the street committee, offered an amendment to the ordinance relating to the morals, peace and good order, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. The amendment permits a person to use one-half of the sidewalk and one-third of the roadway, after first securing the permission of the street commissioner, and for violations, after notification, it further provides for a fine of $10 for each day the obstruction is permitted to exist, but the total amount of the fine is not to exceed $100. The ordinance was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised.

Chairman of Jury.

Albert Baker, of this city, was chosen chairman, today, of the jury that will try the Rash woman, for the murder of her husband in Elizabeth. U. B. Crane and Lynue Walpole are on the Jury.

A WARRENVILLE BAD MAN

Gave Fight to Borough Marshall and Was Subdued at Pistol Point.

AWAITING A HEARING

Struck Officer In the Face With Whip Lash When Ordered To Stop His Rig.

Following a desperate fight in which he was struck with a whip and threatened with impalement on a pitchfork, Marshal Keller, of the borough police force, succeeded in landing William Saunders, a Warrenville farm hand, in a cell yesterday afternoon. The officer had to cover the belligerent with a revolver before he was subdued and hauled from a vantage point on a wagon he had been driving. He was locked up on a charge of intoxication and will be arraigned before Recorder Dolliver tonight.

Keller was standing on Duer street when his attention was attracted to a rapidly-driven farm rig proceeding up the thoroughfare. It was piled high with fertilizer and the jolting of the vehicle caused part of the load to drop in the road every few feet. The marshal hastened after the wagon and ordered Saunders to stop. For an answer he received a derisive jeer and a practical invitation to start off in another direction.

Determined to stay the fellow's progress, Keller ran alongside the seat and repeated his command. This time he was repaid by hearing the swish of a whip and then receiving a stinging lash across the face. Now thoroughly aroused he grasped the horses by the head and brought them to their haunches afterward swinging them around.

Saunders was still in a combative mood, however, and when the officer proceeded toward him, he grabbed up the pitchfork, threatening to use it if he got on the wagon. By way of reply, Keller whipped out his weapon and levelling it at the driver exclaimed:

"Drop that pitchfork and mosey down or I'll start pumping lead and don't you forget it."

One look down the barrel was sufficient for Saunders and he clambered from his seat, the last bit of courage oozing from him as he reached the ground. He was a meek and humble citizen from then on and proceeded to the lock-up without any trouble.

SEQUEL TO FRONT STREET SPITE HOUSE TROUBLE

EX-TENANT SUES FOR DAMAGES—WITNESS UPSETS CASE AS DRAWN.

Unexpected testimony by one of his witnesses upset the case for Lawyer John P. Owens in the suit for damages brought by Dominick Revere against Genero and Nicholas Martone. The action was a sequel to the spite house trouble on East Front street, which aroused a lot of discussion two years ago.

Revere, who is Mr. Owens' client, was the tenant of the house when the place was ordered razed by the owner. He alleged that he was put out of the house without proper legal procedure and claimed damages in consequence. The Martones were the original owners of the structure, and Mr. Owens started suit against them in the belief that he was proceeding against the responsible persons.

Aleck Kane, who tore the house down, was put on the stand by Mr. Owens to testify as to his part in the proceedings. Kane knocked the bottom out of the case by testifying that he got his authority for razing the building from DeWitt C. Ivins. This relieved the Martones of responsibility, and Mr. Owens brought the case to a close at once. He made arrangements immediately after court to start suit against Kane.

The testimony left the lawyers a bit hazy as to the real owner of the property at the time. Isaac Srager had a contract of sale, which he sold to another man. It was deduced that Srager bought for Mr. Ivins, but had the papers drawn in his name.

Dr. Turner to Speak.

Rev. J. W. Turner, A. B. S. T. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, Graham, N. C., and principal of Haw Valley Institute, will lecture before the B. Y. P. U. at Mt. Olive Baptist church this evening at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "After Enlistment, What?" All are cordially invited to be present.

Forget Your Money Troubles—We Can Show You How

Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

P. S. C. Establishes New Rule.

The officials of the Public Service Corporation have caused to be printed on the transfer slips given to trolley passengers a rule, requesting passengers when entering a car to do so by the rear platform and when leaving the car to do so by the front platform. In a majority of cases the rule works all right, but occasionally at night a motorman will lock the front doors, making it impossible for passengers to alight from a car that way. According to the recent experiences of some passengers the motormen and conductors have not been fully acquainted with the new rule.

City Dump On Fire Again.

The fire which has been burning at the city dump at the foot of Compton avenue, and which the firemen thought was effectually extinguished last week, broke out anew Saturday and all day Sunday caused a dense and disagreeable smoke to hover about nearby houses. Yesterday the fire department men were ordered again to the dump and they hope this time to be more successful.

Saved By His Suspenders.

A young baker, who was returning with a companion after an ascent of the Plan Aigvillet near Chamonix, in the Alps, was caught by the branch of a tree after falling nearly 300 feet and held aloft by his suspenders, to the strength of which he owes his life. His companion fell 2,000 feet and was picked up with nearly every bone in his body broken.—Exchange.

When his vote was taken, Councilmen Ginna, Mellick, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph, Tyler and President Daniel voted in favor of the motion, while Councilmen Buxton, Gloak and Tolles voted against it.

Mr. Tolles, who recently returned from Mt. Clemens, Mich., where brick pavement is used, said that since making that trip his views had changed considerably. He had found it very noisy and when wagons and trolley cars were passing it was almost impossible to carry on a conversation. He said that he would like to see concrete tried, but thought there was no particular haste in the matter.

Again the situation changed, when Mr. Gloak offered his ordinance which called for vitrified brick on North avenue, at a cost of $8,000, the eight municipal bonds to run from 1912 to 1919, under similar conditions as named in Mr. Buxton's ordinance. This ordinence was adopted on first reading and then on second reading by sections, but not until Mr. Tyler had an opportunity to present his objections. Mr. Buxton favored concrete, while Mr. Ginna and Mr. Montgomery were in favor of brick, believing it to be the best. Mr. Tyler thought the city could well afford to wait and see how the concrete pavement wears on Somerset street.

Mr. Montgomery informed Mr. Tyler that if he choose to go to Massachusetts he could see brick pavement that had been in service for seventeen years.

Mr. Tyler said that it was not a question of his making a trip to Massachusetts. "There are lots of people here," continued Mr. Tyler, "who cannot go a great distance to see pavement, but who are taxpayers and want to see their money expended in an economical manner."

The vote to place the brick ordinance on second reading was adopted, Councilmen Buxton, Gloak, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph and Tolles voting in favor and Councilmen Ginna, Mellick, Tyler and President Daniel against the motion.

Mr. Tolles then gave his colleagues a surprise by moving to lay the ordinance on the table. He said that while at first he favored the improvement he had since changed his mind and would not vote for it.

Mr. Mellick followed up the movement in opposition by saying that the tax rate this year will be so high that it will surprise taxpayers and there was already considerable talk about the extravagance of the city. He thought the action of the members in planning to lay additional pavement on North avenue ludicrous in view of recent events and the endless discussion over the street pavement question. He also said that there are lots of taxpayers in the city who do not favor the expenditure of all the money for improvements in the business section and he thought the Council had been very generous in deciding to lay brick pavement in the business streets.

President Daniel then took the floor, asking Mr. Montgomery to occupy the chair for a few minutes. He said that he opposed the ordinance in the first place to lay brick pavement, believing that too many streets were included in the proposed improvement. Mr. Gloak thought so too at that time, but when the Common Council as a committee of the whole favored the improvement he voted for it. As pavements go he believed North avenue to be in good condition, less dusty than it would be with either brick or concrete. He deplored any action looking toward the adoption of a special ordinance to pave North avenue, suggesting the expense of having bonds engraved, etc., all of which he said fails to help the city's credit, although the amounts are small and the city would be well able to take care of them. He urged that the ordinance be laid over for the present.

Mr. Gloak said that the reason he favored the improvement for North avenue was because of the approval of it on the part of the property-owners. The motion to lay on the table was carried, Councilmen Buxton, Ginna, Gloak, Mellick, C. C. Randolph, Tolles and Tyler voting in favor of the motion and Councilmen Frank Randolph and President Daniel voting against it.

Mr. Tyler then wanted to reconsider the vote, thinking that as it stood any member might bring the ordinance up at some meeting when opponents of it were absent and rush it through. When he understood that it required six votes to pass it, he withdrew his request.

Gets 20 Days for Trying to Drown.

Paterson, July 16.—Mrs. Sophia Stahlman, of No. 16 Temple street, has been sent to jail by the Recorder for twenty days because she jumped into the Passaic River on Saturday night, with the evident intention of drowning herself, after she had quarrelled with her husband. The woman jumped from the Main street bridge where the water was low and was dragged from the mud by policemen.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad is determined to break up the practise of free riding on the freight trains. As all trains stop at South Plainfield to take on coal or water, a corps of detectives are on the spot to nab culprits at this place and the constable takes them before Justice Smith. The ride-stealers maliciously break signals and throw stones at passing trains.

Mrs. J. T. Lansdale and children have gone to Baltimore, Ohio, to visit her parents for two weeks. While away they will also visit Mrs. Lansdale's sister at Washington, D. C.

WHO WILL BE NEXT MAYOR OF DUNELLEN?

CONTEST FOR OFFICE LIKELY TO BE BETWEEN WYCKOFF AND FREDERICK.

Talk of the coming mayoralty contest is beginning to interest the politicians of Dunellen. The battle between the opposing candidates is expected to be warm, and the two camps will draw up lines for the clash early in the game.

From present indications the Democratic candidate will be Mayor Wyckoff, who is serving his second term, and Wilson T. Frederick will bear the banner of the Republicans. They were the opposing candidates at the last election, Frederick falling sixty votes shy of election.

Mr. Frederick is said to be grooming himself for the nomination. The Democrats say that, and they believe Mr. Wyckoff to be the man to defeat him should he run. The mayor will not announce himself as willing to accept a renomination, it is believed by his friends that he will not hesitate if the party calls on him for another term of service. Mr. Frederick has had much experience in the borough government, having been councilman, member of the Board of Health and of the Board of Education. He is now serving on the two bodies.

It is not to be gathered from the foregoing that things are cut-and-dried in the two political organizations. They are not. There was a time when machines worked smoothly and irresistibly, but the time has passed. Younger men in the parties have shaken the grip of the powers loose, and matters political in Dunellen no longer bear the sure-thing appearance that once marked them. The forecast of the workers as to Messrs. Wyckoff and Frederick is based on the popularity of the two men and in their excellence as citizens and public servants.

There is question as to when the mayoralty contest will take place. If the spring election measure is signed, the term of Mayor Wyckoff will extend from January to March.

CHALLENGE ASSEMBLYMAN.

Wanted Him to Debate At Local Option Meeting.

A meeting in the interest of the Anti-Saloon League will be held Thursday night in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. Assemblymen Perkins, Moxon and Tillman have been invited to be present and defend their position in voting against the local option bill last winter.

Previous to the debate in the hall stereopticon views will be thrown on a canvas in the street.

Believing that Scotch Plains is in need for temperance revival, a similar meeting will be held there on Friday night.

BOUND BROOK SHOCKED

DENIALS ARE GENERAL

Card Sharps Also Fleece Somerset People When the Circus Comes to Town.

Sewing circles are agog with discussions of a couchee-couchee dance and of the men who paid to see the exhibition. Bound Brook is not such a big place that everybody does not know the name of everybody else in town, and the gossips have been able to get together quite a list of men who saw the dance. The men deny that they know anything about it.

The excitement is all due to a visit of the Van Amburg circus on Saturday.

And the men in the cigar shops have their own gossips and are confiding to each other how much they lost to the card sharpers who followed the circus into town. The sharpers raked in several hundred dollars with various kinds of gambling devices. A New York policeman, who is at Bound Brook spending his vacation, recognized three notorious card sharps on the street the night of the show, and notified the local authorities, but the crooks evidently recognized him, too, for they fled before the town marshals arrived.

SENTIMENT AGAINST CUP RACE IS GROWING

DOUBTFUL IF SENATE WILL PASS OR GOVERNOR SIGN THE MEASURE.

Leading newspapers of the State are making a systematic crusade against the holding of the automobile race for the Vanderbilt cup and there now seems to be some doubt about the Senate passing the Lee bill concurring with the Perkins measure, passed by the House.

The House bill amends the Frelinghuysen automobile law, and provides that part 6, section 22, subdivision 3, shall read as follows:

"Third—No person shall drive a motor vehicle upon any public street, public highway, public road, public parkway, turnpike or public driveway in this State in a race or on a bet wager; provided that the authorities having charge of roads, streets or highways of the several counties are hereby authorized to designate and set apart a highway or highways to be used at such time or times as may be appointed by the said authorities having charge of the roads, streets or highways, in the period from September 1, 1907, to January 1, 1908, for the contest by motor vehicles for the challenge cup donated by William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., such contest to be held under the direction and supervision of the American Automobile Association and the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey, and to that end they are authorized to restrict the use of said highway or highways on certain days or parts of days included within the above described period to the purposes of said contest and the trials and elimination tests preliminary and incident thereto."

A well known New Jersey politician said last night that the feeling against the race was growing so fast that the Governor would hardly sign the bill.

Railroad Settles With Widows.

New Brunswick, July 16.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has made private settlements with the widows of Charles Spratford and Thomas J. O'Connor, who were killed in an accident at Jersey City, on April 8. The two signalmen were run down by an express train, O'Connor being killed instantly and Spratford so badly hurt that he died the next day.

VanArsdale Talks!

The swinging gait of the modern athletic girl is a pleasure for the eye to see. If there is a bit of humanity on this green footstool that revels in abundant good health and happiness, it is the young girl who wears a comely shirt waist suit and a pair of "VanArsdale's" Oxfords.

"VanArsdale's" Oxfords are the most shapely, the most thoroughly stylish and the most comely low shoe that a girl can possibly wear.

"VanArsdale's" Oxfords are made in the popular dull tweed gun metal calf, as well as in shiny patent leather and tan Russian calf.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Clinton Avenue, in defeating Y. M. C. A. Saturday, showed clearly that it outplayed the association boys in the field and in hitting. Of course, the association nine's weak spot was at second base. Dupee failing to fill the position as it should be. Minford pitched a good game, but did not display his best form.

Randolph's boast that he would shut out the Y. M. C. A. did not come true, but he almost applied the whitewash brush as but one run was scored by the opposing side.

Walter Nelson, the clever backstop on the Y. M. C. A. team, was handicapped Saturday in his throwing to second base. Dupee not being accustomed to the position was unable to prevent the stealing of the bag.

It is to be regretted that Raritan is not making a better showing in the amateur league. On Saturday Scotch Plains ran away from them to the tune of 17 to 1. It now looks as though the league fight will be between Clinton Avenue, Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains. All three teams are playing fast ball.

Gilman, of the Clinton Avenues, is hitting the ball very hard these days. On Saturday he cleared the bases with a smashing two-bagger to centre field.

Y. M. C. A. was further handicapped on Saturday by the absence of Marsh at first base, although Conover played a good game in the field. He was weak with the stick.

Gillmore, the second baseman on the Y. M. C. A. team, is away on his annual vacation and the nine misses his services, both in the field and at the bat.

Clinton Avenue is undoubtedly playing the best all-round game of any team in the amateur league. The fielding and hitting apparently outclasses that to be seen in any other team. On Saturday the infield was like a stone-wall.

A week from Saturday Scotch Plains and Y. M. C. A. will meet at Crescent Oval and this should be a fine contest.

Barnes played a fine game for Clinton Avenue at first base on Saturday, freezing fast to everything thrown at him.

GOLF.

Although he did not make such a good start Saturday in the final play for the club championship at the Plainfield Country Club, Lester Glenney finished very strong by the narrow margin of 1 up. It was anyone's match until the last hole was played.

While there was little said at Cleveland regarding the meeting of the officials of the big golf tournament, it is known that a letter is being prepared and will shortly be mailed to the committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club, of St. Andrews. The idea is to gain a hearing on certain changes in the rules that the American committee thinks is desirable. The text of the letter will not be given out until it has reached Scotland.

One of the committee, Leighton Calkins, will have an article on golf legislation in the July issue of the Golfers' Magazine that covers the request to be made in the letter. Mr. Calkins advises golfers to remain patient in the knowledge that the United States Golf Association is fully alive to the situation and will take a wise and conservative course of action. He also adds that there can hardly be any doubt that Great Britain will cordially welcome any communication coming from the United States Association and will meet thinking golfers half way in any effort to promote the requirements of the game as a whole.

The events scheduled for Saturday at the Plainfield Country Club will include the weekly competitions for the Golf Committee and Green Committee and Scratch cups.

Aside from the regular weekly competitions there will be little doing at the Plainfield Country Club from now until Labor Day. During this time many of the club members will be away from the city on their vacation. However, the weekly play for the Golf Committee, Green Committee and Scratch cups will furnish plenty of sport for the players who remain at home during the mid-season.

Robert Abbott, who took part in the national amateur golf tournamen at Cleveland, last week, has returned home.

C. B. Morgan, who has been playing at top-form this season, gave Lester Glenney a hard fight in the finals for the club championship on Saturday.

Floyd T. Woodhull and son, Roy Woodhull, of West Front street, left yesterday for Lake Hopatcong, where they will get their cottage in readiness for summer occupancy. Mrs. Woodhull will go to the lake on Thursday.

Branchburg Council, No. 121, Jr. O. U. A. M., of North Branch, has elected the following officers for the ensuing term: Councilor, George Bell; vice-councilor, George Orts; junior past councilor, James Mingle; recording secretary, Charles E. Wood; assistant recording secretary, C. V. Bergen; financial secretary, A. V. Van Derveer; treasurer, James Flynn; conductor, Lemuel S. Wood; warden, P. L. Johnson; inside sentinel, David Nevius; outside sentinel, Harry Hamann; trustee, James Mingle.

The women of the Reformed church at Bedminster have completed arrangements for a reception to the new pastor, Rev. Everet R. Kruizenga and his bride, who are expected to arrive from the West tomorrow. The reception will be held in the chapel on Thursday evening.

The Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders has decided to erect a retaining wall at the bridge, near Burnt Mills, which, it is expected, will do away with the washing of the road at that point in high water. Bids will be received at the meeting of the board on July 23.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mingle, who live near this place, have been entertaining their daughter, Mrs. D. R. Herder, of Raritan, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen, of Newark, are spending a month with Mrs. E. L. Allen, at Bedminster.

Miss Anna M. Stephens, of North Branch Depot, is spending a two weeks' vacation in Maine.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. Field, of Bedminster, are entertaining Miss Etta Burns, of Brooklyn.

BOUND BROOK.

Mrs. Rose C. Linbarger, her daughter, Miss Leo, and her son, Carl Linbarger, of Champagne, Ill., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Merlett, in Union avenue, Bound Brook.

Mrs. Avery, of Rahway, is being entertained at the home of her nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Provost, in Prospect place, Beachwood Heights.

Miss Bessie Riker and Miss Eva Clincock, of Newark, are being entertained by Miss Katherine Stolz, at her home in Franklin street, Bound Brook.

Miss Henrietta Rugen and brother, Walter Rugen, of Bound Brook, have gone to Montreal, Canada, where they will spend several weeks.

Howard L. Moore of Bound Brook, has gone to East Branch, N. Y., where he will spend several days with friends.

Miss Minnie Corzatt, of South Bound Brook, was the guest last week, of Miss Myrtle Holt, of Flemington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Byer, Jr., of Bound Brook, have as their guest Miss Anna Cheston, of Griggstown.

Mrs. Asa Applegate, of Bound Brook, is visiting with relatives at Amsterdam, N. Y.

Miss Helen Bascom, of Bound Brook, is visiting with friends at Yonkers, N. Y.

STIRLING.

The meeting of the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor and the evening service were combined Sunday night on account of Rev. Nicholas Bowers, the pastor, being ill. The meeting was conducted by Mehran H. Looloian. The subject was "Present Day Applications of the First Four Commandments."

The fair and festival which was held recently in the Young Men's Christian Association Hall, under the auspices of the Women's Aid and Missionary Society, was very successful. There was $80 taken in.

Miss Helen Rendecker, of Jersey City, who had been entertained here for the last week by Mrs. Augusta Weiss, of Long Hill road, returned home Sunday.

Joseph Towhig, of New York, who had been spending a few days here with Mr. and Mrs. John Towhig and family, of Long Hill, returned home yesterday.

The meeting of the Junior Christian Endeavor was held Sunday afternoon in the Presbyterian church. It was conducted by Miss Ernestina Bender.

Jacob Handaman, of Providence, R. I., who had been the guest of Mrs. M. Looloian and family, for a few days, left here today.

Hagob Aboshian, of this place, arrived here Sunday night after spending a few days with friends in Paterson.

William Dealaman, of West Front street, who has leased his home for the summer, is planning to spend the season at the seashore.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

It was cold comfort for Ray.

One of Chip's first acts of emancipation was to write to Aunt Comfort and Angie, assuring both of her love and best wishes, and thanking them for all they had done. Both letters were cramped in chirography, but correct in spelling, and in Angie's was a note for Martin, asking that he draw $100 of her money and send it to her, and as much more to pay some one to follow Old Cy. The latter request Martin ignored, however, for he had already set the machinery of newspaperdom at work, and an advertisement for information of that wanderer was flying far and wide.

Of the money sent her, Chip made odd and quite characteristic uses, only one of which needs mention—the purchase of a banjo. Had Ray known this, and that the tender memory it invoked was the reason for this investment, he would have had less cause for grief. But Ray did not, which was all the better for him.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Life, always colorless at Christmas Cove, except in midsummer, now became changed for Aunt Abby. For all the years since her one girlish romance had ended, she had been a patient helpmate to a man she merely respected. Religion had been her chief solace. The annual visit to her sister's gave the only relief to this motionless life, monotonous as the tides sweeping in and out of the cove; but now a counter-current slowly flowed into it.

Chip, of course, with her winsome eyes and grateful ways, was its mainspring, and so checkered had been her career and so humiliating all her past experiences, that now, escaped from dependence and feeling herself a valued companion, she tasted a new and joyous life. So true was this, that hard lessons at school, the regularity of church-going, and the unvarying tenor of it all seemed less by comparison.

Another undercurrent, aside from Chip's devotion, also swept into Aunt Abby's feelings,—the strange emotions following the knowledge that her former lover was still alive. For many years she had waited and hoped for this sailor boy's return; then her heart had grown silent, as hope slowly ebbed, and then, almost forgetfulness—but not quite, however, for the long, lily-dotted mill-pond just above had now and then been visited by them. A certain curiously grown oak which was secluded near its upper end was once a trysting-place, and even the old mill with its splashing wheel held memories.

And now after 40 years, during which she had become gray-haired and slightly wrinkled, all these memories returned like ghosts of long ago. No word or hint of them fell from her lips, not even to Chip, who was now nearest to her; and yet had that girl been a mind-reader, she would have seen that Aunt Abby's persistent interest in all she had to tell about Old Cy meant something. Where he was now, how soon he would learn that his brother was still alive after all these years, was the one most pertinent subject oft discussed.

How Chip felt toward him, not alone for the heritage he had secured for her, but for other and more valued heart interests, need not be specified. He had seemed almost a father to her at the lake. He was the first of her new-found friends whose feelings had warmed toward her, and Chip was now mature enough to value these blessings at their true worth.

A certain mutual expectancy now entered the lives of Chip and Aunt Abby. Nothing could be done, however. Old Cy had gone out into the wide, wide world, as it were, searching for the little girl he loved. No manner of reaching him seemed possible; and yet, some day, he must learn what would bring him to them as fast as steam could fetch him.

"I know that he loved me as his own child there at the lake," Chip said once in an exultant tone. "His going after me proves it; and once he hears where I am, he will hurry here, I know."

Whether Aunt Abby's heart responded to that wish or not, she never disclosed.

But the days, weeks and months swept by, and Old Cy came not. Neither did any message come to Chip from Greenvale. At first, rebelling at Ray's treatment of her, Chip felt that she never wanted to see him again. She had been so tender and loving toward him at the lake, had striven so hard to learn and to be more like him, had waited and watched, counting the days until his return, only to be told what she could not forget and to find him so neglectful, so cool to her, when her girlish heart was so full of love, that her feelings had changed almost in one instant, and pride had made her bitter.

Hannah had told an unpleasant truth, as Chip knew well enough; but truth and confiding love mixed illy, and Ray's conduct, leaving her as he did with scarce a word or promise, was an episode that had chilled and almost killed Chip's budding affection. As is always the case, such a feeling fades and flares like all others. There would now be a brief space when Chip hoped and longed for Ray's coming, and then days when no thought of him came.

It was perhaps fortunate for him that Christmas Cove contained no serious admirer of Chip the while, else his cause and all memory of him would have been swept away. But that quaint village was peopled chiefly by old folk, those of the male persuasion being quite young, with a few girls of Chip's age. Few young men remained there to make their way, and so no added interest came to vary Chip's life.

CHAPTER XXX.

After Chip had run away from Greenvale, concealment of her name and all else had forced itself upon her. It was not natural for her to deceive. She had kept it up for one unhappy year only under inward protest, which ended in abject confession and tears. Now recalling that unpleasant episode, she made haste to confess her long conversation with this fluent fellow.

"Mr. Goodnow followed me over to the point this afternoon," she explained that evening to Aunt Abby, "and talked for two hours. He was nice enough, but he made me sick of him, he flattered me so much."

Aunt Abby looked at her with a slight sense of alarm.

"He certainly has the gift of impudence, at least," she said, "in view of the way I declined his invitation yesterday. I think you'd best discontinue your long rambles for the present, or until he leaves here. He is not our sort. He is not even a friend of ours, and if people see you together, they will say unkind things."

That was warning enough for Chip, and from that time on she never even walked down to the village store except with Aunt Abby.

A curious and almost ridiculous espionage followed, however, for a week, and not a pleasant afternoon passed by but this fellow was noticed strolling somewhere near the old mill or past the house.

Another amazing evidence of his intent was received a few days later, in the shape of a five-pound box of choicest candies, that came by express with his card. Aunt Abby opened this and saw the card, and the next day she commissioned the stage driver to deliver the box, card and all, to Mr. Goodnow at his boarding house.

A long and adroitly worded letter to Chip came a day later, so humble, so flattering, and so importuning that it made her laugh.

"THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE"

MARKET, HALSEY & BANK STS.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

We are justly proud of our mail order system. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger mail order system is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking effort. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly by mail as in person. There are no delays—no errors—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

If you want a Turkish bath, Brookside Sanitarium, Somerset street, is the place. The finest of service.

A. E. Hoagland, the Park avenue expressman, is the man you want to take your trunks to the station. Reliable and prompt.

The best milk, cream and dairy products to be obtained anywhere may be had at Marchant Bros.' store, Watchung avenue. Deliveries prompt.

Cleaning and dyeing work done by Mary A. Brown, West Second street, is the best. You make no mistake when you leave your things with Miss Brown.

This is the time of the year to have your house painted and papered, and Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, are the ones to do the work right and at reasonable prices.

For anything in the hardware or builders' line go to the H. E. Gayle & Co. hardware store. The goods are the best made, guaranteed to give satisfaction. A full line of housefurnishing goods always in stock at low prices.

Do you need summer clothing? If so take a look at the fine stock offered by Weinberger, the West Front street clothier; also the men's furnishings, including straw hats. There are no better goods anywhere and the prices will appeal to you.

All kinds of fresh seafood, including hard and soft-shell crabs, lobsters and every kind of fish, as well as the best meats can always be found at Roth & Co.'s market on East Front street. The prices are reasonable and prompt deliveries are made everywhere.

WESTFIELD.

The wedding of Miss Anna Jarvis and Frank Douglass will take place at St. Paul's Episcopal church Saturday next at high noon, Rev. Sidney Cross officiating.

Walter I. Sargeant, president of the Council, is acting Mayor of Garwood until a successor of Mayor Winslow, who resigned, is appointed.

A. E. Millgate, who has been night agent at Westfield depot for several months past, has resigned to return to his home in England.

A party of local boys left Saturday to go in camp at Block Island for a couple of weeks.

RARITAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Singer, of Philadelphia, have been staying a week with Mr. and Mrs. Simon Kaiser.

Alvah and John Amerman have returned from a visit to their brother at Hartford.

Ethel Grove, of Cranbury, is spending two weeks with her brother, C. J. Grove.

John and Kathleen McGowan have gone to North Branch Depot for the summer.

Mrs. Davis, of Somerset street, has been entertaining John Davis, of New York.

W. H. Crandall, of Alfred, N. Y., has been spending a few days in town.

$5,000 In Prizes!

Grand Educational Contest

To introduce our new Piano, the Conway, we have decided to institute something entirely novel in the way of advertising, making it something of value to the readers of this paper as well as ourselves.

We propose to distribute FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN PRIZES, among the residents of Central New Jersey. Think of it $5,000! While the mere distribution of this amount in prizes would be a valuable advertisement in itself, you will, of course, admit that the distribution of so large a prize list would hardly be justified by the publicity itself would give us. But if we are able to impress the name "CONWAY PIANO" indelibly upon the minds of 300,000 people, then you will, of course, readily admit that we are justified in offering this large prize list. Therefore, to make the CONWAY PIANO occupy the place in your mind, that stands for all that is good in tone, quality, construction, design and finish, and that you may never forget the great name, we wish to see how many words you can form from the twelve letters containing the two words

CONWAY PIANOS

To the persons able to form the greatest number of words from the letters contained in the two words, CONWAY PIANOS, we will give one magnificent Conway Piano, valued at $365.00 together with a handsome scarf and stool.

To the next five nearest answers we will give credit bills worth $100 each.

Each of the competitors sending in the next two largest lists of words will be given credit bills for $1 less than the preceding prize, or $99.00, and following this in groups of two, each of the competitors sending the next two largest lists of words will be given credit bill for $1 less than the preceding prize, until the entire balance of $5,000 shall have been distributed.

Rules for Forming Words

Only such words are to be used as are found in Webster's International Dictionary. No proper names, foreign words, names of persons, town or places are to be used. Do not use a letter more times in one word than it appears in the words CONWAY PIANOS. Words spelled the same, but having a different meaning, can be used but once.

Rules and Conditions of Contest:

All answers limited to July 22, 1907.

Open to readers of this paper.

Those who receive credit bills can apply them on any new Pianos in our stock at the regular prices, which are always marked in plain figures on each instrument, but cannot apply them on any purchase made prior to opening day of contest.

Easy payments will be granted to those wishing to be accommodated by applying their credit bills and paying the balance in small monthly payments.

Not more than one credit bill will be accepted on the same Piano.

In the event of a tie between two or more contestants the Capital Prize will be divided equally and paid in gold.

A GENUINE REDUCTION

The fairness of the above contest appeals to the public from the fact that we have for years been selling our instruments on the uniform or fixed price plan. As all instruments are marked in plain figures they are conclusive as to price. Therefore to all those who secure credit bills there is every assurance of a bona fide reduction in price.

Eight Killed On War Vessel.

Boston, Mass., July 16.—By the explosion of 104 pounds of smokeless powder in the aft superposed turret of the battleship Georgia during target practice off Barnstable at 10 o'clock yesterday morning eight men were burned to death and thirteen others seriously injured. The men were imprisoned within the turret when the charge about to be placed in one of the 8-inch guns prematurely ignited. Of those in the turret only on escaped serious injury. Cheerfully offering his life for that of his superior officers, Chief Yeoman Orly Tagland sprang at Lieutenant Caspar Goodrich, in charge of the turret, dashing that officer to the deck, in an effort to shield him from the terrific heat of the explosion. Another sailor sacrificed his life but saved the ship by springing to the hatchway leading to the magazine. The accident is believed to have been caused by sparks from the funnels falling through the open hatchways in the top of the turret and is said by naval officers to be without parallel.

DEATH BY GAS CRUELTY

Doctor Asks Mayor to Have Method Changed After Seeing Asphyxiation of Dogs.

MR. FISK WILL ACT

Prussic Acid Recommended By a Summit Physician—A Painless Death.

The method recommended by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for the killing of dogs, and which has been in force at the Rushmore Dynamo Works during the past two weeks, has been found to be unsatisfactory, and after witnessing a test of the method, which is asphyxiation by gas, Dr. T. S. Davis, in company with another member of the society, called on Mayor Charles J. Fisk, yesterday afternoon, and urged that some other system of disposing of the canines be adopted.

Dr. Davis visited the Rushmore Dynamo Works, yesterday, accompanied by another active member of the S. P. C. A. Six dogs were placed in the gas tank, and the physician timed the death-killing process. After the canines had been in the tank twelve minutes they were heard to whine piteously, and the same condition existed a minute later. At the end of twenty minutes the tank was opened and one of the dogs was still alive and kicking, while there appeared to be some doubt as to whether the remaining five were actually dead. During the twenty minutes the full pressure of gas was turned on in the tank and in the opinion of Dr. Davis the method was far from being satisfactory and it does not provide a painless death.

Mayor Fisk made notes of the report made to him and gave the members of the society every assurance that the matter would be fully investigated and that different arrangements would be made that would more fully meet the requirements.

Another way of disposing of the dogs quickly was suggested in the use of prussic acid. This has been recommended by Dr. Albert H. McIntosh, a well known veterinary of Summit. He says that a dose of the acid, after the dog's stomach had been given time to clear itself of undigested food, killed the canine the instant it struck the stomach.

The matter will receive the prompt attention of Mayor Fisk and he will consult with the society and others with a view to adopting some system that will meet with general approbation.

WIDOW CUT OFF IF SHE WEDS.

Thornley Also Leaves Son But $1 of Estate.

In his will, filed yesterday in Newark, George S. Thornley cuts his son, William, off with $1, for "unfilial conduct," and he attaches an anti-matrimonial string to a house left his widow. She is to enjoy the property until she takes unto herself another husband; then, according to the will, she must get out and turn it over to Robert, George S., Anna and Sarah Thornley, children. Patrick G. Stickney and Adam J. Rossback are named as executors.

'Phone Operated From New Building

The last of the party telephone lines were cut over from the old to the new building on East Fourth street, yesterday, and with the exception of one department, all are now installed in the new structure. All the city 'phones are now operated by the common battery system and there has been a noticeable improvement in the service, which the company hopes to still further improve as the equipment is adjusted to the new conditions.

Old Offender Gets Sixty Days.

John Giles, a regular caller in the police court on d. and d. charges who was recently exiled from the city, returned to town yesterday for the purpose of seeing a doctor. He got drunk instead and falling back in the body of his wagon allowed the horse to wander over handsome lawns on West Eighth street. Roundsman Higgins gathered him in this morning and Judge Runyon gave him sixty days straight.

Filed at County Clerk's Office.

CONVICTED OF MURDER

Jury Returns Verdict of Second Degree in Case of Mrs. Edna Rash.

KILLED HER HUSBAND

Jury Out An Hour and a Half—Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees Her Lawyer.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Edna Rash, colored, charged with the murder of her husband, Charles Rash, white, retired at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon. While it was recognized that the State had made out a strong case against the woman for murder in the first degree, it was the opinion of many lawyers who attended the trial that the jury would probably find her guilty of manslaughter. The jury returned in an hour and a half with a verdict of "guilty in the second degree."

Mrs. Rash was defended by former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, the plea being self-defense. She claimed that when she failed to clean a fish, which her husband brought home for supper, the night of the crime, June 21, he threatened to kill her. Being afraid that he might take her life she secured a revolver to protect herself.

Rash had for ten years or more been employed as a farm hand by Freeholder Krouse, and at the time he was killed was occupying a house belonging to his employer. On the day of the murder Rash had been carting beer grains from the Rising Sun Brewery. On his last trip he brought back with him a mess of fish. He asked his wife to clean and prepare them for supper. Returning an hour later he learned that she had not touched the fish. He got a knife and began to do the work.

Seeing his wife sitting on the porch he walked toward her with knife in hand and ordered her again to clean the fish. Mrs. Rash ran into the house and came out a minute later, it is said, with a .32 calibre revolver in her hand, running up to where her husband stood, she fired two shots at him, one of the balls entering Rash's ferohead and killing him instantly. As the man fell, his wife, as though to make certain of his death, sprang forward, grasped the knife, which had fallen out of her husband's hand and plunged it repeatedly in his back.

The jury in the case is composed of the following men: Uzal B. Crane, Plainfield; Lynus F. Walpole, Fanwood; B. S. H. Baker, Summit; George H. Dellar, Rahway; Alfred H. Miller, Cranford; John Porter, Elizabeth; Alfred Berner, Westfield; Carl Marz, Elizabeth; Hiram Fink, Westfield; Daniel J. Leonard, Elizabeth; Gabriel H. VanDuhn, Summit, and James H. Martin, Elizabeth.

Colored Pastor's Address.

Rev. J. W. Turner, A. B. S. T. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, Graham, N. C., and principal of the Haw Valley Institute, delivered a lecture before the B. Y. P. U. of Mt. Olive Baptist church last evening. His subject was "After Enlistment, What?" The speaker likened the young people of the society to military recruits. Among the many things emphasized were preparation for enlistment. This, he said, was consecration. No soldier is fit for duty until he consecrates himself to the cause. Get the equipment, as a soldier must have his weapon and ammunition so must one have the sword of the spirit which is the Word of God. Learn the tactics, be drilled by those who know the rules, obey orders, do your duty in time of battle, stay and prepare for inspection.

New Theatre Curtain Received.

The handsome new drop curtain that will form a part of the furnishings to be installed in the New Plainfield theatre before the opening next month arrived in the city this morning and was immediately put in place at the playhouse. It is a beauty in every sense of the word and one of the costliest ever put up in this vicinity. The scene represents a coaching incident in Colonial days while handsome embellishments are all about it. The new asbestos curtain will arrive next week.

HARD SLAP AT PERKINS

Westfield Council Opposes Auto Race Advocated by Assemblyman who Lives There.

PASS RESOLUTIONS

First Municipality In Union County to Place Itself On Record Against Cup Contest.

The Westfield Town Council is opposed to the Vanderbilt automobile race being held in New Jersey and particularly in the county of Union. The Council put itself on record to this effect Monday night, when the following resolution was passed:

"Be it resolved, That the Council of the Town of Westfield is opposed to the proposed measure looking to the suspension of the present automobile law for the purpose of permitting any automobile races to be held in the State of New Jersey and particularly in the county of Union, and that the Legislature of this State and the Governor be and they are hereby requested to withhold their consent to the said proposed measure.

"Resolved, Further, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Governor of this State and to the President of the Senate and to the Speaker of the General Assembly."

This action upon the part of the authorities in the home town of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who has been especially active in urging the passage of the bill, comes as a sort of surprise. Councilmen Floyd and Gilby were absent from the meeting. Four councilmen voted in favor of the resolution and three against its passage. Those voting in the affirmative were Councilmen Fink, Hohenstein, Russell and Mayor Alpers. Councilmen Berner, Wilson and Wilcox opposed.

RAILROAD FATALITIES TO BE WIRED AT ONCE.

Corporation Agents Ask State Commission to Exempt Trespassers.

The new State railroad commission met yesterday and got down to real business. Representatives of all the railroads in New Jersey met with the commission in conference on paragraph 7 of the act, which compels the reporting of all accidents to the commission.

These representatives asked what class of accidents should be reported, holding that if all accidents were reported the dockets of the commission would be filled to overflowing. The commission first asked that every accident be reported immediately, and then asked the railroad officials to go in conference and work out a scheme and report to the commission. After some time, the railroad officials offered the plan to telegraph to the commission immediately all accidents where one or more persons lost their lives, and to mail to them promptly reports of accidents where the loss amounted to $500 or more.

Another provision is that no reports are to be furnished where the person killed is a tramp or trespasser on the railroad. But this is likely to be turned down, for one of the commissioners called attention to the fact that some roads make a specialty in court of trying to prove that persons killed have been trespassers on the tracks. The scheme of the railroad officials will be acted on by the commission at its next meeting on August 6.

The report of Inspector McKelvey, on the accident at Bloomfield Junction was to the effect that a switchman turned a switch between the fourth and fifth car of a moving freight train, thus sending the rest of the train against an approaching locomotive. He recommended an interlocking switch at that point.

The commission appointed James Maybury, Jr., of Passaic, an assistant inspector to be on duty in the State house daily from 9 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon, to whom reports of accidents can be made.

WANT PRESIDENT AS GUEST.

Elizabeth Will Invite Him to Her Old Home Week.

The members of the Old Home Week committee, preparing for the big celebration to be held at Elizabeth in October, are going to make an earnest effort to have President Roosevelt attend the festivities.

In speaking of the plan yesterday the committee expressed confidence that the President would come of Old Home Week is not also a busy one at the executive mansion. The committee thinks the celebration is of such magnitude as to merit the attention of the President.

Governor Stokes and all the prominent officials of the State will be invited.

ELKS BY THE THOUSANDS

BIG DAY TOMORROW

Over 100 Plainfield Members of the Order Will View the Great Procession.

With the Grand Lodge sessions formally started and the programme of entertainment in full swing, the Elks of the country began to fill the hours with the joyous shouts of their kind at Philadelphia yesterday and last night. Many hundred more of the fraternity arrived in the city today and every train adds to the crowd, so that all the streets are jammed with the merry throng. The Plainfield contingent that has been in attendance since Monday was swelled by nearly two score more this morning and tomorrow at least 100 will leave on the 7.13 train. They will participate in the big parade that begins tomorrow at 10.30 and promises to be the greatest affair of its kind ever seen in the country.

The electric illumination of the city has aroused enthusiasm in every direction, and many visitors who have seen famous displays in all parts of the country agrees that it surpasses anything ever seen. Former County Register John P. Dexheimer, of Essex county, said today:

"The only objection or drawback I see to this great display is the pace it is setting for other cities to follow. I don't know what the next reunion city is going to do."

The feature of the grand lodge session yesterday was the selection of the candidates for office. It was like a great political convention as one after another of the candidates for grand exalted ruler was placed in nomination, and the speeches compared favorably with those of famous political speakers who have had the honor of naming Presidential candidates. Over sixteen hundred ballots were cast, and the clerks had the great task of tallying the vote, which occupied hours.

The grand lodge adjourned without having made any announcement as to the result of the elections. It is generally conceded, however, that John K. Tener, of Charleroi, Penn., has been chosen grand exalted ruler.

The only official announcement was that Dallas, Tex., had been chosen as the place for holding the next convention and grand lodge reunion. Milwaukee and Detroit were in the race but dropped out when it was seen they had no chance.

The feature of today's programme is to be the concert by the massed band of all the musicians attending the convention. They will number 3,000 in all and will first parade through the court of honor of Broad street. At the big clambake held in Washington Park, yesterday, "Tommy" Timbo, of this city, was one of the Grand Exalted Directors, paying particular attention to the serving of green corn.

Union Outing to Asbury Park Well Patronized.

The excursion today to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove included the Sunday-schools of the Crescent Avenue, Grace Episcopal, St. Stephen's, the Seventh-Day Baptist, Holy Cross, and Heavenly Rest churches and Bethel chapel. There were about 1,000 on the two sections of the train. The first section was in charge of Engineer James Smith, Conductor F. O. Webster, Fireman D. Burns, Brakemen William Crane, L. Johnson and E. C. Hull. Seven coaches of the second section were reserved for St. Stephen's, whose members got aboard at Netherwood. This section was in charge of Engineer H. Dumke, Conductor L. Brakeman, Fireman B. Schnester, Brakemen Charles Fox and William Davis.

Mayor Will Revoke Licenses.

When asked today what he thought of the grand jury's order for him to see that more than fifty inn and tavern licenses in Elizabeth were revoked because the proprietors had not complied with the law, Mayor Ryan, of that city, refused to make any comment other than that there was only one thing for him to do and that would be to revoke the licenses.

WAR ON HIDDEN WEAPONS

Judge in Sentencing Negro Says Habit of Carrying Concealed Weapons Must Stop.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Judge Runyon Declares That Law-Abiding Colored People Suffer Because a Few Negroes Carry Razors.

In the city court this morning, Judge William N. Runyon emphasized the fact that his crusade against the carrying of concealed weapons is for all time. When Samuel Hunt, colored, of East Third street, was arraigned before him on a charge of fighting Patrolman Meyers added the fact that the prisoner had a razor in his pocket when searched at headquarters. A fine of $15 or twenty days was passed upon him and in pronouncing sentence, the magistrate said:

"This court has declared itself against the practice of carrying concealed weapons and is going to do everything in its power to put a stop to it. I consider the fighting charge a secondary matter and because of the fact that you had a razor with you I am determined to take it seriously. The majority of law-abiding colored people in this city have to suffer because a few have caused the impression to prevail that every negro carries a blade and is ready to use it."

Hunt protested that he was taking the razor to a barber shop to be honed but the court cut him short by declaring that every man charged with the same offense gave a similar excuse.

The defendant was arrested at his home last night, following a neighborhood quarrel in which he and his wife and his wife's brother pitched into Charles Barney, because the latter had gone to the Hunt yard for a pail of water and had let too much run to waste. Mrs. James Frisbie called the police and she was also in court to explain that the Hunts had called her names and that she wanted protection. Judge Runyon assured her that she would get it.

TRENTON CLUB BOOMS VROOM FOR GOVERNOR.

Chairman of Democratic City Committee Votes Against Resolution.

The boom for Governor of Judge G. D. W. Vroom was formally launched last evening at the Tenth Ward Democratic Club, of Trenton, where formal resoltuions were adopted amid much enthusiasm. Erwin Marshall, chairman of the Democratic city committee, presided at the club meeting, and voted against the resolution.

It is current talk that former United States Senator Smith, Robert Davis, of Hudson county, and Leader Thompson, of South Jersey, have agreed on the candidacy of former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of Trenton, on the liquor issue. The Democrats believe that they can win on that issue alone, and the taking of Katzenbach will lend the aid they require on such a platform.

Already the Republicans have begun to stir themselves. They do not like the nomination of Katzenbach, and if he is to run on the liquor platform they propose to put the issue squarely up to him and make his position clear, so that no one will be misled who wants the enforcement of the present closed Sunday law.

Believing that Katzenbach will be the nominee and liquor the issue, the Newark aldermen have passed an ordinance allowing the sale of liquor on Sunday between the hours of 1 and 11:30 p. m., in violation of the State law, and they are daring the sheriff of Essex county to close the saloons. Should Sheriff Sommer, Republican, do so, the Democrats say he will kill his own boom for Governor.

Drunken Farmer Fined $20.

With charges enough against him to warrant his going to Somerville as the county's guest for the next six months, William Saunders, the Warrenville farm hand who fought desperately against arrest Monday afternoon, escaped with a $20 fine last night. When arraigned before Recorder Dolliver in the borough court he admitted that he had been drunk and disorderly, that he had resisted arrest, drove through the streets recklessly and obstructed the highway. When he was requested to contribute the two tens to the borough treasury or spend sixty days in jail he quickly produced the money.

TAKEN INTO CUSTODY AFTER TURNING IN ALARM;

SON ADMITS FIRING HOME "TO GET SQUARE"

John Sprague, Aged Twenty-four, Makes Startling Confession to Chief of Police.

SUSPECTED OF OTHERS

Young Man Cooly Starts Blaze In a Closet In His Father's Home—Kiely's Shrewd Work.

Within a few minutes after he had pulled a box for a fire in his father's home on West Front street, last night, John Sprague, twenty-four years old, was arrested by Chief Kiely on a charge of having started the blaze. Five minutes of "sweating" caused him to confess that he had committed the crime and to admit that he did so in order to "get square" with his father for a fancied grievance. He made an affidavit to this effect before Mayor Fisk and this morning was committed to the county jail to await the Grand Jury's action. It is the belief of Chief Kiely and Chief Doane that the prisoner may have had something to do with recent mysterious fires in the city and every effort will be made to get the truth from him.

Chief Kiely was standing in front of Police Headquarters shortly after 9 o'clock last night when the fire gong blew an alarm from box 12. As it is only a short distance away and located in the heart of the business section, he hastened toward it. Sprague was just turning away from the box as the chief arrived and in answer to a query said the blaze was in his home, situated in the upper part of the frame building at 215 West Front street, directly across from where they stood. The chief asked him just where it was and the young man replied it was in a closet on the third floor.

"Why, how do you know so well where it is?" inquired the officer.

Sprague shifted about uneasily and then replied that his mother had told him. His manner seemed quite suspicious to the chief and without further conversation he requested him to walk to headquarters. The questioning was then continued and in a short time Sprague broke down and confessed.

He asserted that his father had done something to him that he didn't like and that he had made up his mind to fire the house. He placed a lot of paper and inflammable material in a closet and after throwing a lighted match into the heap went down stairs.

Mrs. Sprague discovered the blaze and screamed for some one to send in an alarm. The cause of the trouble was anticipating just such a call and rushed across the street to the box. He was waiting for the apparatus to arrive when Chief Kiely came upon him.

Sprague was arraigned before Judge Runyon, acting as a State magistrate, today, and was given an opportunity to plead in his own behalf. His only defense was that he was not sober when he planned the act and carried it out.

The young man is the son of William Sprague, who was for many years the foreman in the Boice-Runyon lumber yard. He had been working as a driver but recently has been out of employment. While he has been known to the police, he has always been looked upon as being quiet and orderly and with a record of only one case of drunkenness.

His arrest, however, has caused Chief Kiely to inquire further into his doings for the past few months as there are circumstances that indicate that he might have had something to do with the several fires since last May that have had the police and fire departments puzzled. It was at his home that a slight fire occurred on the night of July 4 and for which no cause could be assigned. It is also said he had been about the Cadmus mill before its destruction last month. He was at one time employed at the latter place. Whether or not here is any truth in these statements will be a matter that Chief Kiely will attempt to work out.

The blaze at the Sprague home was nipped in time by the firemen and the loss will not exceed $50. Hydrant streams were laid in but only the chemical engine was used.

CONTRACT BROKEN BUT CITY WELL PROTECTED

MAYOR BELIEVES SURETY COMPANY WILL COMPLETE SEWER CONTRACT.

There are no new developments in the Southside sanitary sewer muddle and a majority of the Italians employed on the work are still in town awaiting a settlement of affairs so far as their wages are concerned. Mayor Fisk said this morning that he expected to hear from the Metropolitan Surety Company within a day or two as to what it intends to do.

Mr. DeLany, the representative of the surety company, who attended the conference here a few days ago, asked for another week to allow him to communicate with Mr. Morgan, his bondsmen and others interested, promising to communicate with Mayor Fisk as soon as he obtained the necessary information.

The Mayor believes that the surety company will make some arrangements to complete the sewer contract. When its representative together with other interested parties, went over the ground a few days ago, he was favorably impressed and did not seem to think the task a difficult one.

The surety company is protected by Mr. Morgan's indemnifier, and there is no reason, it is said, why Plainfield should lose any money as he result of Thomas J. Cusack's failure to complete the contract. The local officials have heard nothing from Mr. Cusack and in fact it makes but little difference whether they do or not.

MARTINE FOREMAN OF CORONER'S JURY

INQUEST ON CAUSE OF MR. WEEKS' DEATH NEXT TUESDAY.

Formal inquiry into the death of Clarence H. Weeks, who was killed last Friday by grasping hold of an electric light wire that blocked his path on Berkeley avenue, was commenced yesterday afternoon when the jury impanelled by Coroner Lufburrow, by direction of the county physician, met for its first deliberation.

James E. Martine was elected foreman and the other members swore in are William Townsend, Henry Liefke, John J. Kenney, H. W. Marshall and Charles H. Frost. The jury viewed the victim's body and proceeded through the usual formalities in order that burial might be accomplished. The burns in the right hand, where the wire had evidently been grasped, were pointed out by Dr. Lufburrow and the general appearance of the body was noted.

After this procedure, adjournment was taken until next Tuesday morning at 10 a. m. when Public Service officials will be in attendance and the taking of testimony from witnesses will be commenced.

Struck By Awning Rod.

While playing with a number of other boys in front of the Schepflin building, last night, Harold Willard, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Willard, was struck on the head by an iron rod and severely injured. The rod was pulled from its place in a store awning by one of his companions and came down upon him with great force. He was taken to his home and Dr. Lufburrow was summoned. The boy was delirious all night and it is not certain yet as to how badly he was hurt.

Eagles Initiate Nine.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, K. G. E., conferred the third degree on nine candidates at a special meeting last night. Forty members of the Perth Amboy Castle were present and six candidates for the degree. After the meeting an informal time was enjoyed. Refreshments were served. The affair was in charge of the good and welfare committee which consisted of John Bicknel, chairman, Whitney Frazee, John Goff, Joseph Randall and Frank Neidig.

Reliable Money Lenders

Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

MORAL:—Do likewise and avoid worry. Come in and we will talk it over with you, or drop a postal and a confidential representative will call on you.

Capping Verses—a Game.

The players are supplied with slips of paper and a pencil, and ever one writes a line of poetry, either original or from memory. Then the slips must be folded so that the line is hidden, but the last word of the line must be written over the fold. The slips are passed on, so that a different writer supplies the next line, which must rhyme with the last word of the previous line. Again the slips are passed on. A new line is written and passed on, with the new rhyming word written on the fold. When the papers have gone the round of the company the slips are unfolded and the verses read out.

NEW GAME BUREAU ALREADY PICKED OUT

BUT ONE OF OLD COMMISSION TO BE RETAINED, AND HE'S LAST APPOINTE

Although lacking official confirmation it can be stated on good authority that the men whom Governor Stokes will name as commissioners on the new fish and game commission are Benedick C. Kuser, of Trenton; Percival Christie, of Hunterdon; Simeon H. Rollinson, of Essex, and William A. Logue, of Cumberland.

Mr. Logue is a member of the present commission, which will be wiped out of existence as soon as the governor signs the bill abolishing it and creating the new board, but Mr. Logue was only appointed a few months ago to succeed the late Judge Miller, and he did not in any way figure in the disclosures of graft and corruption in the fraud brought to light during the Hahn investigation.

The governor will not officially appoint the men he has selected for the new commission until he has signed the bill providing for their appointment and until the Senate reconvenes, so that their nominations may be confirmed. In selecting the commission Governor Stokes has picked out two Democrats and two Republicans. Messrs. Kuser and Christie are the Republicans while Messrs. Rollinson and Logue are Democrats. It is likely that Mr. Kuser, who is an ardent sportsman, will become the commission's president. He will probably also be appointed for a four-year term. Under the provisions of the new law the governor will have to designate which members are to serve for one, two, three and four years. After that one commissioner will be appointed annually for a term of one year.

The talk of Mr. Kuser for president of the commission was started primarily for the reason that he resides in Trenton, and it is the governor's desire that the commission's headquarters be located in the State House. The board will choose a secretary outside of their own number and with the president and secretary located in Trenton the State House can become the seat of operation for all executive work.

WAS WITNESS A PERJURER?

A. O. H. Say "Murphy" Does Not Belong to Order as He Swore.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians of Middlesex and Hunterdon counties, after an investigation, issued a statement at New Brunswick, yesterday, that "John Murphy," who was the star witness at the trial of James Callahan, in that city a few weeks ago, is not a member of their order. Murphy testified that he had come to New Brunswick on August 21, 1906, as a delegate to the A. O. H. convention, and visited Callahan's place. He described to the jury in detail scenes of disorder which he witnessed there. It was largely through his testimony that Callahan was convicted of keeping a disorderly house. He has appealed.

Prosecutor Berdine, who secured the witness at the last moment through people who wanted to see Callahan prosecuted, now believes that Murphy gave a fictitious name. The man swore that his name was Murphy, and that he was a delegate from Lambertville.

PLEADS FOR STRIKE METHODS.

But Jersey City Judge Calls Interference With Non-Union Men Un-American.

Vice-Chancellor Bergen, in Chancery Chambers, Jersey City, surprised the old practitioners yesterday by listening patiently to Mr. McGinnis, of Paterson, who, as counsel for Branch, No 1, Local No. 152, Industrial Workers of the World, which has been restrained from interfering with the men who had taken their places in the Graef Hatband Manufacturing Company's works, upheld the right of strikers to interfere with non-union men.

This restraining order was issued two weeks ago and was returnable yesterday, when it was to be decided whether it should be dismissed or an injunction be issued, and the vice-chancellor classed as un-American the spirit of interference with strike breakers.

CONGRESSMAN WOOD ACTIVE.

Prods Washington to Start the Dredging on Perriwig Bar.

Congressman Ira W. Wood, of the Fourth District which includes Somerset county, went to Washington yesterday for the purpose of taking up with the government authorities the dredging of the Perriwig bar, in the Delaware river. He will also take up the delay in the matter of the addition to the Trenton postoffice.

The clearing away of the bar was to have been started early this summer, but was delayed owing to a hitch over the eight-hour law as applied to this work. The matter has been straightened out and the Congressman will make an effort to have the dredging begun at once, so the deep channel to Philadelphia may be opened before winter sets in.

GIRL SHOT IN JOKE.

Now Calloway Is in Danger of Death From Lockjaw.

Louis Calloway, of Handy street, New Brunswick, is suffering with lockjaw, the result of a Fourth of July prank. He was teasing a girl friend with a giant firecracker on the Fourth, when a friend presenting laughingly suggested to the girl that she defend herself by shooting Calloway, handing her a revolver loader with blank cartridges. The girl took the revolver, placed it at Calloway's forehead and fired.

He seemed to be only slightly burned, and the whole thing was taken as a joke. Several days later he became ill, and his condition has grown steadily worse and now it is feared that he cannot live. The girl feels badly about the "joke."

FINED $100 FOR SHOOTING WIFE

Light Sentence for Schofield Because Discharge Was Accidental.

Lane Schofield, of No. 2044 Arch street, Philadelphia, who shot his wife in the Lenox Hotel, No. 25 Central avenue, Newark, on July 3, was arraigned before Judge Coult, in the Court of Quarter Sessions, that city, yesterday and pleaded guilty. A fine of $100 was imposed, but when the prisoner told the court he had not the necessary funds sentence was suspended.

Mrs. Schofield was not seriously injured, and the authorities were satisfied that the shooting was accidental.

Leaves Prison for a Few Days Only.

Trenton, July 17.—Having completed a two year term in the New Jersey State Prison a few days ago, Philip Schweitz, of Newark, was sentenced to five years at hard labor in the United States District Court yesterday. Schweitz was taken into custody by the Federal authorities for passing money orders on two counts. He pleaded guilty on one and was convicted on the other. The man's term in State Prison was for somewhat similar offences against the State law.

There will be no services in the Congregational church on Sundays, August 18 and 25.

Rev. E. E. Roberson, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will take his annual vacation during August.

Miss Beatrice Miner, of East Seventh street, and Miss Harriet Messersmith, of East Fifth street, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Miner, of Oriskany Falls, N. Y.

Special July Sale

beginning Monday, July 15th, continuing for the balance of the month, we shall dispose of a large number of practically new Upright Pianos at remarkably low prices and terms.

A large number of these instruments have been taken as part payment on our Euterpe Piano Player; many have been used but a short time on rent; altogether they are a very fine collection of instruments which may be purchased for from one-half to one-third value.

We will also include in this SALE a number of Square Pianos and Organs, some of which we will mark as low as $19.00, none higher than $45.00. These are all of well known and standard makes which we have taken in as part payment on our Mathushek & Son Pianos with Duplex Sounding Board. Hundreds of buyers in this vicinity have been convinced of their durability and superiority above all others.

We are always pleased to explain and demonstrate to the prospective buyer WHY the Duplex Sounding Board is more durable and in every way superior to the common sounding board that invariably split and with ribs that loosen and rattle.

A NEW WORRY.

"Well, that beats me," said a fussy old gentleman who watches everything going on around him.

"What's that?" queried the clerk who was waiting on him.

"Why, that woman over there. She is carrying around a pair of tan shoes like an up-to-date Prince looking for a couple of Cinderellas. They're not even wrapped up."

The clerk stretched his neck to see. Sure enough, there was a woman with the tan shoes, one in each hand, and a woe-begone smile.

"I can't find them anywhere," the woman confided to a chance-met friend, "and it is so important to have them match perfectly. I suppose I will have to take the other pair of shoes, only they don't look nearly as well on my feet."

"If you'll stop raving for a minute or two and tell me what you are driving at I'll be much obliged," said the friend.

"It's easy to see that you have not been attacked by the tan-shoe fever," said the other, "else you'd know what it meant to be carrying around a pair of tan shoes imploring haughty saleslades to match the color in stockings. I've been in three shops now, and have failed miserably. The worst of it is that the shoes match my dress perfectly, and the dress is one of the new sort—a "trotting" dress—just short enough to show a wee bit of the ankle, and the stockings don't match, and, oh, dear, I'm so tired," and away she went, resuming the hunt, while the woe-begone smile turned into a frown and the friend thanked her stars that she hadn't the tan shoe fever.

HOPELESS PER SE.

"An obstinate witness is the bane of the lawyer's life," remarked a member of the bar whose practice is largely confined to criminal cases. "Not long ago I was engaged to defend a man accused of murder. One of the witnesses for the State was a stolid-faced individual whose testimony it was necessary for to weaken. In my cross-examination I found him to be the most exasperating. I couldn't pin him down to any definite admission. For over two hours I labored with him, and realized that I was gaining no ground. I couldn't get a favorable reply out of him. To all my questions, with the face of a graven image he would reply, 'I really can't say,' or 'I don't remember,' or frankly, 'I don't know.'

"Finally I lost my temper. 'You don't seem to know anything,' I exclaimed. 'You can't answer a simple question. Now perhaps you can answer this: What is your occupation?'

"'I am employed in a bureau of information,' he replied solemnly.

"Then I realized what I was up against and gave him up as a hopeless case."

UNIONIZED HOUSEWORK.

New York people who are grumbling over the difficulties experienced in trying to get satisfactory domestic service in their households have no idea how much better the situation is here than in some of the smaller cities of the State, said a woman who has returned from a visit in Rochester.

"Here you can get a flirl to do general housework for from $20 to $25 a month, occasionally for even less than $20, and, in most cases, she will be willing to do the washing as part of her regular work. But that isn't the case in Western New York. There the girls have unions, and the terms they dictate are just as stiff as they care to make them. Household help is far scarcer there than here, for it is recruited not so much from foreigners as from the country girls of the region, and people who want servants must take them under any conditions and say nothing. No housework girl will come for less than $25; many want more, and in no case will the family washing be touched. That must go to a laundry or be done by an outside washerwoman. The 'maid of all work' will lift up her hands in horror at the notion of cleaning a window, and neither will she demean herself before the neighbors by sweeping the porch. It is no uncommon sight to ob serve the mistress of the house, in despair at the accumulated dirt, performing these last two duties herself while the maid remains indoors.

"Under such conditions, of course, the relations between the employers and the employed are about as unpleasant as possible, and large numbers of families have either already given up trying to keep house or are about to do so on account of the impossible situation that has come to exist."

—Peter Stroble, of the Woodhull & Martin Company, is taking his annual vacation.

DIAMOND DUST.

Captain Craig recognizes the fact that if his team-mates do not get out for regular practice they cannot hope to play the best kind of ball, and some of the players are so situated that they cannot get in regular hours for practice.

Captain Frank Chance's suspension was up yesterday and he returned to his position at first base in Boston.

The change in the batting order worked wonders for the Highlanders in their game on Monday with Chicago. They were defeated by the generous score of 15 to 0.

Clinton Avenue will meet Raritan at Crescent Oval, Saturday, and it is to be hoped that the Somerset county boys will be prepared to make a strong fight. The local team just now is playing championship ball.

The Y. M. C. A. team will journey to Bound Brook Saturday afternoon, where they will meet the Laurels. The association boys, smarting under the defeat of last Saturday, are determined to turn the tables on Bound Brook and thereby hold their position in the race.

Alfred Odell, the star third baseman of the Lancaster Tri-State League team, has been sold to the Cincinnati team for $2,500.

Larry Doyle, the third baseman of the Springfield, Ill., team, has been bought by the New York Giants for $4,500. He will join the club in a few days. The deal was made on the recommendation of Dan. Brouthers, the veteran ball player.

Jesse Tannehill has been doing effective work in the box for the Boston Americans lately.

The Philadelphia Nationals are making a strong fight this season. The pitching staff is in fine condition as is also the other members of the team. Billy Murray is certainly making a good showing.

"Jimmie" Montross is in Plainfield again, having no regular pitching position. While in Newark he did good work.

GOLF.

One fact stands out prominently this year in the weekly competition for the Golf Committee and Green Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club, and that is the wisdom of establishing two classes—A and B. This arrangement has proved of great benefit to the game here. Many of those who started in Class B did not remain there long before their handicaps were reduced and they were transferred to the first division. Class B is a good place to put an unknown player and ascertain what he can do.

Heretofore a new player has given the whole field a surprise by returning a remarkably low score, by the aid of a fat handicap, and the two divisions have helped very much to ascertain a player's proper rating.

One of the coming golf events that is sure to attract a big field of contestants will be the tournament to be held at Deal Beach within the next few weeks. The course is an ideal one for good playing and generally brings out all of the cracks in the Metropolitan Golf Association. It is expected that the Plainfield Country Club will be well represented in this tournament, as usual.

The Fairfield County Golf Club cup presented by the club was won on Monday by A. L. Fennessy with a score of 63. Howard Morton finished second with a 73.

The national amateur golf champion, Jerome D. Travers, who is still at the Allegheny Country Club, said yesterday that he is now thoroughly rested out after the ordeal of a week's bruising contests in the championship competitions. He played two foursome matches at the club yesterday and displayed again the remarkable golf that carried him to victory at Cleveland. In the morning he played in a foursome, paired with T. G. Stevenson against W. C. Carnegie and Fred Herreshoff. Travers-Stevenson won on the eighteenth green by one up.

In the afternoon Travers-Stevenson played against E. M. Byers and W. C. Carnegie. It was an all even match. The medal score made by the champion was 70, which was equalled by Byers. When it is considered that 78 is the bogey for the course the great playing of Byers and Travers can be understood.

Mr. Travers said in reference to the championship tournament: "I felt pretty confident of winning if I could get through Byers." The champion's hands are a sight. Constant use of the golf clubs has raised callouses almost half an inch thick. So famous have these hands become that many photographs have been made of them. Champion Travers left Pittsburg last night for the East. Mr. Herreshoff will go today. Mr. Sands left last night. The other visiting golfers left on Saturday night. The champion's next engagement will be in the Deal Beach tournament.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

After carefully surveying the field one is impressed by the fact that three men are making a good fight for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and each one has an advantage over another in some respect. State Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, Justice Mahlon Pitney and Justice J. Franklin Fort are the three men. No one of them would allow any chance to slip by in getting the nomination, but, of course, each prefers not to be known as an avowed candidate.

Like all other mortals they hate to be turned down whether the game is politics or any other allurement. It's a toss-up which will fare the best by the time the convention day rolls around. One wiseacre is cock-sure that Uncle Joe has it cinched while another is equally confident that the veteran Morris county politician is a dead winner. A third will say that it's a hundred to one shot that the Essex man has his opponents beat a mile.

Take Uncle Joe for instance. Somerset county has not lost any time in pointing with pride to its favorite son as a meritorious candidate. And the Senator has his wires at work in other sections. It is hinted by his backers that he stands pat with the State leaders. Didn't he present the name of John F. Dryden in the State Senate for reelection to the United States Senate, and wasn't he on the inside of all the secret powwows held by the powers that be, or were? Isn't he the author of the auto law and isn't he solid with the farmers? And another thing: Isn't Uncle Joe a fine-looker and can't he captivate the women who attend those political mass meetings? So much for the Somerset "favorite son."

Then, what's the matter with Mr. Pitney, who hails from Morris county? He has traded for years with the crowd that has run this little State just about as it pleased. There's Ed. Stokes, Foster Voorhees, Dan. Voorhees, Davey Baird, William Morgan, John Kean and a raft of others. Now, are they going to give him the throw-down? That's the pertinent question his friends ask, coupling the query with the fact that Foster Voorhees handed the Morris county man the judicial chair to get him out of Murphy's way to the gubernatorial office. Another claim his supporters make is that he would be acceptable to the Colbyites and they are an all-important factor in the coming contest. Pitney's clean, they say, and there's no disputing the statement.

Last, but by no means least, there's Judge Fort. He would be equally acceptable to the Colbyites and would be the real thing for the so-called machine too. He's got the gift of gab and he knows the game of politics "from a to izzard." Every ward-heeler from Sussex to Cape May says "howdy" to the judge and what's more they like the brainy jurist. Were Garret Hobart still among the living, Fort would win in a walk, but like many other once powerful friends of Fort, Hobart has passed to the great beyond.

So there you are—take your choice! Let us add, however, that the bosses will pick their man when the time comes and the hour has not yet arrived.

INFANT WITNESSES COMPETENT.

In affirming the conviction obtained in the trial court, the Court of Errors and Appeals, the highest tribunal in the State, has just handed down an important ruling pertaining to the legal competency of minors as witnesses, holding that the testimony given by one child of nine years and another of eleven years must stand. Dwelling on the admissability of children under fourteen years as witnesses, Chancellor Magie, who wrote the opinion, says:

"With respect to their capacity the trial court is able to discover its sufficiency in their examination. With respect to their moral responsibility, it has been frequently said that it depends upon their understanding 'the nature of the oath.' It might puzzle many adult witnesses to explain the nature of an oath. But it is well settled that if infants, under the age of fourteen years, have a clear apprehension of the penalties which may fall upon them in this life and the punishment which will await them after death, if, upon being sworn as witnesses, they fail to testify truthfully, they are admissible if mentally competent.

"The adjudication as to capacity and responsibility is to be made by the trial court. Its judgment is often said to be an exercise of judicial discretion. Whether that phrase properly describes the nature of the judicial act in admitting infant children as witnesses, need not be determined. Whatever its nature may be, it is well settled that the judgment will not be reviewed on error unless it is plainly shown to have been made without any evidence to support it.

"It is next contended that the trial court having refused a request to make known to the jury that the testimony of infants was of an unsatisfactory nature, Labriola's counsel proceeded, after the jury had retired, to request the court to 'caution the jury as to the character and tender years, such as the witnesses admitted.' This request was refused, and an exception to the refusal was sealed.

"As the infants had been legally admitted to testify the question of the credit to be given to their testimony was wholly for the jury. The trial court could not be required to express an opinion upon the credibility of the witnesses, nor on the reliability of their testimony."

The Westfield Common Council has lost no time in setting itself on record as opposed to automobile races in New Jersey and particularly in Union county, which bears out the statement made by The Daily Press a few days ago that if Assemblyman Perkins would only go among his own constituents he would find that the sentiment was strongly against what he is advocating.

Considering that its motto is "Principles, Not Men," it is hard to figure out why the Trenton True American picks Frank Katzenbach in preference to James E. Martine for the gubernatorial nomination.

My, what a headache Billy Penn will have by the time those Elks get through with him!

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Frelinghuysen's Plain Talk.

State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen is thoroughly consistent in his attitude of opposition to the proposition to bring the Vanderbilt cup race to New Jersey. More than that, he is sane and forceful in his arguments showing why this automobile speed contest should not be permitted in this State. There has been no member of the Legislature who has been more active than the Senator from Somerset county in demanding that the people be protected from reckless automobilists and in framing laws for the safeguarding of traffic on the highways from the dangers of speed-insane drivers. The present law on the statute books regulating the operation of autos bears his name, and it is not merely an honorary title, for Mr. Frelinghuysen devoted much time and energy in the drafting of the measure. No wonder, then, that he utters his strong protest against the legalizing of a money-making scheme that would mean the nullification of the law he fathered, and thus endanger human life.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Frelinghuysen will have sufficiently recovered from his recent desperate illness to attend the next session held by the Senate, when the bill passed by the Assembly, at the instance of Mr. Perkins, will be received for consideration. With a leader on the floor to protest in the name of the people of the State against the proposed vandalism, there should be no question as to the defeat of the bill. Would that some of the party leaders at Trenton had been as outspoken as Mr. Frelinghuysen against the contemplated outrage! — Newark News.

COSTLY HORSES ON TRAIN.

Animals That Arrive for Atlantic City Horse Show Valued at Great Sum.

Carrying probably the most precious load of horse-flesh ever assembled in one train, a special freight arrived in Atlantic City yesterday morning with nearly a hundred blue-blooded steeds entered for competition at the great annual exhibition of the Atlantic City Horse Show, which opens today. Many of the equines were seen at Plainfield's show last month. At the lowest estimate the trainload was valued at not less than $250,000. Many of the individual animals would bring if sold $8,000 to $10,000, and some are held at $15,000 each. It is the finest collection from the most famous stables of the nation.

No Pullman coach ever afforded more comforts for its human passengers than the special padded cars in which the equine pets of society arrived yesterday morning. Sixty caretakers of the animals, in addition to the crew, were on the train. Upon its arrival here the train was run directly to the horse show grounds at Inlet Park, where the animals were carefully unloaded and assigned their temporary quarters. Not a member of the crew breathed freely until the last padded car had been emptied. Damage suits for loss of life or injury to such patrons have frequently proved more disastrous to claim agents than similar catastrophies to human passengers.

FITZSIMMONS CONFIDENT

Piscataway Farmer and Ex-Champ, Feels Sure He'll Whip Johnson Tonight.

BOB EDGREN'S VIEWS

Famous Sporting Writer Compares the Two Fighters and Speaks Well of Lanky Bob.

At the Washington A. C., of Philadelphia, tonight, Bob Fitzsimmons, our near-fellow-townsman, will meet Jack Johnson, the colored aspirant for heavyweight pugilistic honors, to demonstrate if he can, that he is not the sunken star the fight fanciers have been rating him. He will have only six rounds to go, and even if he fails to put Johnson out, he should be able to keep himself up and going all the way.

The fight has been the leading topic among the sporting fraternity of New York and Philadelphia, and a good part of the rest of the country for a week. There is much interest in the outcome, not so much on Johnson's account, as on Fitz's. The old time sports would be delighted to see the old fighter come back with his punch and they are rooting hard for him all along the great white way and other lanes. Broadway has picked Fitz to win, and is backing its opinion with money. All the sharps who have seen Fitz at work are marvelling at his good condition. They see no diminution in his speed to speak of, no lessening of power in his blow, and no decrease in craft and cleverness. The only thing that seems to be doubtful, in comparing the old Fitz with the veteran of today, is his staying power. The experts cannot say whether age has worn on him so he will not be able to keep up the fighting pace sufficiently to stall Johnson and seize the opening for his wallop.

Bob Edgren, sporting editor of the New York Evening World, the best known writer in his field, and himself a boxer of skill and brawn, writes of the two gladiators of the squared circle:

"Prestige, craft and a wallop that was not long ago the greatest in the world, but may now be an uncertain quantity, will be pitted against youth, swift cleverness and vast physical advantages when Bob Fitzsimmons meets Jack Johnson.

"There is one more thing to compare, and that is courage. Bob Fitzsimmons is a man absolutely without fear. Even in his second battle with Jim Jeffries, the greatest heavyweight that ever lived, Fitzsimmons fought with supreme confidence until he was finally knocked out. In a losing fight he is the gamest and the most dangerous man the ring ever saw.

"In this Johnson is different. He isn't game. Many of his long-winded fights against men with only a fraction of his cleverness and physical strength have proven this beyond the possibility of a doubt. Add gameness to Johnson's strength and skill and he'd be a champion.

"When Fitz fights Johnson he'll be a middle-weight fighting a big heavyweight. Fitz has fought as a middle-weight for years and has been matched against the giants of the ring. He has whipped Corbett and Sharkey and Ruhlin, all great heavyweights, and has won his battles with knockouts. Jeffries alone was able to beat him down. In his fight with Jack O'Brien Fitzsimmons collapsed after chasing the Philadelphia foot racer for thirty-nine minutes. He was in poor shape.

"So it will be nothing new for Fitz to fight a giant.

"This Johnson has all of the qualities of a great fighter except courage. He is as tall as Jeffries. He has tremendous reach. His shoulders are wide as a barn door. He is all sinewy strength. He is remarkably clever—as clever as a light-weight.

"He is young. Fitz, in a prize ring sense, is old. Few fighters can hold up their hands when they have reached the age of forty-three.

"Johnson is clever, but in a different way from Fitzsimmons. He is like Jim Corbett. He can send in lightning-like jabs at long range and he can shoot over snappy little hooks that do damage. He hasn't the close range, dangerous, effective cleverness of a Fitzsimmons. But he is dangerous any way if he is winning.

"Fitz always fights close when he can force the other fellow to mix it. At close range he is the greatest fighter the world ever knew. His blows have terrific power. If his hands were as good as ever, he could fight even Jeffries again and have a chance to win. Fitz hits so hard that he breaks his hands. You can't throw a set of knuckles again a hard skull without breaking them, especially when the force behind the blow is like that of a battering ram. Fitz broke his hands on Jeffries' head just because he hit with such terrific force.

"Bob's hands have been broken several times. The bones grow brittle with age. He may smash them again on Johnson's African skull, and in that case he will have little chance to land a knockout. If he hurts his hands early in the fight he may be unable to use his smashing wallops. All these things have to be taken into consideration in doping out the fight. Fitz may 'pick out the soft spots' on Johnson's anatomy. The solar plexus is one. Fitzsimmons' best chance to beat the big Zulu is with a solar-plexus smash. And Johnson will certainly use all of his cleverness to avoid that.

"Johnson has been unable to get matches with Burns, O'Brien, Schreck and other claimants of heavy-weight championship honors. Their claim that there is no money in fighting negroes may be true, but it surely looks as if they were side-stepping the black giant for some more potent reason.

"If they really regarded him as an easy mark they'd take what they could pick up for whipping him. They aren't overlooking any bets. Fitzsimmons' prompt acceptance of an offer for a fight with the dusky bugaboo is only another proof of Bob's courage and absolute confidence in himself.

"I asked Fitz a day or two ago what he thought of his chances. 'I'll tell you one thing,' he said. 'I won't lose. He can't beat me, and if I can beat him I'll do it, and as quick as I can.'

"Winning means a lot to Johnson. It means a lot to Fitzsimmons. It means more to Fitz, perhaps, than to the younger man. A victory would bring back his lost laurels in the only profession he ever knew and took pride in. If Fitz wins this fight, disposes of the bugaboo that has troubled all of the younger 'champions,' he will become in a moment the popular hero of ten years ago. And that's something worth fighting for when a boxer has passed the forty mark."

HIS FIT A HIT.

Half a dozen actors, just back from "the road," were exchanging experiences around a table in the grill room of the Lambs.

"You were dunned as usual by amateurs!" the musical comedy man asked of a star "in the legitimate."

"Yes, almost every town," the erstwhile Hamlet-Romeo-Claude Melnotte replied. "At one place out west—I won't say what town—a nice young fellow waited at the stage door to tell me he wanted to be a real Shakespearean actor.

"'You've had experience?' I asked.

"'Oh, yes. I recited Marc Antony's speech at the holiday meeting of our lyceum, and did one of Daniel Webster's orations last commencement and played in "Romeo and Juliet."'

"'What did you play in "Romeo and Juliet?"'

"'I played the Apothecary—made a great hit, too.'

"This took my breath away, for there are not a dozen lines in the part and they don't amount to anything. So I asked: 'How could you make a hit in the Apothecary?'

"'Well, you see, it was this way, the young fellow replied. 'You know the old man is starving to death and hasn't seen the color of a coin for goodness knows how long. When Romeo gives him money, the sight of it is such a shock that I made the Apothecary fall in a fit. It was a great hit. The people out in front clapped and clapped until two stage hands came out and dragged me off. Yes—it was such a success I went out and took an encore. I fell in another fit.'"

Plants and Flowers.

Draecenas will decay if water lodges on the heart of the plant. If on washing the leaves some settles there, turn the plant over to get rid of it.

The castor bean makes a quick hedge for the vegetable garden.

Begonias make a brilliant display and are desirable for partly shaded places. They are well adapted to porch decoration because they do not require full sunshine.

Arthur Humble and Arthur Jeffry, of the borough, have returned after a week in the South. Besides visiting the Jamestown Exposition they stopped at Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. David T. Kenney, their daughter, Miss Kenney, and Father William H. Miller, of the borough, and Monsignor O'Grady, of New Brunswick, who went abroad several weeks ago, have been traveling through Belgium. All the members of the party are well and enjoying the trip very much. They will return home sometime during August.

NEWSPAPER DON'TS.

Advice to Clubwomen Who Deal With the Press.

We do not know Miss Susan Glaspell, of Davenport, Ia., but she evidently knows things, and she is deserving of a place in the roll of honor in American newspaper circles. She recently gave the clubwomen of her city some interesting facts in relation to the newspaper business, and included in her paper were some very valuable "don'ts" that will meet the approbation of every newspaper man. They ought also to meet the eye of every person who has to do with the newspapers in an unofficial way and be followed. Here they are:

Don't come to the newspaper office Thursday with something that happened Monday. Come on Monday.

Don't come at two minutes of 3 o'clock when the paper goes to press at two minutes after. The assassination of the president of the United States would be resented at that hour.

Don't ask a reporter to run a column of reprint stuff which may serve your cause, but has practically no news value, and then when you have a good live story give it to the other paper. The reporter will not like that a bit.

Don't go to the managing editor and ask that a legitimate news story be kept out. It would be just as unreasonable and just as indelicate to go to the banker and ask him to give you money or to the lawyer and ask him to give up one of his cases. A newspaper is a business enterprise. When you ask it to keep out news, you ask it to injure its own business.

Don't blame the reporter if something you gave him or her does not appear. It is not the reporter's fault. The city editor is the court of last appeal, and he works on the principle of the survival of the fittest. The fact that your committee is going to do something may be very important to you, but the fact that some girl drank carbolic acid is more important to the city editor.

Don't say, "I can't understand why the papers make so many mistakes." If you had ever been in the business, you would say instead, "I think it one of the miracles of the age that newspapers can do that amount of work under that amount of pressure and make so few mistakes."

We doff our hat to Miss Glaspell. She has earned the thanks of every newspaper editor by her clear enunciation of many of the cardinal principles of the relations between the editor and his occasional contributor. —Newburyport (Mass.) News.

More Valuable Than Gold.

Many persons think of gold as the most valuable of metals, but there are sixteen or seventeen more valuable than it is. Among them are the following: Iridium, which is worth about $300 a pound, troy; osmium, $600 a pound; barium, $1,400 a pound; yttrium, $3,150 a pound, and vanadium, the most valuable, $8,625 a pound.

Toby's Natural History.

"It stands to reason," writes Toby Trip in his composition, "that most of our rats come from Gnawaway and that some of our choicest poultry are cotch in China."

Quality and Price

The two vital questions in your piano purchase are, first, quality; second, price. An unsatisfactory piano, in tone and action, is the most annoying article you can have in your home. You dislike to be expending money on it continually to keep it in playing condition.

A TIMELY PRESENT.

A certain colored gentleman recently saluted a large colored lady of the Amazonian type in the following language:

"Yuh's lookin' mighty fascinatin' this evenin', Sal."

Sal hauled off and knocked him down. Then, looking him out of an inclination to get up, she said, "Now, yuh jes lay thar till I goes an' finds out what dat word 'fascinatin' means!"

Next day the aforesaid colored gentleman presented the said with a copy of Webster's dictionary, saying, "I might want ter salute yuh ag'in, so jes please look up de meanin' of some of these heah complimentation terms."

Sal promptly refused to accept the present upon the ground that one would have to know the word in order to look it up.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

"I think that fellow must have gone crazy," she said, handing the letter to Aunt Abby, "he runs on so about how he can't sleep nights from thinking about me. He says that he must go away next week, and shall die if he can't see me once more. What ails him, anyway?"

"Nothing, except evil intentions," responded Aunt Abby, perusing the missive. "He must think you a fool to believe such bosh," she added severely, after finishing it. "Honest love doesn't grow like a mushroom in one night, and the difference between his position and yours gives the lie to all he says. I hope he will go away next week, and never come back."

Whether Chip's studied avoidance of him, combined with the snubbing, served its purpose, or he decided his quest was hopeless, could only be guessed, for he was seen no more near the mill, and the next week his yacht left Christmas Cove, and Chip felt relieved.

It had been an experience quite new to her, and, in spite of its annoyance, somewhat exciting. It also served another purpose of more value,—it recalled Ray to her by sheer force of contrast. She had felt hurt ever since the night she left Greenvale. She had meant to put him out of her thoughts and forget all the silly hours and promises at the lake, and yet she never had succeeded. Instead, her thoughts turned to him in spite of her pride.

And now, contrasting and comparing that honest, manly lad, a playmate only, and yet a lover as well, with this polished, fulsome, flattering, shifty-eyed fop, who sneered at everything good, only made Ray, with his far different ways, seem the more attractive.

Then conscience began to smite her. She had yielded to pride and put him away from her thoughts. His uncle had almost pleaded for her to return to Greenvale, if only for a visit. She knew Ray had spent weeks in searching for her; yet not once in all the two years since they parted had she sent him a line of remembrance.

More mature now, Chip began to see her own conduct as it was, and to realize that she had been both ungrateful and heartless; but she could not confess it to any one, not even Aunt Abby.

Chip's life had been a strange, complex series of moods of peculiar effect, and her conduct must be judged accordingly.

First, the dense ignorance of years at Tim's Place, with its saving grace of disgust at such surroundings and such a life. Then a few months with people so different and so kind that it seemed an entrance into heaven, to be followed by weeks of a growing realization that she was a nobody, and an outcast unfit for Greenvale.

And then came the climax of all this: the bitter sneers of Hannah, Ray's cool neglect, the consciousness that she was only a dependent pauper, and then her flight into the world and away from all that stung her like so many whips.

But a revulsion of feeling was coming. Chip, no longer a simple child of the wilderness, was realising her own needs and her own nature. Something broader and more satisfying than school life and the companionship of Aunt Abby was needed; yet how to find it never occurred to her.

With September came Aunt Abby's annual visit to Peaceful Valley. A few days before their departure, Chip received a letter which was so unexpected and so vital to her feelings that it must be quoted.

It was dated at the little village of Grindstone, directed to Vera McGuire, care of Judson Walker, by whom it was forwarded to Christmas Cove.

"My Dear Chip," it began.

"I feel that you will not care to hear from me, and yet I must write. I know I am more to blame than anyone for the way you left Greenvale, and that you must consider me a foolish boy, without much courage, which I have been, and I realize it only too well now, when it is too late. But I am more of a man today, I hope, and some time I shall come and try to obtain your forgiveness for being so blind. No one ever has been, and I know no one ever will be, what you are to me. As Old Cy says, 'Blessings brighten as they vanish,' and now, after this long separation, one word and one smile from dear little Chip would seem priceless to me, and I shall come and try to win it before many months.

"I am here with Uncle Martin's old guide, Levi. We are going into the woods to-morrow to gather gum and trap until spring. I have hired two other men to help, and hope to do well and make some money. I think you will be glad to know that Old Cy was here this summer and was well. He does not know that you have been found, and is still hunting for you. Levi told me that the people here are much interested in you, that they have fixed up the yard where your mother is buried, and he put up a small stone.

"I wish I could hear from you, but there is no chance now. Please try to forgive a foolish boy for being stupid, and think of me as you did during those happy days by the lake. Good-bye.

"RAY."

How every word of this half-boyish, half-manly letter was read and re-read by Chip; how it woke the old memories of the wilderness and of herself, a ragged waif there; and how, somehow, in spite of pride and anger, a little thrill of happiness crept into her heart needs no explanation.

But she was not quite ready yet to forgive him, and what he failed to say when he might, still rankled in her feelings.

But Old Cy, that kindly soul, so like a father! Almost did she feel that to meet him would be worth more than to see any one else in the world. And to think he was still hunting for her, far and near!

And now, quite unlike most young ladies, who deem their love missives sacred, Chip showed hers to Aunt Abby.

"It's from Raymond Stetson," she said, rather bashfully, "a boy who was in the woods with those people who were kind to me, and we became very good friends."

"And so he was the cause of your running away from Greenvale," she said. "Why didn't you write him a note of thanks after you learned he had been searching for you? I think he deserved that much, at least."

AN ORDINANCE

For the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the following streets and parts of streets of the City of Plainfield, shall be permanently improved with durable vitrified brick pavement on concrete foundation with sand cushion and with necessary surface drains and underdrains, to be completely laid and constructed on or before the thirtieth day of November, A. D. 1907, said brick pavement and foundation and sand cushion respectively to be of the depth and width hereinafter specified and to be in every respect equal to the brick pavement on Watchung Avenue in said city, and all work to be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and only after bids therefor shall have been solicited and received according to law, all bids to specify prices for each of said streets or parts of streets separately and to offer to contract to perform all the work and furnish all the materials for the paving of one or more or all of said streets or parts of streets:

Somerset Street, from the northerly side line of Front Street to the bridge over Green Brook;

Watchung Avenue, from the southerly side line of East Front Street to the southerly side line of East Fourth Street, exclusive of the portion of said Watchung Avenue already provided with brick pavement;

Arlington Avenue, from the northerly side line of West Seventh Street to the southerly side line thereof; also from the northerly side line of West Eighth Street to the southerly side line thereof;

Sec. 2. That said streets and portions of streets described in Section 1 shall be paved for the entire width between the curb lines of said streets respectively for a depth of not less than 10¼ inches, that is to say, 5 inches concrete, 1½ inches sand and not less than 3¾ inches brick, said pavement to be extended to the side lines of said streets at each intersecting street, and shall be laid down to the grades already established by ordinance for said streets or portions of streets respectively.

Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the city do hereby, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, authorize the issuing of forty coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to Forty Thousand Dollars, which bonds shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and be payable as follows, that is to say, on the first day of September of each of the years 1910 and 1911 four bonds of $1,000 each and on the first day of September of each and every year from 1912 to 1918 both inclusive, two bonds of $1,000 each, and on the first day of September of each and every year from 1919 to 1924 both inclusive, three bonds of $1,000 each, which bonds may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and there shall be raised by tax in each year hereafter such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest on all outstanding bonds, and the principal of such bonds as may mature during that year, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds.

Sec. 4. That after said improvements shall have been completed, the Common Council shall, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Union for the appointment of Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits upon the owners of the lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, in proportion, as near as may be, to an amount equal to the amount of benefits actually acquired by the lands and real estate bordering on said streets or portions thereof respectively, by reason of such improvements respectively; and in case the costs and expenses aforesaid shall exceed the amount of said benefits, the excess thereof shall be paid by the City at large and raised by general tax; no property or owner thereof to be in any case assessed beyond the amount of benefit actually derived from said improvements.

CHAS. J. FISK, Mayor.

J. SACHAR,

731 WEST THIRD STREET.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

C. M. Neagle's drug store on West Front street, is a reliable place to purchase drugs and medicines, toilet articles, cigars and refreshing soda water.

Timbo's restaurant is still one of the leading eating houses in the State. You will always receive first-class treatment and the best meals at this hostelry.

The women folks, as well as the men will find an attractive line of goods at Putnam & DeGraw's dry goods store on West Front street, suitable for the summer season.

Dr. Clayton's famous dog medicine is now a special attraction at L. W. Randolph's pharmacy on West Front street. This is the reason for all sorts of dog troubles and the medicine is the best thing out. Look at the window display of prize-winning canines.

"Thank You" on Receipted Bills.

"A custom of politeness that is modern in the extent of its practice if not in its introduction," said a man old enough to be acquainted with ways comparatively speaking ancient "is that of writing 'Thanks' or 'Thank you' after the signature on receipted bills sent in due course on payment of accounts, a form that costs little effort on the part of the signer and that is sure to be not unpleasing to the person to whom such politeness is offered.

"Widespread is this custom in its practice now, and so in its observance not likely to be surprising, but lately there came to my attention an instance of courtesy in this form that did at first seem rather strained and excessive.

"On a receipted bill received with goods sent to me C. O. D. I found after the signature the polite 'Thank you,' and here this seemed almost superfluous, for this was a bill presented in the course of a purely transient and impersonal transaction. But a moment's reflection showed that the 'Thank you' here was neither superfluous nor excessive, but quite correct. Here it was simply the polite 'Thank you' that we would have received from the salesman if we had paid him cash for the goods at the time of their purchase."

—Miss Mary Dunham, of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett's office, is planning to spend her vacation in the Thousand Islands. She will be away two weeks.

GIVING OUT.

The Struggle Discourages Many a Citizen of Plainfield.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure backache;
Cure every kidney ill.
Here is Plainfield proof that this is so:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of 86 Summit avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I am willing to reiterate my former statement given in behalf of Doan's Kidney Pills, feeling that some other person may be benefitted thereby. I had suffered with a severe pain in the small of my back and across the hips, and if I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore. I used plasters but they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling unusually bad when my attention was called to Doan's Kidney Pills, and they were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. In a few days I felt their good effect, and when I had finished taking them I was relieved in every way. I am glad to recommend this reliable remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Corporation Notice.

PROPOSALS FOR BRICK PAVEMENT.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Common Council at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield at 8 o'clock p. m., on the fifth day of August, 1907, for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the paving contemplated in the ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with permanent and durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council July 1, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1, 1907, and as provided for in the specifications on file in the office of the Street Commissioner.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $300, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

1,400 lin. ft. curbing reset,
500 lin. ft. 3 inch drain tile,
150 lin. ft. 18 inch surface drain,
365 lin. ft. 15 inch surface drain,
250 lin. ft. 12 inch surface drain,
2 Manholes.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents thereof in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of said prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Lots selling rapidly—Prices very low—Great investment or speculative opportunities.

ARTILLERY SERGEANT IS KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Fort Hancock Soldier Crawls Under Gates at Highlands Crossing and is Fatally Hurt.

Atlantic Highlands, July 17.—Sergeant William Braningan, of the Fifty-fifth company of the Coast Artillery at Fort Hancock, on Sandy Hook, was struck Monday night by a train of the New Jersey Central Railroad at Highlands and injured so badly that he died ten minutes after he had been taken to the hospital for the soldiers at Sandy Hook.

Braningan was walking across the bridge between Highlands and Highland Beach as a train from Long Branch to Atlantic Highlands was approaching at a good rate of speed. The gates were down at the crossing near where the bridge is crossed. Braningan crawled under the gates and was struck by the train. He was hurled about twenty-five feet.

An express train from the boat was stopped with the intention of rushing the soldier to the Monmouth Memorial Hospital at Long Branch, but he was placed in an automobile and taken to the hospital at Sandy Hook. William Hortman was the engineer of the train which struck Braningan.

Boni's Divorce Appeal Dismissed.

Paris, July 17.—The appeal of Count Boni de Castellane from the decree of the Court on November 14 last, granting a divorce to the Countess Boni de Castellane (formerly Miss Anna Gould, of New York) was dismissed yesterday afternoon and a final decree of divorce duly entered. Attorney's for the Count made practically no contest.

Miss Johnson Wins at Tennis.

The results in the women's matches were by all odds the features in the tennis tournament at the Englewood Field Club, yesterday. Miss Elizabeth H. Moore, who won the national championship five times, met one of the Englewood players, Miss Roche, and was beaten after three sets. Miss Moore was quite outplayed in the first set, shut her opponent out in the second and then was easily beaten in the third. Miss Marie Wagner, the Hamilton Grange player, met with much the same sort of reverse. She played against Miss Barbara Johnson, of Plainfield. Ex-

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Margaret Carney.

Mrs. Margaret Carney, widow of Moses Carney, died at her home on Central avenue this morning, following a long illness. She had been a resident of the city for many years, living for a long time on West Third street near Liberty. She leaves five daughters, the Misses Mary, Margaret, Catherine and Sarah Carney and Mrs. Daniel McCarthy, all residents of Plainfield. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Joseph Gordon Harkins.

Joseph Gordon Harkins, the three-year-old son of Joseph Harkins, died yesterday after a brief illness. The funeral will be held at the residence of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harkins, of West Sixth street, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The service will be private.

WITTPENN SUES.

Asks Damages for Libel Because of Newspaper Criticism of His Public Acts.

Otto Wittpenn, Supervisor of Hudson county, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor of Jersey City, has begun suit in the First District Court of Jersey City against the Hoboken Observer for $300 damages for libel. The Observer is known officially as the Hoboken Printing and Publishing Company. It has been recently publishing a series of articles criticising Mr. Wittpenn for his management of county affairs, especially regarding the Paterson plank road improvement.

Mr. Wittpenn's lawyer, Warren Dixon, in a statement yesterday, said the suit was brought for a small amount in the District Court so as to have a trial before the fall election, as if it were brought in the higher courts a trial could not be secured at best before November.

Captain and Mrs. Chauncey Humphrey, of SanFrancisco, are visiting Mrs. Humphrey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, the captain having been given a furlough.

TWO DOGS AGAINST ONE.

Their Owners Mixed It Up and Court Trial Followed.

A Burnet street dog fight was the primal cause of a trial for assaullt with intent to kill and for carrying concealed weapons before Judge Booraem at New Brunswick yesterday. Morris Reisfeld swore that while he was walking along Burnet street with his dog he met William Gerber, a Burnet street grocer, with two dogs. Gerber's dogs tackled Reisfeld's dog. Reisfeld objected to two dogs against one dog, and pulled one of Gerber's dogs away. Gerber called him names and drew a revolver and then there was a mix-up.

Gerber is an orthodox Jew, and when the oath was administered to him he said that he would have to have his head covered to take it. The court rules were suspended and the witness was permitted to don his hat while he took the oath upon a Christian Bible. The grocer was acquitted of the charges.

Train Kills Elizabeth Man.

Elizabeth, July 17.—Benny Zebrowsky, of 141 Clark place, was struck Monday afternoon by a Jersey Central train near the Newark Bay bridge at Elizabethport and killed. The man was going crabbing at the time. The body was removed to Stiner's morgue. The victim was unmarried.

JR. O. U. A. M. SUES FOR CLAIM.

Insurance Dispute, Therefore, Goes Into Court.

Suit has been entered by the Marcus L. Ward Council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, No. 205, of Newark, against the Funeral Benefit Association of the United States for the recovery of a $250 death claim.

The suit was entered in Philadelphia, and is another move in the dispute that has been waging between the two organizations for some time. Nine local councils have withdrawn from the insurance society.

What Circus Riders Earn.

A man horseback rider receives from $75 to $125 a week, and his career as a principal rider lasts about ten years. It is short, not so much because these men get stiff and lose their agility, as because they lose their nerve. Nearly all circus folks marry young, and with their added responsibilities come a lively sense of constant danger which they ignored in younger days. A man rider who cannot turn a somersault on a horse cannot command more than $50 a week. A woman rider who can perform this feat gets from $150 to $200 a week if she is a finished rider.

This isn't much when all the disadvantages of the calling are taken into consideration, but it should be remembered that all the expenses are paid, including the care, feeding and of course, the transportation of their horses. All they have to provide is their own clothing. For the men riders clothes do not constitute much of a factor, and the women nearly always make their own except those provided by the management.—"The Aristocracy of the Circus," in Everybody's.

GIRL WIFE TRIES TO DIE

CHILD BRIDE UNHAPPY

Carried Carbolic Acid With Her for Four Days—Attempted Suicide Before Her Twenty-Year-Old Spouse.

Weary of life at seventeen, and of marriage after five months, Mrs. John McDonald, a slip of an Irish lass, attempted to swallow the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid before her husband, on Watchung avenue, last night. McDonald knocked the bottle from her hand, just in the nick of time.

McDonald is only three years older than his girl-wife. He was recently driver of the police patrol wagon, and is now employed as caretaker of Undertaker T. A. Moore's offices on Watchung avenue. His wife, whose maiden name was Maggie Egan, came to this country from Ireland less than a year ago, leaving her mother and father, to make her fortune in the new world. She has been employed as a nurse girl in a family on East Second street.

Her marriage with McDonald has not been a happy one. They did not live together, and Mrs. McDonald lost faith in her husband. She brooded over her troubles, and last Sunday she bought a vial of carbolic acid. With the vial in her pocket, she went to McDonald, at the undertaker's office, last night, to reproach him.

McDonald replied to her reproaches in kind. Finally, for some reason, they decided to lay their troubles before the police, and together they went to the station house at nine o'clock. Captain Frederickson was at the desk. He listened patiently to their charges and countercharges of neglect and faithlessness, and then advised them to forget the past in a new effort to make their marriage happy. They left the station house together, after promising to be "good."

Mrs. McDonald renewed her reproaches as they walked down the street. She made threats of suicide by poison, and McDonald's caution was aroused. He made a sarcastic comment on the threat, but he watched his wife sharply and was prepared to act when she suddenly pulled the vial of acid from her skirt pocket.

He sprang toward her as she jerked the cork out, and disregarding the risk of burns, he knocked the bottle from her hand. Both of Mrs. McDonald's arms and one of the husband's arms were burned, but none of the stuff touched the girl's lips. McDonald took his wife to the office, and telephoned for the police.

Patrolman Dobson took them both to the station house, where Dr. C. B. Lufburrow dressed their burns, none of which were serious. Mrs. McDonald acknowledged the attempt on her life, and was placed under arrest on a technical charge of disorderly conduct. McDonald was allowed to go.

The girl's case will be disposed of, it is expected, this afternoon. An effort may be made to have her placed in a refuge. The police say McDonald is shiftless, and not likely to provide adequate support for his wife.

QUEEN CITY LODGE INSTALLS ITS OFFICERS.

Noble grand, R. Wilson; vice grand, George R. Laird; conductor, B. Higgins; warden, G. Connors; right supporter to the noble grand, F. Welch; left supporter to the noble grand, W. Walters; right supporter to the vice grand, S. McClurg; left supporter to the vice grand, V. Borella; outside guard, G. Moorehouse, inside guard, Fred Rose; right scene supported, George Bremmer; left scene supporter, George Bennett.

After the installation the second degree was conferred on two candidates and the members then adjourned to the banquet room.

West For Recuperation.

Mrs. Lawrence R. Howard, of West Fifth street, has gone to Glencoe, Ill., to join her husband, Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, who is recuperating there for the summer. Mr. Howard broke down late in June and it will be necessary for him to have a complete rest until the fall. Extra work in connection with securing his degree of Master of Arts at Williams College in June tended to bring on the collapse for which his physician has prescribed perfect rest.

FORTUNE FOR TWO SONS

Col. Tyler's Big Estate to be Divided Between W. S. and C. B. Tyler

$10,000 FOR LIBRARY

Bequests Ranging from $500 to $1,250 for Other Relatives — Will Probated.

The will of the late Col. Mason W. Tyler, which was filed for probate in the office of Surrogate Parrott at Elizabeth on Monday, July 13, names his wife, Mrs. Eliza M. Tyler, as executrix and his sons, William S. Tyler and Cornelius Boardman Tyler, as executors, but inasmuch as Mrs. Tyler died about a year ago, the sons will act in their capacity in the direction of the will.

Col. Tyler bequeaths to his son, William S. Tyler, his sword and rifle, which he carried through the Civil War; a portrait painted by the late Colonel Julian Scott and $25,000. To his other son, Cornelius Boardman Tyler, he bequaths an artillery sword and a revolver, which he carried in the war; also $25,000, while his office equipment in New York he left to his two sons jointly. To his brothers, Henry and John Tyler, he leaves $500 each, and to the widow and children of his brother, William, he leaves $1,250 each. Mason W. Tyler and Mason Tyler Adams, namesakes, are each left $500.

The sum of $10,000 is bequeathed to the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, the income of which is to be used in the purchase of books for the institution. The residue of the property is left to his wife, Eliza M. Tyler, executrix, and his sons, William S. and Cornelius Boardman Tyler.

BOARD OF EDUCATION BUYS ANOTHER TRACT

WILL ERECT SCHOOL ON WEST FRONT STREET NEAR CLINTON AVENUE.

Confirmation of the report in circulation several weeks ago that the Plainfield Board of Education had purchased the Tyler property on West Front street, between Mariners place and Clinton avenue, was obtained today, through the Board of Assessors. Joseph A. Hubbard, chairman of the board, stated that Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh had informed him that the property in question had been purchased by the Board of Education and to exempt it from taxation.

The property was purchased for the ultimate purpose of erecting a new school building there. It has a frontage of about 300 feet and extends in depth to a point beyond Dunellen avenue. Considerable secrecy was maintained about the deal as the Board of Education was seeking to secure it at as low a figure as possible.

The need of a school in that section of the city has been apparent for sometime and hundreds of taxpayers have petitioned the Common Council and the Board of Education to locate a school there. In case this is done it is quite likely that children living at this end of Middlesex county in Piscataway Township, will attend the school, it being nearer than going to New Market or Dunellen. The Board of Education has no plans prepared for a building, neither has it decided when such a structure will be erected.

Preparing Tax List.

Borough Tax Collector George F. Brown has practically completed the work of posting up the back taxes on borough real estate for 1906, and expects to advertise the properties tomorrow. There are about twenty properties to be disposed of this year unless settlement of delinquent taxes is made before the date of sale. Last year there were more than thirty advertised. Several of the delinquent property owners have made settlements at the tax office within the week, and the advertised list may yet be lessened.

Plainfielders Going Abroad.

Among the Plainfielders who sail today on the Cedric for Europe are Thomas Callahan, of Richmond street; John Walsh, of West Seventh street; Miss Hannah Conolly, of West Eighth street, and the Misses Ella and Josephine Daley, of Richmond street. The tickets were purchased through Mulford Estil's agency.

Brown On Bail.

Frank Brown, arrested for larceny early in the week, has been released on bail in $200. Judge Atwater admitted him to bail on application by his lawyer, William G. De Meza.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE

Charles Ferdio Indicted For Killing Fred Rash, Facing Jury in Elizabeth.

NO VERDICT TODAY

Accused Man's Mother Faints in Court Room—Story of the Crime As Committed.

The homicide case of Charles Ferdio, of Elizabeth, charged with killing Fred Rash, a young man, also of that city, was moved for trial in the Union County Court, this morning, before Justice Swayze and a jury. It is hardly thought that the case will be finished today. There are two Plainfielders on the jury, John Corey and J. Stephen Higham.

An exciting incident occurred in court this morning, when Mrs. Rash, mother of the dead man, became hysterical over the proceedings, fainted away and had to be carried out of the court room, where medical aid was summoned. She was soon revived and later taken to her home.

Young Rash was fatally shot by Charles Ferdio one night the latter part of June, while the former was returning home with his parents from a call. Just as the Rashes neared their home, the son asked his father for the night key to the front door, explaining that he would go ahead and open the door. The key was handed to him and he started on a little trot for the house.

Just as he was walking up the front porch, a pistol shot was heard, coming from one corner of the house. At the same time a man was noticed running away. The elder Rash and his son started in pursuit, but had gone but a block when the latter dropped dead. Before he died he muttered some words giving the police a hint as to who did the shooting. The next morning Charles Ferdio, who is employed in one of the factories at Elizabethport, was arrested.

At the time Ferdio explained that he was on his way home and believed that someone was after him, and shot in self-defense. A peculiar feature of the affair was that it was claimed that Rash and Ferdio were unacquainted with each other.

SAYS PRODUCER GAS KILLS DOGS QUICKLY.

S. W. Rushmore Wants It Given a Trial.

S. W. Rushmore has communicated with Mayor Charles J. Fisk, in reference to the method employed in killing stray dogs. He explains that the arrangements at his works are not complete and that when they are he feels sure that it will furnish practically a painless death to canines.

The gas tank, Mr. Rushmore says, was hurriedly put up and a small pipe was temporarily run to it, it being understood that a large two inch pipe would be used. He explains that the howling complained of Dr. Davis when he witnessed a test was due to the reflex action which always occurs after an animal becomes unconscious. When the two inch pipe is installed it will furnish the deadly producer gas or carbon monoxide for the tank at a high pressure.

Mr. Rushmore says that he will be glad to go ahead and complete the plant and kill the stray dogs in the shortest possible time, if it meets with the approval of Mr. Fisk and others interested. It will cost him about $100 to fit up the death-killing plant, but this he is willing to do so that canines may be put out of the way in as humane a manner as possible.

In explaining the method, Mr. Rushmore says that the producer gas is practically odorless, extremely poisonous and causes unconsciousness almost instantly. When properly equipped the gas can be sent into the tank at the rate of several hundred cubic feet per minute.

Mayor Fisk was much impressed with Mr. Rushmore's letter and he arranged with Dr. T. S. Davis to visit the Rushmore Dynamo Works, this afternoon, for the purpose of holding a conference with him and learning exactly what he proposes to do. Mr. Fisk feels that if what Mr. Rushmore says is true, and he says that it seems extremely practical, it will be wise to continue the present method.

Several Bids Expected.

While all the street paving concerns throughout the country are unusually busy at this time of the year, the street committee expect to receive a number of bids for the brick paving contract to be completed by November 30. There are several well-known brick paving firms who are almost sure to submit figures and they have the facilities for doing the work expeditiously.

PARDON COURT LENIENT

Galbraith and Wallace Both Let Out of State's Prison on Parole.

MANY OTHERS TOO

Eighty-three Petitions Are Refused By Board In Session at Sea Girt.

The Court of Pardons yesterday, which met at Sea Girt, was not at all lenient with the 111 petitions for pardons which came before the members. But twenty-eight were granted parole, including John J. Galbraith, of this city, who was convicted in February, 1906, of criminal assault on little girls and sentenced to three years' imprisonment, and Lawrence Wallace, of this city, who was also convicted in February, 1906, of breaking and entering the Scotch Plains hotel and sentenced to three years' imprisonment. J. J. Galbraith was represented by W. L. Hetfield, Sr., and Wallace by John P. Owens.

The Rev. J. Frank Cordova, of South River, who eloped with a member of his choir, was refused a parole, and the applications of Andrew J. Campbell and George J. Kerr, of Passaic, the Bosscheiter murderers, were turned down. William Malcolm, the embezzling builder and loan association man, of Passaic, was also coldly turned down for parole.

Following is a list of petitions refused, laid over and granted in Union and Somerset counties:

SOMERSET COUNTY

Agostino Grippaldi, convicted of assault with intent to kill, 1906; term of sentence, eighteen months; dismissed.

Pietro Prissaciando, convicted of assault with intent to kill, November 1906; term of sentence, one year; paroled.

Filippo Palmisano, convicted of assault with intent to kill, November, 1906; term of sentence, one year; paroled.

UNION COUNTY.

John Galbraith, convicted of indecent assault, February, 1906; term of sentence, three years; paroled.

Thomas Holland, convicted of carnal abuse of infant, February, 1906; term of sentence, two years; dismissed.

Nathaniel Harvey, convicted of breaking and entering, etc., November, 1906; term of sentence, one year; dismissed.

Antonio Jeanetto, convicted of murder, March, 1904; term of sentence, seven years; dismissed.

John J. Robinson, convicted of rape, September, 1901; term of sentence, fifteen years; dismissed.

Alfred P. Smalley, convicted of breaking, entering and stealing, November, 1905; sentence, five years; petition withdrawn.

Lawrence Wallace, convicted of breaking and entering, February, 1906; term of sentence, three years; paroled.

OUT OF TOWN GUESTS AT TRUELL HALL.

Much Social Life at Netherwood Resort Despite Torrid Weather.

The regular Wednesday evening informal dance was patronized by about two score guests and Plainfielders at Truell Hall last evening. Friday there will be a dramatic entertainment at the Hall in the evening.

Among the out of town guests registered at the Hall at present are:

HELLO BILL; HOW 'BOUT YE

Quaker City Invaded by 250,000 Antlered Host Has Biggest Day in Its History.

PARADE, GREATEST YET

Plainfield Elks Witness the Pageant —Having High Old Time in Philadelphia Today.

Philadelphia's gain is Plainfield's loss. All the activity of North avenue and Front street has been swallowed up by Chestnut street, Broad street and the byways of Quakertown. From a cursory glance after the Elk delegation went this morning, it appeared to a Press reporter that the only celebrity left in town was Mayor Fisk.

All the familiar figures in the business section are at or near the banks of the Schuylkill. The Plainfield pilgrim in Philadelphia is apt to run across familiar figures almost anywhere today.

Most of the Elks went down for a gambol. Between gambols they will look on the tall buildings and the street cars, which are said to run. This marvel will claim much attention from those who have heard the Philadelphia legend from the lips of New Yorkers for many years.

"The Greatest Parade in the World," comprising 15,000 Elks, massed from north, south, east and west, started from Board and Diamond streets at 10 o'clock this morning. The weather was humid and sticky, and showers threatened, but all this had no effect on the B. P. O. E. enthusiasm, and the long line, which takes four hours to pass a given point, was viewed by 250,000 visitors and Quaker City people, young and old. Music for the paraders was furnished by the pick of America's bands, headed by the big concert band of Arthur Pryor, and including sixty-five musicians composing the El Paso, Texas, Mexican band, with the leading regimental bands of Philadelphia, New Jersey and New York. Yesterday morning there was a parade of the bands, with over a thousand musicians in line. Leader William F. Jocher, acting as conductor for all the musicians, led them in the chorus rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner" at the conclusion of the parade.

Many prizes were offered for the costumes and appearance of the lodges in line today. Lodges uniformed as Mexicans, "greasers," sailors, and in all combinations of odd, parti-colored costumes competed for these prizes, which total to thousands of dollars. There were individual prizes, too, for the oldest, fattest, leanest, tallest and shortest of the lodgemen.

Mingled with the jollity and show of "Elks' Week" are the business meetings. Yesterday was "Election Day" for the national offices of the brotherhood, and nine officers were elected after hot and enthusiastic polling by the thousands of lodgemen.

Philadelphia is royally entertaining her guests, and visiting Elks will find a program of attractions in its city papers each day.

MISS MARY E. MARTINE DIES AT CEDAR BROOK.

Sister of Democratic Leader Succumbs to Long Illness; Funeral Saturday.

Following an illness of more than two years' duration, Miss Mary Elizabeth Martine, sister of James E. Martine, died this morning, at four o'clock, at Cedar Brook, the family homestead. Miss Martine was the third daughter of the late Daniel and Anna Martine.

All her life was spent in this city. She was born at Cedar Brook. Of a most lovable and unselfish nature, she was extremely popular in a wide circle of friends. She was an earnest and active Christian, a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Another brother beside the Democratic leader, D. W. Martine, and two sisters, Mrs. William W. Myers and Miss Ella L. Martine, of this city, survive her. The funeral service will be held at Cedar Brook, Saturday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock.

Anti-Saloon Meeting Tonight.

Assemblymen Perkins, Moxon and Tillman have been invited to meet the people of Plainfield at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium to night at 8 o'clock when Messrs. Burke and Curtis, superintendent and general representative of the Anti-Saloon League, will speak on the "Local Option Bill." These three Assemblymen will be given an opportunity to defend their position and answer why they voted against the people's measure last winter. Good music. Ladies' invited. Admission free. Previous to the meeting a stereopticon exhibition will be given in the street.

ESTATE GOES TO WIDOW

After Mrs. Lederer's Death, Husband's Big Fortune Will be Divided Among Children.

PLACED AT $100,000

Sons Are Given But $10 Outright But Will Get Bulk of Property When Their Mother Dies.

James C. Pope and Martin Mantz, the latter a brother-in-law, as executors, filed for probate the will of Isaac Lederer in the office of Surrogate Parrot, Elizabeth, yesterday. Mr. Lederer died at Carlsbad, Austria, on June 21. The estate approximately amounts to $100,000.

The will bequeaths to Mr. Lederer's sons, Albert M. and Arthur W. Lederer, the sum of $10 each, and to his sister, Miss Josephine Lederer, of Bohemia, $200. His property at 62 Craig place is left to his wife and the balance of the estate is left in trust for his wife during her life time or so long as she remains a widow, and if that is not sufficient to meet her needs the principal is to be used.

Upon the death of Mrs. Lederer the estate is to be divided into three parts, to be divided equally among the two sons, Albert M. and Arthur W. Lederer, and the daughter, Miss Josephine Lederer, the share of the daughter to be held in trust for her during her life. The executors are given power to sell property and they are not required to furnish bonds.

In addition to the property at No. 62 Craig place, which is left to Mrs. Lederer, there is also the business property on West Front street, leased by Levy Brothers, which belongs to the estate.

ATTACHMENT OF PIPE SUPPLIED FOR SEWER

FOUNDRY CO. PROTECTS ITSELF AGAINST LOSS THROUGH CUSACK.

The latest development in the adjustment of claims against Peter Morgan, who had the contract for the sewer extension, was the action by the Warren Foundry Co., who have secured writs of attachment on the pipe supplied by them for the job. The pipe, which is valued at $8,000, was attached yesterday by Sheriff Lawrence, through Reed and Coddington, local attorneys for the Warren Foundry Co. It is piled at intervals along Arlington avenue and Randolph road where the sewer is to be laid. The action is taken by the Warren Foundry Co. as security for the value of the pipe supplied by them for the contract.

Since the disappearance of Thomas J. Cusack, the resident contractor for Peter Morgan, to whom the sewer extension contract was awarded by the city, little definite has been done toward making plans for the continuation of the work. The bond for the contract, amounting to $5,000, was furnished by the Metropolitan Surety Co., and Mr. DeLany, representing them, has been in this city to size up the situation from a contractor's standpoint. It is probable that this company will undertake the contract and that the job will be completed under the firm's supervision. The unpaid Italian laborers have not been able to realize a settlement of their claims for wages, though their counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., is pushing matters as quickly as possible for a settlement.

H. C. Baker, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., will be in this city tomorrow afternoon to confer with Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett about a settlement of losses by Cusack's disappearance. He represents Peter Morgan, the contractor.

Lad's Condition Precarious.

The condition of Louis Meyer, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer, of Scotch Plains, is still precarious. The lad shot himself in the hand on July 4 and while the injury was promptly attended to by County Physician Westcott, young Meyer's condition grew steadily worse. An operation was performed yesterday by Dr. Hedges, but, while the lad was reported as better today, the chances for his recovery are slight until the crisis is past.

Prosecutor To Wed.

Prosecutor John Franklin Reger, of Somerset county, is to become a benedict. Today invitations were issued for his wedding to Miss Mary Quick Durling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel McPherson Durling, of Raritan. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday, August 1, at 5 o'clock, and nearly 100 invitations have been sent out.

RANDOLPH PERKINS AN AMBITIOUS MAN

As Stepping Stone to Senatorial and Congressional Honors He Wants a Fourth Term in Assembly.

PETER TILLMAN, TOO

Custom Has Been Two Terms Only —Parrot a Sure Thing For Renomination.

How to sidetrack Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, is the problem which is worrying the regular Republicans even more than how to keep cool these days for it is known that the Republican leader in the House is ambitious and as a stepping stone to future preferment wants to hold on to his seat in the Assembly for another term. As the story goes "on the inside," the railroad tax law man has his eyes on Senator Ernest R. Ackerman's berth and ultimately would not refuse the Charles N. Fowler sinecure. Organization men who are close to the throne of the political masters say that they are absolutely certain that these are the plans mapped out for himself by the Westfielder. Mr. Perkins, however, has not been as obedient as some might have wished, it is said, and that that is the real reason why efforts are being arranged to retire him. The chief excuse given against his renomination for the Assembly is that he has already had three terms in the House and that Union county's precedent has been to allow a good man only two terms. Another objection made by the regulars is that Mr. Perkins would not be acceptable to "the new idea" in New Jersey politics and that his course has frequently offended those who espouse government "of, by and for the people." Advantage is being taken also of his stand in favor of the suspension of the auto law to allow the cup race in Union county. The regulars themselves do not care a rap whether the race is held but they know that Mr. Perkins has misrepresented his constituents in advocating it and have eagerly seized upon the fact to make capital. Still another thing that will be used against him is that he has given affront to the local option people. This, however, is considered as making a mountain out of a mole hill for very few people in Union county are local option agitators.

Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Raahway, is quoted as saying that he would like to go back to Trenton if his colleague, Mr. Perkins, is given a like opportunity. Now Tillman is better in the graces of the regulars but the same rule applies to him for the Rahway man is also filling his third term. But with the masses who have the better idea in government, Mr. Tillman does not loom up so well as Perkins, because of their respective attitudes in the recent Senatorial contest, Union county at that time being strongly opposed to Mr. Dryden's candidacy. The third man, Assemblyman Moxon, is not popular with the voters who were under the leadership of Plainfield's popular judge, William N. Runyon, in the last campaign for from the first the Elizabethan was an out and out Dryden supporter. The organization men, however, declare that there is not the least opposition to him and that he will be sent back inasmuch as he has held but one term. Moxon has cut little figure in the Assembly and the voters wtill have to rely on the People's Lobby for his bill of health.

In addition to three assemblymen to be selected, a surrogate and a coroner will be named this fall. As George Parrot, who is ever personal grata in Union county, has a recognized life tenure in the office which he has ably filled for many years, it is extremely unlikely that there will be any change in that office. The coronership will probably go abegging.

Mrs. Carney's Funeral.

The funeral service of Mrs. Margaret Carney, widow of the late Moses Carney, who died yesterday, will be held from her late residence, 303 Central avenue, Friday morning, at 8.30 o'clock and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock, where a solemn requiem mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Stella Wilkinson, of South Bound Brook, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Daniel Shields, of New York.

WESTFIELD.

Chairman Hiram Fink, of the Sewer Committee of the Westfield Council, reports that in getting the right of way to carry Westfield sewage from the disposal beds around the new reservoir he has encountered only one person who flatly refused to allow the pipe to be placed through his property. This refusal holds up the entire affair. In answer to a letter from the council asking permission to run its sewer pipe under the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the railroad replied that upon receipt of check for $10 it would investigate the matter and answer the letter.

The contract for building sewers in Osborn avenue and Downer street has been awarded to Eugene W. Chamberlin. The price for the work in both streets is $1,880.

An ordinance to regulate buildings has been passed on the first reading by the council.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

It is reported that Manager Frank Burke, of the Elizabethport Stars, has made arrangements to sell his franchise to John Reuter, of Elizabeth, the former having engaged in a more lucrative business.

The Readings, of the Atlantic League, will play the Invaders at Elizabeth on Sunday.

There are reports that some of the amateur league teams contemplate strengthening up and that there will be several "ringers in" secured. It would be well for the officials to keep their eyes open.

The Laurels, of Bound Brook, will use every effort to defeat the Y. M. C. A. Saturday, and the local team will take advantage of every opportunity to retain their hold on second position.

There seems to be but little doubt but that the Clinton Avenues will score another victory on Saturday at Crescent Oval, when they meet the Raritans, yet one never can tell what will happen.

Seery, the backstop for the Elizabeth Invaders, is making a fine record this season, his throwing to bases being especially good.

Manager Neubeck, of the Elizabeth Invaders, is out for two new pitchers and says that if he lands them they will be a surprise to the fans.

Manager McGraw has secured Tom McCarthy, the crack twirler of the Newark Eastern League team, for next season, giving a money consideration and Mullen in return.

"Red" Waller has joined the Brooklyn Atlantic League team and the auburn top twirler is delivering the goods in large bunches. Brooklyn will play in Elizabeth August 5.

"Billy" Gilbert is holding down the middle station in great shape for the Trenton Tri-State League club, and is also hitting them out some, too.

GOLF.

H. H. Barker, of the Huddersfield Club, Yorkshire, Eng., has accepted an engagement as professional at the Salisbury Plains links, Garden City, which is to be opened on September 1. He has always been an amateur abroad and this year was the winner of the Irish open amateur championship. He has been running a timber business at Huddersfield, which he has turned over to his father. Barker is described as a fine player of unassuming manners who will be greatly missed in Yorkshire amateur golf.

Judging by those who have thus far scored a leg on the Scratch cup at the Plainfield Country Club, there will be a fine field to play off at the end of the season for the trophy. It will include a majority of the crack players of the club.

Americans who visit the Isle of Wight will find Willie Dunn in charge of the nine hole course there, situated on the Luccombe estate. This is a picturesque site between Shankin Chine and the Landslip, easy of access from Shanklin, Ventnor and Bonchurch.

Park Commissioner Berry has taken an active interest in Van Cortlandt Park and the public links is in better condition than in several seasons. The professionals to play in the annual tournament there on August 1 and 2 are to send a committee to the Park Commissioner urging a special preparation of the course for their competition, for as the scores are wired all over the United States they are anxious to make low ones and do not want to be handicapped by rough greens. July 30 and 31 will be devoted to an amateur tournament, and August 1 and 2 will be solely for the professionals.

Aleck Smith is back at Nassau. His first match in the near future will be between Jerome D. Travers and himself against W. J. Travis and Gaudin, the Garden City Golf Club professional. It will be a home and home four ball match, thirty-six holes, at Nassau, and the same at Garden City.

W. W. Warner has won the McClement cup, for which the qualifying round was played on July 4 at the Marine and Field Club. He beat Putnam in the final by 4 and 2. Warner also won the July handicap, 88, 10—78. Play for the foursome cups presented by Biddle and Sawyer is in progress, the four pairs still in being beginning Monday, July 15th, continuing for the balance of the month, we shall dispose of a large number of practically new Upright Pianos at remarkably low prices and terms.

A large number of these instruments have been taken as part payment on our Euterpe Piano Player; many have been used but a short time on rent; altogether they are a very fine collection of instruments which may be purchased for from one-half to one-third value.

We will also include in this SALE a number of Square Pianos and Organs, some of which we will mark as low as $10.00, none higher than $45.00. These are all of well known and standard makes which we have taken in as part payment on our Mathushek & Son Pianos with Duplex Sounding Board. Hundreds of buyers in this vicinity have been convinced of their durability and superiority above all others.

We are always pleased to explain and demonstrate to the prospective buyer WHY the Duplex Sounding Board is more durable and in every way superior to the common sounding board that invariably split and with ribs that loosen and rattle.

Artistic Originality in Dress

The best-dressed woman is she into whose costume enters a touch of individuality—of originality if you choose.

A woman instinctively knows this but shrinks from the effort to model her own gowns because of the trouble it involves.

It is a mechanism that makes a single thread chain-stitch and its Simplicity, Ease of Operation and Excellence of Work commend it to all who wish to express their artistic sense in the nature of a beautiful wardrobe.

Dressmaking is a pleasure if a Singer be used.

25 PER CENT. ON ALL MEN'S CLOTHES.

The prompter you buy the longer you will have your suit to wear, and the longer you delay the less wear you will get out of it this season; besides, the earlier you come to pick a suit or a coat, a vest or a pair of trousers, the b estselection you have to choose from.

Remember that this reduction of 25 per cent. is from the present marked prices, so that even though reductions have been made since the season opened, this 25 per cent. is made from the reduced prices.

There is no monkey business about this sale! The regular price tickets remain on every piece of clothing, so that you can figure for yourself what one-fourth off will save you.

The quality and character of the clothing we sell is well known to be of the best, in some particulars surpassing the custom-made clothing. You may pick any suit you like from these tables full of fashionable clothes, and get it at just a quarter less than the fairly marked figures.

Suits marked $10, at $7.50; $15 ones at $11.25; $20 ones at $15, and so on.

$1 Trousers may be had for 75c; $3 Trousers, at $2.25—on up to $10 ones, which will go at $7.50.

INDUSTRIAL ATMOSPHERE.

The American Institute of Social Service has received from Berlin an exhibit containing forty-five specimens of different kinds of dust—mineral, animal, and vegetable—produced in various industries, and likely to be inhaled by workmen. Also the same number of photographs showing the microscopical characteristics of these various dusts. Models in wax represent human lungs as they are effected by occupational dusts; other models show normal lungs for comparison, while still others show the effects of industrial poisons on the system.

An advisory committee of the editors of the great technical papers has been organized to co-operate with the institute in the work of protecting life and limb of industrial workers.

THE LAST RESORT.

As previously stated by the Daily Press there does not appear to be any likehood that the Senate will commit the folly of passing the bill shoved through the house with the aid of Assemblyman Perkins to suspend the Frelinghuysen lay for the Vanderbilt Cup race. But should it make that blunder and the Governor be short-sighted enough to sign it, and we do not believe we will, the law will be unconstitutional.

The amendment in question sets forth that "the authorities have charge of roads, streets or highways of the several counties are hereby authorized to designate and set apart a highway or highways to be used at such times or times as may be appointed by the said authorities having charge of the roads, streets or highways," and that "they are authorized to restrict the use of said highway or highways on certain days or parts of days in cluded within the above described period to the purposes of said contest and the trials and elimination tests preliminary and incident thereto."

As the Constitution of New Jersey provides that the Legislature shall not pass any special law permitting the vacating or restricting of any highway, road or street, it is not believed that much time would be lost in having such a law declared unconstitutional.

In his last testament filed for probate yesterday at Elizabeth, Col. Mason W. Tyler provided that after his death the Plainfield Public Library should further partake of the bounties it had enjoyed while he was its mainstay. During the time he was the responsible head of the splendid institution, that public spirited citizen was one of its most liberal benefactors, and now that he can no longer be its guiding spirit, the handsome sum of $10,000 is bequeathed for its benefit.

BLAMES CENTRAL RAILROAD.

Coroner's Jury Says Crossing at Which Paterson Autoist Lost Life Was Unguarded.

Affirming in its verdict that neither a watchman nor an electric bell properly protected the Stone road crossing of the Central Railroad of New Jersey when Christopher Borandt was killed and four others injured there, the coroner's jury at Keyport yesterday found the accident was due to these causes. The death of Borandt, who was a wealthy silk manufacturer of Paterson, occurred July 7 last, when an automobile he was driving was struck by a special train.

After Coroner Tetley had questioned many witnesses the jury retired and in half an hour brought in the verdict.

UNCLE SAM AS UNDERTAKER.

Buried a Man Who Was Murdered on Site of New Post Office.

It is not often that the United States government plays the role of undertaker, but it did so a few days ago in Macon, Ga., says the Baltimore American. Two laborers employed on the new post office under construction in that city got into a fight last week and one of them was fatally shot. The premises on which the tragedy occurred being government property, the municipal authorities declined to remove the body and prepare it for burial, on the theory that it might prove embarrassing sometime in the future to complicate local affairs with those distinctly federal. The custodian in his quandary telegraphed to the treasury department, stated the situation and asked for instructions. He was directed to remove the remains, inter them and send the bill to the department. He followed instructions, and the other day rendered the bill, which amounted to $114, among the specified items being one of five dollars "for carriage for the widow." Accompanying the bill was a letter narrating in detail the circumstances of the case and containing the following somewhat startling paragraph: "I am inclosing voucher for burial of a man who was murdered in the building under my charge in accordance with your instructions and authority in telegram dated 18th inst." One not familiar with the circumstances might feel justified in assuming that the murder was perpetrated under the directions of the treasury, but the officials solemnly affirm that they were not accessories before the fact and that there was no conspiracy to assassinate one of its employes.

IN FAR OFF MARS.

While the people on the planet of Mars are supposed to be vastly superior in every way to the inhabitants of this earth, according to Prof. Lester F. Ward, of Brown university, they have only about 1,000,000 more years to live, while the people of this world are only beginning their allotted space of 24,000,000 years.

Thirst will kill the Martians, the professor says, and even now it is dry time perpetually up there. Most of the waters that once covered everything have vanished in the same way that this planet is all the while losing hydrogen, one of the two components of water. This process has proceeded so far on Mars that most of the liquid refreshment of its inhabitants, assuming it has such, is confined to narrow circles about the two poles. It is made available for the uses of the Martians only by means of an intricate network of canals.

"On Mars we can, as it were, see with our own eyes a race of vast antiquity and supreme wisdom, clinging desperately to the orb that bore it, half gasping for breath, and hoarding every drop of its precious water, but doomed in the relatively near future to face the lingering death of a dying world."

This gloomy picture, Prof. Ward says, is in store for the people of this earth, but there is no need of worry at the present time, as it is 24,000,000 years distant.

Largest Building Stone.

The walls of the Acropolis at Baalbek are truly called Cyclopean. The famous Trilithon, the largest stones ever used in building, measure respectively 65, 64 and 63 feet in length, each block weighing about 750 tons. How these huge masses were accurately placed in position 20 feet above the ground is a problem which modern science, with all its appliances leaves yet unsolved.

Above them are Arab fortifications. The quarries whence these gigantic materials were obtained are among the most interesting features of Baalbek. Here may still be seen the method of work of the ancient quarrymen, stones vertically hewn lying almost ready to the hand of the builder. One of these stones, to which the Arabs give the name Hajar-el-Huobla, measures 69 feet in length and weighs 915 tons.

M. de Saulcy calculates it would take the united efforts of 40,000 men to put this huge block in motion. This quarry is now used as a necropolis by the inhabitants of Baalbek.—Sunday at Home.

Chinese Minister's American Ways.

The Chinese minister to the United States, Sir Chentung Liancheng, is a graduate of Andover and Yale. He is a devotee of baseball, and often attends the games. A good player himself, he often is the chief figure in a most unique picture, when playing, his skirts tucked up, with his two small boys and their little friends. Tennis, too, has been a great favorite with the minister, while he is also very much devoted to horseback riding. These last two accomplishments are rather rare among orientals.

SCHOOL TROUBLE ENDED.

Building for Primary Pupils Will Be Built By Berkeley Heights Board of Education.

The controversy over the public schools at Berkeley Heights is now settled, or as good as settled, and as a result a building for the accommodation of primary pupils will be erected on the north side of the railroad tracks. While the avowed purpose of the advocates of the new school building was to relieve the crowded condition of the school, the real purpose was to take from the school the younger pupils of Italian parentage, who come from a thickly populated colony on the north side of the tracks. The number of Italian pupils in the lower primary grades has increased so rapidly of late that it has been more or less of a problem to handle them.

An Italian young woman, a former graduate of the Berkeley Heights School, who has successfully passed the teacher's examinations, Miss Theresa Carluccio, will probably be installed as teacher. The new school will be built of rock-faced cement blocks manufactured near the site, and as the work will be started at once, it is expected to have it ready when school opens in the fall.

DENTISTS IN SESSION.

Annual State Convention Now Being Held at Asbury Park.

Nearly one thousand dentists were at the Beach auditorium at Asbury Park yesterday morning for the opening session of the thirty-seventh annual meeting of the New Jersey State Dental Society. Many new members registered last night. The opening session was devoted entirely to the annual address by President M. R. Brinkman, D. D. S., of Hackensack.

The afternoon was given to exhibitors. The convention will adjourn Friday evenin. Present officers are Dr. M. R. Brinkman, of Hackensack, president; Dr. Walter Woolsey, of Elizabeth, vice president; Dr. Chas. A. Meeker, of Newark, secretary; Dr Henry A. Hull, of New Brunswick, treasurer.

NEW VOTING MANAGERS

Robert H. McAdams and George Stewart the Lucky Ones In Union County.

With the exception of the Republicans in Atlantic and Somerset counties Gov. Stokes has appointed the members of the various county election boards. Each election board consists of four members, two Republicans and two Democrats, and one member of each party retires each year. Those to be appointed by the Governor are nominated by the State chairman of the respective parties. The appointments must be made in July each year, under the election law.

The two counties in which appointments have not been made will be taken care of as soon as the nominations are filed by State Chairman Frank O. Briggs. The appointments follow:

Democrats—Atlantic, Louis A. Reppetto; Bergen, William Ely; Burlington, Henry P. Savage; Camden, Gottlieb C. Mick; Cape May Michael T. Kearns; Cumberland, John Ogden; Essex, Edward Hart; Gloucester, Thomas C. Dilkes; Hudson, Thomas F. A. Griffin; Hunterdon, George Snyden; Mercer, Anthony S. Brennan; Middlesex, Oliver P. Kelly; Monmouth, Charles E. Conover; Morris, George C. Smith; Ocean, Edward T. Francis; Passaic, Frank M. Forbes; Salem, William B. Jones; Somerset, John H. Mattison; Sussex, Robert F. Smith; Union Robert H. McAdams; and Warren, T. Stewart White.

ANTI-SMOKE OUT OF SMOKE.

Aldermen Puff Big Cigars As They Pass Ordinance.

The passing by the Jersey City Board of Aldermen of the ordinance creating what is facetiously dubbed the "Department of Smoke," has more or less stirred up smokers of pipes and stogies because of the penalties prescribed for sending forth clouds of sooty or ill-flavored smoke. The ordinance was designed principally by the Democrats to obviate the soft coal smoke nuisance in factories. But smokers see in the ordinance a possible penalty for smoking common stogies and low priced tobaccos in pipes in public conveyances and even in their homes.

Almost every working man smokes a pipe and the greater number of business, professional and mercantile men, and even politicians, puff cigars at frequent intervals during the day. All these are voters. It is believed by many that Mayor Fagan will veto the ordinance. The big assembly chamber in the City Hall was well filled with the smoke of cigars emitted by the Aldermen when the ordinance was passed.

Jersey Merchant Boom Silzer.

At the semi-annual convention of the New Jersey Retail Merchants' Association, at New Brunswick yesterday, the appointment by the state of inspectors of gas and electric light meters and also of the establishment of a State standard of quality for gas was favored. A resolution was adopted indorsing Senator Silzer, of Middlesex, for Governor.

HENRY'S TASK.

"Henry, dear," said Mrs. Newbride to her husband the other morning, "I wish, if it won't be too much trouble, dear, that you'd bring me home a yard of orange ribbon this evening.

"I don't want it so very wide or so very narrow; something between an inch and an inch and a half, or at most an inch and three-quarters, will be about right.

"Be sure and get a pretty shade of orange, dear; and I'd prefer it with one side satin and the other grosgrain, although all satin or all grosgrain will do; but I think you can easily get the other if you look about a little; and be sure, dear, not to get picquet-edged ribbon, but one with just a plain corded edge; and don't get a remnant; and don't get any shade but orange; not a real vivid orange, either, but a piece that will look well with pale green; and don't pay too much for it; and don't get red, or blue, or green, or pink by mistake. You won't forget, will you, dear? I must have the ribbon tonight."

Was it any wonder that when the dazed Henry came home he brought three yards of sky-blue watered ribbon, or that, when his wife saw it, she sank into a chair and gasped out:

"Why—Henry—Newbride!"

Longfellow Vindicated.

The man with the bills was making his eleventh call upon the portrait painter.

"You'll have to come again," said the latter, with a sadly humorous smile. "You know the poet says 'Art is long.'"

"Yes, sir," responded the bill collector, in a high keyed voice; "and he says also that 'time is fleeting!' All the time I've got to spare to you, sir, has fleeted. Now you dig up, or the next time I come I'll bring an attachment writ!"

In Dramatic Form.

"What a great mouth you have, grandma," she faltered.

"Oh, dear, yes," replied the wolf. "That is so the playwright can put more epigrams in it."

"And not the better to eat me up?" quoth the child, shaking off the old tradition but hardly.

"Bless you, no! Anyway, not as long as the public taste demands the happy ending."—Life.

AN IGNORANT DOG.

Brown (the other side of the fence)—He's only playing. You know a barking dog never bites.

To give than to receive.
'Tis likewise more expensive,
I've reason to believe.

QUARRELLED WITH WIFE AND KILLED THE DOG

ARRESTED AND FIND $15—HELPMATE PRODUCES CASH.

Killing his dog because he quarrelled with his wife cost Sydney Carrick $15 in the Verona police court yesterday. The complaint was made by Lewis A. Teed, an agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

According to the testimony, Mr. and Mrs. Carrick had a quarrel, and the husband said he would take everything and leave home. The dog he said he would kill. This he proceeded to do, it was said, by pouring carbolic acid down the animal's throat. Death came slowly, and Carrick, returning, tried to save its life by administering milk and butter, but the dog died.

Carrick in his own defence said that the dog was fifteen years old, without a tooth, and was worthless. He said he had tried to kill it humanely and had no intention of causing it to suffer. Mr. and Mrs. Carrick have been living apart since the incident happened, but Mrs. Carrick appeared in court and paid her husband's fine, and the two left together, pledging each other not to quarrel again.

MIDDLESEX FREEHOLDER OUT-FISHED EX-PRESIDENT.

Fishing circles in New Brunswick are gossiping about the way Freeholder A. Mundy won the fishing championship of New Jersey, if not of the United States, from ex-President Grover Cleveland, of Princeton. Mr. Cleveland himself acknowledged to Mr. Mundy that he had beaten him. It happened several days ago, and Mr. Mundy's modesty has kept it a secret for some time, but others knew of it and let it leak out. It happened this way:

Mr. Mundy, Deputy Sheriff William Oberman, of Deans, and William Stults, of Monmouth Junction, were invited over to Princeton to fish in a private lake. They had a fine day's sport, all making good catches, but Mr. Mundy easily led with nine bass and a pike. One of the bass weighed five pounds. When the fish of the party were put together they made as fine a string as was ever taken from New Jersey fresh water.

On their way back to the station the party had to walk up the street on which Mr. Cleveland's residence is located. The ex-President was standing at his gate talking to a neighbor, and when he saw the Middlesex fishermen half a block away he dived into his pocket for his glasses to see their string. He asked them where they caught them. When he heard of the pond he declared:

"That is remarkable. I have fished many times in that pond and never had such luck as that. I must congratulate you."

AUTOS KILL 9 AND MAIM 34 IN MASS. IN 4 WEEKS.

Boston, July 18—Nine pedestrians have lost their lives and thirty-four have been injured as the result of automobile accidents in Massachusetts within the past twenty-six days, according to statistics compiled and made public today by the Safe Roads Automobile Association. During the twenty-six days there have been ninety-two collisions, in which automobiles have figured. The investigations conducted by the association show that out of sixteen cases looked into, the operator was to blame for thirteen. Convinced that radical measures must be adopted if these accidents are to be stopped, the association have offered rewards for conviction of operators who do not leave their names after an accident, and have also offered to reward evidence which shall secure the conviction of persons operating automobiles while under suspension or after revocation of their licenses. Evidence leading to the conviction of persons attaching numbers to vehicles other than those to which the numbers have been assigned will also be rewarded by the association.

ANXIOUS ABOUT THEIR PAY.

No Remuneration Has Been Made for the Election Held at Kenilworth Borough.

The four members of the Second district election board and the township clerk of Cranford are wondering whence their pay is to come for holding a special election for the borough of Kenilworth. This made effective the bill incorporating the borough. They presented their bills to the Board of Freeholders for payment, but were refused, as there were no funds applicable to the payment of the bills.

It is said that the County Board of Elections demanded a deposit of $300 to cover expenses, but the money was never deposited with County Collector Leavitt, who also is attorney for the Kenilworth company. A lawyer has advised the officials to poll their claims and sue the Kenilworth Realty Company for their money, to determine who is responsible for the payment of the bills.

Township Clerk Warner will have to pay the expenses for setting up booths, rent of the hall and printing of the ballots and stationery, amounting to $100, out of his own pocket, as the Township Committee refuses to bear the expense. As he was only appointed to the office July 1, at a salary of $50 a month, the first two months' salary will be used up paying the bills. He threatens to resign if some one cannot be found to pay the bills.

DISTANCE NO HINDRANCE TO CUPID IN THIS CASE.

The mere fact that seventeen hundred miles of country separated them made no difference in the love affairs of Miss Florence Ball Shields, of No. 282 Fulton street, Paterson, and John R. Van Houten, of the 4J Ranch, Wyoming. Last night their four years' acquaintance resulted in their marriage. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's brother, in Ridgewood.

Miss Shields first met Mr. Van Houten more than four years ago at a dance. Young Van Houten later decided to go West to seek his fortune. Love letters were frequent between them, and finally their engagement was announced and the wedding date was set. Young Van Houten returned some time ago to make preparations for the wedding, but he and his bride will return to Wyoming, where they will live.

The bride is the daughter of George C. Shields, a grocer of Paterson. The bridegroom, who is twenty-three years old, is the son of Aaron Van Houten, of Paterson.

THIS NICKEL HAS TRAVELED.

Trenton Jeweler Gets It Back Twice In Sixteen Years.

William H. Williams, a jeweler of Trenton, sixteen years ago engraved his name and address on the edge of a new nicket, and it went into general circulation. Six years later it was returned to him from a minister at Utica, N. Y. Once again Mr. Williams received the nickel back for the second time. It had traveled half way across the continent and this time came from Trinidad, Col.

It was returned by J. E. Findlay, auditor of the Trinidad Electric Railway Company. In acknowledging its receipt Mr. Williams sent a handsome stick pin to the lady cashier of the company, who discovered the address on the coin.

Pastor Quits Franklin Park Church.

The Rev. Clifford Philip Case, who has been pastor of the Reformed church at Franklin Park for the past five years, has tendered his resignation, to take effect August 1. July 21: "Poverty In Spirit."—Matt. v, 3.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Ps. li, 17; Prov. xvi; 19; Matt. xviii, 12; Luke xviii, 2-3; I Pet. v, 5.

"All of you gird yourself with humility, to serve one another; for God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace to the humble."

This is a quality of soul which has not been highly appreciated among men and is not yet at a premium in the estimation of the majority of people. Yet it is one of the most valuable assets of human nature. Perhaps one reason why it has not been more valued is that its real nature has been little understood. Counterfeits and caricatures of it have been abundant, but the true article has not been so common as is desirable.

A good way to sharply define it is to get a picture of its opposite clearly in mind. The opposite of poverty of spirit is pride. It is unquestionable that one who in pride holds himself as superior to others and deals with them haughtily will find those who will be cowed and overawed by his self important bearing. His self sufficiency will impress the timid and unlearned as a mark of superior ability. But among reasoning and sober minded folk all such pomposity and arrogant assumption meet merited contempt. It is all of the spirit of heathenism and is doomed as the spirit of the Christ and the better manhood gain ascendency in the world. It wrecked all of the old civilizations and almost dissolved human society.

Permanent human association can be built on no foundation narrower than that which was laid by Jesus Christ. The universal brotherhood of men must be recognized and the right of every one to just and merciful consideration. Each must esteem himself as entitled to no more than the next man and must find his own place, not in making others serve him, but in giving loving and free ministration to the needs of others.

Poverty of spirit is far from being servile in character, is not false to fact in placing an underestimate on self either in ability or rights, is not even remotely related to sycophancy and fawning obsequiousness. It justly esteems its own worth and because of genuine nobility is able to recognize nobility and worth in others and to dare go down to the unworthy and ignoble and assist them to rise to better life.

Not only is poverty of spirit a mark of true manhood and womanhood and attractive in society of all that is best and purest. It is also the one right attitude of soul toward God. What has any one of us that he did not receive? What place is there for pride either in what we are or in what we have done? Suppose we are gifted with talent in some line above the ordinary run of common men, what of it? Are we deserving of credit because we found ourselves so endowed? It is a gift from God. Rather it is a trust from Him given for service and for which He will hold us to strict accounting.

Consider soberly what you are and what you have done, and there is no place for self complacency. Rather is there need of confession of unworthiness and entreaty of forgiveness both of God and men.

Do not under any circumstances simulate a modesty and humility you do not have inside. That is if possible more despicable than vanity, pride and conceit. But as you value sterling nobleness of nature cultivate by all means in your power the humbleness of mind which has been shown in Jesus, our Master. Self abasement is the truest exaltation, but he who seeks exaltation knows not self abasement.

The Gospel of Happiness.

A woman who had many sorrows and heavy burdens to bear, but who was noted for her cheerful spirit, once said in explanation:

"You know I have no money. I had nothing to give but myself, and so I made the resolution that I would never sadden any one else with my troubles. I have laughed and told jokes when I could have wept. I have always smiled in the face of every misfortune. I have tried never to let any one go from my presence without a happy word or a bright thought to carry with them. And happiness makes happiness. I myself am happier than I would have been had I sat down and bemoaned my fate." This gospel of happiness is one which every one should lay to heart. Set out with the invincible determination that you will bear burdens and not impose them. Whether the sun shines or the rain falls, show a glad face to your neighbor. If you must fall in life's battle, you can at least fall with a smile on your face.—Wellspring.

A Prayer.

O Lord, let me not henceforth desire health or life except to spend them for Thee, with Thee and in Thee. Thou alone knowest what is good for me; do therefore what seemeth Thee best. Give to me or take from me, conform my will to Thine and grant that with humble and perfect submission and in holy confidence I may receive the orders of Thine eternal providence and may equally adore all that comes to me from Thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.—Blaise Pascal.

Our Chance.

"Take every chance you can possibly get to be kind because some day there may be no more chances," writes Margaret Deland. This world is our chance to help our fellows. If we neglect to do it, even if we get to heaven, there will be no more tears there to be dried, no wrongs to redress, no quick, loving help needed. We shall have missed our chance and forever.—Forward.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 21.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Present day applications of the last six commandments.—Ex. xx, 12-17.

Having studied the first four commandments, which sum up our duty to God, we now turn to the last six commandments, which refer to the duty of man to man. These commandments are of great importance. It is impossible for any man to attempt to serve God and not be just and honest toward his fellow human beings, whether they live next door to him or on the opposite side of the globe. We are not only to love God, but also our "neighbors as ourselves," and every human being is our neighbor.

1. The fifth commandment enjoins children to honor and obey their parents. "Honor thy father and thy mother." This is a most important command and one that needs to be especially emphasized today. The command now seems to be reversed, and many parents obey their children. But the fault lies largely with themselves. There is too much pampering of children and too much effeminate dealing with them, which is called ruling by kindness and love. But it is not love on the part of parents, but weakness. Whether by love or by rod, without tyranny, children should be controlled. If not, the future has in store ruined men and broken hearted parents. But children and youths must not count themselves guiltless. The selfish, ungrateful, disobedient child cannot be too severely condemned. Parents live largely for their children and would die for them. What less can children do, therefore, than to love, honor and obey their parents?

2. The sixth commandment condemns murder. "Thou shalt not kill." But there are different ways of disobeying this command. Christ says, "He that hateth his brother is a murderer." If we would keep this commandment, we must not only refrain from taking a human life, but keep out of our minds and hearts all malice and hatred.

3. The seventh commandment forbids impurity. "Thou shalt not commit adultery." The sin of impurity is appalling in the present age. The overt sin of adultery is committed with increasing rapidity. All the Mormons of our country do not live in Utah. Divorces are greatly on the increase, and many of the divorcees by marrying again are morally, if not legally, breaking this commandment. The hearts of the young are often contaminated. Vicious literature, vulgar stories, indecent pictures pasted on billboards and published as advertisements, are playing havoc with the innocency and purity of youth. Christian Endeavor young men and women should avoid all forms of impurity. Do not tell or even listen to an impure story. Avoid books of an impure character. Listen not to the soft and flattering words of those who would ruin you. Above all, keep yourself pure in heart, for "the pure in heart shall see God."

4. The eighth commandment forbids dishonesty. "Thou shalt not steal." Honesty is the foundation of a true character. The dishonest man is despised by all men. And there are other ways of stealing than by taking money out of another's pocket. Any kind of dishonesty is theft. The capitalist who waters his stock, the merchant who by shrewd (?) business methods takes a penny or a million dollars that are not honesty his, are thieves. The revelations of dishonest dealings in politics and business in recent years have been appalling, but they should teach the youth of America the important lesson of strict honesty in all things, little as well as great.

5. The ninth commandment forbids false witness bearing. "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor." In this commandment all forms of lying are forbidden, from false gossip about our neighbors to perjury before a court of justice. A liar is an abomination to God and to man, and one who has the reputation of defaming the character of others is shunned by all who can possibly avoid them. Stand for truthfulness at all times.

6. The tenth commandment forbids covetousness. "Thou shalt not covet." Covetousness is on the increase. As Christians we should be satisfied with what God has given us and not desire what belongs to others, for the desire may develop into the attempt to possess ourselves wrongfully of them.

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. v, 21-24, 27-32; xv, 4-9; I Thess. iv, 1-6; Col. iii, 8-14; Eph. vi, 1-4; Rev. xxii, 11-15.

Our Pledge.

"Relying on the Lord Jesus Christ for salvation"—how grateful these words must be to our Master, Christ, as they are said week by week by hundreds of thousands of young lips! It seems as though there is murmur of such words always rising from the world like sweet incense which must do something to counterbalance the hoarse sounds of blasphemy and rejection. At times, of course, the murmur becomes a great shout when a convention of Christian Endeavorers gathers in tens of thousands. But probably there is not a single minute in any part of the twenty-four hours in which some voice or voices are not professing reliance on the Lord Jesus Christ for salvation. Personally I greatly rejoice in the distinction which is made between reliance on Christ for salvation and the trust for daily strength to live a godly and a righteous life. Salvation deals with our deliverance from the power of sin which would hinder our fellowship with God, while trust for daily strength looks forward the positive side of Christian living, in virtue of which we are able to do great exploits for God in the world. —Rev. F. B. Meyer, B. A., London.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

"I wouldn't humble myself," Chip answered spiritedly, "and then I was ashamed to let any one know I had used his name. I hadn't time to think what name to give when Uncle Jud asked me, and his was the first that came to mind," she added naively.

Aunt Abby laughed.

"I guess Master Stetson won't find forgiveness hard to earn," she said, and then her face beamed at the disclosure of a romance while she read the letter a second time.

But there was more to tell, as Aunt Abby knew full well, and now, bit by bit, she drew the story from Chip, even to the admission of the tender scenes between these two lovers, in which they promised to love each other and be married.

"It was silly, I suppose," Chip continued blushingly, "but I didn't know any better then, and I was so happy that I didn't think about it at all. I never had a beau before, you see, and I guess I acted foolishly. Old Cy used to help us, too, and took us away so we could have a chance to hold hands and act silly. I was so lonesome, too, for Ray all that winter in Greenvale, and nobody knew it. I walked a mile to meet the stage every night for a month, to be the first to see him when he came. I guess he must have thought he owned me. I wouldn't do it now."

Once more Aunt Abby laughed, a good, hearty laugh, and then, much to Chip's astonishment, she took her face in her hands and kissed it.

"You dear little goose," she said, "and to think you ran away from a boy you cared for like that! I only hope he is good enough for you, for I can see what the outcome will be."

That night when the tea-table had been cleared and the lamp lit, Aunt Abby once more began her adroit questioning of Chip; but this time it was of Old Cy, and all about him. For an hour, Chip, nothing loath, recited his praises, repeated his odd sayings, described his looks and ways and portrayed him as best she could, while Aunt Abby smiled content.

"It makes me feel young again to hear your story and about Cyrus," she said when all was told. "I was just 16 when he first came to see me. He was also my first beau, you know. I should judge he must have changed so I would never know him, and maybe he wouldn't recognize me. Forty years is a long time!" And she sighed.

No longer was she a staid and matronly widow—not young, it is true, yet not old, but with rounded face, few wrinkles, and slightly gray hair. Instead was she sweet Abby Grey of the long ago, and once more the belle of this quiet village and Bayport, and the leader at every dance, every husking, and every party. Once more she primped and curled her hair, and donned her best, and waited her sailor boy's coming. Once more she heard the bells jingle and saw the stars twinkle as they sped away to a winter night's dance—and once more she felt the sorrow of parting, the long years of waiting, waiting, waiting, and at last the numb despair and final conviction that never would her lover return.

And now he was still alive, though a wanderer, and some day he might—surely would come to see her, just once, if no more.

"Ah, me," she said, rousing herself at last and looking at Chip's smiling, sunny face, "life is a queer riddle, and we never know how to guess it."

Then she sighed again.

CHAPTER XXXI.

Some sneering critic once said that few young men ever start out in the world until they are kicked out, and there is a grain of truth in that assertion. It is seldom an actual kick, however, but some motive force quite as compelling.

I Was Just Sixteen When He First Came to See Me.

In Ray's case it was his uncle's assertion that if he hoped to win Chip he must first show the ability to provide a home for her, which is excellent advice for any young man to follow.

"It won't be a pleasure trip," Martin said when Ray proposed to go to the wilderness and, with Levi and a couple of other assistants, make a business of gum-gathering and trap-setting, "but you can't lose much by it. You are welcome to the camp; Levi will see that you have game enough to eat, and boss the expedition. I will loan you five hundred, and with what you have, that is capital enough and you ought to do well. It would be better if Old Cy could take charge, but as it is, you must go it alone." And go it alone Ray did.

Levi's services were easily secured. Two young fellows whom he knew were hired at Greenvale. A bateau was purchased, together with more traps and supplies, and after Ray had written Chip his plan, the party started for Martin's camp. They had been established there a month and were doing well. The first ice had begun forming in shallow coves when one afternoon, who should enter the lake and paddle rapidly across but Old Cy.

"Ye can't git rid o' me when trappin's goin' on," he said cheerily, as Ray and Levi met him at the landing. "I fetched into the settlement kinder homesick fer the woods last week. I heard the good news 'bout Chip's bein' found 'n' you'd come here fer the winter, 'n' I didn't wait a minute 'fore I hired a canoe 'n' started." And then, in the exuberance of his joy, he shook hands with Ray and Levi once more.

That evening, Ray, who had hard work to keep the secret so long, told Old Cy who lived in Peaceful Valley.

It was like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky, a shock of joyful news that made Old Cy gasp.

"Why, I feel jest like a colt once more," he said after the exclamation stage had passed. "An', do ye know, boys, I felt all the way comin' in ez though good news was waitin' fer me. I s'pose 'twas from hearin' Chip was all right ag'in."

That evening was one that none who were in that wildwood camp ever forgot, for Old Cy was the central figure, and told as only he could the story of his, year's wandering in search of Chip.

It was humorous, pathetic and tragic all in one, and a tale that held its listeners spellbound for three delightful hours.

"I had dogs set on me, hundreds on 'em," Old Cy said, in conclusion, "an' I never knew afore how many kinds 'n' sizes o' dogs thar was in this world. I uster think thar warn't more'n two dozen or so kinds. I know now thar's two million 'n' a few more I didn't wait to count. I got 'rested a few times on account o' not havin' visible means o' support. I've been hauled over the coals by doctors tryin' to make me out a lunatic, 'n' I'd 'a' done time in jail if I hadn't had money to show. I tell ye, boys, this is an awful 'spicious world fer strangers, 'n' the milk o' human kindness is mostly old cheese, 'n' all rind at that. I had a little fun, too, mixed in with all the trouble, 'n' one woman who owned a place where I 'plied for lodgin' jest 'bout told me she'd be willin' to marry me if I'd stay 'n' work the farm. She had red hair, hard eyes, 'n' bossy sort o' ways, an' that's a dangerous combination. I watched my chance when she wa'n't lookin', 'n' lit out middlin' lively."

And now life at this wilderness camp, less restrained than when womankind were here, became one of work, and persistent, steady, no time-wasted work at that. Martin had said that Levi could boss matters, but it was Ray who assumed management instead. Two years had changed him almost from boy to man. His new ambition was the controlling power. He was here to make his mark, as it were, and the half-hearted, boyish interest in work had changed into a tireless leadership. Then, too, an unspoken, tacit interest in his ambition was felt by those who helped. They knew what he was striving for, and that Chip was the ultimate object. Her history, known as it now was to all who came into the wilderness, influenced the woodsmen. She had been of them and from them, and as an entire village will gather to help at a house-raising, so these three, Levi and the two helpers, now felt the same incentive.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

We are justly proud of our mail order system. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger mail order system is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking effort. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly by mail as in person. There are no delays—no errors—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

Ten Eyck & Harris are prepared to supply you with the best coal at lowest prices.

Just remember that Charles E. Vail, of Park avenue, sells the best time-pieces in watches and clocks; also the best line of jewelry and silverware.

Now is the time to open an account with the Plainfield's Savings Bank. It is a good place to save your earnings and besides liberal interest is given.

Besides selling the famous Rexall goods, Dudley Miller, the Park avenue druggist, carries everything to be found in a first-class pharmacy. His soda water is very refreshing these days.

S. Scheuer & Co., of West Front street, is making a specialty of fruits and fresh vegetables these days, including all kinds of berries, pineapples, etc. The firm still continues to handle the best groceries, while its meat department is second to none. The prices are reasonable.

WHAT SHE "SCATTED."

"We had been fishing that day and had left the boat beached on the lake shore with a lot of small fish in it, which we were going to use for bait for our next morning's trip. My sister and I were alone in camp that evening, for the men had gone to interview a guide on the subject of mountain climbing. As we sat by the fire, chatting, we heard a commotion in the direction of our boat. It sounded as if someone were rummaging through everything there, knocking over our traps in a very unceremonious way. Going outside to hear better, I was sure it was no human thief, but probably a stray dog from some other camp, though we hadn't any very near neighbors. I didn't want all our bait gobbled up, so I started for the boat at once. As I drew near it, I was rather surprised to hear an unmistakable "meow." A cat was a creature I hadn't seen since I left civilization, many miles away. It was too dark to see much, but I ran up quickly, rapped on the side of the boat with a stick and cried 'Scat!' as fiercely as I could. A dark form, much bigger than the cats of my acquaintance gave one great leap from the bottom of the boat, dashed by me so close that it just brushed my dress, and was lost in the woods in a minute.

"The next morning an old trapper, who had a shack some distance off, happened to call at the camp, and I told him about the bait thief.

"'Why,' he said 'ther' ain't no cats around this country, I ain't seen one in I don't know when. How big, did you soy?' I showed him.

"'Well, young lady,' he said, in his quiet, drawling way, 'all I can say is, darn me, if you ain't been and "scatted" a wildcat! Most generally we goes for 'em with a gun.'"

FITZ KNOCKED OUT IN THE SECOND ROUND

"LANKY BOB'S" FIGHTING DAYS ARE OVER NOW.

Our near neighbor, Bob Fitzsimmons, once the greatest fighter in all the wide world, has fought his last battle. From now on he will sit at the ringside and watch younger, not better men, fight for the championships that he once held.

Fitzsimmons was counted out in the second round of his fight with the giant Johnson, at Philadelphia, last night. As Referee McCarney tolled off the fatal ten seconds thousands of men stood up and silently looked on. There was not a cheer for the dusky victor. In all the great crowd that packed the arena of the Washington Sporting Club there was not one man who rejoiced at the ending of the greatest fighting career in ring history. A few seconds later, when Fitz walked to his corner and then turned sadly to climb out through the ropes, a roar of cheers followed the veteran to his dressing-room.

RECOVERS FATHER'S SWORD.

Mansfield Judah Left It in Trenton Cigar Store Years Ago.

Dr. Carlos F. Godfrey, of the office of the adjutant-general of New Jersey, at Trenton yesterday, arranged to have a sword which was presented to the late Lieutenant Henry M. Judah by the city of New York sent to Mansfield D. Judah, son of the late warrior, of Reno, Nev.

This sword was discovered in the Krueger pawnshop, on East Front street, Trenton, by Dr. Godfrey, who succeeded in locating the only living child of Lieutenant Judah. Mansfield Judah has agreed to accept the sword and upon its delivery to pay $75, the price which the local pawnbroker paid for it.

The history of the sword's presence in this city is that it was left in a local cigar store some years ago by Mansfield Judah, and that when he returned for it it had been stolen.

Lieutenant Judah served in the Mexican War with the Fourth United States Infantry. The sword was given him by New York for gallant services in many battles. The scabbard is of solid silver and is handsomely engraved. The sword proper contains much elaborate engraving and the names of the battles in which Lieutenant Judah participated. Lieutenant Judah died January 14, 1866, in San Francisco.

Comes 500 Miles to Preach.

Though he is enjoying a much-needed rest at Marlboro, Cheshire county, N. H., where he and his family are spending the summer, Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson has notified the supply committee of Trinity Reformed church that they may expect him as usual next Sunday to preach the Word of God to them. Dr. Johnson will have to make a trip of 500 miles in order to conduct the services here and as it is a financial loss to him, the Trinity people deeply appreciate his decision. During the illness of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cronelius Schenck, the New Brunswick minister has been the regular supply at Trinity.

August Krohne, of Jersey City, is visiting Mrs. Jacob Grieb, of East Front street.

JAMES B. DUKE TRIES MARRIED LIFE AGAIN?

RUMOR THAT HE WEDDED MRS. INMAN AT HIS SOMERVILLE HOME.

It is reported at Somerville that James B. Duke, president of the American Tobacco Company, and Mrs. William Inman, of Georgia, were quietly married at Mr. Duke's summer home near that place by Judge Theodore Booraem, of the Middlesex County Court, last Saturday afternoon. It is said that Judge Booraem and George Berdine, prosecutor of Middlesex County, rode to a point near the Duke residence in an automobile on Saturday, where the judge and his companion were soon joined by a party of four men, who entered the Duke estate in an auto from the south.

The entire party met as if by arrangement, and after exchanging greetings, walked across the lawn in a body and entered the Duke residence. It is known that Mr. Duke and Mrs. Inman were within at the time to receive the party. After a brief stay the party was seen to leave in an auto. The proceeding was considered unusual by eye witnesses who are familiar with affairs about the Duke estate.

The report of Mr. Duke's marriage cannot be confirmed at his home near Somerville, which is occupied only by servants, who refuse to be interviewed on the subject and express entire ignorance as to the present whereabouts of their master and Mrs. Inman.

Both Mr. Duke and Mrs. Inman have been conspicuous at his country home for a month, until Monday, when they suddenly disappeared. Mr. Duke's big touring cars have also left the estate and the servants preserve great secrecy as to theid destination. It is said that Duke's brother, Benjamin Duke, and his family sailed for Europe on Tuesday and it is believed Mr. Duke and Mrs. Inman may have joined the party secretly.

Mrs. J. F. Grandin, of Hamden, Hunterdon county, is spending a few days at the home of Mrs. A. L. Force, of Duer street.

GAS RIPS SEWER OPEN; THREE MEN INJURED.

Explodes in Singer Plant, Elizabeth, and Workmen Are Badly Hurt.

Three men were hurt by an explosion of gas in a sewer pipe running through the Singer Manufacturing Company's foundry at Elizabeth, yesterday morning. They are Paul Petrovitch, of Pine street, 38 years old, complex contusions of several bones in the body and other bruises, right arm broken, condition serious; John S. Scoda 109 South Park street, thorax injured, body bruised, and Joseph Todella, 23, legs burned, not serious.

The explosion tore a huge hole in the ground and caused much damage to the plant. Pieces of iron, dirt and stones were scattered in all directions and other men working in the foundry at the time narrowly escaped injury from the flying fragrants. Petrovitch was knocked over by the force of the concussion and was struck by a large piece of the exploded pipe. Scoda and Todelle were likewise struck, but not injured very seriously.

The three men were hurried to the Alexian Hospital in an ambulance. On the way Todelle was treated by the hospital surgeon and went home. Petrovitch is said to be in a bad way, but is expected to recover.

FATAL END OF GIRL'S JOKE.

Young Man She Fired Blank Shot at Dies of Lockjaw.

Luther Calloway, 22 years old, of New Brunswick, died yesterday afternoon of lockjaw. He was teasing a girl acquaintance on the eve of Fourth of July when she shot at his forehead with a revolver containing a blank cartridge, just for a joke.

A part of the wadding entered the youth's forehead and a few days later lockjaw developed. The girl is prostrated with grief over the outcome.

Another Excursion to the Shore.

The annual excursion of the First Presbyterian and Congregational church, of this city, and the Dunellen Presbyterian church, is being held at Asbury Park, today. The one section used to carry the excursionists to the shore, was composed of fifteen coaches, twelve being well filled. It is estimated that the crowd numbered about 700. The start was made at the usual hour without any mishaps. Frank O. Webster was in charge of the train as conductor, James Smith was the engineer, while Messrs. Kane, Johnson and Hoffman were the trainmen.

Interesting; Services.

Rev. E. E. Roberson will begin a series of mid-summed services of an attractive character on Sunday. The morning subject will be "Saul and His Kingdom." In the evening there will be a service of song and story. The subject will be "Saved at Sea." This church is very cool and comfortable even though the weather may be warm, and the services will be short, lively, and full of stirring thoughts from start to finish. To all who may come there awaits a hearty welcome and this is especially so for strangers.

Steal Horse, Leave Another.

Berkeley Heights, July 18.—Charles Fuchs is looking for the person who broke into his stable night before last and took his horse. The strangest part of the affair was that the thieves left in the place of the horse stolen an animal worth over four times as much. Fuchs is puzzled over the occurrence, and is awaiting developements, taking the precaution, however, to put a new lock on the stable and to keep a loaded gun within reach.

Gen. Murray's Birthday.

In honor of the forty-fourth birthday of Gen. C. Edward Murray, a dinner was given at Neptune Heights Sea Girt, yesterday. Prominent military and political men, among whom were Gov. E. C. Stokes, Congressman Ira W. Wood, and Senator Frank O. Briggs, were present at the banquet. A handsome loving cup was presented to the general to commemorate the anniversary.

Percival Phillips, of Madison avenue, has returned from a stay at Camp Wanamassa, Deal Lake.

ELKS BRILLIANT PAGEANT

LASTED FIVE HOURS

Great Throng Included 200 Plainfielders—Splendid Showing Made By New Jersey Lodges.

Despite the sweltering heat and the fact that there were 2,500 cases of prostration, three quarters of a million people stood on Broad street, Philadelphia, for nearly five hours yesterday, watching the monster parade of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Nothing like it has ever been seen in the Quaker City and the residents and visitors admitted that the "high water mark" had been reached in displays of this nature. The procession started at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and it was close to 3 in the afternoon before the last delegation passed the reviewing stand.

The great throng that occupied all the available sidewalk space or sat in windows or on roofs included 200 Plainfielders. Many of the members of the local lodge had been in attendance at the convention all week and their number was increased by the "one-day" visitors who got in on the early trains yesterday morning. The Plainfield delegates had headquarters at the Majestic Hotel and with their townsmen and townswomen viewed the pageant from some vantage point in it. The lodge did not participate in the parade and its only representation was Chris. Sorenson, Jr., who marched with Arthur Pryor at the head of his band leading the Asbury Park contingent.

The procession was divided into ten divisions, each under its marshal and aides, but they were merely for convenience, as not set of lodges from any particular section were grouped together except in a few minor instances. Much confusion was done away with by the order that lodges should march according to numbers, from No. 1 on. This was generally observed, and only in two or three places were lodges out of their numerical place. As hosts, Philadelphia Lodge, No. 2, marched first, but after them came New York, No. 1, and then the regular order followed. Lodges that paraded entirely in carriages, automobiles, floats or other vehicles were not in their order in the parade, but belonged to divisions 9 and 10, which brought up in the rear.

Of special features there were thousands—some beautiful, some comical, some extraordinary and others startling, but all interesting. The mere marching men were interesting by their costumes, each lodge having a distinctive and uniform garb worn by all the members.

Probably the biggest surprise and mirth-maker as well as the outfit showing the greatest outlay of money was the entire circus that was with the Kansas City crowd. It was labelled "Kansas City's Hot Air Show" and included 15 chariots of burlesque animals, forty horses and a great many other features. The El Paso Quien Sabe Club, in gorgeous Mexican costumes, the Denver bunch as cowboys on burros, shooting things up with their guns, the Atlantic City bathing suit costume, the Honolulu and Manila delegations, interesting because they came so far; the Boston boys, dressed as Puritans, the two star drilling companies, the Arabs, from Detroit, and the Toledo Cherry Pickers; and Asbury Park's Queen Titiani float and Pryor's band, all attracted comment and attention.

The New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken and other Jersey lodges all had uniformed members in line headed by bands. One of the prettiest floats of the many entered was shown by Orange lodge. It was mounted on a huge truck with a glade in front, in which stood a large stuffed Elk. Beside it was a mountain stream, real water tumbling down in the rocks. In back were twenty singers ranged in tiers and when the float stopped, they rendered popular songs, accompanied by an organ concealed beneath the seats.

The convention is still on but the formal closing will take place tomorrow night.

Water Supply Lowered.

The demands on the service of the Watchung Water Company, which supplies Dunellen, has lowered the supply in the reservoir to a point arousing comment. By running the pump from eighteen to twenty hours a day the management is able to keep up with the demands. The trouble is said to be with the pumping capacity and not with the supply in the wells. The pumping station is to be improved.

TO MAKE GAS ENGINES

Local Men Incorporate Company to Manufacturer F. H. Merrill's Patented Device.

THE CAPITAL. $200,000

Lease the Old Oil Cloth Factory—Combined Gas Engine and Air Compressor.

The invention of a gas engine and air compressor by F. H. Merrill, of West Front street, has attracted so much attention among local capialists, that a company has been organized to be known as the Gas Engine Pneumatic Company, with a capital stock of $200,000. The registered office is in Plainfield and the company has purchased the old oil cloth factory on North avenue, near Richmond street, where it is proposed to manufacture the engines.

Articles of incorporation were filed at Trenton, yesterday, the incorporators being Dr. Peter J. Zeglio, Robert A. Meeker and William Newcorn. The last named is the agent, while F. H. Merrill, the patentee, also retains a large interest in the business. The incorporators named have invested considerable money already and there are a large number of local stockholders from whom subscriptions will now be collected with a view to putting the plant in operation at the earliest possible date. The oil cloth factory is especially adapted for the manufacture of the gas engines, it being equipped with shafting, etc., and there being plenty of room.

The invention is entirely that of Mr. Merrill, and those who have acquainted themselves with the details of it, pronounce it to be a wonder. The engine can be used for any plant where motive power is required and the simplicity together with its minimum cost of operation will appeal strongly to all manufacturers. The combination of the gas engine and air compressor is the chief point of advantage and those who have a knowledge of the invention claim that it is the best thing of the kind on the market.

One of the engines, equipped with a cylinder, has been and is now in operation at A. B. Laing's auto garage, where it has attracted much attention. It is simply being run there for exhibition purposes. It was through the efforts of William Newcorn that the company was organized and arrangements made for the manufacture of the engines. Mr. Merrill is a recognized inventor, and has been successful in the manufacture of appliances for autos, in fact he built the automobile he is using now, the only one of the kind on the market.

At present it cannot be determined how many men will be employed at the new plant, but this will be largely regulated by the demand for the engines.

Inter-City Games.

The Clinton Avenue nine will have an opportunity to make their title to the lead in the Inter-City League race clear tomorrow afternoon. They will meet the Raritans, who have been easy for all comers so far, while Scotch Plains, who are now tied with the West Enders, will remain idle. The Plainfield nine should have no trouble in taking the game, but these tail-end clubs have a pestiferous habit of arising and smiting the leaders. The Y. M. C. A. nine will play at Bound Brook. Both sides need the game—Bound Brook to keep up an appearance of life, and the Plainfielders to hold themselves within striking distance of first place. The Clinton Avenues will play at Crescent Oval.

Cut By Fall From Hammock.

Albert Halstead, the five-year-old son of Mrs. and Mrs. William Halstead, of Spooner avenue and West Third street, fell out of a hammock on a glass bottle, Wednesday afternoon, receiving several severe cuts on the arm, which bled profusely. Dr. P. B. Cregar was called, dressed the wounds and the lad is now much improved.

Mrs. McDonald Released.

Mrs. John McDonald, the 17-year-old bride who attempted to commit suicide on Watchung avenue Wednesday night, was released by the police yesterday afternoon. A sister, who lives in the East End, took charge of her, and promised to see that she was cared for, and guarded against another attempt at suicide. Mrs. McDonald said she would not make a second effort to die. Mayor C. J. Fisk gave McDonald a talking-to yesterday afternoon.

FIND FERDIO GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

COURT TO SENTENCE HIM AND MRS. CHARLES RASH TOMORROW.

After a half-hour's deliberation, the jury in the homicide case of Charles Ferdio, of Elizabeth, charged with the murder of Fred Rash, also of that place, returned at 11.37 o'clock this morning, with a verdict of mansliughter. Justice Swayze announced immediately afterward that tomorrow he would sentence both Ferdio and Mrs. Charles Rash, who was convicted on Wednesday of murder in the second degree. In both cases the verdicts are considered lenient. The trial of Charles Ferdio began yesterday morning and it was 10.37 o'clock this morning when the case was given to the jury.

Rash was fatally shot one night in June, while he was returning home with his parents from a call. As the young man was walking up the steps at his home, Ferdio, who stood at one corner of the house, discharged his revolver, after which he started to run away. Young Rash and his father gave chase, but before they had gone a block the son dropped dead. Ferdio's arrest followed the next morning. His plea was that he thought some one was after him and he shot in self-defense.

COLORED BAPTISTS HOLD THEIR ANNUAL SESSION.

Middlesex Central Association Will Install Officers Today.

The Middlesex Central Association of New Jersey held its annual conference yesterday at the Union Baptist church, Trenton, and will continue in session today, tomorrow and Sunday.

Rev. R. L. Harris, D. D., of Rutherford, a prominent clergyman, delivered the annual sermon at yesterday's session. A brief address was mad by Rev. M. A. Alexander, of this city.

Today the association will appoint a committee on education and temperance and the report of the general committee on nominations will be made known. Following this the election and installation of officers will take place. In the evening sermons will be delivered by Rev. P. W. Ross, of Westfield, and Rev. G. W. Bailey, of this city. Tomorrow afternoon Rev. W. T. Wadkin, D. D., of East Orange, and Rev. E. Flowers will be the important speakers.

On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. L. L. Groom, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Rahway, and Rev. R. M. Johnson, of Lambertville, wil address the delegates and members of the association. The principal speakers of the evening will be Rev. E. D. Crawley, of New Orange; Rev. R. M. Vaughn, D. D., of Newark, and Rev. J. L. Burton, of Trenton.

Dedication Service at the Home.

The service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, will take the form of a dedication of the large auditorium, given by David W. Hand in memory of his two sons. The Sunday afternoon services are held in this building. Geeorge A. Chapman will have charge of the service Sunday afternoon. The program will be of special interest, including short talks by friends of the work; also vocal and instrumental music.

Boys' Club at Deal Beach.

Making the trip by way of Asbury Park with the excursionists, Wednesday, the members of St. Stephens' Boys' Club, with Rev. A. Searing Peck, the rector, went into camp at Deal Beach for two weeks. The campers are to live in three tents on the beach and will spend the vacation swimming, fishing and canoeing.

Pickpocket Works on Councilman.

Pickpockets were plentiful in Philadelphia during the parade crush yesterday and Councilman Herbert Buxton, of this city, was one of those who became aware of their presence in a substantial way. While viewing the procession from a point near the Majestic Hotel, one of the gentry frisked a roll of bills from his pocket amounting to $90. He reported the loss to the police but there is small chance of the crook being arrested.

Sentence Day Tomorrow.

It is expected that Charles Hopes, colored, of this city, now a prisoner in the Union County Jail, will be sentenced tomorrow; also Charles Fay, who was convicted of passing a forged check on Harry Werner, of West Front street.

Possession of Chapel Oct. 1.

The members of Warren chapel expect to take possession of the new chapel on Watchung avenue about October 1. The workmen are now engaged in completing the interior.

DIDN'T HOLD A DEBATE

Assemblymen Not Present to Talk Against Anti-Saloon Leaguers.

SUPT. BURKE A SPEAKER

Meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Not Largely Attended, But Audience Was Representative of All Classes of Citizens.

None of the Union county Assemblymen, who were challenged by J. Frank Burke, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, accepted his invitation to debate with him on the local option question at the meeting held last night at the Y. M. C. A., under the auspices of the league. The meeting was not largely attended, but all classes of the city were represented in the audience, which evinced interest and enthusiasm in the work.

C. B. LaRue was the chairman. The speakers were Mr. Burke, Rev. E. H. Curtis, of Newark, and Rev. Mr. Stifler, of Roselle. Mr. Curtis has launched a vigorous campaign for the league in Union county, and will carry it on until after the primaries.

Mr. Curtis spoke first. He told of the aims and objects of the league, and how the work was progressing. He introduced Rev. Mr. Stifler, who spoke next.

Mr. Stifler defined his position in the cause, and urged the ministers to join in the crusade. He said they should co-operate. Mr. Stifler said he had challenged Assemblyman Randolph Perkins to meet him in debate, but had received no reply.

Mr. Burke told how the Assemblyman had been challenged, and how the challenge was not accepted. He said the work was being pursued in New ersey on the proper lines to a successful issue, and told how the crusade had been carried on in Illinois, bringing about the passage of a law after five years of wrok.

Plans are being considered for a league organization in this city. The support of the churches has been enlisted, and there s much to encourage the workers. One clergyman has offered his pulpit to Mr. Curtis, for both morning and evening service.

ELIZABETH EXCISE BOARD WILL CONSIDER REPORT

MAYOR RYAN SENDS IT LETTER FROM GRAND JURY FOREMAN.

Acting upon the recommendation of Mayor P. J. Ryan, as the result of the letter sent to him by Mayor Charles J. Fisk, as foreman of the grand jury, the excise board of Elizabeth yesterday afternoon decided to institute immediately a rigid examination into the legality of the inn and tavern licenses held by fifty-four places, which have been questioned by the grand jury.

The president of the board, John Keron, was instructed to make a personal investigation with the aid of the license inspector and report back to the board at the earliest opportunity, so that proper action may be taken. The board then renewed a license for an inn and tavern which the grand inquisitors included in their list of illegal places.

The board also fixed dates for hearing sixty-one saloon-keepers charged with having violated the screen law. The first cases will be heard on August 1.

CLOUDBURST AT BRUNSWICK.

House, Hall and Barn Struck By Lightning Also.

A cloudburst at New Brunswick yesterday afternoon flooded streets and cellars, tore down trees and tied up trolley traffic for an hour.

The barn of the Washington Engine Company was struck by lightning, as was also the residence of Mrs. B. Zimmerman, on Burnet street, and the Columbia Hall building, owned by St. Peter's church. The fires were extinguished before much damage was done. The storm was the most severe that the city has experienced in years.

Married at Newark.

Charles Johnson, colored, of West Third street, and Miss Hattie Jones, of Newark, were married at the latter place Tuesday night. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. T. Spratch and was witnessed by a few friends. The couple will live on West Third street.

—A tempting fruit display will be shown at Neuman Brothers tomorrow. The assortment will include Georgia peaches, Arizona muskmelons, watermelons, red raspberries, blackberries and currants.

MORGAN CONTRACT CONFERENCE ON TODAY

LAWYER SAYS STEPS WILL BE TAKEN TO COMPLETE THE JOB.

H. C. Barker, a lawyer of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., representing Peter Morgan, the contractor; John Sutcliffe, a consulting engineer and contractor, also of that city, and C. W. Baum, representing the Metropolitan Security Company, are in Plainfield this afternoon holding a conference with the city officials in reference to settling the Southside sanitary troubles. There is also now to be considered the attachment by the Warren Foundry Company on the pipes furnished for the sewer, although it is said that the claim for wages will take precedence.

When asked what he proposed to do, Mr. Barker told a reporter for The Daily Press that it is the intention to complete the sewer contract, provided the city would allow them to do so. He is not conversant with New Jersey laws and will have to make further investigation before deciding what rights his client has.

Mr. Baum appeared hopeful over the situation, believing that it is not as bad as it looks. Arrangements will probably be made whereby Mr. Sutcliffe will be engaged to complete the contract. He is reported to be thoroughly competent to do this kind of work, and he is willing to go ahead if engaged. He said today that Peter Morgan is critically ill and will probably not recover. He is suffering from a tumor on the brain and is now stopping on a farm outside of Poughkeepsie, where he is under medical aid. Mr. Sutcliffe said that if Mr. Morgan had not been taken ill he would have completed the sewer cotract and made money on it.

The work of ascertaining exactly the amount of indebtedness incurred and not paid by Thomas J. Cusack is still progressing and the interested parties are endeavoring to secure an itemized bill for all unpaid accounts. It now looks as though matters will be adjusted within a few days and that the sewer work will be undertaken and rushed toward completion.

COLBY RANKS DIVIDED.

Shall Dalrymple or Gardner Colby Head Primary Ticket?

When the advisory committee of the Republican League for Limited Franchises and Equal Taxation meets in Newark on July 31, there will be a lively debate over the question of placing at the head of the ticket at the coming primaries the name of a pronounced Colby lieutenant for chairman of the Republican County Committee to succeed Chairman Dalrymple, the successor of Major Carl Lentz. It is asserted by a large majority of the Colbyites that a name should be placed at the head of the ticket, so that voters may know just who they are voting for at the primaries.

But the opposition to such a move is so great within the ranks of the Colbyites that when the question comes up there is likely to be a lively time. If it is decided to put a name on the ticket it will likely be that of Gardner Colby. Those who are opposed to a name at the head of the ticket say that any member of the New Idea wing of the party who may be elected a county committeeman will not vote for any man for chairman who is not known to be in sympathy with the New Idea movement. For that reason they hold that it is not necessary to place a name at the head of the ticket that might invite opposition.

Funeral of Mrs. Carney.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Carney, whose death occurred at her home on Central avenue, Wednesday, was held in St. Mary's church this morning. It was conducted by Rev. Father Bogan and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the pall bearers being John Flynn, Thomas Flynn, Peter Flynn, Michael DeCourcey, Michael Whalen and George McCluskey.

His 89th Birthday.

Ogden M. Hetfield, of Dunellen, celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Melick, of Alton. A family party, which was attended by many relatives, some of whom came from as far away as Wolden, N. Y., was the feature of the day. Mr. Hetfield is well preserved, and gives every promise of observing his centennary.

Monsignor Sheppard Is Better.

BULLET ROUTE FOR DOGS

Borough's Method of Killing Canines Not So Scientific But Just as Effective.

THE PREMIUM HIGHER

"Jim" Babbitt Will Get 50 Cents a Head In North Plainfield—His Crusade Not Begun.

When it comes to the extirpation of the fruit of the borough dog-catcher's labors, the North Plainfield officials are to profit by the city's experience. There will be no "laughing gas" administered to the Somerset county vagrant cerbereans, no "reflex action howls" will play upon the heart strings of tender hearted boroughites. Simple home remedies will be used. The animals will be shot.

"When I shoot a dog," said Chief Marshal Weiss to a Press reporter yesterday, "I guess he dies some quicker than by the gas treatment. It may not be as scientific, and all that, buit it kills 'em and kills 'em sudden."

The borough's crusade against dogs has not yet begun, but if the canine wanderers could know what is in store for them by the police, they would be stealing muzzles instead of meat and howling for ropes instead of for the moon. Desirous of out-doing Plainfielders in means as well as in "end," Special Officer "Jim" Babbit will receive a bonus of fifty cents for every dog "pounded." This is double the city rate, and the hunting ought to be just as good. Out by the brickyard, the barn secured as pound awaits its canine prisoners and in a few days the work will begin.

Boroughites feel slighted that the work is not already under way. Despite the fact that Babbitt could make more money by chasing borough dogs this week, his duties in connection with the city police make it necessary for North Plainfielders to wait till his work this side of the brook is completed. This is hard, but the general Somerset street sentiment is that "Jim" is the best man, and they'll have to wait till he gets through over there.

However little science there may be in the arrangements for disposing of unclaimed doks at the pound, Babbitt will get a good scientfic "tip" from certain who suggest better hours for the hunting of the dogs. Judging by canine activity at stated periods of the day, he will be advised to hunt between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning, "when they all seem to be out, fightin'" rather than "when the sun gets too hot for 'em to run around much."

Two days should see the work begun, and in a little more than a week the inhabitants of the dog star will slowly begin to increase, by a method "not scientific, but sudden."

Bridge Improvements Progressing.

The New Jersey Central bridge gang has about completed half of the new bridge on Watchung avenue, and this morning the work of putting in the new iron structure was commenced on the Park avenue bridge. During the progress of this work all east and westbound trains are run over two tracks between Park avenue and Church street. The eight inch elevation of the tracks in front of the North Avenue station is about completed and the tunnels connecting the east and westbound stations have been repaired and made perfectly water-proof. A new system of drainage has also been installed at the North Avenue station, which will furnish adequate means for carrying off the surface water.

Fell From Ladder.

Abram Van Cleef, of Elm place, is confined to his home as the result of a fall from a ladder in Dunellen this week. He was painting on a high ladder, when it slipped and toppled over. He fell fifteen feet, and landed heavily. He was severely bruised and shaken up. Dr. Clawson has been attending him.

Hurled by Exploding Locomotive.

John Smith, fireman on a Jersey Central freight locomotive, was severely injured at Lake Hopatcong yesterday by the explosion of the boiler of the locomotive. He was blown a considerable distance, cut about the head and badly scalded. It is thought that he will recover.

Barbers' Slight Meeting.

The master barbers didn't come out to the new organization's meeting, last night, in sufficient numbers to transact business. There was a bare quorum present, and it was decided to send notices to bring out a good attendance at the next meeting.

Will Operate on Child.

William Snyder, Jr., eight years old, son of William Snyder, of Dunellen, will be operated upon for appendicitis at Muhlenberg Hospital tomorrow. Dr. Ellis Hedges will perform the operation.

ORDINANCE NOT EFFECTIVE

Garbage Regulations Are Not Strong Enough For Proper Enforcement.

SO SAYS JUDGE RUNYON

Interpretation of the Ordinance By the Board Should Be Incorporated In Law, Magistrate Tells Health Officer.

Ineffectiveness in the regulations of the Health Board governing the collection of garbage was pointed out by City Judge Runyon, this morning, to Health Officer Leon Thurlow, who appeared to press complaints against Peter Robinson, colored, a garbage collector. The magistrate said the ordinance was too indefinite, and not strong enough to make it advisable to hold alleged offenders under the interpretation of the regulations as set forth by the Board.

Robinson was charged with conducting his business without properly covering his wagon or the cans in which he placed the garbage. Robinson defended himself skilfully, and showed that he had made an intelligent study of the ordinance.

He had everything that the ordinance called for, he said. The regulation provided that he must have a "sufficient" cover of canvas or other material, and covers for his cans. He had all those, and used the most effective covers that could be provided for the cans. No can made, he said, could be made to retain its cover better than they now do on macadamized roads.

He couldn't understand, he said, why he was compelled to use cans, when other garbarge collectors were allowed to use box wagons. He cited an instance of such use, and Judge Runyon asked Mr. Thurlow about it.

The health officer said he had told Robinson a year ago, when he was asked regarding such a wagon, that it could not be used. After that time the board, in drawing up rules interpreting the ordinance, declared that a metal-lined wagon, such as the other garbage men used, was sufficiently sanitary. He, himself, did not believe such a wagon was sanitary; the wood was certain to become soaked and strong, in his opinion.

"The ordinance is too indefinite," said Judge Runyon. "The interpretation of it by the Board is all right as far as it goes, but it merely serves, in effect, as matter for general information. It is supplemental to the ordinance, and should be incorporated therewith to become properly effective. It is hard to sustain such complaints under the ordinance as it now stands. I advise the Board to have the rules incorporated in the ordinance."

The magistrate appealed to Robinson's pride to secure a promise to observe the spirit of the regulations, as well as it's letter. Robinson promised to study the interpretation as carefully as he had studied the ordinance, and to make his wagon as inoffensive as possible.

Before the garbage complaint was heard, Robinson was arraigned on a charge of working an unfit horse to the point of cruelty. Dr. Herbert, the veterinary, examined the animal in front of police headquarters, and testified that it was in no shape to work. He said it was too light for the class of labor in any condition.

Robinson declared the horse was in good condition excepting for a saddle sore. He said he hadn't worked the horse since the sore appeared, and that he merely put it in harness this morning, with a bigger horse, to give it necessary exercise. With the other animal to help it, the horse was not called upon to do more than light hauling.

Judge Runyon secured Robinson's promise to put the horse out to pasture for two weeks before working it again, and to bring it to him for examination at the end of that time.

Non-Support Charged.

Charged with non-support by his wife and family, Gustav Barfus, who lives in Piscataway township, near Dunellen, was arraigned before Justice R. P. F. Von Minden, in the Dunellen borough hall late Wednesday afternoon. Barfus asked for an adjournment, and the case was laid over to next Wednesday morning, Barfus giving bail for $400.

Newarkers Visit Plainfield.

Members of the First Congregational church, Newark, of which Rev. T. Aird Moffatt is the pastor, enjoyed a trolley ride to Plainfield last night. The trip was made in special cars and proved a delightful outing.

Brothers to Exchange Pulpits.

Rev. Carl Lesmer, of the Swedish Lutheran church, will exchange pulpits with his brother, Rev. Julius Lesmer, of Jersey City, Sunday night. The service will begin at 8 o'clock.

Assemblyman Criticized at Anti-Saloon League Open-Air Meeting.

Ernest H. Curtis and John Wright representatives of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, delivered an outdoor stereopticon lecture at Cranford on Wednesday night. The canvas was hung on the sidewall of a building and the lecturers spoke to a good-sized audience.

Assemblyman Perkins was scored for the failure of the Buck local option bill in the Legislature last winter and for his failure to attend the meeting in Roselle to which he was invited. The speakers also declared that Mr. Perkins had not accepted the invitation to meet them in debate at Plainfield Thursday night, where they intended to deliver a lecture.

Oldest Postmaster Retires.

Whitehouse, July 19.—The postoffice at Centreville was discontinued this week and residents of that section will receive their mail through the rural free delivery route from Neshanic Station. The retiring Centreville postmaster, Christopher B. Stout, is the oldest in point of service in the United States, having served in that capacity since 1855. For a few years previously he was clerk in the office. During the fifty-two years he has been in charge every business transaction with the Postoffice Department at Washington has been signed by himself.

Six Killed By Heat.

New York, July 19.—Six deaths and twenty-seven prostrations were caused by the hot wave which spent its second day in New York yesterday. From eight o'clock in the morning until early evening, when cooling breeze came out of the west, the temperature played about the 90 mark, reaching 95 in Herald square at noon. Hospitals in all parts of the city were kept busy caring for heat victims, and hundreds of horses fell in the street and died.

Unidentified Body in Morgue.

New Brunswick, July 19.—Coroner Moke has at his morgue the body of a man, thirty-five years of age, who was killed by a freight train on the Pennsylvania Railroad near here. JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

A Lively Grand Jury.

The Union County Grand Jury which recently declared, in a powerful presentment, that the city of Elizabeth was "absolutely in the hands of the brewery and saloon interests," has undertaken to help that city break away from its thraldom. Charles J. Fisk, the foreman, has sent a formal letter to Mayor Ryan—the letter having the full official sanction of the grand jury—notifying that official that out of ninety licenses examine, as having been issued by the Board of Excise to inns and taverns, fifty were contrary to law. These alleged inns and taverns have no accommodations for guests, as the law requires, and have no right to licenses. The grand jury demands of the Mayor that all such licenses be immediately revoked. Other places are yet to be examined by the grand jury, the letter says, and other licenses are to be investigated to see if they have been unlawfully issued. If this is found to be the case they, too, must be at once revoked. The Board of Excise, it is strongly intimated, has already laid itself open to indictment, and unless the orders of the grand jury are obeyed, drastic measures will be resorted to. This shows that the Union County Grand Jury is both alive and awake, and that its members have a somewhat different idea of their duty than members of grand inquests usually have. They believe, with their foreman, that it is the business of a grand jury to see that the law is enforced, and to hold to accountability those in official position who wilfully or negligently fail to enforce it. It is certainly radical action to inform the Mayor and Board of Excise that nearly twenty per cent. of all the licenses granted in a city are illegal and to demand that they must be immediately revoked, but there can be no question that the grand jury has a legal right to do just this thing, and to indict if its demonds are not complied with. The Union County Grand Jury, with its live foreman, is not exceeding its powers, but is simply demonstrating what authority it can exercise when officials fail to do their shown duty under the law. Every grand jury in the State can do the same, if they have the courage to overthrow illegal conditions and check unlawful influences. The Union County Grand Jury may not succeed in wholly releasing the city of Elizabeth from saloon and brewery denomination, but it can compel the latter and other unlawful factors to live up to the requirements of the law or take the consequences. And that's what grand juries are for.—Newark News.

Martine Is Independent.

James E. Martine, wails one Democratic newspaper, "is known as a professional loser." That is largely because he insists upon running as a Democratic candidate, advocating principles of reform which the bosses of that party are not willing to accept. If James would only doff his reform armor so that his neck could bend to the will of the men that are powers in the party, he would be a professional winner. But James won't.—New Brunswick Home News.

Night Police Courts.

New York, July 19.—Night police courts will be a fact from August 1. Announcement to that effect was made yesterday by Magistrate Chas. S. Whitman, president of the Board of City Magistrates, who said that the early date had been selected because of the appointment of two new Magistrates by Mayor McClellan. The court will be held in Jefferson Market and the session will continue from 9 o'clock in the evening until 3 o'clock in the morning.

beginning Monday, July 15th, continuing for the balance of the month, we shall dispose of a large number of practically new Upright Pianos at remarkably low prices and terms.

A large number of these instruments have been taken as part payment on our Euterpe Piano Player; many have been used but a short time on rent; altogether they are a very fine collection of instruments which may be purchased for from one-half to one-third value.

We will also include in this SALE a number of Square Pianos and Organs, some of which we will mark as low as $10.00, none higher than $45.00. These are all of well known and standard makes which we have taken in as part payment on our Mathushek & Son Pianos with Duplex Sounding Board. Hundreds of buyers in this vicinity have been convinced of their durability and superiority above all others.

We are always pleased to explain and demonstrate to the prospective buyer WHY the Duplex Sounding Board is more durable and in every way superior to the common sounding board that invariably split and with ribs that loosen and rattle.

The Raritans will visit Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon and try and redeem themselves for previous bad performances. The Clinton Avenues are playing a very fast game at present and the betting for tomorrow's contest favors the local team. Considerable interest is being shown in this game as the Clinton Avenues and Scotch Plains are tied for first place, and as the latter team has an off day, the Plainfield boys have a good chance to retain their position.

The Y. M. C. A. nine will play the Laurels at Bound Brook, tomorrow afternoon, and a fine contest may be expected there. It should be easy picking for the association boys and help them to hold fast to their present position until they can get a chance at the leaders a little later. Minford or Dupee wil do the twirling.

It is expected that Gilmore will be back at his position on second base for Y. M. C. A. tomorrow. His absence has been a handicap to the team and it is hoped that he will be able to score a victory tomorrow.

Randolph will twirl for Clinton Avenue against Haley, of Raritan, at Crescent Oval, tomorrow. The game will be called at 4 o'clock.

The great and only "Matty" was unable to defeat the Pittsburgs on Tuesday, and the Pirates administered a coat of whitewash to the Giants

Manager Daab's team will meet the Elizabethport Stars at the 'Port on Sunday and it should be a fast contest. Mueller, the former Eastern League twirler, will be in the box for Hoboken against Linderman, who will be the slab artist for the Stars.

"Hank" Newsome, of Elizabeth, has been made manager of the Y. M. C. A. team, of Elizabeth, succeeding Jack Price, who has taken a position in New York.

It is now reported that Manager Philetus Konkle, of the Newark Atlantic League team, is about to sell out to a New York syndicate. This league should receive the leather medal for the greatest number of changes this season. Outside of the Pennsylvania teams in the league it is not believed that any of them will make expenses.

GOLF.

The weekly competitions for the Golf Committee, Green Committee and Scratch cups will be the attractions at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow.

There will be the weekly competitions for the President's Golf Club and July cups at the Park Golf Club, tomorrow, and as there are many contestants each week the rivalry is growing intense.

Continuation play for the Governor's cup and the qualifying rounds for the August cup will be the events at the Westfield Golf Club tomorrow. There will also be social features at the clubhouse.

The usual dinner-dance will be held at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow night, and a large number of members and friends are expected to participate.

Only seven of the twenty starters returned cards in the monthly handicap Tuesday at the Dyker Meadow Golf Club. Matshall Whitlatch had the gross score honors with 78, and qualified for the championship cup, T. S. Perkins taking the net prize with a 76.

The women golfers at the Plainfield Country Club are taking a little more interest in the game as formerly, although not as much as they should. On Wednesday an informal mixed foursome attracted several of the fair sex and in nearly every case the scores were good.

Miss Lydie Loizeaux is the only woman member of the Park Golf Club that is contesting for the President's, Golf Club and July cups at that club. Her playing shows that she is fully capable of competing with the sterner sex.

Howard J. Gee, the Princeton golfer, lost his match in the first round for the president's cup, the gift of Angus Spencer, at the Arsdale Club, Tuesday. J. B. C. Baker beat him by 4 up and 3 to play. Baker made the rounds in 35, 38—73, which made a new amateur and equalled the professional record of the course. He would probably have had a 71 but for a 6 on the 230 yard eighth hole the second round. Other matches decided were that Fullerton beat Gussman by 2 and 1, Woodward beat Haviland by 2 and 1, while Webster beat Nale by default.

E. A. Freeman, of New York, led the field of qualifiers in the annual championship of the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests, which was inaugurated over the links of the Midlothian Country Club Tuesday with a 67. Eight flights of sixteen each qualified for cups. W. C. Freeman, of New York, was elected president for the year, succeeding J. T. Stock, of Chicago. Vice presidents elected were D. M. R. Lloyd, of Pittsburg, and C. D. Carlisle, of South Bend, Ind., and C. F. Stoddard, of Chicago, succeeded himself as secretary-treasurer.

YES, WHAT'S THE USE?

What is the use of spending the taxpayers' money in causing an arrest, securing an indictment and procuring a conviction when there is a pardoning power which upsets everything that has been done by letting the convict go free after serving but a portion of his sentence? When twenty-three men, constituting the grand jury, find that there is enough evidence against the accused to warrant his being placed on trial and when subsequently twelve equally good men declare him guilty of the offense as charged and an upright judge imposes a penalty, why in the name of justice should eight men be allowed to virtually reverse the judgment of thirty-six others, who were familiar with every phase of the case, by paroling the prisoner?

LEAPS INTO FALLS.

Unknown Man Jumps Into Niagara Rapids and Disappears from Sight.

Niagara Falls, July 19.—An unknown man leaped from the bridge between the mainland and Green Island into the rapids at 7:40 o'clock last night and was swept over the American Falls to death. Those who saw him say he waved his hand as he was carried by the current toward the brink. It is known that he entered on the bridge from the Green Island end, walking alone, aided by a crutch and a cane. When about 150 feet out on the bridge he made the leap to death, leaving his cane and crutch behind, also a note which reads:

"Tell my friends I have gone to glory."

Emperor Abdicates.

Seoul, Corea, July 19.—The Emperor of Corea has formally abdicated, after a long conference with the Elder Statesmen of the Empire. After a secret all night conference the Corean Cabinet recommended to the Emperor, first, that he sign with his own seal the disputed treaty; second, that an Emperor regent be appointed; third, that he proceed to Tokio and apologize in person to the Emperor of Japan. The Cabinet urged acceptance of this program as the only solution that would prevent the Emperor's forcible dethronement.

Met Sister After Forty Years.

Ocean City, July 19.—Joseph Robinson received a visit from his sister Wednesday night whom he had not seen in forty years. Although the sister, Mrs. Mary Dittmer, lives at Minatola, she did not know that her brother was alive until she was found by Mrs. C. F. Nabb, who had heard Robinson speak of her and interested herself in the case. Mrs. Dittmer, who is seventy-one years old, probably was the first female born at Ocean City, where her brother has lived all of his seventy-two years.

VARDAMAN BELIEVER IN UNWRITTEN LAW

GOVERNOR PARDONS WOMAN WHO KILLED HER FAMILY PHYSICIAN.

Governor Vardaman, of Mississippi, yesterday afternoon granted an unconditional pardon to Mrs. Birdsong. Mrs. Birdsong was convicted of the murder of Dr. Butler, her family physician, who, she claimed, had insulted her. She was sentenced to prison for five years. Her case was appealed, but the sentence was affirmed. She has never been in prison. In announcing the pardoning of Mrs. Birdsong, Governor Vardaman frankly declared that he based his action largely on the unwritten law. "I believe it should prevail in this State," he said.

The pardon was granted at the conclusion of the hearing granted by the governor on the subject. The delegation from Lawrence county, which had come to protest against Mrs. Birdsong's application, returned home highly indignant at Governor Vardaman's action.

"TOO MANY CHEAP SPORTS" IN MONMOUTH COUNTY.

Judge Foster Severe in Comment When Deciding Suit to Recover Poker Losses.

"There are too many cheap sports in this county playing for stakes they cannot afford to lose, and then repudiating their bets," said Judge John E. Foster, on the bench of the Monmouth County Court at Freehold yesterday morning, when he rendered judgment in favor of Elias Goldsmith for $40 and costs as against Abram Morris, the money having been lost to Morris in two poker games. The stricture, however, was not intended for Mr. Goldsmith, but for Mr. Morris, who had previously recovered $150 from Goldsmith which the latter had won from him on a wager. Goldsmith is a wealthy merchant at Keyport, and Morris is proprietor of a livery stable at the same place.

During the last shrievalty contest Goldsmith wagered Morris $150 that C. Asa Francis would be the next sheriff. When the latter was inducted into office Harvey Bedle, the stakeholder, paid over the $300 to Goldsmith, whereupon Morris brought suit to recover the $150, setting up the plea that it was a gambling act and not properly conducted.

STATE PROBERS TACKLE EPIDEMIC AT HOSPITAL.

Insane Asylum Medical Director Admits 70 Typhoid Cases in Institution.

An investigation of the typhoid fever outbreak at the State Insane Hospital was begun at Trenton yesterday by the board of managers, but, owing to apparent friction between the hospital officials, not much progress was made. The managers called before them Dr. John W. Ward, medical director, and Warden William P. Hayes. From questions put to them it seemed that some of the orders of the State board of health regarding remedical measures at the hospital were merely forwarded by Dr. Ward to Warden Hayes without instructions as to what course could be pursued.

It appeared that other of the State board's orders were not transmitted to the warden. The managers will continue their investigation of the epidemic next Tuesday. Dr. Ward admitted to the managers today that there have been seventy typhoid cases at the hospital and ten deaths. One of the latted occurred yesterday—Joseph Wilkinson of Princeton.

FIREWORKS EXPLODE IN LAUNCH, FIRING TANK.

Historian Lee and Four Companions Plunge Into Delaware River.

The bravery as well as the swimming powers of Historian Francis B Lee and four other companions were tested last night, when fireworks were ignited in a gasoline launch in which they were seated at the carnival at the White City, one of Trenton's suburban resorts, and Lee had to take the choice of being blown up with gasoline or swimming ashore.

They had a load of fireworks on the lake, and were proceeding to set them off, when a spark from a cigar fell among the rockets and exploded them. The boat caught fire, but Lee clung to it and tried to put out the flames. The others were hard at work when some one called from the shore that there were ten gallons of gasoline in the launch tank. Lee at once gave the orders to plunge overboard and swim ashore.

As soon as they had plunged over the side of the launch the fire reached the tank and it exploded. Everybody succeeded in getting ashore.

Stole $100 By Mistake.

Richmond, Va., July 19.—While trying to convince his wife of the danger in carrying her purse dangling from her belt, John Endergrass, a well known citizen, unconsciously lifted $100 from an unknown woman yesterday afternoon, and not knowing how to find the person to whom it belonged, turned the entire amount over to a church. The husband had been telling his wife that her purse might be snatched any moment on a crowded street, and, while standing in a crowd with her, determined upon a practical demonstration for her benefit. He stowed his possession in his pocket and accompanied his better half home, where upon some pretext he persuaded her to disclose her purse. The husband then began to sit up and take notice. "Then I guess I must have put my nimble fingers on the wrong waist," he said.

VanArsdale Talks!

The swinging gait of the modern athletic girl is a pleasure for the eye to see. If there is a bit of humanity on this green footstool that revels in abundant good health and happiness, it is the young girl who wears a comely shirt waist suit and a pair of "VanArsdale's" Oxfords.

"VanArsdale's" Oxfords are the most shapely, the most thoroughly stylish and the most comely low shoe that a girl can possibly wear.

"VanArsdale's" Oxfords are made in the popular dull tweed gun metal calf, as well as in shiny patent leather and tan Russian calf.

11 COUNCILS WITHDRAW FROM FUNERAL BENEFIT

BREACH BETWEEN JR. O.U.A.M. COUNCILS AND FUNERAL BENEFIT ASS'N.

The breach between the local councils of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics and the Funeral, Benefit Association of the United States has reached an acute stage at Newark, where two more councils of that county announced their intention of following the lead taken by nine councils Tuesday, by withdrawing from the national order.

In Hudson county, also, it is stated, that the conditions are practically the same. In fact, State Councilor Frank Sharp is doing all in his power to have the councils throughout the State withdraw from the national organization, and it is said that he is meeting with a fair amount of success.

A circular letter, to be sent broadcast among the members throughout the State, has been drafted by Theodore D. Gottlieb, of 826 Broad street, Newark, counsel for the local order, which asks some very pertinent questions regarding the Funeral Benefit Association.

In twenty-six States, where members, who are insured in the Funeral Benefit Association, reside, it is said, suits have been instituted against the association, and it is thought that investigations will be begun in all the States notified of existing conditions in the association.

The trouble seems to lie in the fact that the Funeral Benefit Association is alleged to have been managed in a loose manner, and arbitrarily takes a very high-handed position with all members who are insured.

Robert Carson, of New Brunswick, is one of the directors of the Association.

BURGLARS STUPEFY FAMILY.

Make Rich Haul of Jewelry, Watches and Money.

Asbury Park, July 19.—Burglars, after stupefying H. I. Jarvis and the members of his family Wednesday night, collected diamond rings, diamond brooches, gold watches, $70 in money and two pairs of trousers, with which they made way. Jarvis, who awakened at 6 o'clock in the morning, believes the robbers used chloroform. None of the occupants of the house heard any noise, although Jarvis says he was awakened late at 4 o'clock in the morning. He is unable to understand why the burglars took away his trousers and left his other garments behind. He estimates his loss at $500.

The intruders gained entrance through a kitchen window and evidently were professionals. One lonesome policeman guards the neighborhood in which the robbery occurred, and the neighbors are going to ask Council Monday night for reinforcements.

Takes Mr. Stafford's Place.

H. P. Marshall, who has been president of the Philadelphia Branch of the American Multigraph Sales Company, and who has been promoted to the New York management of the company, has leased the property at No. 3-Verdon street, now occupied by James A. Stafford, of the same company, and will move there soon. Mr. Stafford will leave in a few days for Cleveland, where the company's factory is located and on August 27 will sail with Mrs. Stafford and their son on the Coronia for England. Mr. Stafford will be located in London. Mrs. Stafford, who has been quite ill, has gone to Asbury Park to recuperate prior to sailing abroad.

Cause of "Georgia" Horror.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—The recent fatal accident in the turret of the battle ship Georgia will be declared by the Board of Inquiry the result of a "flare back," thus officially confirming the theory of the disaster already given in despatches from Boston. It will be reported by the Board that when the breech of the eight inch gun was thrown open, after it had been discharged, some shreds of burning cloth or unconsumed gas were driven into the turret and upon the powder about to be inserted for the next charge.

DR. CLAYTON'S REMEDIES for ...DOGS...

The owners of dogs should realize the importance of keeping them in a good healthy condition, especially at this time of the year. We highly recommend Dr. Clayton's Remedies for dogs as a safe and quick cure for each illness. Every owner of a dog should secure a copy of Dr. Clayton's Treatise on Dogs — giving symptoms and treatment. It is free. Ask us for it.

ERRORS, SAYS THE POPE.

Rome, July 19.—The Syllabus promulgated by the Pope on Wednesday with regard to the so-called modernism in the faith contains a preamble which sets forth that Roman Catholic authors, under the pretext of examining dogmas, explain them in the name of history in such a fashion that the dogmas themselves disappear. To prevent such errors, the preamble says, the Pope has ordered a congregation of inquisition to note and reprove the principal errors, and with his approbation sixty-five persons are condemned. These include the following:

The resurrection of the Saviour is not a historical fact, but is purely supernatural. It can neither be demonstrated, nor is it demonstrable.

The Catholic church became the head of all churches not by Divine ordinance, but by purely political circumstances.

The Christian doctrine was first Judaic, then Pauline, then Hellenic, then universal.

The principal articles of the Apostles' Creed had not the same significance to the primitive Christians as they have to the Christians of the present time.

GOT GUN OUT FOR "ELKS,"

Game Lust Roused Tyrolean Immigrant in Hoboken.

Andrew Hechtel, an old Tyrolean chamois hunter, tall, bronzed, with a grizzled beard, with a rifle under his arm, who had just quit the Frederick der Grosse at her pier in Hoboken and was standing near the gate, heard someone remark:

"They're Elks, I say."

"What," asked Hechtel in German of a companion, "are they talking about?"

"Elks," the latter replied. "Philadelphia is full of them. There are just about twenty of them."

"Where are they?" the other man almost shouted, as his eyes gleamed and he began mechanically to take his rifle from the case. "Show me them and tell me where is Philadelphia."

By this time he had his rifle half out of the case, and the crowd fell back, thinking he was crazy. Special Officer Andrew Hecht seized the gun and case and refastened it. He had much difficulty in restraining the hunter, who, knowing nothing of the "best people on earth," wanted to bag a few of them in River street until the matter was explained to him.

Mr. Hechtel told Mr. Hecht that he had been in a city but once, and that was when he went to Innsbruck a good many years ago. The mountains of the Tyrol had been his home all his life, and he had known no other.

NEWARKER BADLY HURT.

Silas Smith Thrown from Wagon in Runaway in Elizabeth.

Silas Smith, of 19 North Fourteenth street, Newark, was seriously injured in a runaway at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon. He is in the Elizabeth General Hospital with a fractured collarbone, several scalp wounds and other bruises about the body. Because of his advanced age, sixty-one years, his condition is considered serious.

Smith had his horse hitched to a tree on Elizabeth avenue near the Long Branch Railroad tracks. He untied the rope and got into the vehicle, when the horse took fright at a passing train and bolted down the avenue. It attempted to turn into Second street after running several blocks and swerved the buggy into a tree. The light vehicle was smashed completely, and Smith was thrown into the street several yards away. The horse escaped injury.

MR. ISHAM WILL RECUPERATE.

Declines to Speak of Boom for Governorship.

Henry H. Isham, former president of the New Jersey State Agricultural Society and Elizabeth's largest real estate owner, who is being strongly boomed in that city as a prospective Democratic candidatet for Governor, started last night for Chicago, where he will be joined by his son. They will then journey to Minneapolis and will spend a month in Minnesota and in cruising on the Great Lakes.

Mr. Isham is chairman of Elizabeth's "old home week" celebration committee, and said yesterday he wanted to recuperate his health so as to be in good shape to help conduct that important event. When asked about his Gubernatorial aspirations Mr. Isham smiled and significantly remark: "I will discuss that matter with the press later on."

SENATORS BUSY MAKING PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL.

Trenton, N. J., July 19.—It was announced at the State House yesterday that there will be no session of the Senate for three weeks, that time being necessary to frame the public utilities bill, which the Senate will pass at its next session. The committee framing this measure is composed of Hillery, Morris and Robbins, of Burlington, Republicans, and Minturn, of Hudson, Democrat.

MAKES WIFE HIS BOSS.

Promises to Be in at 9 o'Clock Nights and Give Her All His Pay.

After Justice of the Peace William Budenbender, of Hoboken, had married Florence Stover, 19 years old, to Harry Winfield, 37 yeras old, and handed the young woman the wedding certificate, she asked him if he would not draw up an agreement which she said her newly made husband would sign. The justice asked her what it was. She then read the following, which Budenbender wrote down:

"I solemnly promise that I will never stay out later than nine o'clock at night, will always treat my wife with the kindest consideration and will also let her have my salary at the end of the week, she to give me what money she thinks best for my use."

The young woman then took the paper and gave it to her husband. She told him to sign, which he did, and they left the office apparently happy.

FARMERS PLAN PICNIC.

Great Outing of Agriculturists to Be Held at Verona Lake.

The annual basket picnic of the Grangers of Essex, Morris and Union counties will be held on August 16 at Verona Lake Park. The address of the day will be delivered by former Governor Bachelder, of New Hampshire, master of the National Grange.

The Grangers' picnic is a great annual event for the farmers of North Jersey, and the attendance is usually between fifteen and twenty thousand persons.

Traction Investigation.

New York, July 19.—Supported by all the authority with which the State has clothed the Public Utilities Commission, that body is to begin immediately a sweeping investigation of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company and of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, the two largest public service corporations operated in New York city and the two which control local traffic and transportation facilities in its most populous boroughs. In the course of the inquiry, which is expected to extend over a long period, the commission hopes to throw light upon such important questions as the validity of the Interborough-Metropolitan merger, the legality of the refusal of both the Manhattan and the Brooklyn monopolies to give transfers for a single fare between certain of their leased lines, the question of a single fare to Coney Island, charges of excessive stock watering and other problems in the solution of which the public is deeply interested. For the first time these subjects are to come under the investigation of a body clothed not only with adequate judicial powers to ascertain the facts, but also with competent authority to enforce its findings.

One Killed By Lightning.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 19.—During a fierce electrical storm on the coast yesterday afternoon, continuing for five hours with uninterrupted furs and accompanied by incessant thunder and lightning, Asbury Park and vicinity was in a turmoil of excitement. The fire companies were kept constantly on the move while the loud detonations here and there announced the danger point. Cottages and business houses were struck by bolts, one man was killed outright, a woman was paralyzed and the lightning played antics so strange as to seem almost incredibale.

L. V. BELL DYING IN EGYPT.

Horseman on Honeymoon With Former Wife of John E. Madden.

Cincinnati, July 19.—A relative of Louis V. Bell, who married the divorced wife of John E. Madden, the turfman, received a cablegram from Egypt, yesterday saying that Mr. Bell was very ill. It was reported later that another relative received a message saying that Bell was dying.

Mr. Bell is more than sixty years of age, but when he left for Europe on his honeymoon with the former Mrs. Madden he appeared in good health.

Elizabeth Man Arrested Trying to Climb a Tree, Believing He Was a Monkey.

Crazed, it is supposed, by the excessive heat, Henry Walker, of Elizabeth, became violently insane on Wednesday, and ran through the streets barking like a dog. He was arrested by two policemen in the act of climbing a tree, and declared he was a monkey. He was committed to jail Wednesday morning for a medical examination to determine his sanity.

THOSE ENAMELED SIGNS.

"Of course, you've noticed," remarked the observing citizen, "how the white enameled letters of window signs will persist in coming off the plate glass and leaving queer, mis-spelled, meaningless words. Once in a whilt, however, they're not so wholly without meaning after all. This morning, happening to glance up at the window of a store where shades and awnings are kept, I was a little startled to see this inscription before me:

"SHADES AND FIXTURES INSIDE."

"Now, if that happened to be a cheap saloon instead of an upholsterer's shop, wouldn't you think that was a new name for five-cent whisky?"

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

Success usually comes to all who strive for it, and now, with four willing workers to aid him, Ray was rapidly making a success of this venture. Old Cy, the most valuable assistant, was indefatigable. He not only kept the larder well supplied with game, but tended and set traps, worked in the woods with the rest between times, and his cheerful optimism and droll humor bridged many a stormy day and shortened many a weary tramp. And he seemed to grow younger in this new, helpful life for others. His eyes were bright, his step elastic, his spirits buoyant, his strength tireless.

With Chip safe and provided for, with Ray succeeding in manhood's natural ambition, Old Cy saw his heart's best hopes nearing fruition, and for these two and in these two all his interest centered.

Only once was the bond of feeling between Ray and Chip referred to by Old Cy, and then in response to a wish of Ray's that he might hear from her.

"I don't think ye've cause to worry now, arter ye've sent her word what ye're doin' 'n' who for," he answefed. "Chip's true blue, not one o' the fickle sort, 'n' once she keers fer a man, she won't give him up till he's married or dead. I think ye'd orter sent her word sooner,—ye know she run 'way out o' spunk,—but when ye go to her like a man 'n' say, 'I've been workin' 'n' waitin' fer ye all the time,' thar won't be no quarrelin'."

"I'm not so sure about that," responded Ray, soberly. "From what Uncle Martin said, my chance is gone with Miss Chip, and I don't blame her for feeling so. Like every young fellow, I took it for granted that she was in love with me and ready to fall into my arms on call. Then I hadn't any plans in life, anyway, and, like a fool, believed it made no difference to her. To mix matters up still more, Hannah crowded herself into our affairs and said things to Chip, with the result that Chip got mad, ran away, and you know the rest."

"Wal," asserted Old Cy, his eyes twinkling, "the time to hug a gal is when she's willin,' 'n' ye orter spunked up that night 'fore ye come away 'n' told her ye was callatin' to make yer fortin' in the woods, an' that ye wanted her to wait 'n' share it—then hugged 'n' kissed her a little more by way o' bindin' the bargain, an'—knowin' that gal ez I do, she'd fought Hannah, tooth 'n' nail, 'n' walked through fire 'n' brimstun fer ye. I think, stead o' hidin' herself fer two years, an' changin' her name, she'd 'a' tramped clear to Grindstone jest to tell ye her troubles, 'n', if need be she'd 'a' starved fer ye. I tell ye, boy, wimmin like her is scarce in this world, 'n' when ye find one young 'n' pretty ez she is, hang on to her an' hang hard."

"I know it now well enough," returned Ray, ruefully; "but that don't help matters. Then that fortune you found for her makes my case all the worse, and Chip quite independent."

"It do, it do," chuckled Old Cy, as if glad of it, "an' all the more need o' you hustlin'. It's a case o' woodchuck with ye now. But don't git discouraged. Jest dig. Chip's worth it, ten times over, 'n' no man ever worked to win a woman 'thout bein' bettered by it."

It was terse and homely advise, and not only convinced Ray that he had neglected one whom he now felt meant home, wife, happiness, and all that life might mean for him, but made him realize that all possible striving and self-denial must be made in atonement. With whom and what sort of people Chip had found asylum, he knew not. What influence they would have upon her feelings was an equally unknown matter; and worse than that, the ogre of another suitor for Chip's favor now entered Ray's calculations, and the slang truism, "There are others," was with him every waking moment—a much-deserved punishment, all womankind will say.

CHAPTER XXXII.

One day while Aunt Abby and Chip were enjoying the newly furnished home of Uncle Jud, a capacious carriage drawn by a handsome pair of horses halted there and Martin and Angie alighted.

"We are taking a cross-country drive for an outing," he explained, after Angie had kissed Chip tenderly and greetings had been exchanged. "We have waited for you, Miss Runaway, to come and visit us," he added, turning to Chip, "until we couldn't wait any longer and so came to look for you. We have also some news that may interest you. Old Cy has been heard from at last. He spent a year looking for you. He has now gone into the woods, to my camp, where Ray located for the winter, and when spring comes, I can guess where they will head for."

How welcome this news was to Chip, her face fully indicated; but neither Martin nor Angie realized how much or for what reason it interested this soft-voiced, gracious lady whom Chip called Aunt Abby. They knew Uncle Jud was Old Cy's brother and that they had once been sailors from Bayport, but the long-ago romance of Aunt Abby's life was unknown to them.

And now ensued a welcome to the callers such as only Uncle Jud and Aunt Mandy could offer.

"We sorter feel we robbed ye o' Vera," Uncle Jud explained, "though 'twa'n't any intention on our part, an' so ye must gin us some chance to make amends. We callate 'twa'n't no fault o' yourn, either, only one o' them happenin's that was luck for us."

That evening was one long to be remembered by all who were present, for Chip's history, as told by Martin and Angie, was the entertaining topic, and its humorous side was made the most of by Martin. Chip was in no wise annoyed by Martin's fun-making, either. Instead, conscious of the good-will and affection of the friends who had rescued her from the wilderness, she rather enjoyed it and laughed heartily at Martin's description of various incidents, especially her first appearance in their camp, and the language she used.

"I couldn't help swearing," she explained. "I never had heard much except 'cuss' words. I think also now, as I recall my life at Tim's Place, I would never have dared that desperate mode of escape had I not been hardened by such a life. I wish I could see Old Tomah once more," she added musingly, "and I'd like to send him some gift. He was the best-hearted Indian I ever saw or heard of, and his queer teachings about spites and how they rewarded us for good deeds and punished us for evil ones was no harm, for it set me thinking. The one thought that encouraged me most during those awful days and nights alone in the woods was the belief that among the spites which I was sure followed me was my mother's soul. I've never changed in my belief, either, and shall always feel that she guided me to your camp."

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

IMPURE BLOOD.

If you could see inside the stomachs of most people who suffer from impure blood you would wonder that they are not suffering worse. The undigested portion of food eaten days ago is still lying there, fermenting, decaying and clogging the intestines.

LITTLE SON OF MRS. HAHN.

From this disgusting mass the blood must derive nourishment to carry to every organ of the body. Think of it. Is it any wonder their complexion is bad, their breath offensive, their bowels inactive and their health impaired in every way? Is it any wonder that they can get no relief from blood purifiers, purgatives when as fast as the blood is cleansed it is tainted again? Try a rational treatment. Take something to help the stomach rid itself of this stagnant mass and to keep it from accumulating. Then see if you don't improve. One bottle of Cooper's New Discovery will prove my words to you. I have seen hundreds of just such cases and here's one of them:

"About a year ago my little son, who is nearly four years of age, suffered an attack of scarlet fever. Soon after he contracted what we thought was some form of eczema. Sores and blotches broke out on him and he became weak and peevish."

"We tried physicians and medicines but nothing seemed to help him until several weeks ago we started to give him Cooper's New Discovery and noticed an improvement almost immediately. After a few doses we noticed his appetite was better and gradually his little face assumed a brighter appearance. His skin is now cleared up and I want to thank you sincerely for what the medicine has done for him." Mrs. Herman Hahn, 823 Johnson St., Nashville, Tenn.

Ask us about Mr. Cooper's famous medicines. We are the agents.

LITERARY

No more vitally interesting article has appeared in a long time than "Brain and Body," in the July Everybody's. The author, Dr. William Hanna Thomson, a recognized authority, presents what to mose of us will be an entirely new conception of the brain, facts of the greatest practical importance in mental training, and he puts it in a simple, easily comprehended form unusual in a scientific writer. It is a notable contribution. Fiction occupies a suitably prominent place in the July number with such writers as Mary R. S. Andrews, Stewart Edward White, O. Henry, and Lloyd Osbourne, but the editor finds space besides for a number of interesting articles. One of the most ntertaining of these is "The Aristocracy of the Circus," by Hartley Davis, an historical account of certain famous circus families. It is illustrated with a number of unusual circus photographs.

President H. S. Pritchett, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology contributes to the July Atlantic a remarkable article in "The Power that Makes for Peace." In spite of the inborn fighting qualities of man, the march of evolution is leading invitably towards peace, and this peace shall be attained at last by discipline and refinement. An age-long racial history proves that true patriotism and loyalty rest very often in the military profession, and President Pritchett therefore makes a plea ofr young men to enter the army. He shows that countries which, like China, belittle the soldier's life and exalt the life of commerce, have, like China, placed themselves "at the mercy of the so-called Christian nations." The Bible says, "Blessed are the peace-makers," and under this head the soldiery may be counted.

The Technical World Magazine for August has a very good piece of fiction in the story by Harry M. Lawrence, called "The Bag O' Dust." It is a tale of the mining camps, of the love of one man for another and of a thrilling battle for the bag of gold which one of the friends tries to protect for the other's sake. The tale is well-told and the action is thrilling, while the conclusion brings a surprise which leaves memory tingling. Mr. Lawrence has shown a pleasing picture of the regard of one rough chum for another and of the life in which miners of the west develop interesting traits of character. It is a story which etirs and interests.

Any one of the four things in the June American Magazine would have made the number a good one. Edwin Fefevre's charactd sketch of Harriman, Ellis Parker Butler's story of "Wetter New York in 1915," Ray Stannard Baker's account of "The Negro in Southern City Life," or Ida M. Tarbell's story of Grover Cleveland's great fight in 1887. In the same number the author of "Emmy Lou" tells another Letitia story Elizabeth Irwin writes of the most famous artists' model in the world. F. Marion Crawford goes on with his serial, and David Grayson writes of "The Tramp" in his "Adventures in Contentment" series. Other contributors of stories and poems are: M. J. Reynolds, Witter Bynner, Walter A. Frost, Frances Bent Dillington, Cale Young Rice, and Walter Prichard Eaton.

The Circle for July is out with a cover design appropriate to the Fourth and to the noisy boy who rules the country on that day with his inevitable firecracker. The opening article by Fred'k Greene, Assistant General Agent of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, gives us a most refreshing insight into the practical workings of that great organization after sixty-three years' hard-won experience among the very needy. Its Sea-Breeze home for the poor unfortunates, its house-to-house cooking teacher, its promptly investigating relief bureau, are all so skilfully managed and interdependent that the "almighty dollar" is made to do the greatest amount of good where it is most sorely needed.

A London editor pronounces Current Literature the best magazine in the world. This is not so surprising as it may at first appear when it is remembered that this clever eclectic news magazine counts among its contributors, in a sense, all the dietors and reporters of the world. Every month we find between its cover the cream of what has been said in politics, literature, science and religion. The unusually brilliant July issue tells with absorbing interest the story of Harry Orchard's Confession. It discusses the War for the Sake of Peace, the Jingoes in Japan and the Coming Crisis in Ireland. Striking character sketches of Knox, Fairbanks, and the Three-Year-Old Heir to the Throne of the Czar will make you forget for the time being the sultry heat of July, while articles on Edwin Godkin, the Glittering Genius of Edgar Saltus, Huysmans, the Decadent who bacem a Mystic, Arthur Symons "the Whistler of the Critics," and a rediscovered genius (with quaint illustrations), will at once stimulate and delight the mind.

BRIDGETON'S OLDEST HOUSE BEING RAZED.

On Site Will Be Erected Second Federal Building In Southern Jersey.

One of Bridgeton's oldest residences, erected over a century ago, is being torn down and the ground it occupied will be used by the United States Government for the erection of the second government building in South Jersey. The old house stands at the corner of Bank and East Commerce streets, in that city, and was built in the year 1799 by Colonel Enos Seeley, who died soon after its completion.

The house was then bought by General Ebenezer Elmer, who served in the Revolutionary war. After his death his son, Lucius, who became Judge of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, became owner.

Since March 11, 1883, when Judge Elmer died at the age of 90, the house has been occupied by caretakers.

The site is one of the most valuable in Bridgeton, standing on high ground and within a few hundred feet of the City Hall.

DUKE MARRIAGE DENIED.

Didn't Wed Tobacco Trust Head and Mrs. Inman.

Judge Theodore B. Booraem, of New Brunswick, who figured recently in many newspapers as having married James B. Duke, head of the Tobacco Trust, and Mrs. William Inman at the Duke estate at Somerville on Saturday last, denies that he had the privilege of tieing the nuptial knot.

Judge Booraem laughed heartily when he heard the report.

"I have never set eyes on either Mr. Duke or Mrs. Inman in my life," he said, "so I certainly did not marry them. Yes, I was at Duke's farm last Saturday, but I was on a pleasure trip. My wife and I and Senator Silzer and Mrs. Silzer went to Somerville in the Senator's automobile and enjoyed the beautiful grounds of the Duke estate. But no wedding bells rang."

STATE PRISON KEEPER QUITS AFTER 25 YEARS.

Patrick F. McManus, of Trenton, after being a keeper at the State prison for twenty-five years, will retire from that post on Monday. He says that a quarter of a century of work among convicts is enough for any man, and he says he proposes to go where there are no convicts.

Mr. McManus leaves th institution with an absolutely clean record. He has not even received a reprimand in the quarter of a century he has been an office, and the prisoners all revere him. He is kind, but firm in his treatment of the unfortunates, and they asked Head Keeper Osborne yesterday if they could do something for the deputy keeper. He told them that continued obedience to the prison rules would be best appreciated by him.

GOES FROM JAIL TO DEATH.

Holden, Sentenced for Stealing Rides On Freight Trains, Tries It Again.

Henry Holden, who completed serving a term in jail at New Brunswick yesterday on a charge of stealing rides on Pennsylvania Railroad freight trains, was released, and about an hour later his dead body was found along the railroad tracks near that place.

Although he had promised never to ride on a freight again, he tried to board one to get out of town, fell under the wheels and was instantly killed. The man carried a Bellevue Hospital Medical College card, showing that he had been treated in that institution. Nothing is known of his relatives at New Brunswick.

New Brunswick Soaked.

A fierce electric storm upset New Brunswick yesterday afternoon. The First and Third wards suffered particularly. John street was under two feet of water and many places were hit by lightning.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. John M. Bettman.

Mrs. Mary Wilbur Bettman, wife of John M. Bettman, died yesterday, at her home on Willow avenue, following a long illness. She was the daughter of the late Thomas and Sarah Wilbur, of Albany, N. Y., and had resided in this city for the past thirty years. During the greater part of that time she was a member of the First Presbyterian church. Beside her husband she is survived by two brothers, Freeholder Samuel P. T. Wilbur, of this city, and William Wilbur, of Albany; also one sister, Mrs. Thomas S. Young, of Fanwood. The funeral will be private.

Since When?

NO NEGRO IN ELKS.

Member, Against Whom Objection Was Made, an Arabian and Within Rules.

The report that the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks had ordered Newark Lodge, No. 21, to investigate the pedigree of one of its members as to whether he had negro blood in his veins was explained after the return of the Lodge from Philadelphia last night.

Hadji Kehar, the member in question, is a full-blooded Arabian, and was admitted into the order before the color line was officially drawn, although even under the existing rule he would not be barred. Through some misunderstanding, the Grand Lodge got the idea that he was a man of negro extraction who had evaded the rules and an investigation was ordered. It only remains for the Newark lodge to set the grand body right.

AMATEUR COPS ANGRY.

Metuchen Volunteer Marshals Want Charges Retracted.

The non-patrolling marshals of Metuchen have served notice upon Mayor G. F. Van Sicklen and members of the Borough Council, calling upon them to either substantiate charges of graft and bribery, or else publicly retract them.

At the last meeting of the Council the powers of the marshals were limited because of automobile crusades, and the intimation was made that the marshals were making too much money out of motorists. The non-patrolling marshals are mostly New York business men, commuters, who become marshals for the public safety, on the same principle that men become volunteer firemen in small towns.

Miss Ruth Van Vliet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Van Vliet, of Washington avenue, has gone to New Germantown, N. J., to visit friends.

TO FIGHT BELL COMPANY.

Independent Telephone Lines Organizing to Oppose Trust.

Pittsburg, July 19.—Another step in consolidating the independent telephone companies to compete against the Bell was taken yesterday, when a half-million-dollar deal was put through, by which the American Union company took over the Tri-State Telephone Company, which operates in Fayette and other Western Pennsylvania counties. The American Union has formed alliances in the East, which now extend from Baltimore to New York and Syracuse. Harris burg and Altoona are reached, and lines connecting Erie and Newcastle have been absorbed.

The company promises to break into Pittsburg within a few months. Sharp competition in long-distance service will follow the merger of the independent companies.

HORSE THROWS TOPAKYAN.

On Way With the Persian Ambassador to Davenport's Farm.

H. H. Topakyan, of Morris Plains, was thrown from his horse yesterday, and is now lying at his home, Persian Court, in a serious condition from shock. Mr. Topakyan was accompanied by the Persian Ambassador, and was on his way to the farm of Homer Davenport to call on the cartoonist.

His mount was a high-spirited Kentucky horse which he had purchased recently, and the animal was frightened by a passing automobile. Mr. Topakyan was picked up by S. H. Lynd, who was in the automobile, and was taken to his home.

The Ambassador accompanied him to Persian Court, and left later for New York.

The baseball game scheduled between the local newspaper men and the Newark Evening News nine, for tomorrow afternoon, has been cancelled by the Newarkers. Their battery is in poor shape.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was — Is — Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

FISK IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Newark News Picks Him as the Man of the Hour in Union.

PERKINS' SUCCESSOR

Paving His Way To Assembly, State Senate and Congress—His Efficient Work As Jury Foreman.

The Newark News regards Mayor Fisk, or rather, Grand Juryman Fisk, as the real rift in the Perkins lute. It has this to say of the ambitious assemblyman's chances:

"There is more truth than a little in the report from Union county to the effect that the regular Republicans are inclined to sidetrack Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, last year's Republican leader in the House. Not that they love Perkins less, but that they love the Republican party more. For Perkins, like Caesar, is ambitious, and his ambitions are likely to clash severely with those of other and somewhat more acceptable ones.

Mr. Perkins has, in the language of the Union county politicians, "had all that's comin' to him." He was first elected in February, 1905, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Assemblyman-elect Embree. In November of the same year he was regularly elected for a second term by a plurality of 3,530. Last year he received a third election, but his plurality fell down to 1,180. Another such decrease in popularity at the polls would elect a Democrat. Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Perkins was last year slated for speaker—before the election—and was the leader of the Republican House, his success, if again nominated, is held to be very dubious.

"But this is not all. Mr. Perkins is believed to be casting his eyes in the direction of Senator Ackerman's seat, even before Mr. Ackerman is given the usual party compliment of a second term; or, if this is not accessible, the Westfield ex-Mayor feels that the place occasionally occupied by Charles N. Fowler in the House of Representatives would be just about his size. In this he might not be far wrong, but there are interested parties opposed to his going to Washington.

"The third and probably a still more effectual objection to Mr. Perkins is his antagonism to the "new idea" element, which is very strong in Union county. Mr. Perkins has had no use whatever for reform or reformers. He announced, early last year, in the Assembly chamber, that they made him tired, and he has, ever since, done all in his power to defeat real reform measures and substitute 'regular' bills in their places. One thing to his credit was his opposition to the re-election of Senator Dryden, but whether that will offset the effects of his antagonism to reform remains to be seen.

"Local option is another issue that will work, to some degree, against Mr. Perkins. It isn't a very strong factor in Union county politics as yet, but Mr. Perkins has failed to meet in open debate the champions of this issue, not only, but has failed to appear before his constituents as often as desired, to explain to them his official conduct. But, after all, these things are mere excuses. If the Union county Republican voters really wanted Mr. Perkins for a fourth term as Assemblyman, or for State Senator, or for Congressman, none of these trivialties would materially interfere. But since the last grand jury has done its double duty and done it so cleanly, so forcefully, so skilfully and so thoroughly, another man has risen into the political spot light of Union county, and that man is Charles J. Fisk, of Plainfield."

NO COLOR LINE FOR THEM.

State Dental Society Elects Negro Dentist to Membership.

The New Jersey State Dental Society refused to draw the color line at Asbury Park yesterday and elected to membership Dr. John D. Ballard, a negro dentist, of Orange. There were twelve dissenting votes. Ballard's application was supported by Drs. Adams, Richards and Fisher, white dentists of Orange. Dr. Ballard served his apprenticeship with Dr. Adams's office. Dr. Ballard is a grand juryman of Essex county, and it is said many of his patrons are white.

Forty-four new members were elected at the session just adjourned. The new officers are: Dr. Walter Woolsey, of Elizabeth, president; Dr. Frank Gregory, of Newark, vice-president; Dr. Charles W. Meeker, of Newark, secretary (re-elected for thirty-third consecutive term), and Dr. H. A. Hull, of New Brunswick, treasurer.

Miss Amy L. Case, of West Fourth street, is visiting relatives at Easton.

EXPECTED BOMBARDMENT OF BAD EGGS AT 'PLAINS

LOCAL-OPTION SPEAKER TOLD AUDIENCE OF HIS FEARS

Citizens of Scotch Plains to the number of 200 attended an open-air local option meeting at that place last night, under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League. The meeting was held on the lawn at the Baptist church. Rev. Emmett H. Curtis, of Newark, general manager of the league, was the speaker.

Mr. Curtis startled his audience by saying that he had been informed that if he ever spoke at Scotch Plains he would be rotten-egged as people in the town kept sick hens to lay eggs for men like him.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins came in for a large share of criticism for the way in which, according to the speaker, he straddled the liquor question at Trenton. The speaker said that all efforts to meet him in debate had been futile, so the voters would have to decide the question for themselves next fall. During the evening stereopticon views were shown.

P. S. C. TO PLACE ITS WIRES UNDERGROUND

IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS SECTION DOES NOT INCLUDE FEED WIRE

With a view to placing service wires in the underground conduits in the business section of the city, where the city proposes to lay permanent pavement, Supt. James Arnold, of the local plant of the Public Service Corporation, has had some of his men making surveys during the past few days. A report was in circulation that the company was planning to put the large feed wire on Second street underground, but this is denied by Mr. Arnold, who says he knows of no such plan.

The company has underground conduits on Front street, Park avenue, Second street and North avenue, and in the contemplated improvement of laying a brick pavement in some of these streets, the street commissioner has notified this company, as well as other companies affected, giving them an opportunity to complete their work underground before the pavement is laid.

STEPPING OUT OF WINDOW SHE FELL ON HER HEAD.

Mistake of Truell Hall Patron Leads to Painful Accident at That Resort.

Mistaking an open window for an entrance to a veranda, Mrs. M. R. Armour, of Brooklyn, who is staying at Truell Hall, fell a distance of ten feet, last night, and suffered painful injuries.

The windows on the side of the Hall where the veranda does not run are of the type that open all the way. Mrs. Armour, under the veranda that they opened on to the veranda, stepped out of one at 10:30 o'clock. She struck on her head, and was severely shaken, but escaped serious injury. She was taken to her room, where Dr. Harold Corbusier attended her. She is suffering principally from shock.

FIRST BAPTIST SUPPLIES.

Dr. Chambliss's Pulpit to be Filled During August.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the Fist Baptist church, will occupy his pulpit at both services tomorrow, and next week he and Mrs. Chambliss will leave town to enjoy their summer vacation. The following supplies have been secured to occupy the pulpit during the absence of the pastor:

July 28, Rev. Charles Fountain, of this city; August 4, Rev. J. W. Musson, of Faith chapel; August 11, Rev. Bergen D. Stelle, of Philadelphia; August 18, Dev. W. T. Dorward, of Stelton; August 25, Rev. Dr. R. F. Y. Pierce, of Scranton; September 1, Rev. Dr. H. A. Griesemer, of Baltimore.

Frightened His Wife.

Richard Grindle, of Lee place, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the City Court this morning, on a charge of drunkenness and disorder. He was arrested last night after he had come home with much strong drink in him, and started to break up the house. His wife fled to the street in fear, and summoned the police. Grindle was penitent this morning, and Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Moldenke, of Watchung, are spending the summer in Maine.

TRUE TAX VALUES NOW

No Increase Expected as Assessments Throughout County Conform to the Law.

LOCAL BOOKS CLOSED

Plainfield Board of Assessors Complete Work After Hearing About 125 Complaints.

During the time the Plainfield Board of Assessors has had its books open for the inspection of local taxpayers, there were about 125 citizens who appeared to complain about the assessments levied. There were no big "kicks," the majority being of minor importance. In the opinion of one member of the Board, the rate for the coming year will not be greatly increased over that of last year. His reasons for this are that there has been a great many changes in the assessments throughout the outlying districts, farm property being assessed nearer its true value. That has not been done before.

While the Board is unable at this time to give an accurate estimate of the increased values in Plainfield, they are known to amount to a considerable sum not only in business property, but in the many large and small dwellings erected during the year. Of course, there will be some additional exemptions, but this is not likely to offset to any large degree the natural increase in values.

Not only the local tax board, but the Union County Tax Board, expects less trouble this year for the reason that the assessment is likely to be more evenly distributed than last year when the new law went into effect. It is argued that the nearer true values are reached throughout the county, the less complaint will be made on the part of individuals, as well as owners of large and small industries.

The local tax books are now closed for further inspection until after they are returned from the county tax board, where they will be sent within a short time. The county board has the right to make such changes as it deems necessary to make the assessment conform to the law, but it is believed that the levy in this city this year is more equal than heretofore and the assessors do not anticipate that many changes in the books will be made.

LIGHTNING BURNED OUT $8,000 GENERATOR

STORM LEADS TO TWO ACCIDENTS AT METUCHEN P.S.C. POWER HOUSE.

A lightning bolt caused one of the new $8,000 generators at the Metuchen power house of the P. S. C. to blow out Wednesday afternoon. Roehr, an inspector of transmission, was injured in putting out the fire that followed.

The bolt burned out several wires, but did not damage the generator seriously. Flames among the rubber fittings followed the blow-out, and Roehr seized a can of fire extinguisher with which to put them out. In swinging the can he brought it in contact with a charged wire and received a heavy shock.

He fell, but did not lose consciousness. His hand and a foot were severely burned. He was attended by a physician and removed to his home. His injuries are not serious.

The damage to the generator did not affect the service. There was reserve power enough to supply all demands.

Tetanus Victim's Condition Critical.

The condition of Louis Meyer, the eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Meyer, of Scotch Plains, who contracted tetanus from a Fourth of July pistol wound, was still critical at noon today. Physicians and trained nurses have been in constant attendance for the past twenty-four hours and every advantage is being taken of the slight hope that his life might be saved. The hand has been operated upon by Dr. Hedges and at present anti-toxin is being used.

A Fresh Air Home Meeting.

A public meeting in the interest of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home will be held in the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow night, beginning at 7:45. Miss Curry and some of the children from the Home will take part in the exercises. An offering will be received for the maintenance of the work.

Porch Card Party.

Miss Nellie Clarkson, of East Second street, entertained a number of friends at a porch card party last night. The porch, enclosed with mosquito netting, was lighted with fancy lanterns. Twelve players enjoyed the affair. Refreshments were served.

MRS. RASH GETS 20 YEARS

FERDIO GIVEN 3 YEARS

Court Tells the Latter it is Not Certain that the Shooting Was Intentional.

Mrs. Edna Rash, colored, found guilty of murder in the second degree, having killed her white husband on June 21, was arraigned for sentence in the Union County Court by Justice Swayzey. The extreme penalty is thirty years, but Justice Swayzey gave the woman twenty years. In pronouncing sentence he made no comment whatever. The negress received her sentence calmly, making no demonstration.

Charles Ferdio, who was found guilty of manslaughter, having killed Fred Rash, a young man residinfi in Elizabeth, was sentenced to three years in State Prison. His counsel made a strong plea in his behalf, telling the court that he did not believe the shooting was intentional. Justice Swayzey commented on this feature of the case, adding that while possibly Ferdio did not intend to kill Rash, he violated the law in carrying a concealed weapon, showing that he had at least some idea of using the revolver if necessary. Ferdio received the sentence quietly and had nothing whatever to say in reply.

Charles Hopes, colored, of this city, who it was expected would be sentenced this morning, will be arraigned before Judge Atwater, on Wednesday, as will also Charles Fay, found guilty of passing a forged check on Harry Werner, of West Front street. The delay in sentencing Hopes has been due to the absence of Judge Atwater from the bench.

Thaddeus Payne, negro, of this city, convicted on a charge of atrocious assault on Lee Johnson, also colored, and who was sentenced to one year in State Prison; also Frank Miller, who was sentenced to two years in State Prison following a conviction for robbery, were taken to Trenton today, where they will begin serving time.

MASTER WORKMEN THERE

Columbia Lodge Entertains Distinguished Guests at a Noteworthy Meeting.

INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS

Musical Entertainment and Refreshments Enjoyed After Session Full of Help and Suggestion for Members.

Columbia Lodge, No. 58, Ancient Order United Workmen, received an official visitation las night from Grand Master Workman Reeves, of Atlantic City, and staff; also a large delegation from Raritan Lodge, No. 6, of New Brunswick, as well as members from Central and Columbia Lodges, of this city.

The Grand Master gave an instructive address calling attention to the fact that the order is the oldest fraternal insurance order in existence, and that upon it many other orders were based. He declared the order of Workmen to be the safest and best insurance organization. In explaining the emergency fund he said that in New Jersey, where it was started a year ago, the fund had reached $67,000, serving as a protection against any excessive death rate, and that the fund is constantly being increased from month to month. He spoke of the various options; also the new death certificate of $500, heretofore the lowest minimum certificate being $1,000.

The Grand Master also mentioned the new level rate plan, classified and several other plans and laid strong emphasis on the fact that the members of the A. O. U. W., had safe investment in the death policy.

Addresses were also made by various other members of the staff and visiting members and a number of applications were received for membership. After the meeting refreshments were served, cigars passed and music and a social time enjoyed. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan and Martin A. Korff furnished the musical program.

The visitors present included Grand Master Workman Reeves, of Atlantic City; Grand Inside Watchman McWood, of Newark; Past Master Workmen Logan, of Jersey City; Downs, of New Brunswick, and

CHAIRMAN SMITH MUM

Living Up to His Reputation He Refuses to Discuss Legislative Candidates.

POW-WOW AT SEA GIRT

County Clerk Calvert Booms Fort For Governor—Judge Schenck On Hand.

County officers from all section of the State were the guests of the Governor at luncheon at 1 o'clock yesterday at Camp Stokes. There were also at the military headquarters of the Chief Executive many politicians, Democrats and Republicans, who are not county officers. Among the arrivals shortly after noon were County Chairman Frank H. Smith, of Union county, and James C. Calvert, the County Clerk of Union.

Mr. Smith was asked about the report that the organization in Union county is trying to sidetrack Assemblyman Randolph Perkins for a renomination.

"The organization in Union county," he replied, "has hot discussed any plans for the forthcoming campaign beyond getting through with a little routine work that the law requires. Candidates have not been talked of, so far as I know, except in the newspapers and in an offhand way among men generally."

Mr. Smith was asked if the organization favored the renomination of Perkins.

"I take the same stnd regarding the nomination of Assemblymen as I do on the Governorship," he replied. "I don't believe it is the place of the county chairman, holding a purely administrative office, to say that he is for this or that candidate when several good men are in the field."

County Clerk Calvert was one of the best boomers on the grounds for Justice Fort as candidate for Governor. Mr. Calvert said that Elizabeth elected about half of the delegates from Union county, and he was sure that nine-tenths of them would be for Fort.

Political gossip, as usual, was busy with many names for the Governorship. Justice Pitney, as well as Fort, and Chandler W. Riker, all found supporters.

Judge Schenck, of Somerset county, was also at the camp, but he had nothing to say on politics.

CO. K BOYS WILL SPEND A WEEK AT SEA GIRT

LOCAL MILITIAMEN GO INTO CAMP ON SATURDAY, JULY 27.

The members of Co. K have received orders from Captain H. B. Kitchell to assemble at the Armory on West Front street, Saturday morning, July 27, at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of going to the State Camp at Sea Girt. The local company will remain in camp from July 27 to August 3 for practical military instruction.

The orders received by Captain Kitchell instruct the men to wear Khaki uniforms, chambray shirts, campaign hats, leggins and black shoes. Haversack, canteen, mess kit, knife, fork and cup will be issued to each man at the meeting of the company Monday night, giving them sufficient time to arrange them for the trip.

The company will leave Plainfield on the 12 o'clock noon train, a stop being made at Westfield to pick up the members of the organization residing there. Many of the members though they would have the opportunity of visiting the Jamestown Exposition this year, but the State has failed to make an appropriation providing for the expense, hence the orders send the company to Sea Girt for a week for military instruction.

NONOGENARIAN'S FALL FATAL.

Mrs. Heath Walks Out of Window in Her Sleep.

Mrs. Mary A. Hill died at the home of Mrs. Amy Clickner, her daughter, at Raritan, this week, of injuries sustained by falling from a window. She walked in her sleep a few nights ago and stepped out of a window, landing on a cellar door, from which she rolled to a flag walk, where she was found unconscious.

She was 92 years old and the mother of Postmaster George W. Heath, of Bloomfield. She had lived in Raritan most of her life and was one of the oldest members of the Methodist church. Three sons and one daughter survive her, Sylvester Heath, of Dover; William Heath, of Jersey City; George W. Heath, of Bloomfield, and Mrs. Clickner.

WHIPPED MOTHER AND SON AFTER A QUARREL OVER CLOTHESLINE.

Wolf Ox was fined $5 in the City Court this morning. According to stories told by Mrs. Annie Handelman and her sixteen-year-old son, Joseph, who were arrested with him last night, he is pretty nearly as tough as his name.

Ox and the Handelmans are neighbors at Spooner avenue and West Third street. Last evening Mrs. Handelman and Ox got into a quarrel over the Handelman clothesline. Ox started to beat Mrs. Handelman, and Joseph flew to him mother's rescue. Ox whipped both of them, and they wailed for the police. The three were arrested.

Judge Runyon decided this morning that Ox needed repression and fined him $5 under a charge of disorderly conduct. Mrs. Handelman and Joseph were released under suspended sentence.

LAWYERS TO SETTLE SEWER CONTRACT MUDDLE

SURETY COMPANY WILL LET THEM FIGHT IT OUT

Owing to the fact that there are now so many legal entanglements, every faction having engaged counsel, C. W. Baum, representing the Metoroplitan Surety Company, who was in town yesterday, was unable to make any progress looking toward an adjustment of the troubles. C. Barker, of Poughkeepsie, represents Peter Morgan, the contractor; Reed & Coddington represent the Warren Foundry Company, who secured a writ of attachment on pipes and other materials; Walter L. Herfield, Jr., represents the Italian laborers, while the city is represented by Nelson Runyon, acting corporation counsel during the absence of Craig A. Marsh. The Loizeaux Lumber Company has also employed counsel.

After the conference, Mr. Baum, of the surety company, said that when the different lawyers settle their disputes, the surety company will be ready to act. He added that the company is protected by a first class indemnifier and it has nothing to worry about.

It was Mr. Baum's opinion that Peter Morgan's representative, Thomas J. Cusack, did not intend to complete the contract and that he planned to lay pipe where the digging was easy, leaving the more difficult work for someone else.

EUCHRE AND DANCE.

Benefit Affair at T. A. B. Hall Enjoyed By Large Crowd.

A euchre and dance for the benefit of James Fosbre was conducted in T. A. B. Hall, last night, by Division No. 4, A. O. H. It was attended by a large gathering of young people and in the playing twenty-five tables were used. First prize was awarded Miss Hannah McGrath, second to Zebulon LaVevre and third to Miss Harding. Music for the dancing that followed was furnished by Suhr's Imperial orchestra.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of John Hurley, John F. Casey, John J. Leahy, Thomas Farrell and Patrick Harrington. The proceeds amounted to a sum in excess of what had been anticipated.

Announce Their Marriage.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Edward Marfinz and Miss Mary K. Demler, both of Watchung. The ceremony was performed in Newark on June 19 by Rev. Joseph F. Folsom, at his home. Mr. and Mrs. Marfinz are now making their home at Watchung, the former being an employe at Maul's Washingtonville hotel.

Transferred to Office at Clinton.

Charles E. Ball, formerly superintendent of the local office of the Prudential Insurance Company, and who was succeeded by Assistant Superintendent Evans, of Elizabeth, is now in charge of the company's office at Clinton, Hunterdon county. For the present Mr. Ball will retain his residence in North Plainfield.

E. H. Curtis will Speak.

E. H. Curtis, general representative of the Anti-Saloon League, will occupy the pulpit of the First M. E. church, Sunday morning, July 28, and will speak in the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon of that day. He will tell of the work of the league in New Jersey and the plans for the coming campaign.

GIRL BOLDLY ATTACKED

Sprung Upon By Negro as She Was Reaching For Key at Her Employers' Home.

SCREAMS DROVE HIM OFF

Miscreant Made His Escape and Police of City and Borough Are Searching for Him.

Returning from a visit to friends at 10:30 last night, Miss Lucia Moritz, a servant in the employ of Mrs. P. M. French, of Somerset street, was attacked by a negro directly on the rear porch of the French home. The miscreant had previously followed her for several blocks and without her knowledge had slipped into the yard after her. He suddenly sprang upon her as she was in the act of reaching for her key and at the same time she emitted a piercing scream.

Her cry awoke the occupants of the house but before any of them appeared the negro realized that the alarm had been heard. He flung Miss Moritz against a porch post and then with imprecations fled up Pearl street toward Watchung avenue. When members of the household reached the porch the young woman was found in a state of collapse and it was several minutes before she could tell what had happened. Every effort was made to locate the assailant but he had too good a chance to get out of the neighborhood.

Miss Moritz had been making a call in the borough during the evening and was returning home by way of Somerset street. She noticed a negro following her and became somewhat uneasy but felt relieved when he disappeared just before Pearl street was reached. She thought he had gone away but instead he had preceded her and was in a dark spot near the gate. As she passed through he was close behind her and made the attack when he thought the opportunity was favorable. It was evidently his intention to prevent her making an outcry but her quick scream upset his calculations.

Both the city and borough police departments were notified of the occurrence and officers have since been busy. Miss Moritz was unable to give any definite description of the negro, other than the fact that he was very black and quite tall. She noticed this as he was following her down Somerset street but failed to get a good view of his features. It is the opinion of the police that the assailant knew where Miss Moritz belonged as otherwise he would have been unable to get ahead of her and wait while she entered the yard.

STATE COUNCIL'S VICTORY IN COURT OF CHANCERY.

Former Vice Chancellor Pitney Hands Down Decision in Jr. O. U. A. M. Case.

A decision was filed at Trenton yesterday by Vice Chancellor Henry C. Pitney, retired, in the suit of the State Council of the Junior Order of the United American Mechanics against Enterprise Council, of Trenton, and Hollywood Council, of Long Branch, in which he finds that the two councils must turn over to the state council all property in the form of books, records, money, etc.

This is one of the last phases of the fight in this state between the national council and the state council for control of the subordinate councils of New Jersey. In the main suit the court decided that the national council had no standing in New Jersey.

When the State council broke away from the national council, Enterprise and Hollywood councils went over to the national body, and consequently the state council has not been recognized by them. After the decision in the main case, the state council obtained an order from Vice Chancellor Pitney before his retirement from the bench, restraining the two councils from disposing of any of their property. The injunction continued until the determination of this suit for possession of the property of the two organizations.

The Vice Chancellor holds that the Trenton and Long Branch councils must turn over all property to the state council forthwith. Whether these councils will do this or come back into the fold of the state council is a matter of subsequent developments.

Lightning Wrecks Chimney.

The chimney of George J. Harris' worshop at Clinton avenue and Seventh street, was struck by lightning Thursday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock. The chimney was wrecked. No one was in the shop at the time, and no other damage was done.

Mrs. George Strathie and daughter, Miss Etta May Straithie and Miss Jean Straithie, of this city, have been visiting Mrs. Matilda Higgins, of South Branch.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

In trying to reach a can on a high shelf in a pantry, Mrs. Edward Henner, of Perth Amboy, who is spending the summer with her brother, Morris Henner, at his farm in Piscataway, wrenched her side so severely Thursday morning that she has been unable to do much more than walk about since. She is being attended by a physician from Plainfield.

Local youths are suspected of having made a number of attempts at petty thefts on back streets recently. The thieves were frightened away before securing anything. Marshal Mohan has several clues that are likely to lead to arrests next week.

They were accompanied by their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Foster and daughter, of New York, who also drove over.

FACTS, NOT FICTION.

Experiences of Plainfield Citizens Are Easily Proven to Be Facts.

The most superficial investigation will prove that the following statement from a resident of Plainfield is true. Read it and compare evidence from Plainfield people with testimony of strangers living so far away you cannot investigate the facts of the case. Many more citizens of Plainfield will endorse our claims.

S. C. Conklin, of 134 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was suffering from aches and pains in my side, back and hips. My kidneys did not work as they should, and as far as I could learn from physicians I was in very bad shape with my kidneys and bladder. I was casting about for a cure but nothing I did helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at L. W. Randolph's pharmacy. I took three boxes and they cured me. I gave a statement at that time telling what this remedy did for me and I am glad to repeat the praise I gave Doan's Kidney Pills at that time."

STILL DENIES THAT HE INTENDED TO KILL LAD.

Bayonne Slayer, Who Fatally Wounded Boy, Says He Did Not Know Gun Was Loaded.

Bayonne, July 20.—Frank Kwialkoski, who last Wednesday night shot and killed Joseph Brocinsky, thirteen years old, in this city, still denies that he had any intention of causing the death of the lad, and insists that he did not know that the gun, with which he shot the lad, was loaded. The slayer, who is thirty years old, had been attentive to the boy's mother, with whom he boarded at 75 East Twenty-second street, and the lad is said to have objected to the attentions paid his parent, who is a widow.

When the lad arrived home late Wednesday he found his mother and the boarder together, and at once commenced upbraiding the latter. There was a violent quarrel between the two, and the man grabbed a shotgun and fired twice. The shot from the barrel fired first nearly tore off the lad's head, and the second charge made a hole in the wall of the room in which the boarder and boy were. The lad died within twenty minutes.

When the noise of the shooting had aroused the neighbors they flocked to the scene. The police, too, were quickly on hand, but they had trouble in preventing the crowd from laying hands on Kwialskoski. The latter was hustled to jail, while the crowd yelled: "Lynch the murderer!" Recorder Hyman Lazarus remanded the slayer for a hearing.

CATHOLIC FEDERATION ELECTS NEW OFFICERS.

Indianapolis, July 19.—The Federation of Catholic Societies has selected Boston as the place of meeting of the next annual convention.

After electing officers for the ensuing year and adopting the report of the committee on rseolutions, the convention adjourned. The following officers were elected:

President, Edward Feeney, Brooklyn.

First vice-president, John B. Cellers, Newark.

Second vice-president, Thomas P. Flynn, Chicago.

Third vice-president, G. W. Stenger, St. Paul.

Fourth vice-president, Henry Wessling, Boston.

Fifth vice-president, J. J. Hines, Buffalo.

Sixth vice-president, Gilbert Harmon, Toledo.

National Secretry, Anthony Matre, St. Louis.

National treasurer, C. H. Schult, Detroit.

Marshal: H. J. Falk, Atchison, Kan.

Color bearer, Joseph Horn Cloud, Pine Ridge, S. D.

The executive board includes Daniel Duffy, Pottsville, Pa.; Walter George Smith, Philadelphia, and F. W. Immekus, Pittsburg. The resolutions committee, while denouncing socialism in its basic principle, admitted that some of the demands of Socialists are right, but are the same thing for which Christianity has long been striving.

Public Frightens R. R. Co.

Asheville, N. J., July 20.—The Southern Railway Company, alarmed by the public sentiment aroused by its move to have United States Circuit Court Judge Pritchard take by habeas corpus from the State Superior Court, actually engaged in trying him at Raleigh, a ticket agent named Green, who was indicted for violating the new railway rate law by charging more than two and one-quarter cents a mile for tickets, has backed down after getting the issuance of the writ and having Judge Pritchard go to Raleigh to enforce it. It was asserted when Judge Pritchard left Asheville on Wednesday evening that he would call on President Roosevelt for force necessary to enforce his writ, but public sentiment over the State was so aroused that the railroad backed down and conflict was avoided by direction to the United States marshal not to serve the writ on the Sheriff, and Judge Pritchard returned to Asheville this morning.

Japan Orders Balloons.

Berlin, July 20.—The Japanese commission of military experts sent here to order new guns and ammunition worth $10,000,000 has also ordered ten military balloons. The firm which entered into the contract, Japan has been informed, has not acquired patent rights on any of the improvements which proved so successful at the recent trials at Tegel and which the Japanese commission demands shall be utilized in the construction of balloons ordered. An interesting legal fight may result.

Baby Weighs Twenty-two Ounces.

Providence, R. I., July 20.—Probably the smallest baby in the world, weighing one pound and six ounces, was born in this city Tuesday night, and is now being cared for by Dr. Dutcher, of the Incubator Institute at Vanity Fair. The physician in charge reports that the baby is doing well. The head of the child, which is a male infant, is no larger than a billiard ball.

The Rahway Legion, National Protective Legion, will give a free public entertainment at the Opera House, Main street, Rahway, next Tuesday evening, July 23, at which National President George A. Scott will deliver an address. Residents of Plainfield and vicinity are cordially invited.

beginning Monday, July 15th, continuing for the balance of the month, we shall dispose of a large number of practically new Upright Pianos at remarkably low prices and terms.

A large number of these instruments have been taken as part payment on our Euterpe Piano Player; many have been used but a short time on rent; altogether they are a very fine collection of instruments which may be purchased for from one-half to one-third value.

We will also include in this SALE a number of Square Pianos and Organs, some of which we will mark as low as $10.00, none higher than $45.00. These are all of well known and standard makes which we have taken in as part payment on our Mathushek & Son Pianos with Duplex Sounding Board. Hundreds of buyers in this vicinity have been convinced of their durability and superiority above all others.

We are always pleased to explain and demonstrate to the prospective buyer WHY the Duplex Sounding Board is more durable and in every way superior to the common sounding board that invariably split and with ribs that loosen and rattle.

Forget Your Money Troubles—We Can Show You How

Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

The local game of interest today will be played at Crescent Oval between Clinton Avenue and Raritan. This will be the second appearance here this season of the Somerset county boys and a close contest is expected.

The Y. M. C. A. team will play the Laurels at Bound Brook, this afternoon, and they are determined to recover the ground lost a week ago when Clinton Avenue defeated them on Crescent Oval.

The Brooklyn Nationals are heading for the first division at a rapid pace these days. If the Donavanites can only hold out they will make it interesting for some of the leaders before the season is over.

Westfield has returned to amateur baseball again, and the fans there have to content themselves with that class of ball, after a short season as members of the Lackawanna League.

"Phil." Smith pitches this afternoon for the team representing the New York Realty Company. The game will be played at VanCortlandt Park.

Tom McCarthy, the crack pitcher of the Newark Eastern League team, who has been purchased by the Giants, will join McGraw's aggregation in time to take part in the closing games of the league series.

"Doc" Hillebrand, the former Princeton star twirler, has been signed by Manager Clark Griffith, and it is said that he will join the team soon. Manning, of the Williamsport Tri-State League Club, has also been purchased by Griffith. He is considered one of the best slab artists in the Tri-State.

Manager McCloskey, of the St. Louis Nationals, has been suspended for remarks addressed to Umpire Klem.

Jimmy Morgan has been made manager of the Montreal team and Malachi Kittredge, the veteran catcher, released. Another veteran to get his release this week was Tom Corcoran, whom the New York Club cast adrift. Earlier in the season he was the idol of the fans and was considered one hundred per cent. better than "Billy" Gilbert.

GOLF.

Fred Herrshoff, of Garden City, won the chief trophy Thursday in a thirty-six hole handicap against bogey on the Ekwanok links from a field of thirty starters. He was placed at plus 5, and finished 1 down. Edward Clark took the second cup from scratch. He was 2 down. W. S. Houston, Philadelphia Cricket Club, with a handicap of 2, took third prize, being 4 down.

There will be attractive events at the Plainfield Country Club, the Park Golf Club and the Westfield Golf Club today, all of which should bring out a large field of players, notwithstanding that many members are away for the summer.

John T. Duff made a new amateur record at the Dunwoodie Country Club Thursday and equalled the professional mark set a few days ago by Jack Mackie. The former amateur record had been 79, made by W. E. Conklyn. Duff took part in a foursome and made a score of 75.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers still continues to retain a lively interest in golf and frequently she makes a low score on the local or nearby links. During her son's stay at home the two have played often together.

It is likely that in addition to "Marty" O'Loughlin, the young "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, C. B. Morgan will take part in the big professional and amateur golf tournament to be held on the VanCortlandt Park links the latter part of the month and first of August.

F. C. Talmadge, who has been out of town considerable this season, has been missed from the Plainfield Country Club links of late. When in form he is always a formidable opponent in any competition.

Having won the Hydewood Park cup at the Park Golf Club, Dr. H. K. Carroll is now making a strong bid for other cups now being competed for at the club.

The annual golf tournament of the Hotel Wentworth, New Castle, N. H., will be held August 15, 16 an 17. The play this year will be for the local championship, and a large gathering of old players is expected. In the handicap events there will be sixteen to qualify for first and sixteen to play for the consolation prizes. There are over a hundred entries up to date, including several of the leading amateur players of this country.

To precede the women's national championship at the Midlothian links, Chicago, October 7 and 12, the Women's Western Golf Association is trying to arrange these team matches: October 1, Canada vs. Eastern; October 3, Canada vs. Western; October 5, Western vs. Eastern. The latter match, which will be the second for the Boston trophy, is surely to be played. The Eastern women won it last year.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

If you contemplate building let Titus H. Laury, of East Front street, give you an estimate.

M. F. Gano, of North avenue, deals in real estate and he always has a desirable list of properties for sale or lease.

There is one meat market you can count on when you seek for the finest meat and poultry—the Grandview, Somerset street.

V. W. Nash, Sr., the North avenue coal dealer, is filling orders for next winter's supply ow coal. The quality is the best and the prices the lowest.

If you want to get the best quality of beef, lamb or any kind of meat patronize John A. Koch, of Watchung avenue. His prices are reasonable.

The electric massage, now a feature at E. B. Maynard's barber shop, on North avenue, is growing in popularity. It is delightful these warm days.

When you eat meat in warm weather be sure it is the best to be obtained. Make sure you bet the best by dealing with J. W. Van Sickle, North avenue.

If you are looking for a desirable home call on George F. Brown, of Somerset street. He can show you a number of properties. Life and accident insurance a specialty.

There is no joy for the smoker in warm weather like a quiet smoke of the perfectly seasoned cigars sold by M. C. Dobbins, North avenue. Few cigars sold are properly seasoned. Dobbins' always are. Fine assortment of smoking and chewing tobaccoes.

Odd Actions of Horse Thivese.

Whitehouse, July 20—The thieves who stole a horse from the stables of John C. Ten Eyck the other night abandoned a horse near the residence of Jacob S. Swackhamer, at Dreahook, and it is supposed this is the one stolen from a man in Scotch Plains. The robbers traveled in a buggy, and it is believed that they are making their way west, pressing a fresh horse into service every night and abandoning the other, because in some places it is reported they left a better horse than they took.

Loan a Prisoner.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 20.—The Onondaga Penitentiary authorities agreed yesterday to loan Charles Winslow, a prisoner, to the Sheriff of the county in order that the man may attend his mother's funeral on Monday. The mother, dying at a hospital, begged that she might see her son before she died. He was taken to the hospital handcuffed to an officer, but permitted to enter his mother's room alone. She died in a few minutes gazing into the son's eyes.

Wrist Broken in Crowd.

New York, July 20.—Henry Katz, fourteen years old, on his way to his home at No. 162 Vermont street, Brooklyn, last night, was so pushed and crowded by the jam of humanity on the Brooklyn end of the Brooklyn Bridge that he received a fracture of the left wrist. He was treated at the Brooklyn Hospital and taken home by friends.

GOVERNMENT BY BREWERY.

No better evidence is needed to substantiate the charge that the brewing interests in New Jersey are the real saloonkeepers and that the men in whose names the licenses are made out are mere figure-heads, than that furnished by a suit started by a brewery company to recover a fee deposited with the proper authorities in New Brunswick by an applicant for a license. In its declaration filed the brewing company alleges that $250 deposited by the applicant in question was furnished by the concern for that purpose and now that the excise board has refused the petition, it demands the money back.

This is the condition of affairs alleged to be prevalent in Union county and it is one of the evils which the Union County Grand Jury had in mind when it made the startling presentment concerning the excise situation in Elizabeth. Union and Middlesex are not the only counties in which this evil exists. It is general throughout the State and for that matter, all over the country.

The system built up in this way is one of the greatest menaces to good government; it is one that seriously threatens the National life. We do not have to go any farther than Elizabeth to find how this becomes so. The grand jury, of which that sterling citizen of ours, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, is foreman, stated in its recent presentment:

"The brewers take out and pay for the licenses in names convenient to themselves and through the excise board transfer them from one party to another as they see fit and in many cases, practically rent the licenses out at from five to ten dollars a week; rent the buildings for saloons; furnish the saloon; insurance the fixtures; dictate the parties from whom the saloonkeeper shall buy cigars; name the party who shall have the insurance; the party who shall fit up, furnish or decorate the saloon; charge all to the saloonkeeper and collect from said saloonkeeper a certain amount per week."

All of this, continues the presentment "shows a very close relation existing between the saloonkeeper and the brewery, and the brewery and the excise board, or members of the excise board."

This condition of affairs, and no one seems to dispute it, is a blot not only on Union county but on the entire State. It is one that calls for the mature consideration of the court and the people, for, if allowed to continue unabated, the government of New Jersey, if not now, will ere long be in the control of the liquor interests.

Spend Sunday in the Mountains.

Why not spend Sunday, July 21, in the mountains? The New Jersey Central will have a $1.50 excursion to Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko from Plainfield at 9:20 a. m., and a dollar excursion to Lake Hopatcong from Plainfield at 9:51 a. m.

IGNORED DOG'S BARK; AND THE HOUSE BURNS.

Sleeper, Disturbed, Cuffs Pet—Later Finds Animal Gave Danger Warning.

George Chambers, of No. 9 Wallace street, Orange, is the owner of a pet bull-dog, Bedelia, which he thinks a whole lot more of yesterday afternoon than he did at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when the animal barked and whined and jumped on the bed when he wanted to sleep. "I'll take that dog's advice next time," says Chambers now.

A closet was afire in the Chambers house. Bedelia smelled the smoke. She made a great rumpus and jumped up on Chambers' bed. Chambers cuffed the dog and finally drove her downstairs. A few minutes later Policeman Roberts saw the blaze and called out the firemen, who extinguished the fire before it had done much damage.

MONTGOMERY CAPTAIN.

And Moore First Lieutenant of Co. C, of Elizabeth.

At one of the most enthusiastic and best attended meetings ever held by Company C, at Elizabeth, officers to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of Captain Cross were elected Thursday night. There was no opposition to Lieutenant Robert J. Montgomery, and he was accordingly elected captain by unanimous vote. This was the case also in filling the first lieutenancy, Second Lieutenant Raymond C. Moore being elevated to that position without opposition. A contest developed in the election for second lieutenant, First Sergeant William R. Grant and Sergeant G. Stuart Smith being opposed to each other. Grant won out by a majority of six votes, receiving 29 votes to Smith's 23. One blank ballot was cast.

The meeting was conducted by Major Martin, and Captain Pearsall acted as secretary. Corporal Gardner and Beatty acted as tellers.

The officers elected will take their examinations for State commissions next Monday evening.

The Eleven O'Clock Toast.

One of the customs cherished by the Elks is the eleven o'clock toast in memory of "Our Absent Brothers."

It is said this practice was inaugurated by George McDonald, one of the original Elks, who suggested that the social meetings, which usually adjourned about 11 o'clock, be closed with a toast to the absent ones.

Now, wherever Elks are together, in social session, in lodge room or elsewhere, the hour of eleven brings to mind the vast army of brothers who are absent, either from the gathering or from the great battle of life.

The Elks adopted the "crossing of hands" and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" from the Tammany or Columbian Order.

Chases Husband Round the World.

Trenton, July 20.—Mary Bouldy, a Hungarian woman, who claims her husband deserted her three years ago in Hungary, taking $1,500 of her money, after searching half round the world for the recreant spouse, alleges that she has found him in this city, living with another woman. Bouldy and "Lizzie" Bouldy, the other woman, have been arrested.

Patrolman Charles Flynn, of West Fourth street, is spending the remainder of his vacation at Atlantic City, having attended the Elks reunion at Philadelphia.

TIMES AT CAMP COMFORT

Rector Warner and His "Family" Have the Proverbial Press Agent Beaten.

SOME FISH STORIES

Clergyman Reported to Have the Habit of Catching Bass Weighing at Least Two Pounds.

Rector Warner and his large family of forty-two boys are reported as safely arrived and settled in Camp Comfort, Berkshire Hills. The boys say the weather and swimming are the "best ever" and the rector declares he has the choicest assortment of sun burned "Indians" ever seen in camp. "Pat" Riley's face is used to fry griddle cakes and the biscuits of well known fame are baked with heat supplied by Kenyon. All sorts of rumors come floating home of the boys and their sports; fact and fancy it is feared are strangely mingled. Baron Munchausen and Ananias must have some close relatives at the camp. Far be it however, for anyone to doubt the account of the rector and his large bass. It is said that he sits on the shore waiting for the bass to jump and then while the boys are at breakfast, goes out and brings in a two pound bass caught on a troll and acts as though it were his usual stunt.

The conductor on the Fast Mail from New York to Albany reports that the special car attached to his train had some of the liveliest material aboard he ever handled. Everything along the line from a cow to a hay stack was cheered vociferously. It was a livelier crowd and an impatient one that waited for an hour in the Troy station for a special car to be attached to the Boston train for Eagle Bridge. Nightfall found the boys safely housed in their canvass water-proof tents after a long cool swim and supper served by a chef familiarly known as "Greasy."

Camp gossip says that Charles, the colored man, is getting a thick coat o tan, and Charles declares the frogs are as big as kittens and the mosquitoes the size of humming birds.

Appetites are not on the wane at Camp Comfort, marvellous tales of the consumption spuds, biscuits, iced tea, choice chicken, salads, fresh vegetables, etc., by the boys, are told in the grocery store at Shushan. Sickness and accidents are confined to broom straw fever, the pip and mosquito bites.

Meanwhile Vail and his aggregation of champion ball players are planning to wipe up the earth with Shushan, Salem and Cambridge base ball teams. The farmers think differently and the question has yet to be settled.

On Thursday, July 25, the boys will give their concert at Cambridge N. Y. Two weeks more of camp life remain. A letter to the Daily Press from the rector has been promised.

HE FOUND OUT THAT THE REVOLVER WAS LOADED.

Railroad Ticket Agent Shot Accidentally at Newark by a Friend in His Office.

William H. Noble, nineteen, ticket agent at the Riverside station of the Erie Railroad, in Newark, was shot in the right leg yesterday by James La Mon, seventeen, of No. 86 Peabody place. Noble was taken to St. Michael's Hospital, and La Mon was locked up.

The shooting was the result of careless handling of a revolver owned by Noble. La Mon, lounging at the station picket up the weapon while Noble was selling a ticket to a woman.

"Is it loaded?" asked La Mon, toying with the gun.

"No," replied Noble, whose mind was upon his business with the woman and did not heed the question. La Mon carelessly pointed the weapon at Noble and pulled the trigger. The bullet entered the fleshy part of Noble's leg in flicting an ugly but not serious wound.

RAIDS TRAMP-DOG CAMP

Jim Babbit Breaks Up a Predatory Pack of Hobo Canines.

BATTLES WITH LEADER

In order to break up a dog "hangout," and round up canine hoboes that had been preying on the chickens and peace of mind of West Third street residents, Dog Catcher James Babbitt was compelled to rip up the floor of a barn this week. The retreat of the dogs yielded the largest capture of his career at a dog chase.

Complaints were made to Babbitt last week that predatory dogs were working havoc among the chickens of West Third street in the neighborhood of Plainfield avenue. Babbitt started on the trail, expecting to run down one or two "killers" among the mongrels of the district. He was quite unprepared for the remarkable condition of affairs that was unearthed. A day or two after he began to pay attention to the neighborhood, he noticed that a lot of dogs seemed to disappear near a barn on West Third street. Investigation disclosed the fact that a number of dogs slipped under the barn floor when pursued, and Babbitt watched the barn. It became plain after a bit that the dogs had made their headquarters under the floor, and Babbitt made arrangements to get at them.

The only way was to tear up the floor, and this was done. A guard with a whip was stationed at the hole through which the dogs crawled in, and Babbitt had them all in sight when the floor came up. Nine dogs, of all sizes, were disclosed to view. The place had been made a veritable camp by the canine tramps. Feathers and fragments of chickens were much in evidence, besides remnants of meat bones and garbage pickings with which the "pals" had to content themselves when chicken coops were too well guarded.

All but one of the dogs were captured without trouble, but that one was a Tartar. A heavy, vicious mongrel, with courage to battle, he refused to surrender, and charged on Babbitt with murder in his eye. Probably he was the leader of the pack. If he was he died as a fighting chieftain should, by a bullet. Babbitt dropped him with a thirty-two in the head as he leaped upward.

There were probably more dogs in the pack, but those that weren't home when the raid was made will have to hunt other quarters. The placed was cleaned out, and the bottom of the barn tightly boarded. The chickens and people of West Third street rest much easier now, and Babbitt is regarded as a public benefactor.

SLEEPER, AROUSED, FACES REVOLVER.

"Don't Move," Says Negro—Wife Screams and Bullet Bids Her Be Silent.

"Move an inch or make a noise and I'll shoot you both dead," said a negro burglar caught rifling a jewel case in the sleeping apartment of M. E. Douglass at Mt. Holly yesterday morning.

"A burglar! A burglar!" screamed Mrs. Douglass, as she awoke to face the blinding glare from the bull's-eye lantern. "Help! Police! Martin, why don't you catch him?" she cried in quick breaths.

"Stay where you are," replied the intruder.

Mr. Douglass started to place his hand under his pillow, where a revolver lay, when a shot rang out and a bullet whizzed betwen Mr. and Mrs. Douglass, burying itself in the mattress near their heads.

The negro turned and fled from the room through a window, while Mr. Douglass gave futile chase. The faces of Mr. and Mrs. Douglass are covered with powder marks. The police have no clew to the burglar, who got only about $200 worth of jewelry.

RUBBED SILK: SET HOUSE ON FIRE.

Invesigation of Paterson Blaze by Chief Stagg Reveals Unusual Cause.

If your coat is silk lined and you want to clean it with benzine, don't rub the silk too hard after wetting it with benzine or it may be necessary to call in the fire department, says Chief Stagg, of the Paterson Fire Department. This warning is the result of an investigation into the cause of a fire that occurred in the tailor shop in Washington street in that city, yesterday. A workman was cleaning a silk lined coat, which belonged to Dr. Porter S. Kinne, with benzine, when suddenly the garment flared up and went into a blaze.

When the workman recovered from his surprise the garment was almost ruined. He tried to put the fire out, and in doing so his hands were badly burned. In the excitement which followed an alarmed was turned in, and the Fire Department soon extinguished the flames.

NEW JERSEY EXHIBIT FOR THE JAMESTOWN

F. B. LEE SAILS TO INSTALL THE STATE COLLECTION.

Upon the Clyde steamer New York, sailing from Philadelphia at noon today, Francis B. Lee, in charge of the New Jersey historical exhibit at the Jamestown Ter-Centennial exposition, and Assistant Prosecutor of the Pleas William R. Piper sails for the south.

Mr. Lee, during his short trip, will install his portion of the State's exhibit.

He will take with him over 1,000 historic views of the State, of which about 825 are post cards, the remainder being photographs and old wood-cuts and engravings. These are all mounted and will be displayed in cabinets. The post cards are largely the gift of the postmasters of the State, the remainder being contributed by personal friends of Mr. Lee.

The subjects embraced in the collection are: Jersey City, State Camp, National Guard, Sea Girt; Historic Lighthouses, the Iron Industry at Boonton, the Sea Coast and the Pines, Typical Scenery, Old Mills, Transportation, Historic Houses and Street Scenes, Revolutionary and Civil War Monuments, and Views of Educational Institutions, Historic Water-Ways, Costumes of Revolutionary Soldiers and Views of Trenton, showing points of Colonial and Revolutionary interest, views in Toms River and Washington's Reception in New Jersey, 1789; historic taverns and residences; historic churches and meeting houses, old county court houses and historic points along state water-ways.

There are in the exhibit three large outline wall maps and three charts, all prepared by Mr. Lee, with the exception of one map, prepared by Dr. C. B. Godfrey, of the adjutant general's office. The execution of these maps was left in the capable hands of Colonel William E. Pedrick, of Trenton. The maps include the following subjects: Location of the Indian tribes of New Jersey; location of settlements before 1710; influence of race and creed before the French and Indian wars; 2 maps showing country development, 1684-1824; 53 principal engagements in the American Revolution; 2 charts, showing New Jersey towns in which General Washington was located during exactly one quarter of the American Revolution and a chart showing "First Things" of New Jersey.

The State-Coombes collection of arms illustrating typical development from 1755 are at the exposition. This collection came from the State arsenal and from the private collection of James E. Coombes, of Newark.

WILL SUE SOMEBODY.

New Brunswicker's House Flooded and Dinner Spoiled.

New Brunswick, July 20.—Max Levine, of Paterson street, has retained Senator George S. Silzer to sue somebody for the damage done to his house Thursday by a flood. He lives opposite the site of the Janeway & Carpender fire ruins, and while men were clearing away the ruins they obstructed the city sewer basin.

During the cloudburst Thursday the water, unable to escape through the sewer, overflowed the sidewalks and poured into the basement windows of Levine's house, and his furniture was soon afloat. He was at dinner at the time, and the family had to escape from the dining-room. Their only chance of finishing the meal would have been in boats. After the water had been baled out of the three rooms there was three inches of mud on the floors.

Leaves Fortune to Pets.

Dayton, Ohio, July 20.—The late Miss Imogene McMillen left a will naming her pet horse and old house cat as the beneficiaries. There was discovered $14,000 in gold that she had secreted in the cellar of her home. The money must go to the horse and cat. Miss McMillen was a sister of former Mayor McMillen and was an eccentric spinster.

LAWYER ACCUSED OF COMPOUNDING FELONY.

Arthur Archibald Denies Charge in Jersey City Police Magistrate's Court.

Arthur Archibald, a well-known lawyer, was before Police Justice James McCarthy yesterday on a charge of compounding a felony. He was paroled until the papers in the case can be presented to the Grand Jury.

A few days ago William Harrison, an alleged New York crook, with two other men, was arrested charged with picking the pocket of James P. McDowell, of Gautier avenue, and stealing $40. Harrison retained Lawyer Archibald to defend him. It is alleged that the lawyer endeavored to have the charge changed from larceny to that of "disorderly" in an effort to let his client escape with a fine, avoiding imprisonment.

Archibald, who acted as his own lawyer, denied the charge. James F. Clark, clerk to the Grand Jury, represented the State in the case.

Carelessness on "Georgia."

Washington, D. C., July 20.—Acting Secretary of the Navy Newberry received yesterday an official telegraphic report from Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas that a delayed "flare back," due to insufficient operation of the air blast gas ejector, was the cause of the battleship Georgia disaster. This finding is generally accepted as indicating that in the zeal of the gun crew to make a high and fast score at the targets the precautions provided against "flare backs" were neglected.

"BUNGALOW."

Word of Comparative Modern Date Is Anglo-Indian.

The word is of comparatively modern date and is Anglo-Indian. Its origin can be traced to the adjective bangla (Hindustani), which literally means "belonging to Bengal." It is an easy step from this to the manuscript preserved in the India Office (England), dated 1676, which has a reference to "Bungales or Hovells * * * for all English in the company's service." Any sketch of a native dwelling in India will show how at first it was not unnatural to bracket "bungales" with "hovels." The word was in the making, and the building improved with the word.

In 1711 we find a reference to a "Dutch Bungelow" on the shores of the Hughley. In the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries there are references in Anglo-Indian correspondence to wayside houses which are spelled "bungula" and "bungalo," and in one instance, in 1809, a journal of residence in India describes the bungalo as a garden house. The most striking reference which tallies with our own view of the building as described by the word is contained in a book dated 1847, which says: "The bungalows of India are for the most part built of unbaked bricks and covered with thatch, having the center a hall, the whole being encompassed by an open veranda." That is probably the shortest and most complete definition of the broad meaning of the word that can be found. Of course we build bungalows nowadays of many other materials besides bricks; but the latter are used, sun dried, in many quarters of the globe besides India. Primarily, a bungalow is a building specially suitable for a hot climate where the broad verandas make cool, shady places for sitting outdoors.—Indoors and Out.

JOYS OF A COLLECTOR.

Occasionally He Is Able to Snap Up a Prize.

Collecting will always have its romances. I know of one that occurred as recently as the sale at Christie's of the effects of the late Sir Henry Irving. Some one I know had been to see the collection before the sale. He came across a portrait with which he was familiar, because he had seen it 30 years before. On consulting his catalog he discovered that the portrait was described as being that of a man unknown, and, further, the artist was also unknown. Now he knew that the portrait was that of a famous actor by a famous English painter. He longed to buy it, but decided that it would go at too high a price. He went to the auction with very little hope. The Whistler and the Sargent were sold, and then it was the turn of this picture. Nobody recognized it. Finally he had to start the bidding himself, and this he did. Only one man bid against him, but he soon stopped, discouraged, and then the picture was knocked down to the man who had never expected to get it. He hurried to the desk to pay the small amount and to carry off his prize. "Do you happen to know anything about that portrait?" the auctioneer asked him, as a porter took it down to a cab. "I know it very well," said the new owner, conscious that it was now safely his property. "It is a portrait of Buckstone, the actor, by Daniel Maclise. There is an engraving of it in the Maclise Portrait Gallery."—Mrs. John Lane, in Pearson's Magazine.

Light from Sugar.

Starlight, sunlight, moonlight, gaslight, lamplight, candle light, electric light and now sugar light. A phenomenon whose cause has not as yet been satisfactorily explained recently was observed by an expert during the course of certain experiments. Disks of loaf sugar were mounted on a lathe and rapidly rotated while a hammer played lightly against them. An almost continuous radiation was thus produced from the sugar. It was shown that the light did not arise from heating the sugar, and it is believed to have been caused by some change having taken place in the sugar crystals. The act of crystallization is known to be accompanied sometimes by flashes of light. The practical bearing of these experiments is on the question of obtaining artificial light by methods as yet untried.

A Big Task.

The French government has intrusted to Mme. Laurence Fiedler, of Paris, a mission to make an exhaustive investigation into the social and industrial conditions of women and children in America. The purpose of her work, Mme. Fiedler says, is to raise the standard of women's wages in France as well as the social standard of her country women in every department of industrial and commercial work.

Shrewd Barber.

"That barber seems to be doing a great business."

"Yes, he has invented a hair tonic that smells exactly like gasoline."

"Why, I don't see the idea—"

"Don't you see? His patrons acquire an odor which enables them to give the impression that they own automobiles."—Philadelphia Press.

RELIC OF SCOTTISH QUEEN.

Englishman Owns Handbag Once Property of Unfortunate Mary.

In the possession of Dr. A. F. Germain of Brighton, England, is a beautiful embroidered little handbag. It is an interesting relic of a bygone time, and figured in a famous scene. When the unfortunate Mary, queen of Scots, was led to execution this little satchel of violet velvet formed part of the costume she wore. It contained a rare and costly handkerchief. As she passed to the block, Mary took the dainty handkerchief out and handed the bag to her favorite attendant, Lady Jane Douglas. She cherished it ever after as a memento of her lamented queen. The little bag is made more interesting and valuable by the fact that Queen Mary herself embroidered and made it. The needlework is very beautiful and rare, being peculiar to the time of the beautiful young queen. Until recently the bag has been in the possession of the Douglas family in Scotland, being kept at Castle Dumfries among the family heirlooms. A late Lady Douglas presented it to a favorite brother-in-law, Sir William Watkins Wynn, and this gentleman, realizing the appreciation of Dr. A. F. Germain for this interesting relic of the unfortunate Queen Mary, gave it to him, and it is still in his possession. The bag is prized very highly by Dr. Germain, and he keeps it in a glass case, with a descriptive historical note attached to it.

DO BEST WORK AT NIGHT.

Quiet Hours the Proper Time for Intellectual Labor.

Prof. Victor Hallopeau of the Paris Academy of Medicine declares that the best intellectual work can be accomplished between midnight and dawn. "The true secret of long continued, valuable brain work," he says, "is to cut the night in two. The scholar, the inventor, the financier, the literary creator should be asleep every night at ten o'clock, to wake again at, say two, in the morning. Three hours' work, from two to five, in the absolute tranquillity of the silent hours, should mean the revealing of new powers, new possibilities, a wealth of ideas undreamed of under the prevailing system. From eight to eight or 8:30 sleep again. Take up again the day's work: the brain will still be saturated with the mental fruits of the night vigil; there will be no effort in putting into practice or carrying further what was planned or begun those few hours before. The habit may be hard to acquire, but mechanical means of waking at first will induce the predisposition."

By Proxy.

He was a man with a large rotund personality, and he stood at the head of a large line of impatient men, women and children who were waiting for a chance to pay their fares and get past the turnstile of the elevated railway at Madison and Wabash, says the Chicago Tribune.

He was searching leisurely in his pockets for the necessary nickel, and it wasn't in any of them. Finally he produced a five-dollar bill, which he slowly and methodically unfolded and passed over to the monopolist inside the ticket office. "Dom his bastely hide!" fervently exclaimed a man with a strong Tipperary accent, half way down the line. "O, you mustn't talk that way!" said a sweet feminine voice directly behind him; "but thank you very much!"

Tobacco Smoke Poisonous.

It is often said that tobacco smoke is a powerful germicide. The composition of tobacco smoke is complex, the principal constituents being oils of a tarry nature. Nicotine itself is a strong germicide, but the quantity of this poison in tobacco smoke is minute. The oil matter which accumulates in a tobacco pipe is highly poisonous, but does not contain any appreciable quantity of nicotine, the chief constituent of residue being a very poisonous oil known as pyridine. Tobacco smoke contains a decided quantity of carbon monoxide, which is a preservative and which must possess germicidal properties. Recently it has been observed that one of the principal constituents accounting for the germicidal properties of tobacco smoke is the powerful antiseptic formaldehyde.

At the Literary Club.

"How did everything come off at the literary last night?" "Well, the barbecued beef was tiptop, an' the Brunswick stew couldn't be beat, while the corn licker had enough beads on it to make a pearl necklace look sick." "But—was there no literary discussion?" "Lemme see, now—I believe the president did hit the vice president 'side the head with a copy of Bunyan's 'Pilgrim's Progress.'"—Atlanta Constitution.

Loaded.

The old man looked reflectively at the brass tip of his wooden leg. "Then," he said, "the surgeons took me up and laid me carefully in the ammunition wagon, and—" "Hold on, captain," said a listener. "You don't mean the ammunition wagon. You mean the ambulance wagon." But the captain shook his head. "No," he insisted; "I was so full of bullets that they decided I belonged to the ammunition wagon."

Putting It Mildly.

"You resent that critic's opinions?" "Not at all," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "What I resent is his egotistic presumption in considering his opinions to sufficient importance to warrant their public expression."

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

"She was all beat out that night I found her on top o' Bangall hill, 'n' yet when I asked her if she'd run away from some poor farm, she was ready to claw my eyes out, an' dunno's I blame her. I was innocent, too, fer I really s'posed she had."

Martin's visit at this hospitable home was not allowed to terminate for a week, for visitors seldom came here, and Uncle Jud, as big a boy as his brother when the chance came, planned all sorts of trips and outings to entertain them, and quite characteristic affairs they were, too.

One day they drove to a wood-bordered pond far up the valley, fished a few hours for pickerel and perch, and had a fish fry and picnic dinner.

The next day they visited a strange, romantic grotto up in the mountains, known as the Wolf's Den, and here a table was set, broiled chicken, sweet corn, and such toothsome fare formed the meal, with nut-gathering for amusement.

Squirrel and partridge shooting also furnished Martin a little excitement. When he and Angie insisted that they must leave, both host and hostess showed genuine regret. A few remarks made by Angie to her former protege, in private, the last evening of this visit, may be quoted.

"I must insist, my dear child," she said, "that you make us a visit in the near future. You left us under an entirely false impression and it has grieved me more than you can imagine. There was never a word of truth in anything that Hannah said. She was spiteful and malicious and desired to get even with you for a hurt to her pride. We had no thought of hurrying away to the woods to separate you and Ray for any reason whatever. Of course, as you must know, I had no suspicion of any attachment between you, and if I had, I certainly should not have tried to break it off in that way. That is a matter that concerns only you and him. My own life experience shows that first love is the wisest and best, and while you were both too young then for an engagement, you must believe me when I tell you that I had no wish to interfere."

Visited a Strange Romantic Grotto Up in the Mountains.

And so the breach was healed.

This visit of the Frisbies to Peaceful Valley also awakened something of repentance in Chip's mind, and more mature now, it occurred to her that leaving Greenvale as she did, was, after all, childish.

Then Angie's part in this drama of her life now returned to Chip in a new light. Once she began to reflect, her self-accusation grew apace and her repentance as well. Now she began to see herself as she was at Tim's Place.

"I think I treated my Greenvale friends very ungratefully," she said to Aunt Abby one evening after they had returned to Christmas Cove once more, "and what Mrs. Frisbie said to me has made me realize it. I know now that few would have done what she did for me. I was an ignorant, dirty, homeless creature and no relation of hers, and yet she took charge of me, bought me clothes, paid all my expenses going to Greenvale, clothed me there, and always treated me nicely without my even asking for it.

"The Frisbies certainly ran some risk by keeping me at their cabin when they knew that half-breed was after me. I don't know why they should have done all this. I was nothing to them. And yet when I recall the night I stumbled into their camp, how Mrs. Frisbie dressed me in her own clothes, shared her tent with me, and even prayed for me, I feel ashamed to think of what I have done. I did think that Mrs. Frisbie despised me from what Hannah said. I know now that I was wrong, and running away as I did, was very ungrateful."

"I think it was, myself," responded Aunt Abby, "and yet believing as you did, Mrs. Frisbie ought not to blame you. I don't think she does, either. She seems a very sensible woman, and I like her. You made your mistake in not confiding in her more. You should have gone to her as you would to a mother, in the first place, and told her just what Hannah had said to you and how you felt about it. To brood over such matters and imagine the worst possible, is unwise in any one. I think from what you have told me, that this person who sneered against you so much must have had a spite against you."

"Hannah was jealous, I know," Chip interrupted, smiling at the recollection, "and I hurt her feelings because I asked her why she didn't shave."

"Didn't shave!" exclaimed Aunt Abby, wide-eyed; "what do you mean?"

"Why, she has whiskers, you see," laughed Chip, "almost as much as some men—a nice little mustache and some on her chin. I told her the next day after I got there I thought she was a man dressed as a woman. I snickered, too, I remember, when I said it, for she looked so comical—like a goat, almost—and then I asked her why she didn't shave. I guess she laid it up against me ever after."

"She revenged herself amply, it seems," answered Aunt Abby.

When Christmas neared, and with it a vacation for Chip, new impulses came to her: a desire to visit Greenvale once more and make amends as best she could to her friends there; and her gift-giving desire was quickened by the coming holidays. She now felt that she had ample means to gratify this latter wish. Day by day, since meeting Angie again, her sense of obligation had increased, and now it was in her power at Christmas-tide to repay at least a little of the debt.

Others were also included in this generous project: Uncle Jud, Aunt Mandy, her foster-mother, Aunt Abby, as well; and then there was Old Cy, whom most of all she now desired to make glad. That was impossible, however. He was still an absent wanderer, and so, as it ever is and ever will be, some thread of regret, some note of sorrow, must be woven into all joys.

A rapid and almost wonderful growth of this yule-tide impulse now swept over Chip, so much so that it must be told. At first it took shape in the intended purchase of comparative trifles,—a fishing-rod for Uncle Jud, a pipe for Martin, gloves for Aunt Abby, and so on. Then as that seemingly vast fortune, now hers to spend, occurred to Chip, and her sense of obligation as well, the intended gifts increased in proportion until a costly picture of some camp or wildwood scene for Angie and a valuable watch for Miss Phinney were decided upon.

Her plan as to how to obtain these presents also took shape. Riverton was the only place where they could be obtained. To that village she would go first, obtain the money needed, devote one entire day to making her purchases, and then go on to Greenvale and astonish these good friends from whom she was once so eager to escape.

It was all a most delightful episode which was now anticipated by Chip. Again and again she lived it over, especially her arrival in Greenvale, and how like a Lady Bountiful she would present her gifts to her friends.

So eager was she thus to make some compensation to them that lessons became irksome, the day seemed weeks in length, and she could scarce sleep when bedtime came.

But the slow days dragged by at last, and then Chip, happier than ever before in her life, dressed in her best, bade Aunt Abby good-by and started on her journey alone.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Riverton, less provincial than Greenvale, was a village of some two thousand inhabitants. A few brick blocks, with less pretentious wooden buildings, formed a nucleus of stores. A brown-stone bank, four churches, two hotels, the Quaboag house and the Astor house were intermingled among these, and a railroad with two trains in each direction a day added life and interest to the place. Each of the hotels sent a conveyance to meet every train, with a loud-voiced emissary to announce the fact of free transportation. In each hostelry a bar flourished and like rival clubs, each had its afternoon and evening gathering of loafers who swapped yarns and gossip, smoked and chewed incessantly, and contributed little else to support the establishments. Three times daily, at meal hours, each of the rival landlords banged a discordant gong in his front doorway, without apparent result.

At about 11 in the forenoon each week-day in summer, Uncle Joe Barnes on his lumbering two-horse stage, arrived from Greenvale, paused at the post office, threw off a mail-pouch, thence around to the Quaboag house stable, and cared for his horses. At two he was ready for the return trip and mounting his lofty seat, he again drove to the front of the hotel, shouting "All aboard!" dismounted to assist lady passengers, but let masculine ones do their own climbing, and after halting to receive a mail-bag, again departed on his return trip.

A certain monotonous regularity was apparent in every move and every act and function of village life in Riverton. At precisely seven o'clock each morning the two landlords appeared simultaneously and banged their gongs. At 12 and six, this was repeated. At eight o'clock the three principal storekeepers usually entered their places of business; at nine, while the academy bell was ringing near by, every village doctor might be seen starting out. At ten exactly, Dwight Bennett, the cashier of the bank, unlocked its front door, and the two hotel 'buses invariably started so nearly together that they met at the first turn going stationward. Even the four church clocks had the same habit, and it was often related that a stranger there, a traveling man, on his first visit, made an amusing discovery.

"What kind of a fool clock have you got in this town?" he said to Sam Gates, the landlord of the Quaboag, next morning after his arrival. "I went to bed in good season last night an' just got asleep when I heard it strike 32. I dozed off an' the next I knew it began clanging again, and I counted 44. What sort of time do you keep here, anyway? Do you run your town by the multiplication table?"

The half-dozen loafers who met every afternoon in the Quaboag house office arrived in about the same order, smoked, drank, told their yarns, gathered all the gossip, and departed at nearly the same moment. Their evening visits partook of the same clock-like regularity.

These of the old guard were also dressed much the same, and "slouchy" best describes it. Gray flannel shirts in winter or summer alike. Collars, cuffs, and ties were never seen on them, though patches were, and as for shaving or hair-cutting, a few shaved once a week, some never did, and semi-annual hair-cuts were a fair average.

The worst sinner in this respect, Luke Atwater, occasionally called "Lazy Luke," never had his beard shortened but once, and that was due to its being burnt off while he was fighting a brush fire in spring.

It was related of him, and believed by many, that once upon a time many years previous he had had his hair cut and on that occasion the barber had found a whetstone concealed in Luke's shock of tangled hair. It was also asserted that he admitted always carrying his whetstone back of his ear while mowing, and so losing it that way.

All the news and every happening in Riverton, from the catching of an extra big trout to twins, was duly commented upon and discussed by this coterie. Village politics, how much money each storekeeper was making, crop prospects, the run of sap every spring, drouth, weather indications, rain or snow falls, each and all formed rotating subjects upon which every one of this faithful-to-the-post clique expressed opinions.

Chip's arrival there with the Frisbie family, and her later history, learned from Uncle Joe, furnished a fertile topic, her escapade in running away from Greenvale, a more exciting one, while Old Cy's visit and deposit of a fabulous sum in the bank in her name had been a nine days' wonder. That amount, hinted at only by the cashier as a comfortable fortune, soon grew in size until it was generally believed to be almost a million.

This was Riverton and its decidedly rural status when late one December afternoon the Quaboag free 'bus (a two-seated pung, this time) swept up to that hotel's front door, where the porter assisted a stylish young lady to alight, and he, stepping like a drum major, led the way into the Quaboag's unwarmed parlor.

"Young lady, sir, a stunner, wants room over night, sir," he announced to the landlord in the office a moment later. "Goin' to Greenvale to-morrer, she says."

On the instant all converse in the office ceased, and the six constant callers hardly breathed until Sam Gates hastened to the parlor and returned.

"'Tis that McGuire gal—lady, I mean," he asserted pompously; then the porter, "Git a move on, Jim, 'n' start a fire in Number 6, an' quick, too!" And hastily brushing his untidy hair before the office mirror, he left the room again, followed by six envious glances. Then those astonished loafers grouped themselves, the better to observe the passage between parlor and office.

Only one instant sight of this important guest was obtained by them as Chip emerged from the parlor and followed the landlord upstairs, and then the hushed spell was broken.

"By gosh, it's her!" exclaimed one in an awed whisper, "an' Jim was right, she's a stunner!"

"What do ye s'pose she's here for," queried a fourth, "to draw the int'rest on her money, or what?"

It was precisely four forty-five when Chip appeared before the judge and jury of all Riverton's happenings. At five forty-five they had agreed that she was the handsomest young lady who had ever set foot in the town, that she must be going to get married soon, and that her mission there was to draw out a few thousand dollars for wedding finery. Then they dispersed, and at six forty-five, when they assembled at the Quaboag again, half of Riverton knew their conclusions, and by bedtime all knew them.

By eight-thirty next morning, this all-observant and all-wise clique had gathered in the hotel office once more, an unusual proceeding, and when Chip tripped out, eight pairs of eyes watched her depart. Then they dispersed.

At nine o'clock Chip walked up the stone steps to the bank door, read the legend, "Open from ten a. m. to two p. m.," turned away, and once more resumed her leisurely stroll up and down the street while she peered into store windows. At ten precisely by the four clocks she was back at the bank again, and the cashier lost count of the column he was adding when he saw her enter.

Proposals for Stone Roads.

Proposals are asked for the construction of telford and macadam stone roads on St. George Avenue, from Grand Street southerly to the Middlesex County line, and on Leesville Avenue from St. George Avenue westerly to the Middlesex County line, all situated in the City of Rahway, Union County, N. J.

The above work covers a length of road of about 10,568 lineal feet. The width of the stonework is to be 16 feet.

Earth Excavation, 2,425 cu. yds.
Earth Embankment, 420 cu. yds.
2-inch Macadam pavement, 10,222 sq. yds.
6-inch Macadam pavement, 467 sq. yds.
12-inch Macadam pavement, 6,159 sq. yds.
12-inch Telford Macadam pavement, 1,400 sq. yds.
Crushed stone furnished additional, 300 tons.
2-inch Drain Tile, 4,000 lineal feet.
Rock Excavation, 0.

Plans, profiled and specifications for this work may be examined at the office of the County Engineer, 215 Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Bidders must enclose with their bids a certified check for $1,000.00, made payable to the Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, as a guarantee that if the contract be awarded to such bidder, the bidder will enter into an agreement with the Board of Freeholders for the carrying out of the work.

Bids for this above described work will be received by the County Road Committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, at the Court House, Elizabeth, N. J., at 12 o'clock noon, on Thursday, August 1, 1907.

The Board of Chosen Freeholders or its Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, as they may deem best for the interests of the County.

BORKOW WILL GET DECREE OF DIVORCE.

Court Says That the Defense Made By His Wife Is Nothing But Impudence.

Vice Chancellor Howell filed at Newark yesterday an opinion advising that a decree of divorce be granted to Albert L. Borkow, of Newark, from Jennie E. Borkow, of Newark, from that the charges of misconduct made in the husband's bill were clearly proved. Borkow named John E. McGregor as corespondent.

It was contended by Mrs. Borkow's counsel that the act of Borkow in deserting his wife a year ago, debarred him from pursuing her for subsequent wrong-doing, but the Vice Chancellor overruled this contention.

"For a long time," said the Court, "it was doubted whether a defendant in a divorce suit could recriminate with a charge of less degree than the one which was made the basis of complainant's action, but this doubt was remedied."

The court ruled that Borkow left his wife for justifiable cause, and said:

"No decent man ought to be compelled to live with a woman who will so conduct herself; and, for her now to attempt to defeat this action on the ground of unjustifiable desertion by her husband in the face of these almost undeniable facts is mere impudence."

Heat Kills in New York.

New York, July 20.—Nine deaths, scores or prostrations, more than a dozen of which were of a serious character, was the record of the third day of torrid heat. There were no cooling breezes in the evening, as on Thursday, to bring relief to the city's multitude, and thousands of persons in the thickly populated sections of the city made preparations to spend last night in the street and on roofs.

BREWERY WANTS FEE BACK.

Claims It Loaned It to Man Who Was Refused a License.

The Lembeck & Betz Eagle Brewing Company started an action before Judge Booraem at New Brunswick, yesterday, to have $350, which was deposited as a license fee for William H. Manley, paid to them.

Manley's license application was refused by the Excise Board a year ago, and when he went to get his money back he found that Lamdin, Thompson & Co., who had secured judgment against him, had taken out a restraining order to prevent the city paying over the money to him. Now the brewery wants that restraining order set aside, claiming that it loaned the money to Manley for his fee, and that the money never belonged to Manley.

There will be excellent music and a good speaker at the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight.

BRAKEMAN DROPS DEAD.

Falls On C. R. R. Station Platform, Jersey City.

Just as the local train between New York and Newark was about to leave the New Jersey Central Railroad station at Jersey City at 8:45 p. m. yesterday, passengers walking along the platform noticed a man in uniform place his hands to his head and fall.

Screams of women attracted the train hands. A physician was summoned and declared the man died from apoplexy. He was Ambrose Grubing, a brakeman, 50 years old, of 965 Lafayette street, Elizabeth. The body was removed to the Jersey City morgue.

FLOWER AND TREE.

The tobacco plant has grown larger and more profusely in the United States than in any other country.

Consul Hunter Sharp, writing from Kobe, states that the peppermint plant grows about three feet high and is propogated from roots which are planted at the end of November and early in December.

Soapsuds may be used to advantage in fighting insect pests on the flowers. After you have done the week's washing, take the suds and spray the flower plants. Nearly all the serious insect pests can be distroyed by this simple remedy.

Palmyra, Me., has an old elm tree about which they tell this story: A man cut an elm stake and put it on his load of wood. When he unloaded, he stuck this stake into the ground, and it grew until now it is a stately elm that has withstood the blasts of many winters.

WOMAN'S REALM.

There are only sixteen women dentists in New York City.

New Orleans has the finest woman orchestra in the world, while in a New England factory women are employed as piano makers.

The Chamber of Commerce, Cincinnati, has the best restaurant in the city, and it is run by three Scotch women, who make a yearly profit of $15,000, although their annual rental is $5,000.

There are in England today 112 women who are duly elected rural district councilors who are also members of boards of guardians. There are 398 women guardians of the poor who hold that office apart from rural district councilships, making a grand total of 1,000 elected to these two important bodies.

E. T. BARROWS STRUCK WITH BRITISH ROADS

WRITES ENTHUSIASTICALLY OF THEM TO STREET COMMISSIONER GAVETT.

Admiration for the English, Scotch and Welsh roads is expressed by Former Councilman Elliott T. Barrows, in a letter from Somerset, England, to Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett. He expresses a wish that the governing bodies of all the American cities and towns would adopt English road methods. The letter touches on the sewer forms noticed. It is as follows:

"Minehead, Somerset.

"My Dear Mr. Gavett:

"After three hundred and fifty miles in Wales by motor coaching through the 'Lakes' and the 'Trosachs,' running by rail from Edinburgh via Carlisle, Leeds, Birmingham, and Leamington, I am lost in admiration of the wonderful and perfect roads; every country lane macadamized from curb to curb and not a stone on the surface; on one side will be a sidewalk and heaps of mending material on the other.

"In many places the roads are oiled or tarred, and the frequent rains keep wear and tear down, (another object lesson for sprinkling at home.

"Again they are so clean that you can use them for walking, all brought about by law and order and strict adherence to rules against throwing anything on them, consequently you see fewer cleaners than with us.

"Every railroad track and stream is stone bridged, built to last for all time, and like everything else done in this way, cheaper in the end.

"I wish the governing boards of all our cities and towns could take a trip here and then go home and adopt English road methods.

"From above Birmingham, through Sheffield, Leeds, and other cities we ran constantly through sewer farms evidently on the same principle as ours, as they had septic tanks, gravel or broken stone beds, and you could see the clear water running to waste after it had irrigated the most beautiful vegetable farms, that we always found around the beds.

"Trees are also looked after like jewels, and you find the stone walls and hedges that line the roads carried around the trees if it is impossible to include them otherwise.

"Trusting you are well, I am

"Very truly yours,

ELLIOT T. BARROWS."

Telegraph Strike Ends.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

A sister-in-law of the Duke of Westminster is making a tour of England as a gypsy.

Miss Alice Perry has recently been appointed county surveyor of Galway. She is the first and only woman in Ireland who has qualified as a civil engineer.

Miss Florence Nightingale is now eighty seven years old. She lives quietly near Park lane, in London, and, owing to poor health, has not left the house for years.

Miss Dolores Poquete, a West Boylston (Mass.) miss, has forsworn skirts and lingerie and has taken to masculine garb as the most comfortable and most practical wearing apparel.

Mrs. Phineas F. Varnum, of Portland, Me., is a constant user of the telephone. Being unable to call on her friends, Mrs. Varnum entertains them over the wire. Mrs. Varnum is ninety-eight years old.

Miss Isabelle Hagner, who acts as social secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt, is carried on the White House pay roll as a clerk at $1,400 a year. She is the daughter of Dr. Hagner, who years ago was regarded as Washington's leading physician.

A curious bit of real estate is owned by Mrs. Margaret T. Graham of Middletown, R. I. It consists of a small rock located just off her estate, in the ocean, and a special act of the legislature was necessary to give her the rights of ownership.

The first woman aeronaut in the world was Mme Thible, and between the years 1783 and 1849 forty-nine women made ascents. The first English woman to go up in a baloon was the lovely Mrs. Sage, who had an elaborate dress for the occasion.

READY FOR HASSAM JOB.

Work On Borough Contract Will mence Monday.

J. H. Crane, superintendent of construction for the Hassam Pavement company, arrived in the city yesterday with a gang of laborers prepared to begin work on the Somerset street work authorized by the Council. Today's weather interfered with the plans and the laying of the pavement will not commence until Monday. Mr. Crane stated that under ordinary conditions the job could be completed in a week.

Henry Hassam, the patentee of the Hassam system, is very much interested in the contract for the borough and will assist in supervising the construction. The work will be directly in charge of Mr. Crane who has been head superintendent for the Hasam company since its organization.

STATE LINES.

Alabama is the only State in the Union whose legislature meets but once in four years. Then its session is limited to forty days, and the members of the legislature gets $4 a day.

Wisconsin sent nearly 100,000 men to the civil war out of a population of 700,000, almost one-seventh of the entire people of the State. Of these over 12,000 died, or about one-eighth.

In the north Atlantic division—the New England States, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania—the proportion of unmarried men over twenty years to the whole male population is 31 per cent, of the unmarried women 26.2 per cent.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

Michigan and New York are our chief salt producing states, the former leading by half a million barrels a year. The total product of the United States is about 17,000,000 barrels annually.

Coalite is the latest novelty in the fuel line. As made in Newcastle, by a process similar to that employed by the gas companies for the production of coke, it makes no smoke and gives off, it is claimed, about twice the heat of coal, while a coalite fire lasts 40 per cent longer than an ordinary coal fire.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

The largest of fixed stars appears to be Sirius. It is at least three times as hot as the sun and seven times as large.

The world's locomotive engines are roughly 48,000,000 horsepower, excluding motors. Steamship engines are only one-third of this power.

The cheeks become pale from fear because the mental emotion diminishes the action of the heart and lungs and so impedes the circulation.

Miss Ella Warren, of South Nyack, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. F. W. Morse, of Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Bedell, of West Fifth street, leave tomorrow for Nashua, N. H., to spend several weeks.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was — Is — Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

MANY houses are are just being completed at Highland Park, near the Netherwood station, as shown in the above cut. They are of attractive design and contain the latest improvements. Some of them are single houses, while others contain two apartments, one above the other, having separate entrances, front and rear, and separate heaters in the cellar, which is divided into two compartments. These houses are more or less of a novelty in this section, but have proven very popular in Brooklyn and the nearby suburbs of New York. If the purchaser lives in one apartment he can rent the other for enough to pay all the carrying charges, such as interest, taxes and insurance.

The single houses are particularly attractive and each contain seven or eight rooms, including reception hall, butler's pantry and bath room.

Elston M. French, the President of the Highland Park Realty Co., reports that the houses are in demand and that the sales of lots so far in July have exceeded those made in any month this year. This is doubtless owing to the fact that the water, sewer and electric light connections have just been made.

Portions of Highland Park are forty feet higher than North Avenue at the station, which insures healthfulness.

The Company has planted a great many poplar trees and this fall will plant some shrubbery.

The East End of town is being rapidly built up. Lots with all city improvements are selling at from $200 to $400 each, and houses from $3,500 up.

DEDICATE THE AUDITORIUM

Postponed Services For New Building Held at Netherwood Camp Yesterday.

MEMORIAL STRUCTURE

Erected My D. W. Hand As a Tribute to His Sons, Irving and David.

The new memorial building, erected by David Hand and family as a tribute to the memory of his two sons, David and Irving Hand, was filled to the utmost capacity yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the dedication exercises at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, yesterday afternoon. More than 200 Plainfielders, interested in the work Miss Curry is carrying on at Netherwand for the New York poor, visited the camp yesterday for the dedication services.

The building, which is 60 feet broad by 125 feet deep, is a single story auditorium and will accommodate 500 people. At one end it is closed in and at the other end is the speaker's platform. The other three sides of the building are open. At the occasion of the death of Mr. Hand's eldest son, Irving, three years ago, the young man spoke of Miss Curry and the Netherwood Camp during his last conscious moments. He said that he wished he could do something for the camp and asked that the money he had saved be put with a bequest his younger brother David had left for the camp at the time of his death several years before, and something be done for Miss Curry's work. The money amounted to $1,500 and Miss Curry felt that the greatest need was to have a covered auditorium where meetings could be held. Some time was consumed in deciding on plans for the building and the work of erection was commenced early in the spring.

The dedication services held at the camp yesterday were postponed from last Sunday, because of the stormp weather. The programme consisted of songs by the children at the camp and remarks by various members of the camp committee and Miss Sara Curry, the matron.

The order of service was as follows: Chorus, "There's Sunshine in My Soul Today"; solo, "The Glory Song," by Mary Miller, one of the camp children; chorus, "Under His Wings"; hymn, "The Comforter Has Come"; Scripture reading and prayer, by Rev. E. M. Rodman; selection by the choir, "Sweeter As the Days Go By"; remarks by George A. Chapman, chairman of the Finance Committee; hymn, "Follow, We Wil Follow Jesus; remarks by John D. Loizeaux, chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee; hymn "Calling Today"; remarks by Benjamin Hadley, secretary of the Camp; selection by the choir, "A Letter From Home"; remarks by George E. Hall, vice-president of the Camp; duett, "Peace, Sweet Peace," by Elsie and Helen Tdor, two of the camp children; remarks by David W. Hand, donor of the auditorium; selection by the choir, "He's Everything to Me"; remarks by Miss Sara Curry, matron at the Camp; cornet solo, "The Beautiful City," by Whitney Frazee; remarks by Miss Florence G. Hawkins, of the camp devotional committee; offertory, cornet solo, "The Ninety and Nine," by Whitney Frazee; hymn, "Blest be the Tie that binds"; benediction and doxology, by Rev. E. M. Rodman.

The choir from the Park Avenue Baptist church, twelve voices, led the song services. Miss Mary Clark was at the melodian, accompanied by Whitney Frazee on the cornet. The leader of the meeting was George A. Chapman.

A collection amounting to $25.45 was taken for Miss Curry's work. In speaking of the expense of running the camp, Mr. Chapman said: "Last summer there were brought out from New York 1674 children and 568 mothers—2242 in all. The treasurer's report showed that the total expenditures amounted to but $1,326, so that for every sixty cent contributed by the people of Plainfield and vicinity, it was made possible for Miss Curry to bring out a child from New York, keep it at the camp, and return it to its home.

Enjoyed Trip to Greenwood Lake.

William L. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Besler, of the borough, and Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Wightman, of this city, returned last night from Greenwood Lake. They made the trip in Mr. Saunders' fine touring car. Going they went by the way of Springfield, Chatham, the Oranges and Montclair, and returning they took the route which brought them home through 'Bernardsville, Far Hills, Pluckemin and Somerville. Mr. Besler was appointed guide for the trip, a part of his duties being to ascertain the best roads to and from the destination.

UNCLE AND NEPHEW VS. UNCLE AND NEPHEW

TEUTONIC LANGUAGE AS A MEDIUM OF OF DEBATE IN POLICE COURT.

"When Greek Meets Greek" isn't an instance to what happens verbally when an irate German meets a fellow countryman in the same mood. There was no conclusive demonstration of the efficacy of the Teutonic language, as a substitute for blows at police headquarters this morning. Paul Nachtwey, who keeps a delicatessen store on Watchung avenue, had sundry complaints to make against Franz Glithes, nephew of John G. Bantle, his neighbor and his landlord.

Thomas, Bantle's nephew, and Franz, Nachtwey's nephew, fellows about seventeen years of age, have not been on friendly terms for three months. Rich Teutonic epithets alleged to have been hurled from one to another at sundry times of meeting brought about a complaint by Nachtwey, the uncle, that the language "hurts mein business." In court this morning the family feud broke out in unbridled fierceness under the very ear of the law. The English of the four was limited, so they made their remarks to each other in German, which was perhaps just as well. Judge Runyon, seeing that family history on both sides was being rehearsed as each tried to make more complaints than the other, tried to patch up a Teutonic alliance for the future. Hospitilities of a verbal nature, however, could be heard continuing faintly as the four left the court room and separated.

POSSE HUNTS NEGRO NEAR SOMERVILLE

FUGITIVE NEARLY KILLED A WHITE MAN IN AN UNPROVOKED ATTACK.

There was a midnight man-hunt at Somerville last Saturday night, in which a posse headed by Assistant Chief of Police L. A. Bellis and Town Commissioner Joseph Harris scoured the country north of the town for William Kline, a negro, who murderously assaulted William Rowe, a white resident of the town, on Main street, about midnight, Saturday. Rowe is now in the Somerset Hospital in a precarious condition. His face was crushed in with a rolling pin wielded by the negro.

The assault on Rowe was so brutal and unprovoked that it led to threats of lynching the negro by a crowd of infuriated citizens. Kline and other negroes who had been drinking were in an ugly mood and started a fight in the street. A negro woman who passed up the street, carrying kitchen utensils which she had purchased, handed Kline a rolling pin to enter the affray. At the same time Rowe was crossing the street and Kline dealt him a crushing blow in the face. Rowe fell unconscious in the street. It was first believed that he was killed, so terrific was the blow.

The negro and his companions ran up the street, hotly pursued by three policemen. The negroes escaped in to the open country north of the town, and the posse was organized.

The posse was carried to the suburbs of the town in a hospital ambulance and other vehicles, but it failed to get any trace of Kline.

AUTO TANK EXPLODES.

Occupants Escape Injury, But Car Is Burned Up.

The gasolene tank of a touring car owned by Arthur C. Swinton, of Nolan & Swinton, insurance brokers, of 100 William street, New York, mysteriously exploded as it was climbing a steep incline on the old York road two miles north of Somerville last Saturday night.

Mr. Swinton was driving the car at the time and was accompanied by two other men. The occupants made a flying leap for their lives and escaped injury. The car was almost instantly enveloped in flames and was totally destroyed. The occupants were compelled to make such a hasty escape that their hats and coats were left behind and were burned with the car.

County Officials Dine.

County Clerk Anderson, Sheriff Cooper, Editor Beekman, of the Unionist-Gazette; Editor Messenger, of the Somerset Messenger; Horace Coddington, Assistant Prosecutor Johnson, of Somerville, and Guy D. Peck, were guests of A. Binz, proprietor of the Mountain House, Gallia, on Friday.

—T. H. Moore, a salesman for a New York house, has leased Mrs. M. B. Farroat's house on West Front street, the latter having moved to Craig place.

MATTANO CLUB'S PLIGHT

Union County's Famous Organization May be Refused a License by the Court.

PRESENTMENT'S EFFECT

Senator Kean and Congressman Fowler Members of the Club Which Is Influential in County Affairs.

The richest and most exclusive club in Union county, the Mattano, at 64 Broad street, Elizabeth, numbering among its members United States Senator Kean, Congressman Charles N. Fowler and many other well known men, will very likely be refused a license to sell liquor, at the hearing which has been set for next Wednesday by Judge Atwater, because of legal obstacles.

The Mattano Club, like most all other clubs, until recently sold or dispensed liquor to its members. Since the agitation against all the liquor interests in Elizabeth a ruling has been made that clubs cannot sell or give away liquor without a license and the Mattano was compelled to put in its application, the members in the meantime having to content themselves with buttermilk.

The act relating to social clubs, passed by the Legislature of 1901, says that a club, to be granted a license, must occupy an entire building. The Mattano occupies two floors in a building of three stories. There are clubs in other States which have been unable to obtain licenses owing to peculiar provisions of the law. One of these is the famous Chevy Chase Club in Washington. There the members buy liquor for their own personal use and keep it in their lockers, which course may have to be followed by the local club. Another provision which it is said may prevent the Mattano Club from getting the desired license is a clause in the law prohibiting the granting of a license to a place within 200 feet of a church.

LOS ANGELES SOLOIST HEARD AT DIVINE SERVICE.

Miss Isabella Curl Pleases Seventh-Day Baptist Congregation.

The congregation of the Seventh-day Baptist church was highly favored at their morning service by the perfect rendering by Miss Isabella Curl, of Los Angeles, Col., of two soprano solos: "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," by Dudley Buck, and "Come Unto Him," from Handel's Messiah, and also the solo parts of Spence's anthem "Like as the Hart."

Miss Curl has studied voice culture abroad, and is on her way to Milan for an additional three years course, yet those who heard her Sabbath morning recognized already in her interpretation and rendition of the above solos, the work of the finished artist. Particularly enjoyable were the unaffected manner, ease of voice control, and remarkably distinct enunciation, all features so necessary to the proper rendering of sacred music, yet features so often carelessly disregarded by church singers. It is hoped the congregation may hear her again upon her return home. While in Plainfield Miss Curl is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Marcus L. Clawson, of Park avenue.

Rev. G. L. Gardner Accepts.

Rev. G. L. Gardner, of North Loop, Nebraska, formerly president of Salem College, Salem, W. Va., has accepted the call to the editorship of The Sabbath Recorder to succeed Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who resigned to take up special work. Mr. Gardner will enter upon his new duties September 1. He is in every way qualified for the position, having had charge of the editorial work for an entire season during the absence of Dr. Lewis, and the choice meets with the general approbation of the members of the denomination.

Crash Ended Pleasure Trip.

While Le Grand Fulton, of Grant avenue, was running his new auto at a good speed along Sycamore street, yesterday, the machine made a sudden swerve and crashed into a car standing in front of Laing's garage. Fulton's machine fared second best in the compact and went into the Laing shop for repairs. A party of friends who were with him and who were expecting a ride to Fort Lee went home by trolley car.

Pool Tables at Y. M. C. A.

The work of installing two new pool tables at the Y. M. C. A. has been completed and the tables are now ready for play. The work was done by Sandford, Bell and Lahm, of New York city. The small assembly room on the main floor has been changed into a billard and pool room, with the two pool tables and the billard tables. Members may use the tables at the rate of thirty cents an hour.

WARNING TO CHIEF KIELY FROM THE BLACK HAND

LETTER ORDERING THE RELEASE OF JOHN SPRAGUE THREATENS DEATH.

This has been an uneasy day for the friends of Chief Kiely and of the local police force. All day long there has been an excited group around Weather Observer Neagle's seismograph, awaiting a tremor in the instrument's needle which foretells a shaking of the earth, or the Black Hand has it in for the Chief, and "The Committee" has threatened to blow up police headquarters.

Taking sides with John Sprague, who was arrested for setting fire to his father's house "to get square" for an alleged injustice, "The Committee" of The Black Hand Association sent the Chief the following "warning" by mail Saturday:

Plainfield, N. J.,
July 19, 1907.

Dear Sir:

If you don't let the man who set fire to his house one night last week go, we will blow up the police station. You must let him out in 2 days.

Yours truly,
THE BLACK HAND.

We mean business.

The letter was written in lead pencil and at the bottom of the sheet was a rough drawing of a hand. The envelope was directed to "Mr. Kiely, Police Station." The Chief has a strong trust in "past performances in cases like this, effecting a change in place of residence and thinks the joke too good to keep.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS BY A BOLT OF LIGHTNING

MRS. A. V. SEARING VICTIM OF SATURDAY NIGHT'S STORM.

Following the oppressively high temperature on Saturday, which was not relieved by the heavy thunder storm during the morning, a terrific electrical storm visited the city during the early part of the evening, while the business streets were thronged with shoppers. The storm came up quickly, the first intimation of it being the constant flashes of sharp lightning, which was followed by a heavy down pour of rain.

During the storm a bolt of lightning struck the ventilator pipe on the roof at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Searing on Orange place, and followed the water pipe to the kitchen sink, where but a minute before Mrs. Searing had been drawing water. When the bolt reached the end of the water faucet it exploded, filling the room with fire. Mrs. Searing, who was alone in the kitchen, was rendered unconscious by the shock and it was fully an hour before she recovered her senses. She is still confined to the house, but no serious results are anticipated by the physician in charge. Strangely, the damage to the house was very slight.

While the shower did not last more than fifteen minutes, it was very severe and the rain was intermingled with hail, stones of large proportion falling chiefly in the business part of the town. On West Front street Michael Higgins scooped up a large pail full of the stones. Many horses were frightened by the deulge of rain and hail stones and several runaways were narrowly averted.

Wherever the storm sewer is installed the surface water was carried off quickly but many other streets were inundated, the water rushing through them like a river. Very little damage was reported, probably due to the fact that the storm lasted by a short time. Soon afterward there was a noticeable drop in the temperature, making life worth living. Yesterday the weather was delightful and hundreds of Plainfielders enjoyed it automobiling, carriage riding, on the trolleys or by going on the various railroad excursions.

Bound Brook Landmark Removed.

The brick building a mile from Bound Brook and standing practically in the centre of farm land east of that place that was built nine years ago by Dr. Pierce, of medical fame, for the manufacture of a cash register, but which of late has been tenantless, has been sold to the Pathe Freres Cinematograph Company, of New York and Paris, and it will be used in the future for the manufacture of films for moving pictures. The structure is five stories high and covers twelve full size city lots.

Sufficient Funds to Pay Bills.

The annual excursion of the First Presbyterian and Congregational churches to Asbury Park, last week, resulted in only a slight deficiency. There was enough money made on last year's outing to cover this and meet all bills.

MAN KILLED BY FLYER

VICTIM AN ELECTRICIAN

Struck By Blue Line Engine and Hurled In Air—Death Instantaneous.

Stepping away from a freight train that was approaching him near the Westfield station, Saturday afternoon, Willis E. Northelfer, a member of the New Jersey Central's signal corps, placed himself in front of a Blue Line flyer and was instantly killed. He was struck by the pilot and hurled to one side, fortunately escaping the wheels of both trains and the mangling that would have followed.

Fellow-employes of Northelfer ran to his side but he was dead when they reached him. The body was placed on a train and brought to Cole's undertaking rooms in this city, his father and other relatives reaching the place later. It was sent to Easton yesterday afternoon and the funeral will be held at his late home, 218 South Sixth street, tomorrow.

Northelfer was but twenty-four years old and was married on the twenty-sixth of last month. He was an electrician by trade and was recently assigned by the railroad to do some wiring in the new switch tower that is being erected at Westfield. He had been engaged in this Saturday, when the forman, Irving Cubberley, of Pearl street, the borough, sent him after an implement in a tool box down the track. It was while returning from this that the accident occurred.

It is probable that the young man was not aware of the train's approach and stepped away from the freight directly in its path. He is survived by his parents and was the only child in the family.

COLORED SAINTS WILL DEDICATE CHURCH SUNDAY.

Prophet Crowdy's Son To Be On Hand—Coin Sorely Needed.

The members of the Church of God and Saints of Christ, colored, will take possession of their new house of worship on West Third street, on Sunday, when services will be held all day. Elder Trent, who is in charge of the congregation, announces that it will be a "grand opening." At 11 o'clock in the morning, Grandfather Abraham William H. Plumber, of Boston, Mass., will break the Bread of Life.

Evangelist M. D. Morris, of Newark, will preach a special sermon at 3 o'clock in the afternoon before the Daughters of Jerusalem and Sisters of Mercy. The real opening sermon will be preached at 8:30 o'clock in the evening by Chief Evangelist Joseph Crowdy, and there will be special music by singers from various tabernacles. Elder Trent extends a cordial welcome to all well-wishers, and incidentally remarks that the congregation is obliged to raise a specified sum of money at the opening of the new tabernacle.

This building is the result of the big convention of the Church of God and Saints of Christ held here last year, when delegates were present from all parts of the country. A sufficient number of converts were secured to form a congregation and under the direction of Elder Trent steps were taken to build a church. In the meantime the congregation has been meeting at Reform Hall.

Will Visit Ellis Island.

The members of the Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church and their friends will visit Ellis Island, on Wednesday, on a sight-seeing tour. Kenneth Robbie, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will chaperone the party. The start will be made on the 1:09 afternoon train from the North Avenue station. If the weather should be stormy the trip will be postponed until next week.

Special Musicale Service.

Under the direction of E. J. Fitzhugh, who is acting organist at the First Baptist church, during the absence abroad of Howard M. Case, a special musical service will be held at the church Sunday night. This will be the last musicale service prior to the choir taking its vacation for the month of August.

Fresh Air Home Leaders.

The leaders for the Gospel meetings at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, this week, will be as follows: Tuesday, Clarence Titus, of Roselle; Thursday, Benjamin Hadley; Friday, J. D. Loizeaux.

—J. L. Bennett, manager for J. A. Smith & Bros.' grocery, is enjoying a week's vacation.

THIEVES STOLE HIS HORSE BUT LEFT A BETTER ONE

FUCHS THEN GOT HIS OWN BACK AND NOW HE HAS TWO.

Charles Fuchs, a former well known resident of this city who now lives at Berkeley Heights, recently had a peculiar experience with horse thieves and as a result has a handsome animal in his possession that he would like to have claimed.

The thieves entered Fuchs' barn a week ago Saturday night and stole the horse he uses in his business as butcher. When he discovered the loss next morning, however, he found that another had been left in its place, the newcomer being much more valuable than his. Matters remained this way until the latter part of last week when Fuchs noticed an article in The Daily Press relating an occurrence similar to his that had taken place at Whitehouse. It stated that a horse belonging to John C. TenEyck, who lives near the village, had been stolen but another animal had been left in the yard of Jacob S. Swackhamer. A description of the latter horse was given and it corresponded with the one taken from Fuchs' barn.

Fuchs went to Whitehouse Saturday and found that the animal at Swackhamer's was his. He brought it home with him and now has the two, no one having yet arrived to claim the one put in his barn.

The thieves travelled in a buggy and it is believed that they are making their way West, pressing a fresh horse into service every night and abandoning the other.

JABBED STONEFORK INTO FELLOW WORKMAN'S HEAD

THE VICTIM IN HOSPITAL—AGGRESSOR ESCAPES.

Michael Gargon and Patsy Devnon, two members of the New Jersey Central's track gang engaged in work about the North Avenue station, engaged in a dispute shortly before noon today. Before the foreman could get near enough to stop the trouble, Gorgon lifted up a fork that he had been using in spreading stone, and jabbed it at Devnon's head. One of the tines caught him on the right side of the scalp, inflicting a wound several inches long.

The officials about the station had the victim removed to Dr. Fritts' office for temporary treatment after which he was sent to the hospital. In the excitement of taking care of him, Gargon slipped away and the police are looking for him. He came from somewhere around Jersey City and it is probable that he will work his way back there.

Anti-Saloon League to Convene.

The New Jersey Anti-Saloon League meets at Ocean Grove in annual conference today. The Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead, of Newark, is the president of the organization. The principal speaker is the Rev. J. Frank Burke, the state superintendent. He related his novel experience at Trenton last winter, when he appeared before the Legislature in opposition to the repeal of the so-called Bishop's bill. The New Jersey State Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet in convention on Wednesday and Thursday.

Spraying of Trees Continues.

The spraying of trees throughout the city is now being directed to trees on West Sixth street, the work being done under the direction of the shade tree commission, of which E. T. Barrows is the chairman and Miles Roberts and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett are members. Thus far the spraying seems to have proved successful and it is hoped that it will accomplish much in the way of preserving some of the finest shade trees in the city.

Junior Baracc Elects.

Sermons in German Only.

Rev. Charles H. Schneegas, pastor of the German Reformed church, has discontinued preaching in English in his church Sunday evenings and now preaches in German both morning and night. The attendance is better since the change and the church seems to be in a healthier condition than ever before.

TRAINED NURSE ARRESTED

Charged with Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses She is Locked Up.

$100 AMOUNT INVOLVED

Secured Physician's Endorsement to Check For Which There Were No Funds.

Charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, Mrs. Elizabeth White, a comely widow about forty years old, was placed under arrest at Saratoga, N. Y., Saturday, at the request of Chief Kiely, of the local force. The woman agreed to come to Plainfield without the formality of requisition papers and is now locked up at police headquarters awaiting help from friends who have promised to aid her.

Mrs. White is a native of the South and came to this city from some point below Washington a little over a month ago. She is a trained nurse and was following her profession when she became ill and was treated by Dr. B. VanD. Hedges. After her recovery she was pressed for money and went to the City National Bank with a check for $100, drawn in her own name on a southern bank. When asked for identification, she gave Dr. Hedges' names and the physician readily gave his endorsement to her check and the money was paid over.

As soon as Mrs. White received the $100 she hurried to the North avenue station, first going to a place on Long Island and then to Saratoga. These facts were learned later when the check was discovered to be worthless. Chief Kiely had Mrs. White's movements traced and finally located her in the New York state city where she was nursing a patient.

The chief got the authorities to arrest her, according to Saratoga papers, but she engaged two lawyers and called for an immediate hearing. The proceedings were about to start when the Plainfield officer reminded her counsel that all the obstacles she placed in his way would work to her detriment when he got her to New Jersey. The dodge had its effect on Mrs. White and she consented to come to Plainfield without any further opposition.

Dr. Hedges was asked about the matter this morning but declined to give any information, stating that he regretted the affair very much. He notified the police that he would not press any charge against Mrs. White if the $100 was refunded and this the friends are seeking to do. She placed herself in communication with them as soon as she was arrested and the money will probably be forthcoming in a short time.

ALIGHTED FROM TROLLEY, KNOCKED DOWN BY CYCLIST.

Seven Year Old Charles Apgar Injured By Wheelman in Front of His Home.

While riding his bicycle along West Front street at about 2:30 this afternoon, John Thans, a Greek, who lives in New Brunswick, collided with seven-year-old Charles Apgar, throwing him to the ground and bruising him painfully. The lad, with his brother and mother, was alighting from the trolley in front of their house at Rock avenue and Front street. Mrs. Apgar had lifted Charles from the car and was helping his brother off when the accident happened, as the little fellow stood in the road waiting for his mother.

The patrol wagon was summoned and proceeded to the spot with Roundsman Morris Higgins. Dr. Lufburrow attended to the lad, who was taken to his home near by. An examination showed that no bones were broken, but there was a bad abrasion on the childs' forehead and his right arm was bruised. His left arm, which was dislocated at the elbow several weeks ago, was also injured by the fall. Roundsman Higgins arrested Thans, who is being detained at the police station, awaiting a hearing. He claims that he was not speeding, but that the child got directly in the path of his wheel as he was helped off the trolley car.

Fresh Air Children at Church.

Accompanied by twenty-two children from New York city, who are sojourning at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, Miss Sara Curry was at the Crescent Avenue church last evening, where a service was held in the interests of the Home. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, and there were remarks by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church, and Miss Curry, who spoke briefly and simply regarding the work she was doing and the needs of the Home. The children rendered a program of songs and recitations in connection with the service. The evening's offering was presented to Miss Curry for use in the maintainance of the camp this summer.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

RIVER MADE HIM INSURE.

Got Tired of Falling Into Water and Sought Protection.

One of our men selling insurance tells of an instance where a special manifestation and a moving of the spirit and the flesh were necessary to make a New Madrid man take out a policy, says an insurance man in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. He had a place on the river bank below the town. His little shack was perched on a bluff which jutted far out over the water. There had been a good many landslides down there, caused by the disintegration of the bank. The agent sighted the shack the first thing when he made the town and that afternoon he went up there to talk business. There was nothing doing. The old fellow was a fatalist and he didn't believe in insurance. "I go as the spirit moves me," he said, solemnly. The agent was persistent. "You might fall in the river some day," he said. "Well, I tell you all, honey, I ain't never fell in yet. When I've done fell in you can come around and see me." Five months later the agent made the town again. He sighted the shack, but it wasn't where it had been. It was a mile or so back from the bluff. But the man who lived there was waiting at the gang-plank. He grabbed the agent's hand and said: "I thought maybe you was on the boat and I came down to wait for you all." After an awkward pause he added: "I guess maybe I'll take that policy. I've done fell in three times. You'd better put a policy on the shack, too. I'm tired of fishin' it outen the river an' totin' it up the hill."

HER SENSE OF COLOR.

It Was a Happy Match and She Wanted Harmony Complete.

'Twas the first day of the honeymoon, which the happy young couple were spending at one of the quietest of seaside places, and the extent of their beatitude was immeasurable. He made it his duty that her every wish should be his; and, like a loyal little woman, she paid him back in his own coin, so that their life sped on as merrily as the proverbial marriage bell. "John, dear," said the sweet little woman to her husband one day, "do me a favor to-night?" "With the greatest pleasure, love," was his instant reply. "What is it?" "I wish, darling," went on his bride, "that you would put on your red necktie for dinner." For the first time John winced, for that particular necktie, the gift of his mother-in-law, was the one trial of his flesh. "Wh—why, darest?" he queried. "O, do, John, dearest?" he queried. "O, do, John, you to wear it. You see, I have just found out from the menu that we are to have radishes, tomatoes, strawberries and claret!"—Stray Stories.

High Class Reporting.

English sporting reporters will have to look to their laurels, says the London Tatler. Rex Beach thus relates in Everybody's Magazine an episode in a prize fight at Tonopah in Nevada on New Year's day: "In a quiet interval between rounds I heard a reporter dictating high-class pugilistic literature: 'Herman's work in the fifth was classy and he fought all over the place. He stabbed the Dinge in the food-hopper three times and all but got his goat, then missed a right swing to the butler's pantry by an inch. If he had coupled it would have been the sunset glow for Dahomey, but Gans didn't fall for the gag, not hardly. He ripped an upper through the Yiddish lad and put him on the hop with a right cross.'"

Anything to Please.

Servant girl No. 26 was inquiring into his qualifications to become her employer. He had answered five questions with apparent satisfaction, and his hopes were running high. Then the fatal question: "How many children have you?" "Two," he answered, reddening with his sense of guilt. "Nothing doing," was the flippant response. "I never enter a family where there are children." His strained patience snapped. He seized her by the arm. "Say," he whispeerd, hoarsely, "come with me and I'll throw the children out of the window. Nay, more, I'll divorce my wife and marry you. Anything else that you want? Just mention it, and it shall be done."

The World His Oyster.

The novelist of to-day has one great advantage over his fellow of half a century ago. The telegraph, the newspaper and the illustrated weeklies and magazines have opened up the whole world to him and made it contributory to his talent. He can go to the uttermost points of the earth and the knowledge of the reader has preceded him. It acts as a fillup to the imagination; it certifies the correctness of the description; it adds always to the interest. The minute a place is mentioned, the mind of the reader gets at work and thus reinforces the novelist in a most vital point, that of atmosphere.

Pure Carelessness.

"There's no use your feeling so dreadfully depressed over the less of your diamonds. Why do you carry on so?" "Because I'm so provoked when I think that if I had lost them five years ago their value wouldn't have been half what it is now."

Social.

"Are you getting acquainted in your new neighborhood?" "Well, some. The postman and the iceman seem to be quite cordial, but I haven't met the ashman yet."—Philadelphia Ledger.

EVILS OF BITTERNESS.

Half the time when you take offense the cause lies in your own imagination

If your misfortunes turn you crabbed and bitter, no one will feel one bit sorry for you.

No matter how roughly life may treat you, fight desperately hard against allowing yourself to grow hard and bitter.

A woman's sweetness and gentleness are her greatest charms and her strongest weapons. To be hard and bitter and cynical is to lose all lovableness.

You may have the hardest kind of luck; everything may go wrong; but as long as you are brave and sweet over it you will at least have the sympathy of your friends.

To be sweet tempered, to take things bravely and cheerfully, and not to take offense at every fancied slight should be the aim of every girl who desires to make herself popular.

A cynical woman turns all the milk of human kindness into vinegar. According to her creed there is nothing good and nothing true. She ascribes false motives to every kindness.

I am not advising you to be poor spirited and to allow yourself to be imposed upon, but merely to use your common sense and look well into things before you fly off the handle and look upon yourself as insulted.—Chicago American.

SHAVINGS.

A lawsuit is the thief of time and money.

A stitch in time may close the mouths of nine goss' s.

Thrift and stinginess are as similar as they are different.

If a man is incompetent he usually charges it to bad luck.

Men with long heads are capable of using them on short notice.

It is scarcity of their remarks that makes some women remarkable.

Even if you gain but an inch you haven't put your best foot forward in vain.

Theatrically speaking, the heroine's death scene is usually less realistic than her hair dyeing.

It takes almost as many tailors to make a man as it takes collectors to induce him to pay for the job.

One idea of a hypocrite is a man who really admires his mother-in-law, but is too contrary to admit the fact.

A woman derives more pleasure from planning things that never come off than a man does from the actual happenings of things.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Nearly everybody is honest unless he gets caught.

A gambler is the fellow who gets your money at it.

A daughter's gain of a figure is her mother's loss.

A woman could never like freckles unless they cost a fortune to have.

A summer resort is a very convenient place to wish you were having a good time.

The difference between a quaint trick and an ugly habit is whether your child or somebody else's does it.

It's just human nature to get a strong affection for a suit of clothes your wife is ashamed to have you wear.

When a man in a street car objects to a child rubbing its muddy feet all over his trousers every woman in the car knows he has a bad heart.—New York Press.

NUGGETS FROM "SUCCESS."

The man of grit carries in his presence a power which spares him the necessity of resenting insults.

It is said that if Napoleon had spent more time at his meals and Alexander the Great had spent less, the life of each could easily have been doubled.

Worry and fret are fatal to the integrity of nerve and brain. Fear can sting like a scorpion and torment like a scourge.

The man who works by proxy is apt to find himself in the position of Miles Standish, who sent his friend John Alden to propose marriage for him to Priscilla, and lost what he was after.

It is said that cavalry horses, when their riders have been shot in battle, will often come together at the sound of the bugle call and go through their customary drill from the force of habit.

Quality and Price

The two vital questions in your piano purchase are, first, quality; second, price. An unsatisfactory piano, in tone and action, is the most annoying article you can have in your home. You dislike to be expending money on it continually to keep it in playing condition.

Special July Sale

beginning Monday, July 15th, continuing for the balance of the month, we shall dispose of a large number of practically new Upright Pianos at remarkably low prices and terms.

A large number of these instruments have been taken as part payment on our Euterpe Piano Player; many have been used but a short time on rent; altogether they are a very fine collection of instruments which may be purchased for from one-half to one-third value.

We will also include in this SALE a number of Square Pianos and Organs, some of which we will mark as low as $10.00, none higher than $45.00. These are all of well known and standard makes which we have taken in as part payment on our Mathushek & Son Pianos with Duplex Sounding Board. Hundreds of buyers in this vicinity have been convinced of their durability and superiority above all others.

We are always pleased to explain and demonstrate to the prospective buyer WHY the Duplex Sounding Board is more durable and in every way superior to the common sounding board that invariably split and with ribs that loosen and rattle.

LITERARY.

The July number of Scribner's Magazine is full of outdoor features and is unusually rich in pictures and articles that have to do with the summer season. The frontispiece, in color, accompanies a poem of the woods called "The Green Inn" by Theodosia Garrison. It is scarcely known outside of Spain that Velasquez, the great painter, left a series of remarkable critical notes on the collection of paintings which Philip IV sent to the Monastery of San Lorenzo, in 1656. Walter Pach, an American artist, has translated these succinct commentaries and has written a preface. It is illustrated with reproductions of the paintings commented on. Barrett Wendell concludes his essays on Contemporary France with a discussion of "The Republic and Democracy."

The July McClure's is unique in features. There are six of them and a more interesting issue of any magazine would be hard to find. "Will the 'America' Fly to the Pole?" by Walter Wellman is a fairy story of reality—and graphically describes his airship "America" and the dash he will make to the Pole next month. Ellen Terry in "When I was Married" tells of her romantic marriage to the painter, Watts, when she was not quite sixteen. She also tells of several years of her early life on the stage. Anecdote after anecdote make her memories charming. Carl Schurz dramatically paints "The Battle of Gettysburg." "The Confession and Autobiography of Harry Orchard," who now figures so large in Idaho, are most astounding, and give one a key to the man's character in the story of his first deadly errors. C. P. Connolly brings out most amazing and melodramatic Montana history in "The Fight for the Minnie Healy," in which contest "almost every crime in the calendar was committed." Georgine Milmine's "Mary Baker G. Eddy" takes up the story of "Mrs. Eddy and Witchcraft," and shows Mrs. Eddy's strange belief in witchcraft and Malicious Animal Magnetism.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

John Wiuzenreid, of Lee place, is a reliable trucker and he promptly attends to all orders.

A. H. Enander, of Watchung avenue, is an expert sanitary plumber. He does the best work and charges are reasonable.

Ordered your winter supply of coal yet? If not, purchase it from Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, and you will get the best at the lowest prices.

The cream, milk, butter and eggs sold at the Brokaw creamery on East Front street, stands the test every time. Absolute purity and reasonable prices.

A. E. Force & Co., proprietors of "The White Store," have the kind of goods that will make you comfortable these warm days. The line of goods for women's wear is complete and the prices low. The housefurnishing department is also filled with seasonable goods, including porch chairs, hammocks, as well as refrigerators, window screens, etc., and the prices will suit you.

SUMMER HOSE HINTS.

Stripes have superseded the openwork effects, and come in all widths, the narrowest being just a dropped stitch in lines less than an inch apart, the plain portions showing a row of dots. Others have openwork stripes an inch wide, looking at first place not unlike a band of fancy braid.

A single American Beauty rose in natural colorings was the decoration on a pair of finest black silk hose seen in a store. A second pair displayed tea roses; others, inset with Chantilly lace motifs, did not stop at this, but addede embroidery in colors as well. Neat looking black hose with the thread dropped line showing dots in lines of different tones in one color were extremely practical, and as these were to be had without the dots at a much less price they could be done at home at very little cost or trouble.

The greatest variety seems to be among the black stockings and some of the embroideries on these are most elaborate and the lace insertings are truly exquisite.

The white stockings with checked tops came in late last year and proved so popular that manufacturers determined to get ahead of time this year, with the result that there will not be the scarcity there was last fall.

Year old babies' socks are shown in the finest silk and the daintiest coloring, quite plain or adorned with dots, and, for older children, there are the smart, practical tans, in cotton and lisle thread, plain and embroidered.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

The Harrison A. C. defeated the Lincoln A. C., at Lincoln, on Saturday, by a score of 8 to 2. A feature of the game was two home runs by Harrison A. C.

There will be something doing at Crescent Oval on Saturday, when Clinton Avenue will meet Y. M. C. A. The contest will be for real honors and both teams will bend every effort to score a victory.

The Laurels, of Bound Brook, will play Raritan at Raritan on Saturday and it looks like a victory for the Laurels.

The Giants are gradually drifting back and it would not be surprising if they failed to remain in the first division, judging by the form shown by the other teams.

Notwithstanding Clark Griffith's denial that "Doc" Hillebrandt will play with the Highlanders, Frank Farrell, president of the association, has confirmed the report and the former Princeton twirler will soon join the team.

Clarkson, who was traded by the Highlanders to Cleveland, has failed to show his worth since going west, in fact he is not used as a regular pitcher.

President Pulliam's determination to preserve order and put a stop to ungentlemanly conduct on the part of the players, is bearing good fruit.

By way of comparison, there are no amateur teams in the State that are playing better ball than Clinton Avenue, Scotch Plains and the Y. M. C. A., of the amateur league. The kind of ball these nines are putting up should receive better support.

The amateur league series of games has settled down to a contest between Clinton Avenue, Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains, and you can take your choice as to the probable winner.

Weaner continues to pitch good ball for Flemington, and yet he was not considered good enough for any local nine.

Realizing that it is hopeless to try and defeat Flemington, especially on the latter's grounds, the West Ends, of Somerville, will not meet the Hunterdon county boys this season.

Sam. Hope, formerly of the Plainfield team, has been secured by Cleveland, of the American League, to strengthen the pitching staff. He was pitching this season for the Newark Atlantic League team.

GOLF.

The monthly competition for the July cup will be concluded at the Park Golf Club on Saturday. This event has attracted a number of contestants each week and the outcome will be watched with interest.

The next special competition at the Park Golf Club will be for the September cup, to be held during that month. Owing to the fact that so many of the members are away during August it was decided not to arrange for a special competition in that month.

At the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday will be concluded the handicap match play for the Governor's cup by the players who qualified on the last Saturday in June; also the qualifying rounds for Classes A and B for handicap match play during August. The four lowest net scores in each class on each Saturday to qualify. The prizes for the August handicap match play competition are presented by H. Talbot and E. D. Floyd.

The only events scheduled for the Plainfield Country Club course on Saturday are the weekly competitions for the Golf Committee, Green Committee and Scratch cups. This will be about the weekly program until Labor Day.

In winning the golf championship at the Plainfield Country Club for this year, W. Lester Glenney displayed that he was not only in good form, but that his game was consistent throughout. While the match was uncomfortably close for Glenney, his opponent, C. B. Morgan, pressing him hard, in the finer points, he displayed the greater strength.

C. B. Morgan, who failed to land the championship at the Plainfield Country Club, has been very successful during the past two seasons in playing the game. Last year he won several worthy honors at the club and his playing this year has shown steady improvement.

The members of the Plainfield Country Club are gradually getting used to the extra difficult hazards placed about the course by the green committee. The sand bunkers are a dangerous place to land a ball and the irregular greens also make it extremely difficult to return a low score, yet when the players become accustomed to the conditions it will tend to strengthen them in their play.

Plainfield, N. J., July 22, 1907.

Rather than unnecessarily afflict a suffering public, Chancellor Day should accept the advice given to the man about to get married before going any further with his promised literary work.

If anyone thinks that the refusal of a license to the Mattano Club, of Elizabeth, will be a hard blow to Charles Napoleon Fowler, he's very much mistaken. There's no Bishop's law in Vermont, and at any rate, the Congressman doesn't drink.

Rather than be in anywise responsible for the extermination of a noble animal which roams through the West, the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks by a resolution passed at its National convention in Philadelphia has abandoned its emblem. No longer will the elk's tooth be the insignia of the order, which has shown its respect for the President's wishes and its National pride in so fitting a manner. So, who dares to dispute that they are The Best People on Earth?

Of all the rot and nonsense generated in the brain of the New York Herald's political writer, yesterday's samples were the limit. The press agent story picturing Judge Vroom as the only thing among the many candidates mentioned as the Democratic gubernatorial possibilities is ludricous enough, but when it comes to labeling State Senator Ackerman a "new idea" man, the limit is reached. There's a vast difference between being an independent thinker and a "new idea" factionalist, although the Herald's political soothsayer evidently hasn't found that out.

The Elizabeth Journal sums it all up when it says:

"It is probably not necessary to discuss the proposed cup race any further. It is easy to see that it is undesirable from every point of view except the commercial. It would also be contrary to the Constitution to allow the race to be held. Facing all these facts squarely, the Senate, of course, will refuse to pass the Perkins bill."

As predicted by the Daily Press, there has been "a return to reason" since the scheme was first broached, and it may be said with confidence that there is no possibility of seeing the State disgraced in the manner proposed.

In dilating upon the political tribulations of one Randolph Perkins, who is said to have the ambition of a Caesar, the Newark Evening News opines:

"But since the last grand jury has done its double duty and done it so cleanly, so forcefully, so skilfully and so thoroughly, another man has risen into the political spot light of Union county, and that man is Charles J. Fisk, of Plainfield."

We do not believe that either a seat among the State or the Nation's lawmakers would be a temptation to our model fellow citizen. But then you know there's a governor to be nominated next fall. How about it?

ELKS PARADERS' PRIZES

Toledo, El Paso and Cincinnati Big Winners in the Philadelphia Pageant.

ABANDON THE EMBLEM

Elks' Tooth No Longer to be Worn By Members of the Order —Band Captain Drowns.

The 1907 reunion of the Elks, the most brilliantly successful in the history of the order, was officially ended Saturday so far as Philadelphia was concerned. The majority of the visitors had already gone to Atlantic City where the lodge at that place had prepared a huge clambake and the rest started for their homes. Before the formal "breaking-up" the committee on contests announced the winners of the various competitions on parade day. They were as follows:

Special Prize of $25 for the Fattest Elk—George C. Mountcastle, of Richmond, Va. Weight 412 pounds.

To the Leanest Elk, $25—J. Ed. Neis, Pasadena, Cal. Waist measure, 22 inches; height, five feet, 6 inches; weight, 80 pounds.

To the Tallest Elk—Carl M. Koening, Sacramento, Cal. Height, 6 feet 3½ inches.

For the largest number of women accompanying lodges from farther than seventy-five miles: First prize, $250, Cincinnati; second, $150, Brooklyn; third, $100, Easton.

The special prize of $500 for the largest band in line was awarded to the Guadalajara Military Band of Mexico, which accompanied El Paso Lodge, and the second special prize of $150 was awarded to the Ringgold Band of Reading, which accompanied the Reading Lodge.

The prize of $150 for the most beautiful banner in the parade was awarded to McKeesport Lodge of McKeesport, Pa.

A pathetic incident in connection with the awarding of prizes was the fact that while the first prize was being given the Guadalajara Band of Mexico (the Mexican band) the judges were not aware that Captain Azzali, the leader, was lying dead at Atlantic City, having drowned in the surf. Captain Azzali's band received the first prize for the largest band in the line of march.

No prizes were awarded for the lodges having the largest number of men in line or the lodges having the largest aggregate mileage. It will will require some computation to award them, and this can only be done after the statistics of the registration bureau have been carefully gone over.

The Toledo Cherry Pickers captured two of the choicest prizes of the convention. They were undoubtedly the best drilled body of men in both parades. El Paso, Tex., got more money than the Cherry Pickers, but only captured one first prize.

The float which won first money for Cincinnati was the elaborate Queen of Beauty affair, which was so generously applauded. The number of beautiful young women on this float had something to do with the award. New Jersey carried off second and third honors in this because of the beautiful Queen Titania float, which is a part of the famous baby show at Asbury Park, and because of the Orange Mountain representation, on which an entire delegation sat and sang.

At the grand lodge meeting Friday afternoon former Grand Exalted Ruler Melvin's resolution to abolish elks' teeth as emblems and save the animal from extinction was howled down, but when a vote was taken the resolution was carried by so large a majority that its opponents consented to make the vote unanimous.

Prior to taking adjournment the grand lodge elected Colonel Albert J. Holley, of Hackensack, N. J., to fill the vacancy in the board of grand trustees caused by the death of John J. O'Shea, of Lynn, Mass.

WHILE ON VACATION LOCAL COUPLE ELOPE

STEAL AWAY FROM BUDD'S LAKE AND GET MARRIED AT DOVER.

The outcome of a summer resort "affair du coeur" at Budd's Lake was the wedding of Alfred Harral, for the past two years a resident of the West End, and Miss Mary Orrinassett, of Budd's Lake. The couple met at the Lake resort and "Dan Cupid" did the rest. Saturday night the troth was plighted and the couple stole quietly away to Dover, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Courtright. At the last moment there was a delay, because of the arrangement of difficulty arising from the fact that Rev. Dr. Courtright is not a resident of this state. He is pastor of the First Baptist church at Johnstown, N. Y., and is spending his vacation at Dover.

Harral's name does not appear in the city directory, but it is said, he has been living on Lafayette place for several years past and is well known here. A despatch from Dover says that the bride is also from this city, but she is not known here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harral are spending their honeymoon at Budd's Lake, the scene of their courtship.

PROBE WEEKES' DEATH.

Coroner's Jury Will Place Responsibility Tomorrow.

The jury summoned by Coroner Charles B. Lufburrow to investigate the death of Clarence H. Weekes, who was killed by a live wire in the street a week ago, will meet tomorrow morning in the Council chamber to hold inquest. It is understood that three officials of the Public Service Corporation have been subpoenaed to appear.

The jury, as it will serve is composed of James E. Martine, foreman; William Townsend, Henry Liefke, John J. Kenney, Harry Marshall and Charles H. Frost. The men were served by Constable Peter V. Weaver. Last Tuesday the jurymen viewed the body of Mr. Weekes at Cole's undertaking establishment. This was just previous to the funeral.

In the Borough Court.

Marshal Kernan, of the borough's force of sleuths, arrested a drunk on Watchung avenue, Saturday night. He was released by furnishing $10 bail and will appear for a hearing tonight.

DOG CATCHER TO START WORK IN BOROUGH TONIGHT.

Jim Babbitt Will Start Rounding Up Of Borough Canines at 50 Cents Per.

Dog Catcher Jim Babbitt is to begin work in the borough tonight. He has got far enough along in his work on this side of the brook to leave it temporarily and start collecting the dogs which, unmuzzled and unlicensed, are on the streets. Babbitt presented his bill to the city this morning and is going to begin his 50 cent a head captures across the brook.

Babbit and Chief Weiss had a confab today about securing a horse and wagon to convey the dogs to the pound near the brick-yard. Babbitt wanted to use the rig he was using this side of the brook, but the city officials refused to allow this. Chief Weiss told Jim he could supply a horse, but the enticer of vagrant canines is seeking a wagon before he begins work along Somerset street.

BRIDGE PAINTING CONTRACT.

County Freeholders to Award Contract for Painting County Bridges.

A committee of the Union and Somerset County Board of Freeholders held a meeting at the Hotel Iroquois this afternoon at 3 o'clock to determine the award of the contract for the painting of the county bridges. Bids have been received in reply to the Freeholders advertising for the contract and the award for the painting will probably be made by the Freeholders today.

There are twelve bridges to be painted, at intervals through the city from Terrill road to Rock avenue.

Four New Members.

At the communion service held at Marconnier chapel, yesterday, four persons were received into membership on confession, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and Arthur and Charles Randolph, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Randolph. This accession to membership was very gratifying to the pastor, Rev. J. T. Lansdale. All the persons received are members of the Sunday-school and one of them, Mrs. Elliott, is a teacher in the school. Elder George L. VanEmburgh and Deacon E. F. Sheppard, of Trinity Reformed church, assisted Rev. Mr. Lansdale in the service, as did also A. C. Beckstein, of Park avenue.

Dr. S. A. Aldrich, his father and Roland Leveridge, of Sherman avenue, left this morning in Dr. Aldrich's auto for Barnegat, where they will spend the week fishing.

WHERE SOME JERSEY NAMES CAME FROM

FACTS GATHERED BY HISTORIAN LEE FOR THE JAMESTOWN EXHIBITION.

Historian Francis B. Lee announced today many curious facts regarding New Jersey, which facts he has gathered for the State exhibit at Jamestown. Regarding the derivation of the names of New Jersey's twenty-one counties, Mr. Lee said: "Bergen is from the Dutch, 'The hills.' Passaic is Indian, meaning 'where the trails fork.' Salem is pure Hebrew, 'the peaceful.'

"Counties taking their names from individuals are Cape May, from Cornelius May, a navigator; Camden, from first earl of Camden; Cumberland, from duke of Cumberland; Hudson, from Henry Hudson; Hunterdon, from Governor Andrew Hunter, of the colony of New Jersey; Morris, from Governor Lewis Morris; Mercer, from General Hugh Mercer, of Virgina; Warren, from General Joseph Warren, of Massachusetts.

"Names from English towns and counties — Burlington, Monmouth, Somerset, Essex, Middlesex, Sussex and Gloucester; names from geographical characteristics — Atlantic, Ocean; from public sentiment—Union."

The following is from Mr. Lee's collection of odd place names in New Jersey: Baptisttown, Bargaintown, Blue Ball, Bivalve, Blue Anchor, Brass Castle, Chairville, Cheesekauke, Chrome, Cream Ridge, Double Trouble, Feebletown, Green Tree, Hacklebarney, Hell's Neck, Hen's Foot, Hickory Tree, Hohokus, Little Silver, Manumuskin, Ong's Hat, Parsipany, Pimple Hill, Piscataway, Pluckemin, Plum Sock, Seacaucus, Shongum, Squankum, Succasunna, Towaco, Wickatuck, Zion.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If an oil stove gives a disagreeable odor, add five or six tablespoonfuls of red vinegar to a gallon of the oil.

Oil cans should be kept tightly corked, as kerosene exposed to the air will not burn brightly and a crust will form on the wick shortly after being lighted.

Many a piece of haircloth furniture can be made most attractive if covered with pretty chintz or cretonne. With these covers one can have hangings to match. Nothing adds so much to a room as its draperies.

To remove pitch, wheel grease or tar stains soften the spots with lard, soak in turpentine, scrape off carefully with a knife all the loose surface dirt and sponge with turpentine. Rub gently until dry and then place in open air for a couple of hours.

TOILET NOTES.

A good cooling powder for perspiring feet is composed of four parts talcum powder and one part boracic acid thoroughly mixed.

A simple remedy for freckles and tan—ten grains of borax, two ounces of limewater and two ounces of oil of sweet almonds.

A few drops of any good toilet water in the last rinsing water gives a faint suggestion of perfume to the hair that is very refreshing.

Oatmeal in the bath water will impart a velvety softness to the skin. To avoid stopping the waste pipe tie the oatmeal in a good sized cheesecloth bag.

Twenty-four hours before shampooing saturate the scalp with warm olive oil. Careful grooming every night with a brush will encourage the hair to be good.

ANIMAL ODDITIES.

A dog can take more mercury than would kill a human being.

The mole is one of the greediest of the animal kingdom. It will die of starvation if deprived of food for twenty-four hours.

The humming bird in protecting its nest always flies at and pecks the eyes of its adversary. Crows have been found totally blind from the humming bird's bill.

ONE OF WOMEN'S CHARMS.

Sense of Reserve Said to Add Much to Attractiveness.

A woman, especially to be attractive, must preserve a sense of reserve; she must, so to speak, keep up a certain amount of mystery about herself. There is a folklore tale of a woman who, finding her married life unhappy, went to a white witch for a charm against the trouble. She received a flask filled with a colorless liquid, which she was directed to take and hold in her mouth whenever she was disposed to quarrel with her husband. She obeyed directions, and, delighted with the effect of the charm, went back to the witch for a fresh supply when that was exhausted. "The liquid was merely water," said the wise woman. "The virtue of the remedy consists simply in holding your tongue in keeping back angry answers." To adopt the rule, says Woman's Life, once given to a gushing girl by a friend who knew the world, "Never speak of yourself, and never say anything which is uncalled for," would at first seem likely to make Trappists of all the world; yet it is to be questioned whether, after all, the advice was not wise. There always are people who like to talk, whose favor is to be won by interested listening, and good listeners are rare.

CHANCE FOR A HOME-RUN.

Schoolboy's Comment on Absence of Attraction of Gravitation.

A clever teacher, who has the power of calling out originality in her pupils, says that she would have no use for text books if she took time to answer all the startling questions asked in the class-room. One day the attraction of gravitation was under discussion, when one of the boys said that he didn't see any need of it, anyway. "It seems to me," said he, "there's no particular use in having the earth attract things. Now, when the apple fell, and made Newton think out the reason for it, that apple might just as well have stayed where it was until somebody gathered it." "You play ball, don't you?" asked the teacher. "Well, suppose you knock the ball very high, what happens?" "It falls." "But if there were no attraction towards the earth, it wouldn't fall. Don't you think that might prove inconvenient?" "My!" cried the boy; "what a bully chance for a home-run!"

Joined the Dead at Their Meal.

In the medical press is a story of a man who believed that he was dead and who for that reason refused to take any nourishment. "How can the dead eat and drink?" he asked, when food was pressed upon him. It was obvious that unless something were done to bring him to his senses the delusion must soon become actuality; he would die of starvation. The strangest ruse was tried. Half a dozen attendants, draped in ghostly white, crept silently in single file into the room adjoining his, and, with the door open, sat down where he could see them to a hearty meal. "Here, who are these people?" inquired the patient. "Dead men," answered the doctor. "What!" said the other. "Do dead men eat?" "To be sure they do, as you see for yourself," was the answer. "Well," said the corpse, "if that is so, I'll join them, for I'm starving." The spell was broken, and he sat down and ate like 40 famished men.

Eating Stew Through Straws.

Doing as my Indian friends did, I seized in my turn a chunk of mutton from the kettle and proceeded to eat it. How I was to get my share of the stew, however, I could not conceive, as licking one's fingers is a slow process and inadequately nourishing. On the floor table, however, was a pile of what looked like dark blue lead pencils. The governor took one, stuck it into the kettle and peacefully sucked until he was satisfied. It was simply sucking—not lemonade—but mutton stew, through a straw. Then he carefully proceeded to eat the straw. Sucking the stew through it had softened and flavored it for eating. I mastered the game at the first trial, writes Frederick Monsen in the Craftsman, and from that time was a devoted adherent to piki bread, as well as to many other dishes and customs of my good friends, the Hopi.

What More Could Be Asked?

"On the way down here from up home I saw your advertisement in the paper," said "Ozzy" Hitchcock, as he entered the office of the New Notion company in his Sunday suit, his boots creaking at every step. "I'm here in the city to get work." "I hardly think you're just the man we need now," and the clerk in charge surveyed his caller with an unflattering gaze. "You spoke of wanting a young man with a good address," said "Ozzy," in his loud, clear, district-school voice. "I guess Laneville, N. H., is as good as any you could find, and father has the only store in the place."—Youths' Companion.

Quality of Trustworthiness.

People would try harder for trustworthiness if they knew how lovable a quality it is. When you know you can rely upon anyone, that whatever they undertake to do will be done, that you can really pass over a share of your load to them, you cannot help liking them. On the other hand, it does not matter how amiable men be, if they are forgetful, if they are unpunctual, if they habitually neglect, they become sources of such annoyance that one's liking is apt to die out.—W. R. Nicoll.

Refused to Revoke Licenses.

Of the fifty-four places in Elizabeth pointed out by the Grand Jury as holding inn and tavern linces contrary to law, the excise board has declared eighteen to be all right, and an examination will be made into the others today.

The board instructed its president, John Keron, to make a personal investigation with the aid of the license inspector of the places mentioned in the communication of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, to Mayon Ryan, of Elizabeth. This action was taken Friday and Saturday the president held a conference with the inspector and closely perused the list. They found that eighteen places had been granted renewals of licenses since the Grand Jury made its examination. As the inspector had been instructed to see that each of the places had the necessary accommodations before recommending the granting of a renewal, they decided that this warranted them in crossing the eighteen from the list.

SICK ROOM DON'T.

Don't appear anxious, however, great your anxiety.

Don't be unmindful of yourself if you are in the responsible position of nurse. To do faithful work you must have proper food and stated hours of rest.

Don't forget that kindness and tenderness are needful to successful nursing. Human nature longs to be soothed and comforted on all occasions when it is out of tune, says Woman's Life.

Don't permit currents of air to blow upon the patient. An open fireplace is an excellent means of ventilation. The current may be tested by burning a piece of paper in front.

Pluck Souvenirs from Dead Whale.

Long Branch, July 22.—Long Branch had a novel attraction today for the summer visitors. Late Saturday afternoon, a whale was towed ashore along the beach at Galilee. Captain Nelson Lockwood, a pound fisherman, with a crew of eight men, landed the dead whale after a hard struggle. Hundreds were on hand today to see the monster. Every patron received a souvenir or pieces of whale fins. The whale was 52 feet long and 12 feet high. Its weight is said to be fifteen tons.

The Justice of the Gods

By GEO. T. PARDY.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Then," asked the girl, appealingly, "you will at least give me back my letters, when I furnish you with the money you require?"

Gerald Raymond smiled and shook his head.

"Not exactly, Iris," he replied. "The bundle of little love missives involving your indiscretion — and mine—for I am gallant enough to shoulder my share of responsibility in the matter—has become altogether too precious in my eyes to lose possession of lightly. It is a mere matter of sentiment, my dear. You know I was always soft-hearted and—impressionable."

"You coward!" breathed the girl from between clinched teeth.

Raymond laughed again.

Don't be so melodramatic, Iris," he advised, mockingly. "That sort of thing has gone out of date along with the three volume novel and other innocent recreations of a bygone age. Try to look at this matter in a purely businesslike way. You are no longer 17, the age when one views the world through rose colored glasses. Six years have passed since you clung to me in the passion of love's first ecstasy and swore eternal devotion and all that sort of thing. When you are married to Archie Stratford nobody will be a bit the wiser as to your earlier romance. That will remain a secret between us two—as long as you are resonable enough not to rebel against the little claims of your first lover."

"What a Devil you are, Gerald," she said, slowly. "How could I ever have been so blind as to mistake the first awakened transports of physical passion for love—love of such a creature as you?"

"Don't talk nonsense," snapped Raymond, shortly. "I have just as much power over you as ever, Iris, and you can't deny it. Here—kiss me—"

He caught her head roughly between his hands and pressed his lips to hers. She submitted, although the color came and went in crimson waves under her white, transparent skin, but her eyes shone like two angry twin stars in the gaslight and roamed around the room with penetrating glances as though in search of something. Presently her gaze rested upon a sharp gleaming dagger of Oriental workmanship, that lay with several other specimens of artistic bric-a-brac on a small table.

Iris rose and stood facing her tormentor. She was a tall girl of superb figure, every line of which denoted power and activity. Raymond, on the contrary, was rather undersized, and slight of frame. His intense pallor and nervous, restless eyes were indicative of anything but good, physical condition. A physician's eye would have detected a significant connection between his appearance and the sight of a little silver case, obviously a receptacle for a hypodermic needle, that lay at a little distance from his hand.

The girl was well aware that the man who held her in his power was a confirmed morphine fiend, and like all habitual users of the drug, totally destitute of moral consciousness. Her infatuation for him had been short lived, but nevertheless of sufficient duration to place an ineffacable brand of shame and remorse upon her soul. Five years ago a report had reached her that he had died while on a sketching tour in India, and she had rejoiced in the belief that a merciful Fate had drawn a veil over the indiscretion of her trusting girlhood.

Now, with the date of her marriage to Archibald Stratford only a few weeks away, a phantom of the dark past had arisen to confront her. Raymond had written a short note, commanding her to visit him alone in the bungalow which he had rented in the outskirts of the city. And she had obeyed, unable to resist, knowing the implacable nature of the man and dreading his ability to disgrace her.

"I am to understand then," she said, "that it is your intention to use those letters as a means of blackmail, both now and in the future?"

Raymond nodded a cheerful assent.

"Your peneration does you credit, my dear Iris," he responded. "Archie Stratford possesses much filthy lucre and an occasional modest contribution will satisfy my needs. He will not miss either the money nor the little tokens of affection that you will bestow upon me at intervals."

Iris was silent for a moment. A torrent of furious thoughts were whirling through her brain. A mist of red swam before her eyes and her blood seemed to turn to molten lead in her veins. Her hand grasped the dagger on the table behind, and the touch of the cold steel nerved her to desperate action.

With a single, supple spring she was beside him and the sharp, unerring blade, driven furiously downward, was buried to the hilt in his breast. Raymond uttered a hoarse, gurgling cry, his limbs writhed in an impotent attempt to rise and then stiffened out in a last convulsive agony. His head fell backward, and he lay inert, with dilated eyeballs glaring horribly under the rays of the gaslight.

The woman who had done this thing made no motion to withdraw the dagger from its human sheath. She crossed to the sideboard, and filling a glass with brandy from a decanter that stood there, drained it to the dregs. An instant later the doorbell jangled sharply, and gliding to the window she peered cautiously from behind a protecting curtain into the night. Through the white veil of falling snowflakes she made out the figure of a man, standing erect, but swaying from side to side. While she watched, he fell forward and lay face downward without moving.

Approaching the table, she extracted the hypodermic needle from it's case and charged it with a heavy dose of morphine. She opened the street door and bent over the body of the stranger. He was poorly dressed, unshaven, a fairly good specimen of the homeless wanderer in search of assistance. She pushed back the ragged sleeve, baring his arm to the elbow, and inserted the sharp point of the needle under the skin.

He was not a heavy man, and without much difficulty she half dragged, half carried him into the room and deposited the limp body in an armchair facing that in which reposed the inert mass which had once been Gerald Raymond.

She placed the decanter of brandy and two glasses on the table and surveyed the stage setting of the tragedy with a satisfied air. Iris next turned her attention to the bundle of letters which Raymond had flaunted in her face. She thrust them into the stove, where a bright fire was burning, and watched them turn to gray ashes in the flames.

The tramp snored discordantly. As Iris closed the street door behind her and set forth on her home journey.

The murder of Gerald Raymond occupied a leading place in the columns of the Chicago papers the following afternoon. He had been stabbed to death, apparently, by a tramp who was found fast asleep beside the body of his victim, in a drunken stupor. The murderer gave his name as Jerry Brewster, an ex-convict recently released from Joliet, where he had served a three-years' sentence for burglary.

It was surmised that, having gained admittance to the house and worked upon Raymond's sympathies with a hard luck story," he had first slain his benefactor, with the intention of plundering the place at his ease, and finally drank himself into unconsciousness. A decanter of brandy found on the table with the greater part of it's contents gone, confirmed this hypothesis.

And as Jerry Brewster was hanged—hanged high and dry on the gallows of the Cook county jail as a warning to malefactors great and small, and a shining example of the avenging power of justice. Being a hardened brute, and having rejected the advice of the chaplain to confess and seek forgiveness from One above, he died cursing his executioners and maintaining that he was the victim of what he vulgarly termed "a put-up job."

On the day when Mr. Brewster was translated to another sphere, the afternoon papers containing an account of his demise, also dwelt at considerable length on the marriage of Iris Dalmage to Archibald Stratford, the great railway magnate. All agreed that the society function was a brilliant success.

When the carriage of the bride and groom rolled away on the first stage of the honeymoon, an officious friend thrust a newspaper through the open window into Stratford's hand. He opened it with a smile of anticipation, and his wife bent forward to view the contents. Stratford glanced at the first page and hurriedly folded it over.

"You don't want to see that part, he explained, in response to her look of surprise. "That fellow Brewster, who murdered poor Raymond, suffered the penalty of his crime this morning, and there's a couple of columns devoted to the execution, and story of the murder. The details are not pleasant. I read them before and they would only shock you, dear."

Iris gave vent to a little sigh of contentment, and rested her graceful head on her husband's broad shoulder.

"It's awful to think that such terrible things can happen in the world, Archie," she said, languidly.

Centenarian Book Agent.

Capt. Goddard E. Diamond, of Berkeley, Cal., is a hustling book agent aged 107 years and he makes a good living. For over 80 eyars he has abstained from eating meat and he uses neither tea nor coffee. He never used tobacco or liquor. Capt. Diamond followed the sea for many years. In his rounds looking for customers he generally rides a bicycle, which he handles skilfully. The wonderful old man is a clever boxer and even now can last through four or five fast rounds. Only once in 87 years has he suffered from illness—a cold contracted through exposure and privation while the fire was raging in San Francisco after the earthquake.

A Spring Rhapsody.

The fabled Hebrew wanderer stalking in savage loneliness through the gloom of the dark ages, the castaway clinging to his bit of wreckage, and straining aching eyes to the vacant sea line, a frigate bird wheeling its solitary flight through the empty air, a palm tree bending over its shadow in the desert. Selkirk alone on his island with the enigmatical stars and silent seas, Rooseveit alone in Cuba; all of these strike in different tones the same key of sentiment which is touched by the spectacle of the first straw hat, when no other sign of spring has ventured forth.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

"I would like $300, if you please, sir," she said, presenting her little book, and he had to count it over four times, to make sure the amount was right. Then he passed the thick bundle of currency out under his latticed window, seeing only the two wide-open, fathomless eyes and dimpled face that had watched him, and feeling, as he afterward admitted, like 50 cents.

And now ensued an experience the like of which poor Chip had never even dreamed,—the supreme joy of spending money without stint for those near and dear to her. And what a medley of gifts she bought! Two silk dress patterns, two warm wraps, three winter hats, a gold watch for Miss Phinney, an easy-chair, two of the finest pipes she could find, a trout rod, four pairs of gloves, and finally a gun for Nezer. Then as her roll of money grew less, she began to pick up smaller articles,—handkerchiefs, slippers, and the like.

"Send them to the hotel, please," she said to one and all of whom she purchased articles of any size, "marked for Vera McGuire."

That was enough!

Riverton had sensations, mild ones, of course. Now and then a fire had occurred, once an elopement. Occasionally a horse ran away, causing damage to some one. But nothing had occurred to compare with the arrival of a supposed fabulously rich young lady who came without escort, who walked into and out of stores like a goddess, noticing no one, and who spent money as if it were autumn leaves.

A few of the Quaboag retinue followed her about in a not-to-be-observed manner. Women by the dozen hastily donned outdoor raiment and visited stores, just to observe her. They crossed and recrossed the street to meet her, and a battery of curious eyes was focussed on her for two hours.

When she returned to the hotel, the old guard, recruited by every idle man in town, filled the office, awaiting her. Uncle Joe, who had heard of her arrival the moment he came, was among them, recounting her history once more, and when she neared the hotel, he emerged to meet her.

"Why, bless yer eyes, Chip," he said, extending a calloused hand, "but I'm powerful glad to see ye once more. Whatever made ye run away the way ye did, 'n' what be ye doin' here? Buyin' out the hull town? I've got the pung filled wi' bundles a'ready wi' yer name on 'em."

He beaued her into the parlor, like the ancient gallant he was. He washed, brushed his hair and clothing, and awaited her readiness to dine, without holding further converse with the curious crowd. He ushered her into the dining-room and made bold to sit and eat with her unasked, and when he assisted her to the front seat in his long box sleigh, crowded with her purchases, and drove away, he was envied by two dozen observers.

"Why didn't ye send us word o' yer comin'," he said as they left Riverton, "so I cud 'n' spruced up some an' come down with a better rig, bells on the hosses and new buffler robes?"

"There was no need of that," answered Chip, pleased, as well she might be. "I am just the same girl that I always was, only happier now that I have more friends. How is dear old Aunt Comfort, and every one in Greenvale? I am anticipating seeing them so much."

And never during all the 20 years in which Uncle Joe had journeyed twice each day over this road had the way seemed shorter or had he been blessed with a more interesting companion.

The only regret Chip had, was that she had forgotten to buy Uncle Joe a present. She made up for it later, however.

At Greenvale, Chip met almost an ovation. Aunt Comfort kissed her and cried over her. Nezer ran for Angie, who soon appeared on the scene, and Hannah was so "flustered" she was unable to speak after the first greeting. Martin, who had heard of Chip's arrival from Uncle Joe, hastened to Aunt Comfort's, and had Chip been a real "millionairess" or some titled lady she could not have awakened more interest or received half so cordial a welcome.

Hannah was the one who felt the most embarrassed, however, and guilty as well. For half an hour, while Chip was the center of interest, she could only stare at her in dumb amazement. Then she stole out of the room, and later Chip found her in the kitchen, shedding copious tears.

"I'm a miserable sinner 'n' the Lord'll never forgive me," she half moaned, when Chip tried to console her. "An' to think ye feel the way ye say, 'n' to bring me a present, arter all the mean things I said. It's a-heapin' coals o' fire on my head, that it is." And the shower increased.

"I have forgotten all about them, Hannah, truly I have," Chip assured her, "and I wish you would. You didn't understand me then, perhaps, or I you, so let us be friends now."

The next afternoon Chip, who had learned that Miss Phinney's school was to close the day following, set out to call on her in time to arrive at its adjournment.

A Few of the Quaboag Retinue Followed Her About.

No hint of her return had reached Miss Phinney, no letters had been exchanged, and not since that tearful separation had they met.

And now as Chip followed the lonely by-road so often traversed by her, what a flood of bitter-sweet memories returned,—each bend, each tree, each rock, and the bridge over the Mizzy held a different recollection. Here at this turn she had first met Ray, after her resolve to leave Greenvale. At the next landmark, a lane crossing the meadows, she had always parted from her teacher, the last time in tears. And how long, long ago it all seemed!

Then beyond, and barely visible, was the dear old schoolhouse. She could see it now, half hid in the bushes, a lone and lowly little brown building outlined on the winter landscape and apparently dwarfed in size. Once it had awed her; now it seemed pathetic.

The last of its pupils were vanishing as Chip drew near, and inside, and as lonely as that lone temple, Miss Phinney still lingered.

That day had not gone well with her. A note of complaint had come from one parent that morning, and news that a dearly loved scholar was ill as well, and Miss Phinney's own life seemed like the fields just now—cold, desolate and snow-covered.

And then while she, thus lone and lonesome, was putting away books, slates, ink-bottles and all the badges of her servitude, Chip, without knocking, walked in.

How they first exclaimed, then embraced, then kissed, and then repeated it while each tried to wink the tears away, and failed; how they sat hand in hand in that dingy, smoke-browned room with its knife-hacked benches, unconscious of the chill, while Chip told her story; and how, just as the last rays of the setting sun flashed from the icicles along its eaves, they left it, still hand in hand, was but an episode such as many a schoolgirl can recall.

Of the few friends Greenvale held for Chip, none seemed quite so near and dear as Miss Phinney, and none lived longer in her memory. They had been for many months not teacher and pupil, but rather two sisters, confiding, patient, and tender. Life swept them apart. They might never meet again, and yet, so long as both lived, never would those school days be forgotten.

With Sunday came Chip's most gratifying experience, perhaps, for her arrival was now known by the entire village and the fact that she was an heiress as well. Her fortune (also known) was considered almost fabulous according to Greenvale standards, and when Chip with Angie entered the church porch, it was crowded with people waiting to receive them. Chip, of course, now well clad and well poised, was once more the cynosure of all eyes except when the pastor prayed. At the close of service a score, most of whom she knew by sight only, waited to greet her and shake hands with her in the porch. The parson hurried down the aisle to add his smile and hand clasp, and, all in all, it was a most gratifying reception.

And here and now, let no carping critic say it was all due to that bank account, but rather a country town's expression of respect and good will toward one whom they felt deserved it.

That it all pleased Angie, goes without saying; That Chip well deserved this vindication, no one will question; and when her visit ended and she departed, no one, not even Miss Phinney, missed her more than Angie.

Only one thread of regret wove itself into Chip's feelings as she rode away with Uncle Joe, whose horses were now decked properly for this important event. She had received a most cordial reception on all sides—almost a triumph of good will. Her gifts had brought an oft-repeated chorus of thanks and a few tears. On all sides and among all she had been welcome, even receiving a call and words of praise from Parson Jones. She was a nobody no longer; instead, a somebody whom all delighted to honor and commend.

But the one whose motherly pride would have been most gratified, she for whom Chip's heart yearned for oftenest, would never know it.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

With the birds and flowers once more returning to Christmas Cove, came outdoor freedom for Chip again. Like the wood-nymph she was in character and taste, the wild, rock-bound coast outside and the low, wooded mountain enclosing this village were her playgrounds where she found companionship. Other associates she cared but little for, and a few hours alone on a wave-washed shore, watching the wild ocean billows tossing spray aloft, or a long ramble in a deep, silent forest, appealed to her far more than parties and girlish enjoyments.

The wood-bordered road, leading from the village to the railroad ten miles away, was now a favorite walk of hers. It was suited to her in many ways, for it was seldom traveled; it followed the sunny side of the low mountain range back of Christmas Cove, not a house stood along its entire way, and to add charm, a brook kept it company, crossing and recrossing it for two miles. That feature was the most especial attraction, for beds of watercress waved beneath the limpid waters in deep pools, bunches of flag grew along its banks, their blue flowers bending to kiss the current; its ripples danced in the sunlight; its music was a tinkling melody, and these simple attractions appealed to Chip.

There was also another reason for now choosing this byway walk. She knew, or felt sure, that Ray would visit Christmas Cove on his return from the woods. He must come in the old carryall,—about the only vehicle ever journeying along the road,—and now, like a brownie of the forest, she watched until she spied it afar and then hid in the bushes and peeped out until it passed each day.

A curious and somewhat complex feeling toward this young man had also come to her. At first, like a child, she had loved him unasked. She had known no different. He had seemed like a young god to her, and to cling to him was supreme happiness. Then had come an awakening, a consciousness that this freedom was not right and must be checked. Following that also—a bitter lesson—it had come to her that she was a kind of outcast, a child of shame, as it were, whose origin was despicable, and who was dependent upon the charity of others. This awakening, this new consciousness, was like a black chasm in front of her, a horror and shame combined, and true to her nature, she fled from it like one pursued.

But two years had changed her views of humanity. She had learned that money and social position did not always win friends and respect. That birth and ancestry were of less consideration than a pure mind and honest intentions, and that fine raiment sometimes covered a base heart and vile nature.

Toward the boyish lover, also, her feelings had been altered. A little of the old-time fondness remained, however. She could not put that away. She had tried and tried earnestly, yet the wildwood illusion still lingered. She had meant, also to put him and herself quite apart—so far, and in such a way that she would never be found by him. That had failed, however; he knew where she was. He had said that he was coming here. Most likely he would expect to renew the old tender relations; but in that he would be disappointed. She was sure she would be glad to see him for old times' sake, however. She would be gracious and dignified, as Aunt Abby was. She wanted to hear all about the woods and Old Cy again, but caresses must be forbidden. More than that, every time she recalled how freely she had permitted them once, she blushed and felt that it would be an effort to look him in the face again.

But she was anxious to see how he would appear now: whether the same boy, with frank, open face, or a commanding, self-possessed man.

And so each pleasant afternoon she strolled up this byway road. When the ancient carryall was sighted, she hid and watched until passed.

But Captain Mix, its driver, also had observing eyes. He knew her now as far as he could see her, as every one in the village did, and he soon noticed her unusual conduct. He also watched along the wayside where she left it, and slyly observed her peeping out from some thicket. Just why this odd proceeding happened time and again, he could not guess, and not until a strange young man alighted from the train one day and asked to be left at the home of Mrs. Abby Bemis, did it dawn on him.

Then he laughed. "Friend o' Aunt Abby, I 'spose?" he inquired in his Yankee fashion, after they had started.

"No," answered Ray, frankly, "I have never seen the lady. I know some one who is living with her, however. A Miss Mc—Raymond, I mean."

Captain Mix glanced at him, his eyes twinkling. "So ye're 'quainted with Vera, be ye," he responded. "Wal, ye're lucky." Then as curiosity grew he added, "Known her quite a spell, hev ye?"

But Ray was discreet. "Oh, three or four years," he answered nonchalantly. "I knew her when she lived in Greenvale." Then to check the stage driver's curiosity, he added, "She was only a little girl, then. I presume she has changed since.

COUNTRY CLUB SCORES

C. B. Morgan Wins First Honors for Golf Committee Cup—The Standings to Date.

As a result of the weekly competitions for the President's, Golf Club and July cups at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, there were a few changes in the standing for the three trophies. Charles B. Morse, who had a total of ten poins for the President's cup, added a half point to his standing, and Dr. H. K. Carroll, by adding a half point, has a total of ten points.

In the competition for the July cup, Charles B. Morse is now a sure winner with 10½ points, his nearest competitors being C. F. Corning and Reuben Knox, each having five points. Rev. J. O. McKelvey still leads with ten points for the Park Golf Club cup, scratch competition.

Reuben Knox not only won three points for the President's cup on Saturday with a net score of 83, but the same score gave him five points for the July cup. Besides his gross score of 101 gave him first honors for the club cup, while W. V. Byard and Dr. H. K. Carroll finished second for the three trophies, and Dr. Carroll and Mr. Morse were tied for third honors for the July cup.

These scores were returned for the trophies:

Reuben Knox, 101, 18—83; W. V. Byard, 105, 18—87; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 107, 10—97; Charles B. Morse, 108, 11—97.

The fact that there are so many members away from the city on their vacations, had its effect at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. Only a fair field turned out to take part in the various competitions scheduled for the day. The heavy rain during the early part of the day had a tendency to keep a number of the stay-at-homes away from the course, and while many played, but few posted their scores.

C. B. Morgan won first honors for the Golf Committee cup with a net score of 82, a handicap of 2 having been aded to his gross of 80. Charles A. Stover finished second with a net score of 83, while his gross score of 92 gave him a leg on the Scratch cup. W. Lester Glenney and Edward J. Patterson were tied for the one remaining point with a score of 85. These scores were returned for the Golf Committee cup:

C. B. Morgan, 80, plus 2—82; Charles A. Stover, 92, 9—83; W. Lester Glenney, 84, plus 1—85; Edward J. Patterson, 98, 13—85.

Harry Williams, one of the newcomers, won first honors for the Green Committee cup with a net score of 80. His fat handicap of 27 will be generously sliced before he plays again, however. G. F. Earl and W. F. Merrill were tied for second place, with a net score of 85. These three scores were returned:

Harry Williams, 107, 27—80; G. F. Earl, 97, 12—85; W. F. Merrill, 107, 22—85.

The standing to date at the Park Golf Club for the various cups follows:

In the semi-finals for the Governor's cup, contested on the links of the Westfield Golf Club, Saturday, E. R. Perkins and Joseph Sherman, Jr., tied at 18 holes, and the result was the same in the match between J. A. Worth and W. J. Bogart, Jr. They will play off on Saturday.

B. R. WALDRON'S "NELLIE" OUTDISTANCES "ROAN VIEW"

TRACK HEAVY BUT FAIR ACRES MEET IS A SUCCESS.

Heavy condition of the track somewhat marred the sport at the Driving Park Saturday afternoon at the Martine Races of the Fair Acres Driving and Riding Association. There were four events on the card, but fewer entries in each than if the going had been faster.

Of the four class races, the Class A pace proved the best event. B. R. Waldron's "Nellie" and George Conover's "Roan View" paced a dead heat in this first event of the day, and Waldron's "Nellie" came in ahead in the other heats. The best time was 2.33.

The card follows:

CLASS A.—PACE.

"Nellie," B. R. Waldron	D.H.	1	1
"Roan View," Geo. Conover	D.H.	2	2
"Belle," A. I. Smalley		3	3

Time—2.33½; 2.33; 2.34¼.

CLASS B.—TROT.

"Maude C.," R. L. Edwards		2	1
"Ben Butler," S. Jackson		1	2

Time—2.40; 2.41; 2.37.

CLASS C.—TROT.

"Aloysia," N. B. Smalley		1	1
"Star Direct," T. Brantingham		2	2
"Abbie Kelley," W. C. Smith		3	3

Time—2.37; 2.34½.

CLASS E.—TROT.

"Steve K.," H. L. Kingston		1	1
"Lady Cranford," J. H. Senior		2	2
"Perfection," George Ferguson		3	3

Time—2.40; 2.42.

Tonight at the Hotel Iroquois, the Fair Acres Driving and Riding Associaion will hold a meeting to plan for a Labor Day card. The holiday event is to be a money meet and the amount of the various purses will be determined on.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE FOR BOB FITZSIMMONS

BROADWAY SPORTS AND THEATRICAL MEN PLAN IT.

The passing of Bob Fitzsimmons. Ten years ago on the seventeenth day of March, James J. Corbett was dethroned and Robert Fitzsimmons was the champion of the world. He had won the day, a great victory, and the sporting fraternity of the world. That was the coming of a great prize fighter. He had money, he had wealth, he had victory, he had millions of friends, in fact he had everything a prize fighter would want.

Several nights ago, this champion was driven to the floor, driven down by a colored fighter, who had everything in his favor. About two thousand dollars coming to him for his end of the fight, but he won't get the money unless Manager McCarney, of the Washington Sporting Club, where the fight was pulled off, stops the action which he has begun in court. That's the situation of the man, who several years ago was the greatest fighter of his time now finds himself after earning more than a half of million of dollars during the past twenty odd years that he has been in the arena.

But his admirers in New York are going to his aid. Already they are making plans for a monster benefit. The sporting and theatrical men along Broadway, some of whom have made more money out of Fitzsimmons than he has saved for himself, are willing to go to his rescue. The old fighter has a place at Dunellen, and a nice place at that—where he can live in contentment.

But even though he has lost money, he has not lost his friends. The rural people living around his home think the world of him, for he has been a great friend of them. While he was training for the fight, the camp was crowded all day with visitors. It was something new to the people living there, in fact it was something new for New Jersey to have a training camp within its bounds. But it is probable that there will be no more training camps at that place, and certainly not for Fitzsimmons.

Rain Spoiled League Games.

Hundreds of local fans were disappointed on Saturday by the postponement of the amateur league games. Clinton Avenue was scheduled to play Raritan at Crescent Oval, but the heavy rain earlier in the day left the grounds in poor condition and the management decided to call the contest off. The same condition existed at Bound Brook, where Y. M. C. A. was to have met the Laurels. Captain Craig received word from Bound Brook that the ball field was covered with water and this game was called off. Minford, who expected to pitch for Y. M. C. A., came out from New York, and did not learn that the contest was off until reaching Plainfield. These two games will be played later in the season.

Rev. W. T. Dorward, of Stelton, will lead the meeting at Hope chapel Thursday night. It will be a service of a special nature.

The regular business meeting of the First Baptist church will be held Wednesday night, when new members will be received by letter and on confession. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, will be in charge. The following day he and Mrs. Chambliss will leave town to enjoy their annual vacation.

MISS MARTINE'S FUNERAL.

Two Pastors Officiate at Service at Her Late Home.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Miss Mary Martine was held at her late home, "Cedar Brook," Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and Rev. Dr. Richards, the former pastor, of New York. Two selections were rendered by a quartette composed of Miss Carroll, Miss Raybert, William N. Runyon and E. E. Runyon.

Following the service, burial was made at Hillside. The casket was borne by George E. Cathcart, George S. Clay, August Kleinecke, DeWitt C. Ivins, R. H. DePew and Frederick W. Yates.

Entertained By Salvationists.

The children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home were entertained Saturday night by three members of the Salvation Army Corps from Atlantic City. They formed an instrumental trio and rendered selections on piccolos, accordeons, guitars and mandolins. George E. Hall, vice president of the Home, was in charge of the program, and presented each child and mother with a box of candy, a cake of soap and a fan.

MARK TWAIN HER CHUM

AN INSEPARABLE PAIR

Miss Dorothy Quick Charms Author Who Is Laden With Honors From Oxford.

After patting a king on the back, receiving a new suit of clothes from Oxford University and being the toast wherever he has not the host of everybody in England, Mark Twain arrived in New York's port yesterday a happy, but none the less captive of a pretty little Yankee girl. The lass was Miss Dorothy Quick, a daughter of Mrs. E. G. Quick, of Truell Inn.

They had never met until the silver-haired author, in his spotless-town attire of white flannel, caught her eye as he sprang up the Minnetonka's gang plank at Tillbury. It proved to be love at first sight for him as well as for her, and all the way across they were inseparable shipmates.

"How old are you, Mark?" she asked him one night, as they stood arms entwined looking upon the sea's moon-silvered roll.

"Well, the last time I was weighed," drawled Mark, lifting her so she might get a better view of a faraway iceberg, "I was seventy-four. How old are you?"

"I'm eleven going on twelve," she answered, proudly, "and in the Fourth Reader."

"My goodness! But you are a big wise girl."

The little maid who charmed the philosopher of fun as well known here. Her hair is hazel, her eyes are blue, she has the color of a white cherry in freshest tint and a rippling laughter to match it all. The voyage lasted nine days. "I never had to worry about Dorothy a minute," said her mother. "Whenever she was missing, no matter for how long, I always knew she was with Mr. Twain."

"Where's Mark?" was the question Dorothy was always asking. "Where's Dorothy?" was the one oftenest on Mark's lips. One morning at about 6 o'clock, when Mark was getting what he called yesterday his "twenty-five-year-old" sleep, a bark poked her nose against the side of the Minnetonka. She was not to blame; there was such a thick fog on. How much damage the bark sustained is uncertain, as she faded away in the mist before anybody on the steamship could see her—that is to say, anybody but the lookout, the officers on the bridge and Mark Twain. It was the latter who sent ashore the wireless account of the incident that got into the newspapers last week.

REPAYS $2 AFTER 19 YEARS.

Negro Minstrel, Who Appeared Before Queen Victoria, Liquidates an Old Debt.

Joseph Buck, employed as steward at the Elks' Home, in Mount Holly, answered the summons of a caller Sunday and on opening the front door was met by a negro who handed him a $2 bill and remarked:

"Here's your money; that's what I owe you."

Buck had long ago forgotten the loan, but he recalled that he had made it nineteen years ago in Trenton to Benjamin Moore. Moore now owns a farm at Penn's Valley. He was at one time leader of the Excelsior Band, of Philadelphia, and later went to England with the first negro minstrel troupe that ever crossed the ocean. On that trip he appeared before Queen Victoria.

Boarders Skipped Out.

Mrs. Annie Romaski, Third and Liberty streets, reported to the police at three o'clock this morning that two men, who had been boarding at her place, had taken their departure and also a lot of articles belonging to her. The articles the men took with them were detailed to the police. She gave a good description of the men and the police have hopes of getting them.

Engine Sparks Start Blaze.

A still alarm was received at Fire Headquarters at 1 o'clock this afternoon for a slight blaze in the old lumber yard on Watchung avenue adjoining the railroad. The chemical engine was sent out and extinguished the blaze by the use of one tank. The fire was evidently started by locomotive sparks.

Announce Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moffett, of West Sixth street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Orr Moffett, to Alfred Harrall, of Lafayette place. The ceremony took place quietly on Sunday as told in The Daily Press yesterday.

FREEHOLDERS TO MAKE STREET A STATE ROAD

ALSO AWARD CONTRACT FOR PAINTING 14 BRIDGES.

The bridge committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders, met at the Hotel Iroquois, yesterday afternoon, to receive bids for painting the county line bridges in this city and vicinity, fourteen in all. The one submitted by Cleaves & Hedden, of this city, was accepted and the contract awarded. The firm's bid was $705. There were several other bids, but they were much higher and some of them did not include the entire fourteen structures. The work will be started at once.

The Board of Freeholders will meet at Elizabeth this afternoon as a committee of the whole to consider the proposition of making South Broad street, Elizabeth, a State aid road. Recently St. George's avenue, Rahway, was made a State aid road, and the Board has accepted the road running through Colonia and proposes to put it in first-class condition as a county road. There is about a quarter of a mile of road to repair, extending to the Middlesex county line, where it connects with the road leading to the seashore resorts on the New Jersey coasts.

The bridge committee's recommendation as to repairing the Watchung avenue and Grove street bridges in this city, has been adopted and bids on the iron work will be received at the Hotel Iroquois, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The work will cost several hundred dollars, as it will be necessary to erect new iron railings and make other repairs.

"FARMER" MARTINE PLEADS WITH GOVERNOR STOKES

SEEKS LATTER'S AID IN FIGHT AGAINST CUP RACE ON HIGHWAY.

Among the farmers in this vicinity who have urged Governor Stokes to use his influence against the enactment of the amendment to the Frelinghuysen law permitting the auto cup race is James E. Martine, who has written the chief executive in his characteristic vigorous style a strong protest against the alleged fool-hardy legislation.

"The measure," says the farmer orator in his letter, "would be an insult and an offense to the people of our State and I in common with many others rely upon your good wisdom in this agitation."

To a Daily Press reporter Mr. Martine said today: "Those highways are for the use of the farmers and the taxpayers in general and should not be vacated for the purpose of turning them into a race course. If anyone can afford to indulge in such sport, let him hold it on his own private property and not seek to turn our splendid roads into race tracks."

BAG OF CLAMS AND A JAG MADE FUN FOR THE JOKERS

But It Resulted In the Owner of Both Landing in a Police Cell.

Bound homeward with a bag of clams and a jag on a West Front street trolley car, last night, Clarence Stelle, looked good to a bunch of jokers on a seat back of him. They soon had him severely worked up by stealing the clams and passing them from one to the other, while the owner sought to get them back. They also made remarks about the other "package" that he was carrying and Clarence was roused to the point of cleaning house when the climax came from another point.

He had informed the conductor that he wanted toget off at Central avenue but the man in blue forgot all about him until New street was reached. When he alighted at that point and discovered he had to walk back a block he broke loose in a chorus of derisive yells about the Public Service poor service until Roundsman Higgins was attracted. The officer failed to grasp the meaning of a lot of jumble about "clams" and "fresh Alecks" and locked him up.

In the city court this morning Stelle was able to tell all about his troubles and Judge Runyon let him off on suspended sentence.

Tabernacle Service.

John Church, of New York, spoke Sunday night at the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle, on the text, "Whatsoever He Saith Unto You, Do It." There was special music, Mrs. John Manley singing several solos. The attendance at these meetings is increasing and much interest is evidenced.

Miss Ella Boice, of East Front street, is spending her vacation at Cresco, Pa.

REALTY EXCHANGE ELECTS

William Jeffery Chosen Second Vice-President of N. J.-N. Y. Land Syndicate.

ARRANGE A DINNER

Committees Appointed to Draft By-that young man with the butt of a ident—Nine Directors.

Officers were elected at a meeting of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange at No. 347 Fifth avenue, New York, yesterday afternoon, and arrangements were made for a vigorous campaign of land development in this State.

The officers elected were: President, Otto Kempner, of New York; first vice president, William A. Lambert, of Nutley, N. J.; second vice president, William Jeffery, of Plainfield; third vice president, Henry A. Squires, of Bergen county; secretary, F. W. Creighton, of New York, and treasurer, Joseph A. Doolittle, of the El Mora Land Company, Union county.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Jeffery, Kempner and Doolittle was appointed to draft by-laws and another consisting of Messrs. Jeffery, Day and Doolittle to fix the president's salary.

The other directors are John Kennelly, of Bound Brook, and Joseph W. Day, of Milburn. On the invitation of Mr. Day, the directors will dine at the Waldorf, in New York, tomorrow, to discuss further plans.

The New Jersey and New York Real Estate Exchange has been incorporated in this State for "the protection and promotion of the business interests of real estate developers, brokers, dealers and operators." The capital stock is placed at $10,000, divided into 400 shares of the par value of $25.

The exchange will maintain offices in New York. These offices will probably be in the Hudson Terminal Building at Cortlandt and Church streets.

J. D. Doolittle, president of the El Mora and Company, in whose offices in New York the meetings of the Exchange are being held until permanent offices are arranged for, has been active in furthering the organization of this Exchange. In speaking with reference to this Exchange, and the rapid development of New Jersey as a residential section, Mr. Doolittle said:

"For several years I have felt that New Jersey was about due for a big real estate boom. It is naturally a most delightful section of country, but for some reason or other there has been a prejudice in the minds of many New Yorkers regarding Jersey. The New Yorker has felt that it would take half a day to get to New Jersey and get back, and that the mosquitoes in the summertime were as big as robins and thicker than the crowds at the Brooklyn bridge crush. These bug-a-boos, however, have practically been eliminated from the mind of the New York public, and with the completion of the tunnels under the Hudson river, and the other improved transportation facilities, New Jersey will certainly have a real estate boom which will carry prices in many sections to double and treble their present values.

"In a boom of this nature there is always an opportunity for unprincipled operators and speculators to work off the unsuspecting public fake development schemes and cheap and undesirable properties. It is for the purpose of avoiding this, and to continually raise rather than lower the standard of development that we are forming the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange."

Wheelman Released.

John Thams, of New Brunswick, the wheelman who ran down Clarence Apgar on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. He proved to the satisfaction of the magistrate that he was not riding recklessly and was released on his promise to pay the doctor's bill incurred as a result of the accident. The boy was not badly hurt but is suffering from a dislocated elbow received in a mishap two weeks ago.

More Children at Home.

Six children from the East Side tenement district, New York, were brought to the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp yesterday by Miss Sara Curry. A party of those who have been at the camp will return to the city Thursday and others will be brought out in their places.

Take a Day Off at the Shore.

If you want to have an enjoyable trip go with the Methodists of Plainfield and Dunellen to Asbury Park on Thursday. Every provision has been made to give all who go a good time and it is certainly worth the journey to the seashore to get a dip in the briny deep.

APPLY FOR A RECEIVER

Application Made by W. A. Coddington on Behalf of Siche Gas Co.'s Creditors.

COURT GRANTS RULE

Concern Must Show Cause Before Vice Chancellor Next Tuesday Why Receiver Should Not Be Named.

In the Court of Chancery, at Trenton, today, Vice Chancellor Bergen granted a rule to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed for the Siche Gas Company, of this city. Judge William A. Coddington, who made the application, claimed that the concern is insolvent. The application was granted and the rule was made returnable at Trenton on Tuesday morning.

The Siche Gas Company was incorporated two years ago and since that time has been conducting its business in a factory in East Fourth street, near Watchung avenue. It was capitalized at $100,000. The principal stockholders are William L. Perrin, Sidney B. Perrin, Otto Arens and Louis R. Arnett, all except Arnett being residents of this place.

Judge Coddington made the application as counsel for George H. Mauerer, of this city, secretary and treasurer of the concern and also a stockholder. It is stated in the papers filed that the assets of the company are not over $3,000 and the liabilities reach $6,000.

The Siche device is an illuminating gas generator. It was patented in this county and in Canada two years ago.

BOROUGH SEWER REPORT READY TOMORROW NIGHT

COONCIL TO MEET COMMISSION—VAIL FARM NOT OBTAINABLE.

The North Plainfield Council will hold a special meeting tomorrow night to receive a supplementary report from the North Plainfield sewerage commission. The sub-committee of seven will present the report but it is expected that the fifty odd members of the commission will be on hand. It is likely that no further action will be taken after the report is submitted but that the commission will be continued in office. What findings will be made is not known for much secrecy has guarded the commission's deliberations.

It became known today that the Vail farm, on Greenbrook road, which was being considered as a desirable site for the sewerage disposal plant, can not be obtained by the borough as it has already been sold. The purchaser is said to be Edward F. Feickert, of the Plainfield Trust Company. What use Mr. Feickert will make of the farm is not known but it is rumored that the place will be improved for residential purposes. The price could not be learned.

Before the report is presented to the Council tomorrow night, the sub-committee of seven will deliver it to the whole committee of fifty. Two plans were suggested in the original report. One was that the borough could install its own plant and the other suggestion was that it lay pipes connecting with the Plainfield system.

Salvation Army Changes.

Adjutant and Mrs. John Johnson, who have been in charge of the local barracks of the Salvation Army, during the past year, have been transferred to Amsterdam, N. Y. Captain and Mrs. A. Hopkins, of Brooklyn succeed them. Services will be held every night, except Monday, in the army hall on East Second street; also Sundays at 11 a. m., and 8 p. m.

Held In Her On Recognizance.

Mrs. Elizabeth White, the trained nurse arrested at Saratoga, N. Y., on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was arraigned in the city court today. She acknowledged the complaint and was held in her own recognizance to await the action of the Grand Jury.

New Pavement Begun.

A gang of men began tearing up the macadam on Somerset street at Lincoln place this morning to install the new Hassam pavement. The pavement will be laid for two blocks, from Lincoln place to Park place.

To Build a Home.

Charles W. Smith, of Myrtle avenue, has purchased of the Cadmus Estate, a building lot on Willow avenue, adjoining the new house and lot of C. Everett Murray, and expects to build a handsome house there.

FOREMAN NOT DISTURBED

Charles J. Fisk Believes Excise Board is Doing Its Duty.

NO OFFICIAL NOTICE

Grand Jury Head Expects to Hear From Mayor Ryan As to Progress of Investigation.

That the excise board of Elizabeth has crossed off eighteen from the list of places holding inn and tavern licenses whose permits the grand jury notified Mayor Ryan were the illegal as not having complied with the law does not disturb Foreman Chas. J. Fisk in the least. As the inspector of the excise board had made a personal examination of the eighteen places in question before the license was renewed and found that they had conformed with the law according to a despatch published in the Press, it is stated that the request of the grand jury has been complied with so far as those taverns are concerned.

In his letter to Mayor Ryan enumerating the places found by the grand jury's inspector to be conducting business contrary to law, Mayor Fisk is alleged to have stated that if the licenses are still in force or have been renewed and the conditions are the same as when examined by his officers the permits should be revoked on the ground that the taverns have no spare rooms or beds for the accommodation of boarders or transients. The Mayor of Elizabeth was also notified that if his inspector should find that the conditions were not as stated in the letter or that changes had been made that Foreman Fisk be informed of the fact. Mr. Fisk is now awaiting to hear from Mayor Ryan, presuming from the newspaper story that the illegal conditions had been rectified before the excise board's inspector made his investigation and certainly before the licenses were renewed.

To a Daily Press correspondent, Mr. Fisk said today: "I do not take it that the excise board has refused to accede to our requests. On the contrary, the action reported leads me to believe that since the licenses were renewed the tavern keepers fulfilled the requirements of the law and that thereafter the permits were renewed by the Board. That is the way it looks to me. Of course, I have not heard from Mayor Ryan or the Board and the only information I have is what I get from the newspaper which no doubt is entirely correct. Our officer is still at work and we will get reports from time to time. I expect to hear from Mayor Ryan in the course of a few days and I then may have something to say. You know this grand jury is on duty until October and you may depend upon it that we will use our best endeavors to see that the law is lived up to both in spirit and letter."

OFFICES EQUAL VOTERS.

Borough of Kenilworth Has Its First Election Today.

The new Borough of Kenilworth will hold its first election today, and fill enough offices to give almost every voter in the place a job. All the politicians—and everybody plays politics down in Kenilworth—heaved a sigh of relief when the County Board of Elections announced yesterday that the fact that there were not fifty names attached to the nomination documents wouldn't be allowed to stand in the way. Everybody thought this was going to be an insurmountable obstacle at first and were preparing to get a legal residence in Elizabeth, for Kenilworth citizens wouldn't lose a vote at any price.

This election in Kenilworth will be the first in its history, but they already has two distinct parties, and as usual one represents the "gang," according to the other fellows, and the other the "reform" or "purity in politics," according to themselves. They call themselves the Republican and Citizens' parties. The betting is five to one on the Republicans.

In the City Court.

Charles Lewis, colored, was arrested on East Front street, yesterday afternoon for drunkenness. There was no especial disorder connected with the case and Judge Runyon let him off on suspended sentence this morning.

PROMINENT FANWOOD RESIDENT DIES SUDDENLY

BOROUGH CLERK ERNEST C. KIEB, VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK.

Ernest C. Kieb, borough clerk of Fanwood and one of its leading residents, died suddenly at his home on North avenue, that place, yesterday afternoon. He had been ill several days last week but returned to business Saturday and just previous to his death made the remark to his wife that he "had never felt better," an attack of heart failure developed directly afterward and he passed away before medical attention could be secured.

Mr. Kieb removed to Fanwood from New York about twenty years ago and from that time had always been identified with its interests. The place owns much of its popularity as a suburban community to him and while he lived there he was seldom out of public office. At various times he was councilman and commissioner and he had held the position of borough clerk for a long while, serving to the satisfaction of every resident of the borough. He was one of the organizers of the Fanwood Club.

Mr. Kieb, who was about fifty years old, was employed in New York as an expert court stenographer and law reporter and was well known in the city. He is survived by a wife, one daughter, Mrs. Laurens VanBuren, of this city, and one son, Norman Kieb, of Fanwood.

The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. The burial will be private.

LONG STANDING TROUBLE REACHES JUSTICE'S COURT

FATHER-IN-LAW CHARGES H. C. SMITH WITH ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Trouble that has existed between Louis B. Coddington and his son-in-law, H. Clifford Smith, both of Scotch Plains, came to a head last night, when the latter was arraigned before Justice Clark on a charge of assault and battery preferred by the father-in-law. Smith waived examination and was held in $100 bail to awai the action of the October Grand Jury.

Coddington and Smith have been on unfriendly terms for a long time. The younger man claimed that his parent-at-law insisted on coming into his candy store at Scotch Plains and annoying him. Two months ago Smith notified Coddington to remain away.

On Saturday night he entered the store. Smith ordered him to leave and when he refused, proceeded to eject him. The two finally made their way to the sidewalk and in the melee Coddington got much the worse of the encounter. He accordingly preferred the assault charge, exhibiting a bruised face.

Trenton Shuts Out Saloons.

The Trenton Excise Board, at a special meeting yesterday morning, decided that the city had plenty of saloons and to issue no additional licenses, at present. There is consternation among the liquor men, for several places were to have been opened within a few weeks. Trenton has been having "closed Sundays" for several years, and is in other ways taking advanced steps in regard to the use of liquor.

Injured Attending Convention.

Rev. G. W. Bailey, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, is suffering from a severe cut on the forehead which he received on Saturday, while attending a colored Baptist's convention at Trenton. He was sitting close by a window which fell over and struck him on the head.

Operation on Fitzsimmon's Arm.

Pugilist Robert Fitzsimmons was again operated on this morning for the trouble in his arm. The wound that practically cost him his fight with Jack Johnson was cut open by Dr. Endicott and re-sewed. "Fitz" got his share of the fight receipts, $1,921, yesterday.

Pastor Sails for Europe.

Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, sailed today on the Friedrich Der Grosse, of the North German Lloyd Line, for Bremen. He will spend six weeks wheeling through Germany. Mr. Herring secured his passage through Mulford Estil's agency.

Miss Mary Mortimer, of West Seventh street, is spending a week at Yonkers, N. Y.

W. A. Kenyon, fo East Front street, has gone to Maine, where he will spend two weeks for the benefit of his health.

Mrs. James C. Keegan, of New York, is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Theresa Schwartz, of East Front street.

PROBING WEEKS' DEATH

Coroner's Jury Hears Many Witnesses, Asst. Prosecutor English Being Present.

P. S. C. COUNSEL THERE

Neighbors Tell of Finding Victim's Body—His Widow Represented By Counsel.

The coroner's inquest to inquire into the death of Clarence H. Weeks, of Berkeley avenue, which occurred early on the morning of July 12 last, as the result of his touching a broken electric light wire suspended over the sidewalk near his home, was begun at 10 o'clock this morning in the Common Council rooms. Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the coroner, is in charge, and Assistant Prosecutor John K. English is conducting the examination. While the Public Service Corporation is not allowed to take part in the examination, Howard McSherry, its legal representative and W. A. Church, the claims agent, as well as other interested employes are present. Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Chief Kiely and City Judge William N. Runyon represent the city. The jury is composed of James E. Martine, foreman; William R. Townsend, Henry Liefke, J. J. Kenney, H. W. Marshall and Charles H. Frost.

Up to the hour of adjourment 15 witnesses in all, comprising chiefly neighbors of Mr. Weeks and including James Arnold, chief clerk and superintendent of the Plainfield district of the P. S. C., were examined. All of the testimony tendered to show that Clarence H. Weeks met his death by taking hold of a broken electric light wire, and that the wire was poorly insulated. Only one of the two broken wires was shown, the one believed to have caused Mr. Weeks' death, and when Mr. Arnold was asked by Mr. Martine why the other one was not given to the officials, he explained that it was not in as good condition, and that at least one-third of the insulation was gone.

Most of the morning session was taken up in examining the neighbors of Mr. Weeks. The first witness, Stanwood A. George, who resides in the house next to that of the Weeks property, testified that on the night of July 11, between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock, he heard a peculiar buzzing sound, which he believed was caused by the electric light wires near his house. There was also bright flashes of electricity which illuminated his bed-room. Early the following morning he heard a similar sound and getting out of bed he saw Zezulon Chadbourne, the neighbor, who found Mr. Weeks, running down the street. He afterward learned that he was on his way to notify David Hand that Mr. Weeks was dead.

Continuing, Mr. George explained that he saw two ends of electric light wires dangling in the air, one of them very close to where Mr. Weeks' body lay. In reply to questions from Mr. English as to who removed the wires, Mr. George pointed to James Ellis and William Crowley, linemen employed by the P. S. C., who were sitting in the lobby. He stated further in answer to a question from Mr. Martine that Mr. Weeks had been in good health. He understood, he said, that there was 2,300 voltage in the broken wires.

H. C. VanEmburgh, who was engaged to draw a map of the scene of the accident showing the electric light poles and the place of the accident, produced the map. In answer to questions from Mr. English he said that it was July 16 when he was asked the make the map. While at the scene of the accident other officials, including representatives of the P. S. C., were present, but he paid no particular attention to the conversation.

Herbert Henry, of 729 Berkeley avenue, a fire insurance man, residing about 100 feet from Mr. Weeks' home, declared that he saw the latter's body on the sidewalk on the morning of July 12. His sister-in-law told him that Mr. Weeks was found dead on the walk. He noticed that the insulation was off the wire and that Mr. Weeks' right hand was burned; also that one wire was hanging near the body, one in the street and one near J. D. Loizeaux's property.

William Scriven, of 737 Berkeley avenue, residing opposite the Weeks home, testified that he saw the body on the morning of July 12, Zebulon Chadbourne having informed him of the accident. He also saw the electric light wire hanging close to the dead body.

Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Netherwood Fresh ir Home, declared that the electric lights at the Home went out on the night of July 11, about 11 o'clock and the current was off until morning.

Mrs. Anna Hand, of 737 Berkeley avenue, stated that she saw Mr.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $2 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist 1868

From the issue of March 18, 1869:

"City Charter. We have been requested by some of our citizens friendly to incorporation, to make public the following proposed law now before the Legislature:"

Then follows, "An Act to Incorporate the City of Plainfield," outlining the proposed change of Plainfield from town to city and providing for political officers, election, laws and ordinances of a city government.

This charter, which takes up five columns of space, and a full column of excerpt from the "Laws of New Jersey" calls forth the following explanatory "pointer:" "We hope our readers will excuse the dearth of local news this week. A glance at our inside pages will explain the reason."

From the issue of March 25, 1869:

"An accident occurred on Front street, on Monday afternoon last, which might have proved serious. A carriage containing two ladies was standing at the corner of Front and Cherry streets, when a team of runaways came tearing around the corner of Cherry, and striking the carriage standing there, upsetting and making a complete wreck of it. The ladies who were sitting in the carriage at the time, fortunately escaped injury, but were somewhat frightened."

Almost a Fire.—Last night about 5½ o'clock, smoke was discovered issuing from the garret of the store occupied by L. Boice in North Plainfield. Upon investigation it was found that a quantity of rags stored there had ignited, probably by spontaneous combustion. They were extinguished without much difficulty."

"The house of E. H. Peck, of Dunellen, and the hotel of Lloyd Nelson, of New Market, were broken into on Friday night last, and goods to a considerable amount were taken away by the burglars.

"The people cannot be too careful in securing their doors and windows, at this time of year when stragglers are in abundance."

"The House of Assembly on Monday night passed the Plainfield City Charter, and also its opposing measure entitled an act for the improvement of the Township of Plainfield. Both bills are consequently before the Senate."

Special July Sale

beginning Monday, July 15th, continuing for the balance of the month, we shall dispose of a large number of practically new Upright Pianos at remarkably low prices and terms.

A large number of these instruments have been taken as part payment on our Euterpe Piano Player; many have been used but a short time on rent; altogether they are a very fine collection of instruments which may be purchased for from one-half to one-third value.

We will also include in this SALE a number of Square Pianos and Organs, some of which we will mark as low as $10.00, none higher than $45.00. These are all of well known and standard makes which we have taken in as part payment on our Mathushek & Son Pianos with Duplex Sounding Board. Hundreds of buyers in this vicinity have been convinced of their durability and superiority above all others.

We are always pleased to explain and demonstrate to the prospective buyer WHY the Duplex Sounding Board is more durable and in every way superior to the common sounding board that invariably split and with ribs that loosen and rattle.

Quality and Price

The two vital questions in your piano purchase are, first, quality; second, price. An unsatisfactory piano, in tone and action, is the most annoying article you can have in your home. You dislike to be expending money on it continually to keep it in playing condition.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

The Laurels, of Bound Brook, will meet the Raritans, at the latter place on Saturday, and the Somerset county boys should be able to turn the tables.

The game of great interest on Saturday at Crescent Oval will be between the Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains and every fan wants to be on hand to see the contest. The Plains team is now in second place, closely following Clinton Avenue, and the result of Saturday's game means a whole lot to either team.

Billy Maloney, of the Brooklyns, is picking up a great deal in his stick work and when he gets on a base he is a dangerous man.

The Brooklyn Nationals have loaned their catcher, Butler, to Jersey City, to help out with and he promises to be a valuable player for the Skeeters.

Stricklett, of the Brooklyns, is now rated among the best pitchers in the National League, and he is hitting the ball some, too.

There is a pitcher on the Boyerstown, Pa., amateur league team named Houck, who has struck out ninety batters in seventy-two innings. Seventy-two innings are the equivalent of eight games, which means an average of over eleven strikeouts a game.

During the past month Hal. Chase, of the Highlanders, has been hitting the leather with gemarkable regularity. His total hits in the twenty-four games is forty-two. However, this incident fails to eliminate the Highlanders from the joke column.

The Elizabethport Stars, with Linderman in the box, defeated Hoboken on Sunday by a score of 5 to 3. Mueller, formerly an Eastern Leaguer, pitched for Manager Daab.

President Murphy, of the Chicago Nationals, says that his team will train in Bermuda, next spring, but adds, "I may change my mind."

GOLF.

The semi-final round matches for the championship of the Cranford Golf Club were played Sunday, resulting as follows: E. M. Wild beat C. C. Ramsey, 4 up and 3 to play, and G. K. Fullerton beat F. P. Davis, 4 up and 3 to play.

J. J. Hazen, of New York, won the championship of the Golf Association of Advertising Interest in Chicago on Saturday, defeating A. K. Brittain, of Cleveland, in the final round, 7 up and 6 to play.

Joseph J. O'Donohue, Jr., won Class A and Henry McAleenan, Class B, in the President's cup contests at the Hollywood Golf Club, on Sunday. There were twenty starters and the competitions were close throughout.

Julius E. Erickson, of Hillside avenue, who, with his family is spending the summer at Seabright, was at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday and he remained in town over Sunday.

H. R. Sedgwick was the winner of the first cup, offered by Rev. Roderick Terry, at the Newport Golf Club on Saturday. Gladys Mills and Robert W. Goelet won the second and fourth cups, respectively.

Programs are out for the two days' tournament to be held under the auspices of the New York Golf Club at Van Cortlandt Park, July 30 and 31. This immediately precedes the open tournament for professionals to be held on the same course. In the former competition any amateur who is a member of a club belonging to the Metropolitan Golf Association will be eligible to take part on the first day in the thirty-six hole medal play handicap.

On the second day conditions again call for thirty-six holes, only that amateurs and professionals will be paired. The amateurs' handicap, limited to fifteen strokes a round, is to be subtracted from the sum of the scores of himself and professional partner to determine the net score. Two gross and two net score prizes have been offered for the first day. There will be a prize for the pair making the best net score the second day, as well as a prize for the couple returning the lowest gross score. Professionals will be paid in cash.

The Western Golf Association has announced conditions for its annual amateur championship tournament to be held August 6 and 10 at the Chicago Golf Club. There will be a thirty-six-hole medal play qualifying round, with match play final, also at thirty-six holes. Special contests have also been arranged for those in the first match play round of the championship.

Although Fred Herreshoff failed to meet with quite as much success in the three days' play at the Allegheny Country Club as Jerome D. Travers and W. J. Travis, the first named had the satisfaction of getting around in 73, which is one of the best scores ever made over the course. Herreshoff went out in 35 and home in 38.

Plainfield, N. J., July 23, 1907.

Nearly a week since we've heard anything from "The Peerless Leader."

Judging from the list of auto casualties during the last few days, we don't need a cup race to increase the mortality rate in New Jersey.

Now that the Republican party is in search of a successor to Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, what's the matter with Henry L. Hall? We hear the answer "He's 'good enough for me.'"

The Democratic State Committee will meet at Asbury Park on Saturday to fix a date in September for the formal "throw-down" to be given "Farmer-orator James E. Martine, an aspirant for gubernatorial honors.

There hasn't been a new Gubernatorial boom started in a week. The "Big Five" must have decided that it already has a sufficient supply to tide the bosses over primary day.—Newark Evening News.

How about one C. J. Fisk?

"Just keep your eye on Judge Pitney," says the Plainfield Press. Plainfield is the center, it is understood, of the Pitney movement, and that is rather odd all things considered.—New Brunswick Home News.

Don't you believe it? Frelinghuysen and Foote are strong favorites around these diggings.

While the proposed brick pave street would be a welcome improvement in the business section, there are more urgent needs for city money just at present. Among the number might be mentioned a fire house in the Netherwood district and a site for a municipal building in the centre of the town. Under present conditions the people in the East End have little fire protection despite the fact that valuable properties are located there and the owners pay a large share of the city taxes. In case of conflagration in that vicinity it would take the men at headquarters at least eight minutes from the time the alarm is turned in to get their apparatus on the scene. Mayor Jenkins and his successor Mayor Fisk both took occasion to point out the serious need of a fire house there but no move has been made by the Common Council. As the desirability of immediate action on the proposition to acquire a site for a town hall, one only has to consider how property values are increasing in the centre of the city to realize the necessity of an early purchase of a tract of land for that purpose. The erection of a hall can wait, but sound business judgment will brook no delay in buying a site.

Sues Amusement Company.

Suit for $20,000 was begun in the United States Circuit Court, at Trenton, yesterday, by Charles Weidlog, of Philadelphia, against the Aerial Railway Company, which operates a scenic railway at Washington Park, New Jersey. On May 14 last, Weidlog was in a car of the defendant's when it crashed into another car and he was injured.

Weeks' body early the morning of July 12, Mr. Chadbourne having informed her of the fatality. She saw two wires hanging in the air, and also mentioned the fact that about 11 o'clock the night before she heard a loud report and the electric lights went out. She did not report the matter to any one. After Mr. Weeks' dead body was found she telephoned to the police; also the electric light station, telling the man there on duty what had happened and to turn the power off. David Hand merely substantiated his wife's story, and said that he notified County Physician Westcott, who arrived at the scene later.

Zebulon Chadbourne, of Cushing road, who found Mr. Weeks' dead body, said that he left home on the morning of July 12 at 5:43 to go to the Netherwood station, and as he turned into Berkeley avenue from Cushing road, he saw a light, followed quickly by a blue flame. Until he was within twenty feet of where Mr. Weeks lay, he thought that a stick of wood was burning on the walk. When he neared the body he was unable to recognize it at first, but upon second glance noticed that it was Mr. Weeks. He then hastened to arouse the neighbors. When he first arrived he said that Mr. Weeks held the electric light wire in his right hand, which was severely burned. When he returned after notifying the neighbors the wire had separated from the hand.

J. R. Costales, of 830 Berkeley avenue, verified the testimony of the other witnesses, adding that Mrs. Henry notified him of the accident and when he reached the scene he saw the body and the hanging wires. He also identified William Crowley and James Ellis as the two linemen who took down and removed the wires.

James Arnold testified that he was notified of the accident about 6:15 o'clock on the morning of July 12. He instructed the engineer at the electric light station to shut off the current and William Crowley and James Ellis were sent to Berkeley avenue. Dr. Albert Pitts was also sent there and as quickly as possible he went to the scene of the accident, where he found severad officials. Later he telephoned from Truell Hall to W. A. Church, the claims agent for the company. He gave general information about the condition of the wires in question, and when the wire was brought into the room he identified it. Mr. English and Mr. Martine questioned him closely, especially about his refusal to give up the wire when Mayor Fisk made a request for it. He explained that the wire was the property of the P. S. C. Mr. English asked him if there is known to electrical men or science any insulation that would permit the handling of a wire without shock, and Mr. Arnold said that he did not think there was. When questioned as to why he did not give the officials both wires, he said that the one withheld was poorly insulated, about one-third of the covering being off.

Patrolman Tobias Nolan, Captain Frederickson, Sergeant Overbaugh were called and simply testified to the parts taken by them in reporting electric lights out on Berkeley avenue, and receiving telephone messages from Superintendent Arnold about the accident. William Crowley, known in the P. S. C. as the "trouble man," testified that he was sent to Berkeley avenue to take down the broken wires.

Before taking an adjournment until 2:30 o'clock, F. E. Kinsman, the electrical expert, was called to the stand to explain some things regarding wire insulation and he told of what the insulation consists chiefly, adding that it is used to protect wires from rubbing against the branches of trees. Mr. Kinsman was also examined closely by Mr. Martine and Mr. Frost, and all the members of the jury examined the wire which came from Berkeley avenue.

GIRL'S TALK HIS CUE.

Detective Arrests Seven Youths on Charge of Robbery.

Remarks passed by two girls resulted yesterday in the arrest of seven youths in Bayonne, for robbing Fireman Alfred Young of a diamond ring worth $80, a gold watch and chain and $35 in cash.

Detective Lazarus overheard the girls, who are said to be sweethearts of two of the suspects, telling of the robbery and he rounded up the band, which comprised Harry Smith, Michael Snyder, Frank Moody, John Delaney, Andrew Meehan, Bernard Quinn and John Lynch. None is over sixteen years. All were arraigned before Recorder Lazarus and held in $500 each for the Grand Jury.

FATALLY BURNED IN CRATE.

Straw Caught Fire While Boy Was Playing In It.

Trenton, July 23.—Henry Commiskey, six years old, died in McKinley Hospital yesterday from burns he received Sunday night when he was imprisoned in a big crate full of burning straw. The boy and some companions were playing in the crate when flames suddenly shot forth.

The others escaped, but Commiskey, in his struggles, overturned the crate and was imprisoned beneath it. He would have been burned to death at the time but for the fact that John T. Cribbin, a workman, rescued him at the risk of his own life. Cribbin himself was painfully burned.

ITALIAN BANDITS TAKEN

Captured By Posse After Plot To Rob Postmaster And Holding Up Trentonians.

RAIDED A BARRACKS

County and Local Police, With 100 Armed Citizens, Scour Woods and Get Five—Exposed By Own Countryman.

One of the most daring holdups known to this vicinity was perpetrated yesterday afternoon on the road from Mt. Airy to Ringoes when a carriage driven by Frederick Baker, a wealthy young man of Trenton, was stopped by five Italians armed with double barreled guns. In the carriage with Mr. Baker were Mrs. Henry Holcombe, of Mt. Airy, and Mrs. Adria Hunt, of Hopewell. Both are wives of wealthy farmers.

When about a mile outside of Ringoes the five bandits sprang from the woods. While two held the horse the other three demanded the valuables of the party. One of the men noticed a diamond ring on Mr. Baker's finger and asked for it. It was refused, whereat the foreigner struck of the woods and asked Orville H. gun. Another of the robbers struck Mrs. Holcombe at the same time. About this time they be came frightened and departed with nothing but $40. Mr. Baker and Mrs. Holcombe are quite seriously injured. The young man has just returned from a tour of Europe.

Sheriff Jacob Dilts, Policeman Elmer E. Hahn, Stephen S. Dean and a squad of Lambertville and Ringoes policemen and deputies, assisted by nearly 100 armed residents, ran down the five armed Italians, who had plotted to hold up Paymaster C. E. Reed, of Trenton, and rob him of several thousand dollars, the pay roll of a large gang of Italians employed in constructing the stone road from Flemington to Ringoes.

The gang, all armed with shotguns and revolvers, have made a woods, near Copper Hill, their rendezvous since Friday night. They took one of the men employed on the stone road into their confidence, and it was planned to hold Reed up Saturday afternoon, while on his way from Lambertville to Copper Hill.

The Italian revealed the plot to the foreman, who advised Reed to come to Flemington direct by train. After the men received their pay the attempted hold up became known, despite the efforts of the authorities to keep it quiet until the gang could be apprehended, and there was consternation among the Italians.

The climax was reached Sunday night, when the desperadoes attempted to rob the Italian boarding house at Copper Hill, where a score of the foreigners are sheltered. The footpads were beaten off, and yesterday morning consternation prevailed. The Delaware River Quarry and Construction Company was unable to continue work upon the road, for many of the Italians gathered up their belongings with the intention of fleeing, and carried them to Flemington, where some took trains out of town. Others walked about armed with shotguns, threatening to shoot the gang on sight.

Shortly after noon yesterday they were discovered in a woods near Ringoes. A posse was quickly organized at Flemington, and within a short time the whole neighborhood in that section had joined in the hunt. Before the posse arrived at the spot the bandits held up Mr. Baker, and when informed of this the posse was soon upon their track, and a hot chase followed.

Four of the men were found laying face downward on their guns in the underbrush in the woods at different points. The fifth walked out of th ewoods and asked Orville H. Dilts, one of the searching party, for a job, which he consented to give him and he was driven to Lambertville and locked up. Four of the gang were brought to Flemington last night and locked up.

When they arrived an angry mob of Italian laborers surrounded them and it was all that the authorities could do to keep them from doing violence. Some carried weapons.

It is possible that the desperadoes are the same who committed the Middlesex county robbery two years ago.

NEED ROOSEVELT'S KIND

Bishop Williams Thanks God For Men Like the Nation's President.

L. A. WILLIAMS' BROTHER

Prelate Deplores Prevalence of Business and Political Offenses—Praises Newspapers.

Bishop Charles D. Williams, of Michigan, a brother of Louis A. Williams, of this city, at St. Bartholomew's church, in New York, on Sunday, scathingly denounced the methods in business and politics revealed in some of the recent investigations, over which, he said, every honest man must hang his head in shame. He thanked God for the new leaders who had arisen, having in mind, he said afterward, President Roosevelt and Gov. Hughes.

Dr. Williams has been the guest of his brother here for a few days and is well known in Plainfield. In his discourse, the prelate took occasion to praise the press for its work as leaders in the reform movement.

Bishop Williams had preached on the text "Where there is no vision the people perish," or, as might be translated, "Become a mob;" and in speaking of the necessity of political leaders who have the confidence of the people and are able to see through the quack remedies of a certain type of reformers he said "Thank God, we are beginning to get such leaders!"

"I did refer to President Roosevelt," said Bishop Williams after the sermon, "and also to your Governor Hughes, though probably the President sees the clearer visions. I don't approve of everything he does, of course, such as his invasions into the animal world, and don't indorse any pretensions of omniscience; but he is doing so much good that we must overlook some of the other things." Bishop Williams also differentiated between the necessity for leadership and authority.

"The press," said Bishop Williams, "is accomplishing great good, but evil is being done by it too. The exposure of the life-insurance scandals was most laudable, as was also Mr. Pulitzer's letter to the Japanese Minister of Foreign affairs to enlighten the public as to the real friendliness between this country and Japan and offset the efforts of the jingo press."

Bishop Williams is stopping at the City Club, on Forty-fourth street, New York, which is the birthplace of many organized movements against "graft" and political corruption and which has recently made formal complaint to Gov. Hughes for the removal of Borough President Ahearn. The Bishop is a stocky little man with the clearest of blue eyes, full of energy, and apparently not afraid of his own views. He said to the congregation of wealthy St. Bartholomew's:

"There is a saying that a democracy needs no leader—'Vox populi, vox Dei' ('The voice of the people is the voice of God'); that all that is required is to keep the ear to the ground and listen for that voice, and then to follow it. But nowhere is there such need of leadership as in democracy—mark, I say leadership, not authority—and that leader must have the confidence of the people, for they have an instinct for the voice of truth. The popular instinct is often blind, and it belongs to the virile mind and the right leadership from a higher standpoint to open their eyes to the true understanding of themselves. No people are so sensitive to public opinion as Americans, and every true leader interprets men to themselves.

"Who are the natural leaders? Not the so-called smart set, who set the pace for others to follow, and simply fix the styles. I know the popular conception of the term 'Christian'—a little group of inoffensive women and ministers. We want today vigorous and efficient Christians who will be in the forefront everywhere. Piety is often a drug on the market, and there is a grain of truth in the old saying that the world is divided into two classes—the good and inefficient, and the bad and efficient."

Mr. Saunders, a former member of the North Plainfield High School Faculty, is visiting at the home of Frank Denecklau, of Fairview avenue.

Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, who is spending the summer in his cottage at Lake Hopatcong, is in town for a few days looking after some county business.

Miss Elizabeth Day, bookkeeper and cashier at Roth & Co.'s market, who was taken suddenly ill Saturday night and was operated upon at the hospital for appendicitis, is doing nicely.

Miss Helen Armstrong, of Duer street, is home again after a delightful two weeks at Kearsarge, N. H., where she has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Porter, at their beautiful summer home in the White Mountains.

ALECK TELLS HIS WOES

This Time Kane's Face Comes in Contact With Ginny Joe's Fist.

UNBURDENS TO CHIEF

"Ginny Joe" Thought Aleck a "Citizen Fixit" and Acts Accordingly.

Aleck Kane, the house wrecker and mayor of Fillmore avenue, has troubles of his own in protecting the interests of Plainfield at large. A short time ago the Board of Health put him on the kibosh by finding that his complaints about the negligence of its officers amounted to nothing but last night he broke out anew and again got the wrong end of the deal.

Aleck is somewhat of a sleuth and, it is said, prides himself on the fact that he can follow up a clue better than any gum-shoe artist Chief Kiely ever hired. As mayor of Fillmore avenue, he has felt in duty bound to make it a model community and woebetide the law-breaker that dares to invade its sacred precincts.

Since Mayor Fisk began to show the Elizabeth people that the excise laws were made to be respected and not violated at will, Mayor Aleck pricked up his ears and decided there was something to work on. Hadn't he seen an unusual number of Italians sauntering up to Ginny Joe's just above his place, and hadn't he seen them coming away with unsteady steps? Sure he had. And what else did that betoken but selling rum on the sly, said Fillmore avenue's chief executive, deftly scratching his left ankle with his right foot.

To reason out meant action and Aleck was soon in possession of the necessary evidence to bring Ginny Joe before Judge Runyon, at least, that's what he claims. He wanted to make positive, however, and last night he put the question point blank to Joe as the two met in Fillmore avenue's confines.

"Say, what do you mean by sellin' red-eye without payin' for the privilege?" yelled the "mayor" as he planted himself in front of the alleged offender.

It was a new experience for Ginny Joe. He wasn't used to being accosted in that way and he acted as his compatriots do under the circumstances. He suddenly drew back his strong arm, gave it a forward shove and it kept on going until it collided with the "mayor's" face. The operation was repeated a couple of times and then Joe took his departure.

Aleck collected his scattered senses as quickly as possible and hustled to Police Headquarters. There he exhibited his bruised face to Chief Kiely and for the first time since he detailed himself to the case, asked the aid of the department. A cop was hurried up to where Aleck's features had been damaged but there was nothing doing.

The "mayor" went away from Headquarters saying he would come back and prefer two charges against Ginny Joe—one for selling liquor without a license and the other for assault and battery. He had failed to arrive up to noon and Chief Kiely is very much afraid for fear of a Black Hand letter is holding him back.

OLD VAMP DEAD.

J. Hagerty in New Brunswick Fire Service for Sixty Years.

James Hagerty, who was the oldest fireman of the New Brunswick Volunteer Fire Department, died yesterday at the age of 75. For sixty years he ran with the apparatus of Protection Engine Company and for over fifty years he had been a member of the company, joining as soon as the rules would permit. He ran with the old hand engines when the department was in its infancy.

In all the years that he was a fireman he missed responding to but one alarm, and that was on the occasion when he was out of town. He had been treasurer of Protection Engine Company for thirty years. Recently when he wanted to give up the office on account of illness, the members made him honorary president. Mr. Hagerty was born in Clinton in 1832, and went to New Brunswick when he was four years old. He lived on the same street and on the same block during his life here. He was a shoemaker by trade and turned out the footgear of several generations from his shop.

Mrs. U. G. Pierson, of Richmond street, is sojourning at Undercliff Cottage, Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Burner, of Jackson avenue, will spend the month of August at Ocean Grove.

Ratty Fallon's Grab

By ELLIOTT WALKER.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

As Fallon peered from the alley for the tenth time, he drew back with a jerk to make quick, professional preparations for the reception of the victim coming hastily down the dim, deserted street.

"Steady, now, Ratty," he whispered to his excited pulses, for the approaching footsteps rang on the walk with the firm tread of a vigorous man. "You're workin' alone, ye know, an' not feelin' none too smart—but, here goes fer yer sick kid."

His teeth ground savagely as he gripped his short, loaded club—an ingenious weapon of lead and leather with a wrist loop.

Again Fallon squeezed a wary squint around the cold bricks, his face pressed close, his cap rubbing the wall.

A glance satisfied him.

"Soft hat, big feller, hands in pockets, head down, thinkin' of nothin', some gent out late a-hurryin' home. Guess he won't git there soon's he calkilates. I'll nail him on the nut from in front. One—two—now!"

Like a hunted animal, the slim, wiry figure crouched and leaped, striking heavily with his club as his feet made a rapid shift on the sidewalk, which brought him within a nicely calculated distance of the bent head.

But his prey improved that second of astonishment in a most unexpected, and, to Ratty Fallon, disconcerting manner.

His whole left side seemed to shrink away with a lightning twist, his head moved a few inches with the turn, and the weapon of Ratty grazed harmlessly down a coat sleeve.

The sleeve came up and out as the assaulted one wheeled back. It was too sudden for Ratty, that smashing left fist. Between his narrowed eyes it slammed, and as the thief staggered, a heel tripped him.

Fallon lay upon his back making feeble struggles. He knew exactly what he was about. The man on top was choking him fiercely, but not professionally. With tense neck muscles, the gasps and gurgles of Ratty were a fiction. He was breathing very nicely between them, and the faint movements of his trained hands beneath the other's coat were not for a clutch which should free him.

He dug suddenly at his enemy's back, pinching and chewing. The strangling immediately became more pronounced with injunctions of a violent nature. Ratty's other hand—where was it? Those expert, searching fingers, where were they? Mr. Fallon knew and was pleased.

A dreadful throat rattle, a cessation of breath (he had a fine supply in his lungs) a limp collapse of head, and limbs and the hold-up man lay still with fixed eyes and a dropped jaw.

His adversary got from him in haste, pressing at Fallon's wrist.

"By Jove! I've gone too far—confound him! Pulse going, but the man doesn't breathe. He's unconscious. I'll get to a telephone. The ambulance is the thing—not the police. I'll work him back with a bit of help."

Ratty heard these remarks with a grim delight. He watched the hurrying legs rush up the nearest flight of steps, and reached under his thigh. The man pulled the door bell, sharply, then turned to look at the prostrate one.

He was gone.

"Well, Mame," Ratty closed the creaking door as softly as he had opened it.

"Well, Tim." The weary features of the woman gathered into a smile of welcome. She put a finger to her lips, nodding at the back door.

"Sleepin'?" Fallon sat down in a broken backed chair. "The tenement's quiet to-night."

"Thank God, yes. Pete's sleepin' lovely. Where'd you git the black eye, Tim?"

"Doin' bizness," returned Mr. Fallon, "an' a neat job, considerin'. I ain't heavy enough to work alone. I've the quickness—not the weight. But Brad got drunk 'bout 12, an' I had to, ye know. So I goes up on Cranford avenue an' slips in the alley what lies between the big houses, an' comes out on Hawyorth street—lonely place, an' a chance at fellers goin' home late. I had to wait, but, finally one come."

"Yes?" said his wife, drowsily.

"You're played out an' most asleep, ain't yer, my gal?" A note of tenderness thrilled the low, harsh whisper.

"'Tain't so much that," the woman sat up. "It's more a bewilderin' feelin' comin' of thinkin' an' wonderin'. I—can't—talk—but I'm listenin', Tim, an' I'm glad you're in."

"Speakin' of thoughts. I had 'em all right, hidin' in that alleyway," rejoined Fallon, cheerfully. "I'm quit of 'em now, with a grab in my clothes, you by me, an' little Pete slumberin'. There, in the dark, 'twas different. Says I to myself: 'Ratty, a tougher man never was than you be lately, an' it's the softness sufferin' in yer on 'count of Mame an' the boy what makes yer feel like doin' murder for a dollar to help 'em.' I see you, jist as plain, bendin' over Petie, white an' cryin', an him rollin', an' mutterin'. Tears run in my eyes—tears, Mame. It was like a picter, there in the dark."

"Yes, sir," he pursued reflectively. "I see that, an' it made me desprit, more so than I ever felt. Sure, if the soft spot in a feller gits to achin' that's what freezes him up into bein' a devil."

"There's good in the world—good in the world," muttered Mame, rocking in her chair. "It's come to me this night. You never was mean to me, Tim, never! You ain't so bad. It's steal or starve. I know—I know. An' Petie so sick an' needin things."

"Come! come!" said Fallon roughly but kindly. "The lad's restin' an' better. I'll watch the boy. I don't know how much I've pinched, but there's a roll in the pocketbook. I couldn't see, but my thumb an' fingers knows the feel of bills. To-morrow we'll have a doctor from out of town.

"Tim!" her hands clenched again, "I—I've had a doctor."

"What!" sternly. "An' I told yer—"

"Yes, but you was out. He wasn't the kind to squeal. He was a youngish man—Miss Olney's brother. She told him about Pete."

"The mission gal?"

"Yes, yes, she could come in yer said. Oh! Tim, there's good in the world."

Mr. Fallon grunted. "Mighty little," said he. "Go ahead. What does he say?"

"'Just in time,' he said. 'I'll have the little chap out of danger in two days.' An' the things he done, Tim. Like a mother an' so quick. He run to the nearest drug store an' come back with two bottles an' he paid for the medicine. Such a kind, cheerin' man he was, too. Tellin' me not to worry, an' sittin' by our boy, calmin' him so nice. First I knew Petie dropped off an' he's slep' ever since. The doctor set there by him for nigh an hour with a little glass thing stuck under the baby's arm. By an' by, up he gets, all grins.

"'Good!' says he, 'the fever goin' down jest right,' an' he give me some directions. Then he wrote a perscription which I was to get in the mornin'.

"'I ain't sure I'll have the money for it,' I says.

"He was settin' on the old lounge fixin' his medicine case, for he give me some nerve pills to take, an' says he, 'I am,' sort of laughin', 'an' he handed me a five-dollar bill. If 'twa'n't fer that an' the bottles I'd think 'twas all a dream."

She wiped her eyes with her dirty apron. Fallon's sharp visage was set like a mask of iron.

"He'll git it back an' more," said he, grimly, but his voice quivered. "I'm only hopin' my grab's worth while. I owe that man somethin' an' he'll be paid. Perhaps, by to-morrer the fever would have went—up! Let's see now."

His prize was extracted from its hiding place where he had been patting it with the lingering enjoyment of anticipation. "Let's see, Mame," opening the wallet, "here's ten, twenty! (Lord! ain't we lucky!) Sixty-two bones fer the starvin' poor. Papers,—nothin' to us. Visitin' cards—aw—great God! Mame."

"It's his'n!" gasped the woman, staring at the bit of pasteboard Fallon thrust before her. "He—he left me one—Doctor Roswell Olney—an'—I—know—that—purse—I see it when he give me the money. Tim—tell me—Oh! you didn't hurt him bad?"

"Not a bit," said the man, dully, "but if he'd yelle' for help—well, I'm Ratty Fallon, yer know, an'—"

"Ssh! I do know," her words were anguished. "Maybe, after this?"

"I'll try," said Fallon, simply. "I kin do somethin'—tend bar, or be a bouncer."

Silently he replaced the money and papers.

"Where did he leave it?" he muttered.

"On the lounge, Tim," the ghost of a smile wreathed the pale lips.

"Put it there, an' pick it up for safe keepin'. 'Twill be the truth. What about to-morrer?"

"He's comin' between twelve an' two. Hospital work, he does, an' that's his best time. After a couple of days we won't need him, he says."

"Hum!" Fallon got to his feet and went to the door of the back room. There he listened to the quiet breathing of his child.

He came back and stroked his wife's unkempt hair.

Then, by the light of the dim kerosene lamp he surveyed his discolored orbs in the clouded mirror hanging on the shabby wall.

"For a couple of days between the hours of twelve and' two I shall be out," said he.

Reptile and Rat in Duel.

Allentown, Pa.—A blacksnake and a rat fought a duel to the death in Abraham Stoneback's granary. Stoneback, up in the haymow, looked on, fascinated.

The rat, eluding the snake's first lightning-like spring, leaped on the serpent's back and bit it as savagely as possible. Then the air seemed to be full of snakes and rats, so rapidly did the serpent writhe and hiss, and the rat leap and squeel. The snake, bleeding from a dozen wounds, at last caught the rat in its coils and squeezed the life out of it; then, with a few convulsive struggles, expired itself.

May Save Reed Home.

The house in which Speaker Thomas B. Reed was born, in Portland, Me., which is in danger of being torn down, may be saved. Elizabeth Wadsworth chapter, D. A. R., has decided to buy the house if money can be raised, have it taken down in sections and have it rebuilt on a new site.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

"She's a purty good-lookin' gal now," asserted Captain Mix, "but middlin' odd in her ways. Not much on gallivantin' round wi' young folks, but goin' to school stiddy 'n' roamin' round the woods when she ain't. Purty big gal to be goin' to school she is. I callate her arly eddication must 'a' been sorter neglected. Mebbe ye know 'bout it," and once more this persistent Yankee glanced at his companion.

But Ray was too loyal to the little girl he loved to discuss her further, and made no answer. Instead, he began inquiries about Christmas Cove, and as they jogged on mile after mile, he learned all that was to be known of that quiet village. When they had reached a point some three miles from it, a kindly thought came to the driver.

"If Vera ain't 'spectin' ye," he said, "mebbe ye'd like to s'prise her. If so be it, ye kin. She's 'most allus out this way 'n,' curislike, hides 'fore I get 'long whar she is. If I see her to-day, 'n' ye want to, I'll drop ye clus by 'n' let ye."

And so it came to pass.

Chip, as usual, had followed her oft-taken walk on this pleasant May afternoon. When the carryall was sighted also, as usual, she had hidden herself. With beating heart she saw two occupants this time, and looking out of her laurel screen, she saw that one was Ray.

Then she crouched lower. The moment she had waited for had come.

But now something unexpected happened, for after the carryall passed her hiding spot, Ray, brown and stalwart, leaped out. The carryall drove on, and she saw him returning and scanning the bushes.

She was caught, fairly and squarely. One instant she hesitated, then, blushing rose-red, emerged from the undergrowth.

And now came another capture, for with a "Chip, my darling," Ray sprang forward, and although she turned away, the next moment she was clasped in his arms.

In vain she struggled. In vain she writhed and twisted. In vain she pushed him away and then covered her blushing face.

Love, fierce and eager, could not be thus opposed. All her pride, anger, resentment, shame, and intended coldness were as so many straws, for despite her struggles, he pulled her hands aside and kissed her again and again.

"My darling," he exclaimed at last, "say you forgive me; say you love me; say it now!"

Then, as she drew away, he saw her eyes were brimming with tears.

"I won't," she said, "I hate—" but his lips cut the sentence in two, and it was never finished.

"I did mean to hate you," she declared once more, covering her face, "but I—I can't."

"No, you can't," he asserted eagerly, "for I won't let you. You promised to love me once, and now you've got to, for life."

And she did.

When the outburst of emotion had subsided and they strolled homeward, Chip glanced shyly up at her lover.

"Why did you pounce on me so?" she queried; "why didn't you ask me, first?"

"My dear," he answered, "a wise man kisses the girl first, and asks her afterwards." Then he repeated the offense.

And now what a charming summer of sweet illusion and castle-building followed for the lovers! How Aunt Abby smiled benignly upon them, quite content to accord ample chance for wooing! How many blissful, dreamy hours they passed on lonely wave-washed cliffs, while the marvel of love was discussed! How its wondrous magic opened a new world whose walks were flower-decked, whose sky was ever serene, where lilies bloomed, birds sang, sea winds whispered of time and eternity, and where Chip was an adored queen! How all the shame and humiliation of her past life faded away and joy supreme entered on the azure and golden wings of this new morning! Even Old Cy was almost forgotten; the spites, Old Temah, and Tim's Place quite so; and all hope, all joy, all protection, and all her future centered in the will and wishes of this Prince Perfect.

"Blind and foolish," I hear some fair critic say. Yes, more than that, almost idiotic; for selfish man never pursues unless forced to do so, and an object of worship once possessed, is but a summer flower.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Quite different from the meeting of the lovers was that which occurred when Old Cy reached Peaceful Valley. There were no heroics, no falling upon one another's necks, no tears. Just a "Hullo, Cyrus!" "Hullo, Judson!" as these two brothers clasped hands, and 40 years were bridged.

Aunt Mandy, however, showed more emotion, for when Old Cy rather awkwardly stooped to kiss her, the long ago of Sister Abby's sorrow welled up in her heart, and the tears came.

That evening's reunion, with its two life histories to be exchanged, did not close until the tall clock had ticked into the wee, small hours.

All of Old Cy's almost marvellous adventures had to be told by him, and not the least interesting were the last few years at the wilderness home of the hermit. Chip's entry into it and her history formed another chapter fully as thrilling, with Uncle Jud's rescue of her for a denouement.

"Say You Love Me."

The most pathetic feature of this intermingled history—the years while sweet Abby Grey waited and watched for her lover—was left untold. Only once was it referred to by Aunt Mandy, in an indirect way; but the quick lowering of Old Cy's eyes and the shadow that overspread his face, checked her at once. Almost intuitively she realized its unwisdom, and that it was a sorrow best not referred to.

Old Cy evidently felt it a subject to avoid, and not until the next day did he even ask how Aunt Abby looked or what had been her life experiences. A little of this reticence wore away in due time, however, and then Aunt Mandy once more referred to her sister.

"I kinder feel you blame Abby somehow, Cyrus, the way you act," she said, "and yet thar ain't no cause for it. She'd waited 'most seven years. We'd all given you up for dead, and life in Christmas Cove wa'n't promisin' much for Abby."

"I don't blame her a mite," Old Cy answered quickly, "an' no need o' yer thinkin' so. I don't blame no woman fer makin' the best shift they kin. They've got to hev a home 'n' pertecter, bless 'em, or be nobody in this world. Comin' here and findin' how things are, sorter makes me realize how much I've missed in life, though, an' how much sorrer I've had to outgrow. I don't lay up nothin' 'gainst Abby, not fer a minit. Only I hated to hev ye tell me what I knew ye'd hev to, that fust night."

"But you're goin' to see her, ain't ye, Cyrus?" Aunt Mandy asked anxiously. "Ye won't shame her by not goin', will ye?"

"Wal, mebbe," he answered slowly, and after a long pause. "I wouldn't want to hurt her knowin'ly. I callate I've done more grievin'n she has, though, ten times over, an' seein' her now's a good deal like openin' an old tomb—a sorter invitin' ghosts o' old heartaches to step out. Abby's outgrowed the old times, 'n' I'm sartin, too, won't be the happier by seein' me ag'in. I may be wrong, but I've a notion she'll sorter hate to see me. 'Twas to keep her from feelin' 'shamed 'n' miserable 'n' spoilin' her life, I've never let her nor nobody that knew her find out I was alive. I'm doubtin' I would now if she hadn't larned it from Chip."

He relented a little from this strange and almost cruel whim a week later, and after visiting the Riggsville store and obtaining what really amounted to a disguise in new garments, he announced his plans.

"I've got to see Chip," he said, "an' see how she 'n' Ray's gittin' on. I've got to see Abby, I s'pose. I want to, an' I don't want to, both in one. Then ag'in, these two young folks—Chip 'n' the boy—hev sorter got tangled up in my feelin's, 'n' I can't rest content till I've seen 'em settled in life. I'm goin' to Christmas Cove fer a day. Then back here till they hitch up, 'n' then—wal, then mebbe I'd better go to the woods ag'in. I ain't fitted by natur fer dressed-up folks."

Sale of Housefurnishings

AT EXACTLY HALF PRICE.

This is one of the most sensational sales of housekeeping needs it has ever been our pleasure to conduct—if selling things at half price can be called pleasurable.

We inventory our great basement stocks at the end of this week and it will be to our decided advantage to have as few goods on hand as possible. To this end we have cut the prices squarely in two on a wide range of things needed about the house almost every day—goods of the most dependable kinds, odds and ends, little bits of this and that, discontinued lines—anything and everything that will make the listing difficult. We pay you handsomely for aiding us in lessening our stocks. Just think of saving half the usual cost of these everyday needs.

Hotel, restaurant and boarding-house keepers will find this their biggest harvest time of the year.

FIRE CAPTAIN INJURED.

Horse He Was Hitching Hits Him in Chest With Its Knees.

Captain Robert Bauermann, of Truck Company, No. 1, of Elizabeth, is in the General Hospital suffering from nervous shock as the result of an accident Sunday night in answering an alarm of fire. He is not expected to be able to resume his duties for some time.

The captain was assisting in hitching up three horses, and the last buckle had just been fastened, when the off horse reared and struck him full in the chest with his hoofs or knees—probably the latter. The captain went down in a heap, unconscious. He was taken to the General Hospital, where his condition is considered serious, internal injuries being feared.

THE WATCH CAME BACK.

Luck of a Man Who Met a Pickpocket in Park Row.

"Having his watch stolen from him and offered for sale back to him in an hour was what happened to a friend of mine the other day when crowds gathered at the newspaper bulletin boards waiting for news of the Thaw jury," said a citizen to a New York Sun reporter. "It happened this way:

"An old friend of mine was standing among others waiting for news of the Thaw jury when suddenly he felt a twitch at his watch pocket and his watch was gone. Not being sure of his ground he kept his loss to himself and walked away from the crowd.

"After transacting a little business in the neighborhood he turned toward home. Remembering that he needed a drink he stepped into a saloon.

"He was in the midst of his story, telling the sympathetic bartender of his experience, with his back to the door, when a voice back of him broke into the conversation, ordered a drink and asked the drink mixer if he had any use for a watch, mentioning the fact that there was one to be had cheap.

"The barkeeper, having my friend in mind, asked to see the watch and turned it over to my friend, who immediately recognized it as his. Turning around he inquired how much he asked for the timepiece. The thief recognized his late victim and made a bolt for the door, taking good care to leave the watch behind.

"Now being of a peaceful disposition my friend let the matter go at that. Can you beat it?"

ALMOST TOO HONEST.

Methodist Preacher Sends Back Part of Damage Money He Did Not Use.

"Yes," said the railway claims agent, "we come across queer things sometimes. The queerest thing in my experience was the case of a Methodist minister. How honest those Methodists are—the most honest of all sects.

"This man was hurt in a rear-end collision, and we gave him $5,000 damages. At the end of a year we got a letter from him that ran something like this:

"'My salary is $2,000, and the accident caused me to lose it for a twelvemonth. My medical expenses were $750. My board at a mountain sanatorium for six months was $850. Other expenses due to this accident were, in round numbers, $1,000. Total, $4,600. You gave me $5,000. Now I am back in the pulpit again, as well and strong as ever, and I have $400 of your money on my hands. Not being entitled to that sum, I do what any other Methodist minister would do in my place—I return the money to you as per check enclosed.'

"How was that for honesty?" said the claims agent. "The Methodists are a wonderful lot. We sent the $400 back to this honest minister, and he gave it to charity in our name."

A New Opening.

A London paper says that nurses skilled in the diseases of cats and dogs can obtain regular employment at ten dollars a week for looking after sick prize pedigree pets. There is a training school for animals' nurses in Pimlico. A certificate is granted to apt pupils after six months' experience in the care of sick creatures of all sorts, cats and dogs particularly. Women make much better kennel nurses than men do and there is a growing demand, especially in big country houses, for the services of women able skillfully to carry out a veterinary surgeon's treatment. One successful dogs' nurse holds the full certificate of a well-known London hospital, but she prefers to devote her nursing talents to canines rather than to humans.

Many Biographies of Irving.

H. B. Irving and his brother Laurence Irving, are to publish a biography of the late Sir Henry Irving. No less than six books have been written about Sir Henry since his death, and there are at least two others to follow—one by Austin Brereton and another by Joseph Hatton. The final life by the sons will not be published for several years, and for satisfactory reasons. It promises to be an important book, for both sons have demonstrated that they have literary ability.

LOCAL HORSE RACERS PLAN THREE EVENTS

FAIR ACRES ASSN. MET LAST NIGHT—LABOR DAY RACES.

Local horse owners and other members of the Fair Acres Driving and Riding Association to the number of thirty met at the Hotel Iroquois last night and arranged for three horse racing events to be held at the Driving Park in the near future.

Saturday afternoon there will be matinee races at the Driving Park for ribbons. Much interest is being shown and there will be trotting races in five classes. Part of the entries are already in, but more are expected and invited before Saturday. The entries up to this noon follow:

Class A—"Alllie Thomas," "Fred Reed," "Hartwood Belle," "Roan Iew," "Albert B" and "Babe Prince."

Class B—"Maud C," "Belle," "Aloysia," "Ben Butler," and "Star Direct."

Class C—"Steve K," "Harmonia," "Abbey Kelley," and "Katherine Dillon."

Class D—"Fifer," "Alcyetta," and "Malba."

Class E—"Protection," "Prince B," and "Oscar Lake."

On Saturday afternoon August 10, there will be matinee races for silver cups, offered by the Fair Acres Association. Local horse owners are already showing interest in this event and it is believed that the entries will be numerous.

Labor Day afternoon there will be a meet at the Driving Park which bids fair to outrival the Fourth of July races in interest. The card will include two trotting races, a running race, and a special hurdle race. This last event will be of special interest. Certain members of the Watchung Hunt Club are in charge of it. It will be a two and a half mile course.

A report from the treasurer showed a balance of nearly $300 as a result of the Fourth of July meet. The Association decided to award purses to the amount of $600 for the events Labor Day.

CARRIED JOKE TOO FAR.

Youth Drives Seven Miles Away With Horse-dealer's Rig.

William Lanehart is held in the Middlesex county jail at New Brunswick in default of $400 for carrying a joke too far. He was out driving with Charles W. Winders, a horse dealer. Winders left the young man in charge of the rig while he transacted some business, and Lanehart drove off. Winders sent out an alarm by telephone.

The Vigilance Society of Franklin Park caught Lanehart at that place, in company with James Heary, whom he had picked up on the road. He was brought back to this city and arraigned before Justice Sedam. He explained that he had just taken the rig for a joke and intended to return it. As Franklin Park is seven miles from New Brunswick, Mr. Winders declared that he had carried the joke too far, and decided to press the charge. Heary was not held.

INSPECTED STREET LIGHTS

City Officials and P. S. C. Men Make 3 Hours' Tour in Autos.

IN A FINE CONDITION

Lamps Dirty But Illumination Up to the Requirements—Mayor Much Pleased.

City officials, including Mayor Charles J. Fisk and the light committee of the Common Council, together with representatives of the P. S. C. electric department, made a tour of inspections of the street lights, last night, in automobiles. The trip was planned three weeks ago. It was made for the purpose of ascertaining the exact condition of the lights. They were all found to be in good condition, only one being out and that in front of the residence of R. Henry Depew, president of the Plainfield Protective Association.

The party traveled in three divisions, occupying as many automobiles. In the first car were Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Councilman Henry D. Hibbard, of the light committee, and R. Henry Depew, and H. C. Richardson, superintendent of the P. S. C. Metuchen plant. In the second auto were Farley Osgood, of Newark, superintendent of outside line for the P. S. C., and Councilman Francis Montgomery, of the light committee, while City Engineer Andrew J. Gavett and James Arnold, chief clerk and superintendent of the Plainfield district of the P. S. C., were in the third machine.

It required three or four hours to complete the work. A zig-zag course was followed through every street in the West End of the city, after an inspection in Belvidere avenue, ending up on Dunellen avenue. Then the party went through Front street to Richmond, and the East End of the city was traversed in the same way. City Engineer Gavett made extensive notes of the general condition of lights and trees.

It was the general opinion that the lights were all in fairly good condition, although some of the lamps and shades were found to be very dirty. In some sections of the city the lights were completely hidden by a dense growth of trees, one street being noticed in particular. There were five lights on the thoroughfare, but is was impossible to see one of them until directly in front of the lamp. This condition will be changed by Mr. Gavett.

Mr. Osgood informed the city officials that he had issued a new order, to become effective at once, that all lamps and shades on street lights shall be cleaned every fifteen days. Some of the lamps were found to be not quite up to the required standard, but attention will be given to them at once and it is the purpose of the company to see that lamps are changed more frequently.

There is to be a similar inspection of all the wires, but this will have to be made in the day time and arrangements will be made within a short time to make another trip through the city for that purpose.

BADLY HURT BY FALL DOWN TUNNEL STEPS.

Miss Hansen Landed On Her Head and Was Severely Injured.

Miss Kennena Hansen, of East Second street, is detained at her home with severe injuries, the result of a fall in the tunnel at the North Avenue station, on Monday night. In descending the steps on the North Avenue side she slipped and fell the entire distance to the bottom, landing on her head.

Miss Hansen was in an semi-conscious condition when George Rockafellow found her. He informed some friends of the injured woman and they had her removed to her home. Dr. P. J. Zeglio was called. Miss Hansen suffers considerable pain about the head and body, but her condition is not considered serious.

Father vs. Daughter.

On the complaint of her father, Caesar Taylor, a warrant was sworn out by the borough recorder for the arrest of Adelia Taylor. Taylor is a colored gardener living in the borough. His daughter is too lively for his house, where she is alleged to have come at various times, breaking furniture and mistreating the man. The case will come up before Recorder Dolliver at the session of borough court tonight.

Too Many Rounds.

In a helpless condition from the use of too much liquor, Michael Monahan was found over in the Park by Officer Kiernan, of the borough force, late last night. He was taken to the lockup and at his hearing this morning before Recorder Dolliver sentence was suspended with a warning.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR THE STATE CONVENTION

SECRETARY ISSUES CALL FOR MEETING OF STATE COMMITTEE SATURDAY.

Secretary William K. Devereux, of the Democratic State Committee, has issued a call for a meeting of that bady in the Coleman House, Asbury Park, next Saturday morning. The meeting will be called at 11 and it is expected that one of the principal matters to be discussed will be arrangements for the conducting of the State convention sometime in September and to make preliminary arrangements for the coming gubernatorial campaign.

It is asserted that William B. Gourley, of Paterson, chairman of the committee, who is now in Europe will have his resignation in the hands of the committee at Saturday's meeting. Friends of Mr. Gourley assert that it is by no means certain that he will relinquish the post of chairman of the organization and will continue in that capacity until after the fall election, at least.

bach, Jr., of Trenton, who is a member, Jr., ofTrenton, who is a member-at-large of the committee, will attend Saturday's meeting. Inasmuch as the vacancy caused by the death of Colonel Michael Hurley has not been filled as yet, Mr. Katzenbach will also represent Mercer county.

PLAINFIELD SHRINERS AT SALAAM'S PICNIC

2,000 ATTEND ANNUAL OUTING AT OLYMPIC PARK.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Liefke, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Woolston, Dr. A. H. Dundon, Chris. Gloeckner, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Julius Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith were among the Plainfielders who attended the annual picnic of Salaam Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles Mystic Shrine, held at Olympic Park, Newark, yesterday afternoon and evening.

The Shriners and their friends to the number of more than 2,000 crossed the dusty desert to Olympic Park. The welcomed retreat from the burning sun was an oasis indeed, and there wells aplenty to supply the needs of all. The tents—theory, at least—were pitched in the oasis of Olympic for the second time, and great was the joy of the Arabs.

The great carousal, with every animal of the forests that border the great desert, subdued for the benefit of the Shriners, was kept busy. The roller coaster bumped merrily over imaginary sand hills on the outskirts of the desert to the delight of all. Dancing engaged the attention of many, not to speak of the excellent vaudeville.

After supper, "The Mikado," the Gilbert & Sullivan cocktail, served in two big portions by the Aborn Company, was the means of adding pleasure to the night's revelries. Its tuneful numbers, interspersed with innumerable puns at the expense of the Shriners, not to mention its funny complications, was such as to please even the gloomiest Arab.

KATZENBACH LIKE MARTINE WOULD ACCEPT NOMINATION.

Trenton's Mayor Replies to Monster Petition Urging His to Run.

The boom for former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., for the Democratic nomination for governor of New Jersey was formally launched last night when a committee of 12 of the party leaders of Mercer county waited upon Mr. Katzenbach at his home in Trenton and presented him with a petition, signed by 175 Mercer county Democrats, that he express his willingness to accept the nomination, and receiving from him shortly afterward a note expressing his willingness to accept a nomination as a duty owing to his party if it should be tendered to him.

The letter to Mr. Katzenbach was only in circulation Monday and Tuesday and was the culmination of a few informal conferences of leading Democrats, in which former Prosecutor Bayord Stockton took part.

COURT HOUSE CEREMONY

Masonic Order to Lay Cornerstone of Somerset Co.'s New Building at Somerville.

ON TUESDAY, SEPT. 24

Freeholders to Make Arrangements —Rushing Work on the Structure.

The building committee of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders has selected Tuesday afternoon, September 24, as the time for the cornerstone laying of the new court house, and it is intimated from a reliable source that the stone will be put in position with Masonic ceremonies, Solomon's Lodge, No. 46, F. and A. M., of Somerville, having been given charge of the arrangements. The cornerstone will be laid by Most Worshipful Austin H. McGregor, of Newark, Grand Master of the order in the State of New Jersey, and his associate Grand Lodge officers.

A special communication of Solomon's Lodge will be held at Somerville tonight, when a committee will be appointed to meet with a committee to be chosen from the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders to complete the necessary arrangements for the cornerstone laying. Speechmakers are to be selected and other details attended to. It is purposed to make the event one of the most impressive in Somerset county's history.

In the meantime the court house yard at Somerville presents a scene of unusual activity. The marble blocks for the new building fill every available space, almost, and they are all cut and ready to go in their places as soon as needed. The stately elm trees, which have long been the pride of the county seat town, still stand in lofty grandeur, but with a coating of wooden timbers around the trunks to protect them from injury.

The contractors are hustling with the work on the excavations and the foundations and will without doubt have everything in shape by the time of the cornerstone laying.

The recent heavy rains have retarded the work somewhat, because after a severe storm it is always necessary to set the laborers to work pumping the water from the excavations.

Almost every day from time to time a great crowd of spectators is on hand to watch the progress of the work.

The new court house is being built so that it can be connected with the new county jail by an underground passage.

NEGRO PREACHER WILL SUE FOR EQUAL RIGHTS

TO TEST RIGHTS OF HIS RACE TO EQUALITY OF TREATMENT.

The Rev. William H. Taylor, pastor of Shiloh Baptist church, of Elizabeth, will sue the proprietor of a drug store in that city for refusing to sell him a glass of soda water at the ordinary price, to determine, he says, "just what rights the negro has in New Jersey and whether 'Jim Crowing, is allowed in Elizabeth." He said today:

"A few days ago a prominent colored man, Dr. J. A. Griggs, visited our city. He is both cultured and wealthy and is the author of a book called the 'Hindered Hand,' a reply to Dr. Thomas Dixon's play, 'The Clansman.' Now this gentleman arrived in the afternoon and went to an ordinary restaurant to get a meal and was blankly refused.

"I dropped into a certain drug store one afternoon, and on calling for a soda, instead of being served was told that it would be 15 cents. And right beside me stood a white man paying 5 cents for the same thing. One thing which is hard to understand is that the very merchants who are only too glad to take our money for everything else and anxious to have our patronage, draw a line when it come to eating and drinking. I intend to make a test case of the matter and have it brought before the courts fairly and squarely to find out what rights a negro has. I may lose, but I'll die game."

Don't Forget Methodist Excursion.

The pleasures of this delightful weather will be greatly increased if you join the Methodists of Plainfield and Dunellen on their annual excursion to Asbury Park on Thursday. A day at this popular resort will do you lots of good and a swim in the ocean, together with the many other attractions, will help to make the trip one that you should not miss.

TETANUS KILLS A YOUTH

Eleven-Year-Old Son of H. C. Meyer Dead as Result of 4th of July Accident.

SUFFERED TERRIBLY

Wadding of Blank Cartridge Imbedded In His Flesh—His Body Awfully Twisted by the Disease.

After lingering in terrible agony for more than a week, Louie Meyer, the eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer, of Scotch Plains, died at 7:30 last night from tetanus, the result of a Fourth of July pistol wound. When first stricken with the disease, it was thought the boy had a good chance of recovery but he rapidly grew worse despite the use of anti-toxin and every known preventive. Death really came as a relief as the sufferings he endured were heartrending from the fact that he was conscious almost until the last. Spasms caused frightful incurvations of the body and though he craved food it could not be given him because of his locked jaws.

Like many other boys in the village, Louie secured a pistol to help celebrate the Fourth. Early in the day he accidentally shot himself in the hand with a blank cartridge, the wadding imbedding itself in the flesh. He was at once taken to Dr. F. W. Westcott fo have the injury dressed and the physician adopted the usual remedies.

Nothing more was thought of the wound until a week ago Monday, when it suddenly developed great pain and the boy became ill. On Tuesday Dr. Westcott called Dr. Hedges in consultation and an operation was performed on the hand. Slight relief was afforded but the progress of the disease was only temporarily delayed. The boy continued to grow worse and yesterday the final complications ensued that brought the end. The whole town was interested in the case and it was also followed closely by the many friends of the family in this city.

Louie is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Alexander Muir, of Newark; Miss Louise Meyer and Miss Esther Meyer, at home, and five brothers, Meyer, at home, and six brothers, Charles Meyer, of North Plainfield; Ferdinand, Henry, William, Edward and Albert Meyer. The funeral will be held at the parents' home Friday afternoon at 2:30.

LOCAL ITALIANS CELEBRATE FEAST OF MOUNT CARMEL.

Band Concerts, Parades and Fireworks to Mark Religious Festival.

With the beginning of the celebration of the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel today at noon, the local Italian population commenced a two-days' holiday and donned their bright colored finery for a happy round of festivity, including feasting, parading and two band concerts, with fireworks.

The celebration proper, according to the Italian church should have been July 16. The celebration begun today will last through tomorrow, concluding with a band concert and fireworks display at Concert Park. Maisto Bersaglieri's Italian band of twenty-five pieces arrived from New York city at noon today and paraded through town playing until late in the afternoon—utterly ruining the trade of the three hand organs, who ceased their popular airs and sought the suburbs. Local Italians, with visitors from Newark, Elizabeth and New York paraded with the band.

The fireworks tonight will begin at 8 o'clock and tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock there will be a parade to St. Mary's church where a special mass will be celebrated. The committee in charge consists of Salvini Valardi, James Brown, Mike Costientini, Dominique Perido, Salvini y Soldo. The street decorations were by Luco Suppo, of Newark.

Held for the Grand Jury.

Charged with the theft of some tools from George Zepp's blacksmith shop on West Second street, Frank Mohring was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court today. He pleaded guilty and was held in $100 bail for the Grand Jury. Mohring was afflicted with a sudden raging thirst and took the tools in order to get money with which to stop it.

Exceeded the Auto Speed Limit.

S. F. Weaver, of Central avenue, was arraigned in the city court this morning on a charge preferred by Patrolman Dobson that he had exceeded the speed limit with his auto on South avenue yesterday. The defendant acknowledged that he had been going about twenty miles an hour but did so before he fully realized it. Sentence was suspended.

CAN'T FIND CONTRACTOR

HAS BEEN GONE A WEEK

Meanwhile, Mr. Curtis and Miss Hand Have Gotten Another Contractor to Finish Their Dwelling Houses.

The continued absence of Frank Hale, a well-known local contracting carpenter, has caused uneasiness among his friends and complications in his business affairs. He has been away from the city a week and the work of erecting three of five houses, which he had well underway, has been turned over by the owner to another builder.

Three of the structures which Hale had in hand are in Carlton avenue and are being built for J. E. Curtis. The others are for Miss Sadie Hand and are on Martine avenue. A week ago today, Hale drew $500 on account of Miss Hand's houses, presumably to pay for materials and to meet other obligations. It is declared that in stead of doing so he left for Philadelphia last Thursday morning. He was seen by Plainfielders watching the Elks parade and after that his whereabouts were not known until Sunday, when it is said he appeared at New Brunswick. According to a statement made by an acquaintance today, he declared then that he was going to New Orleans but gave no reason for it or why he had left his affairs in Plainfield in such a state. Nothing has been heard from him since.

Hale's going away leaves a number of creditors looking for money amounting in all over $800. About $600 of this is owing McDonough Brothers for lumber, about $50 to J. G. Spicer for window sashes and the remainder to carpenters employed on the job. It is said they have no redress as Mr. Curtis and Miss Hand secured releases from all of them before Hale commenced the work. Curtis has since turned his house over to James C. Manning and he will finish them. It is probable that Miss Hand will do the same thing as soon as it becomes positive that the contractor will not return.

Hale has been a resident in this city for the past fifteen or twenty years and recently has erected many fine houses. His friends are unable to account for his action as to all appearances his contracts are well paying and the ones he was engaged on were seemingly going along all right. He made his home on Grove street.

PLAINFIELD'S BAD BOY SENT TO REFORMATORY

MAN CONVICTED OF FORGERY GETS ONE YEAR SENTENCE.

Arthur VanNest, known as "Plainfield's worst boy," was arraigned before Judge Atwater in the Union County Court, this morning, for sentence on a charge of larceny. The Judge sent him to the Reformatory at Rahway, for an indefinite time.

VanNest was on parole, when in company with two companions he was arrested, charged with stealing several dollars' worth of trifles from a local store. The other boys are now awaiting the action of the Grand Jury.

Charles B. Fay, convicted of a charge of passing a forged check on Harry Werner, the West Front street clothier, was sentenced to one year in Stte Prison.

Agnes Bushman, of Westfield, who has already spent eight months in the county jail awiting a disposition of the charge of larceny against her, retracted her plea of not guilty to one of non vult and she was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail. She was convicted of stealing goods from a residence at Westfield.

The trial of George E. Hollins, white, charged with killing James Brown, colored, in Elizabeth, last winter, was postponed until September 12.

Habella Stole a Saw.

Vincent Habella, an East End resident, was arraigned in the city court this morning on complaint of Charles Kofed, of McCrea place, that he had stolen a saw from him. The saw got into court somehow and it was returned to Kofed, who afterward declared he didn't want to press the charge. Habella was held in his own recognizance, however, to await the Grand Jury's action.

CORONER'S JURY HOLDS FOR DEATH OF MAN

$400 BACK PENSION TO BE PAID CHARLES BREWIN

MONEY ACCUMULATED WHILE HE WAS LOST TO HIMSELF.

Charles Brewin, the Burlington-Plainfield man who was lost to himself for four years and lived during that time as Frank Johnson, will shortly receive nearly $400 that has been accumulating while his past life was a blank.

Brewin served in the Civil war and two years ago was granted a pension of $8 a month. When his memory suddenly became blank in 1903 he forgot about the money and as a result it has not been paid from that time. With the return of his real personality a few weeks ago, he recalled the fact that he was entitled to a pension and consulted an attorney. The matter was looked up and it was found that the money was being held by the pension authorities.

An affidavit was submitted by Brewin yesterday and the money will be paid to him as soon as the legal formalities can be complied with.

COLLIDED UNDER THE PARK AVENUE BRIDGE

PROMPT ACTION OF CAPT. HUMPHREY SAVES WOMAN DRIVER.

Prompt action on the part of Captain Jeremiah T. Humphrey, of the Twenty-second U. S. Infantry, in springing to the head of the horse driven by Mrs. Adam Sachs, of Mount Bethel, which was run into by another rig under the Park avenue railroad bridge and quieting the struggling animal saved Mrs. Sachs, who was thrown out, from being run over and injured. The accident happened at about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Sachs, who was with her sister, Miss Kate Pabst, was driving under the bridge when a rig driven by Thomas Cogan, of West Seveneth street, approached at a rapid pace from the opposite direction. The rigs collided in the narrow roadway left by the bridge contractors. The occupants of both rigs were heavily thrown but escaped with slight bruises and cuts. The shafts of Mrs. Saches' rig were shattered.

Captain Humphrey, who is a son-in-law of O. T. Waring, of the Standard Oil Co., was within sight of the accident, driving with his wife. Mrs. Sachs was thrown directly under the wheels of her carriage and but for his quick action in calming her frightened horse, would have been run over. In the carriage with Cogan was Joseph O'Keefe, his colored coachman. Both men sustained slight injuries as a result of the collision.

Witnesses of the accident say that the women were driving at a walk and were on the right side of the roadway, while Cogan's horse was trotting. Patrolman Kelly rendered assistance to the women, who were able to proceed after the shafts had been repaired.

New Bridges Opened This Morning.

The 8.21 westbound passenger train was the first one to pass over the new Watchung and Park avenue bridges this morning, over the new tracks which have been raised eight inches, and it is expected that regular traffic for westbound trains will be resumed there from now on. Work has also been started tearing down the other half of the old structures in preparation for erecting the new iron bridges. The new bridges are absolutely water-proof, practically noiseless and are a great improvement over the old style bridge. The work of building one-half of these two bridges was performed in a remarkably short time.

Special Meeting Common Council

P.S.C. RESPONSIBLE WHO CLUTCHED LIVE WIRE

Public Utility Co. Strongly Censured for Maintaining Imperftctly Insulated Wires—Call on the Authorites to Act.

MENACE TO COMMUNITY

Twenty Witnesses Examined Before Jury Reports its Findings—Want Inspection of All Wires Made.

Following two hours' deliberation, the coroner's jury called to inquire into the facts concerning the death of Clarence H. Weekes, of Berkeley avenue, which occurred on the morning of July 12 last, returned a verdict at noon today holding the Public Service Corporation. In addition, its report censures the company for stringing wires carelessly overhead and called attention to the superficial and faulty method of wire inspection.

After returning its verdict, the jury also presented a recommendation, addressed to the Mayor and Common Council suggesting that in view of the great danger and constant menace to which citizens are subjected through the imperfect condition of electric wires that there be established a systematic inspection of all wires in the city through the employment of a competent electrical engineer.

This is the verdict returned by the jury:

"That Clarence H. Weekes came to his death from and through an electric light wire, strung and maintained by the Public Service Corporation, of New Jersey, and maintained in the service of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, which wire had fallen upon the highway where pedestrians had a lawful right to pass.

"We further find that the insulation of said wire was imperfect and insufficient and hence censure and condemn the Public Service Corporation, of New Jersey, for this condition, and further censure such company for stringing wires carelessly overhead carrying such high voltage.

"All evidence presented by the Public Service Corporation, of New Jersey, evinced the fact that the inspection of wires was most superficial and faulty, the inspector being required to cover half the city, thirty-five miles of streets, each night.

"Therefore, we hold that the said Clarence H. Weekes met his death through the negligence of the Public Service Corporation, of New Jersey.

"JAMES E. MARTINE,
WILLIAM R. TOWNSEND,
HENRY LIEFKE,
JOHN J. KENNEY,
H. W. MARSHALL,
CHARES H. FROST."

After the reading of the verdict, the jury made the following recommendation:

"To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J.:

"The Coroner's Jury impaneled to enquire into the cause of death of Clarence H. Weekes do present to your body the following:

"Being impressed with the danger and menace to which our citizens are continually subjected through the imperfect condition of electric wires that there be established a systematic inspection of all wires within our city limits, through the employment of a competent electrical engineer.

"Yours most respectfully,
"JAMES E. MARTINE,
WILLIAM TOWNSEND,
HENRY LIEFKE,
JOHN J. KENNEY,
HARRY W. MARSHALL,
CHARLES H. FROST."

The coroner's inquest was resumed yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the examination of several witnesses was taken up, at the conclusion of which the jury adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning to consider the evidence and return a verdict.

Yesterday afternoon's session was resumed at 2.30 o'clock, when Dr. Albert Pittis, of East Front street, was the first witness called. He was summoned to Berkeley avenue, the morning of the accident and told

One of our clients owed $45 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist ... 1868

From the issue of April 1, 1869:

"At a meeting of the delegates from the different fire companies of Plainfield, held at Gazelle Hall, Thursday evening, March 25, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the fire board for the coming year, it was unanimously agreed to renominate the present board, and as the bill passed the Legislature this winter relative to the Plainfield Fire Department provides that there shall be six instead of five elected hereafter to constitute the department, Mr. Theo. M. French was unanimously nominated the sixth nominee. The nominations are therefore: E. R. Pope, John W. Murray, G. H. Platt, J. B. Coward, Alexander Titsworth and P. F. French. No better nominations could have been made. The present board have had much to contend with during their term of office, and we think that they should have a chance to finish some of the good work they have laid out. Mr. French is just the man for the additional member."

"A velocipede school has been opened in Hetfield's building, corner Mechanic street and Railroad avenue, and the lovers of velocipede riding are much rejoiced thereat. The attendance is good."

"The Velocipede Exhibition given at Roselle's Carriage House Thursday evening last was well attended. Several excellent riders were in attendance, and did credit to themselves. Much amusement was created by the attempts of amateurs to ride the 'fiery steeds.' Friend Thorn, of the Mansion House, has become quite an expert in the art of riding the velocipede, and gave the spectators an exhibition of his skill."

"We notice that friend Mundy's fine brick building on Main street is rapidly mounting toward the skies. When finished it will be an ornament to that part of the town. Mr. James Smith is the contractor for the mason work, which accounts for the rapid growth of saidbuilding. Mr. Smith is one of the best of workmen and knows how to figure on a job."

"Another smashup of coal cars occurred near William street, last week. That is a bad locality for coal trains."

"We notice with pleasure that the lamp, corner of Railroad avenue and Cherry street, again sheds its light on the weary traveller who is unfortunate enough to have to travel that heretofore dark region through out macadamized roads. The aforesaid lamp is certainly a blessing to that locality. We believe the C. R. R. bear the expenses of the light."

"Roll of honors of Plainfield Public School for March:

"Academic department—Lydia Arnold, Emma Bainbridge, Mary Bainbridge, Eugene M. Berard, Samuel S. Burr, Mary Cole, William M. Dunning, Andrew J. Gavett, Hugh Gilligan, Charles Briffin, Eva Hart, M. Beaetta Hobbs, Millie Humpston, John Kelly, Lydia Stiger, William H. Stillman, Alfred A. Titsworth.

From the issue of April 15, 1869:

Whole number of votes polled ..493
Number of votes rejected 3
Regular Union ticket received ..372
Temperance ticket received 118
Regular Union majority 254

Officers Elected.

"Judge of election, William C. Ayres; town clerk, Nelson Runyon; assessor, Joseph A. Hubbard; collector, Henry A. J. Martin; chosen freeholder, J. Frank Hubbard; surveyors of the highways, William M. Jennings, Andrew Vanderbeek; commissioners of appeals, Joseph B. Coward, John Harris, William McD. Coriell; justices of the peace, Peter Moore (long term); John A. Staats (to fill vacancy); township committee, Wallace Vail, Theodore J. Gillies, Randolph Runyon, Job Male, Corra O. Meeker; overseers of the poor, Joseph A. Hubbard, Henry A. H. Martin; constables, Henry J. Hankinson, Amos Moffett, David T. Williams.

Money to Be Raised.

"$2 per scholar for township schools, $2,500 for making and repairing roads, $1,500 for making and repairing sidewalks; money sufficient for support of poor. Each constable to receive $5 for each arrest and commitment. Justices to receive $1 for every commitment case where bail is taken or commitment made."

"A daring robbery was committed in our town on Monday last, during the day or evening. The residence of Mrs. Cutter, on Front street, opposite Water street, was entered by some one, and robbed of government bonds to the amount of $1,200, and money and valuables to the amount of $200 or $300. The burglars effected an entrance by breaking a glass and then raising a window. The bonds were in a trunk under the bed where Mrs. Cutter slept. The family being away, and as they did not discover the loss until the next morning, it is impossible to tell whether the robbery was committed in the day or night time. There were other bonds and money in the house, which was not disturbed."

Special July Sale

We are now in the second week of our July Sale of Slightly Used and Second Hand Upright Pianos, Square Pianos and Organs. Already during the past week a host of people have taken this unusual opportunity to secure a fine Piano at a very low price. There are still left several very fine instruments of well known and standard makes to select from and we have added to the list a number of instruments which we have taken in during the past week; also a number of slightly shop worn instruments. We will dispose of every one between now and August 1st at remarkably low prices and terms. If you have been delaying or waiting for an opportunity to add a Piano to the beauty and happiness of your home you should come to us at once and decide the matter now. You can make a first payment of from $5 to $10, according to the price of the instrument selected, the balance in small monthly payments. In the purchase price is included a stool, scarf or cover, free delivery to your parlor and one year's tuning.

The Stock Clearance Sale

Thousands of men and women filled this house to its capacity all last week—they came expecting to buy their needs at a saving—they purchased and were satisfied. No matter what their needs, if it was here it was at a saving. Every item of this big stock was marked over to make it a real stock clearance and the public was not disappointed. It is imperative that you know us from the outset – that you know our methods—for we are here to be with you as citizens and merchants. We are going to be frank with you at all times. If you see it advertised here you will know it is just as we claim for it. We are going to work to keep the trade of Plainfield, and its natural tributary shopping, in Plainfield—there will be values of the right sort to keep you here.

Last week, while you were eagerly purchasing of the many bargains here, our buyers were as busy scouting the market for good merchandise under value. As a result, we have many good things to offer you this week, in addition to the Boehm stock, at less than the actual wholesale value today.

"A runaway occurred at the depot on Thursday morning last, which came near proving serious to two ladies. A splendid team of horses belonging to Mr. Tallman, were standing near the depot, and by some means becoming frightened, started to run. Mr. T., who was holding the horses' heads, clung to them manfully, and was carried along with them into Mr. John Layton's coal yard, into which they turned. Tearing across the yard at a fearful rate, the carriage struck the coal wagon of Mr. Layton, 'bending' the wheel of that vehicle somewhat, and frightening the horse attached to it, so that he broke loose and started for Cherry street, where he was captured. This collision overturned the carriage of Mr. T., throwing the two ladies, who were its occupants, into a pile of coal, but fortunately without serious injury. The carriage was a complete wreck. The horses were stopped from going any farther by a fence. Altogether it was a narrow escape for the ladies and Mr. T."

"Last week an error in the advertisement of Mrs. S. C. Conklin, made it read that she was selling hoop skirts for 20 cents, when it should have read 50 cents. Our extreme ignorance in such articles must be our excuse for the blunder. We are assured however that Mrs. C. has a superior article for 50 cents."

"William H. Voorhees, our popular druggst, has 'Seeley's Native Wine and Brandy' for sale. It is a splendid beverage, and cheap."

"A fearful and fatal explosion of nitro-glycerine occurred in Hudson City last week. The dangerous compound should be prohibited."

BISHOP AGAINST REVIVALS.

Former Pastor of a Local Church Against Sensationalism.

In his morning Chautauqua address at Coffeeville, Kansas, on Sunday, Bishop John Vincent of the Methodist Episcopal church, and formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, of this city, now used in most of the churches of his denomination. He believes that revivals produce only temporary good, and that on account of the sensational methods used in so many of them the bad effects more than offset the good.

The Bishop expressed himself as standing "for genuine evangelistic effort under discreet direction, but against all sensational and spasmodic efforts to create an ill balanced emotionalism and mere temporary devices for exciting enthusiasm."

The Bishop also pleaded with the ministers "to stop sensational methods" in revival meetings and deprecated the practice of having what are generally known as "testimony meetings" in revival services.

FIX RATE BY SEPT. 17.

New Law Requires Them to Turn in Earlier This Year.

Two weeks from yesterday all city, township and borough assessors will be required to turn in their books so that the County Board of Assessors may begin their reckoning. The tax rate this year must be fixed by September 17 instead of October 1, as in previous years, and the County Board will have its hands full in the few weeks following August 6.

—A north bound trolley car was derailed on the switch on Somerset street near Summit avenue, at about 7 o'clock yesterday morning. There were several passengers in the car, but no one was injured. Both trucks entirely left the rails and there was a delay of an hour before the car could proceed.

DIAMOND DUST.

Two weeks without a local ball game makes the fans hungry for a contest and they are especially anxious to see the game on Saturday between Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains. The association nine will do its best to make it a victory, while the Plains team will endeavor to retain its present position in second place.

Clinton Avenue will have an off day Saturday so far as the amateur league is concerned. The team is scheduled to play at Perth Amboy.

The New York Giants started yesterday on another western trip and upon the result of it will largely depend the possibility of McGraw's men to hold their present position or better it.

Doyle, the new second baseman from Springfield, Ill., played with the Giants on Monday and he made one of the two errors charged to the team which cost them the game with Chicago.

Young "Cy" Young, of the Boston Nationals, is on the block. President Dovey, of the club, wants to trade him for two good fielders, and the club that has what Dovey wants is likely to get one of the best twirlers in the league.

Scarcely a day passes but that Oldring is not favorably commented upon by the press throughout the country. His record in Philadelphia this season is a brilliant one, both in fielding and stick work.

The Highlanders defeated St. Louis on Monday by a score of 6 to 4, but it took nearly every player on the pay-roll to accomplish the feat. When will this aggregation cease to be a joke?

Manager William Murray, of the Philadelphia Nationals, is making a favorable impression this season and in the Quaker City he has the respect and confidence of the fans, while the team is playing exceptionally fast ball.

GOLF.

Golfers are speculating these days as to the probable attitude of the St. Andrews rules committee when the latter receives the communication recently drafted by the executive committee of the United States Golf Association. Many declare that the plea for American recognition will receive little consideration. Practically every one interested in "the ancient game" on this side of the Atlantic is firm in the belief that the time is ripe for a thorough overhauling of the old code of rules. In fact, the wonderful strides made in the game in this country in the last ten years have to a certain extent been duplicated in Great Britain, where the number of inland courses have multiplied. Years ago certain rules applied well enough for the few seaside links, but conditions are different now.

The fact that the St. Andrews committee has for so many years been permitted to govern the game is not surprising. Until a comparatively recent date the associations and clubs in various countries, because of their own newness, were only too willing to leave the rule making to old St. Andrews, which by virtue of its age and greater experience was unquestionably better qualified for the duties.

While every one in this country admits that the time is at hand for American representation, all are equally certain that a harmonious understanding between the two countries is essential. Without that there would be two sets of rules, and in time that would mean two games of golf. This, of course, would, in the minds of those who wish the sport well, result in a deplorable state of affairs, but it is a safe prediction that unless the request from this country gets favorable recognition the United States Golf Association will be almost certain to take the matter in its own hands.

The action of the executive committee of the United States Golf Association in at first refusing to accept two entries for the recent national amateur championship tournament at Cleveland came as an unexpected shock to the offending players. It was only after their friends had interceded, with promises of good behavior, that the committee reconsidered its action and decided to accept the entries. It is a matter of record that everything went off smoothly during the tournament, and little fault can be found with the behavior of the players at the clubhouse during the evenings. An official of the Metropolitan Golf Association is also responsible for the statement that a repetition of the scenes enacted at the Nassau Country Club during the championship games last May will not be tolerated. The Metropolitan Golf Association officials contend that hilarious behavior on the part of a few is not only unfair to the club which offers its course for the tournament, but that it is also a handicap to the majority of the men, who attend these affairs with a view to playing their best game.

Although Senator Colby is in Europe, the Sommer Gubernatorial boom goes marching right on. It isn't one of the kind that needs a leader to push it along.—Newark News.

Marching is putting it mildly—it's actually running.

The verdict rendered at noon today by the coroner's jury selected to investigate the cause of the death of Clarence E. Weekes, who was killed by touching a heavily charged electric light wire dangling in the roadway, should quicken the Common Council to action. That the P. S. C. was blameable for the fatal mishap was the general opinion before Coroner Lufburrow's jury made its report, but now that an official body has declared that not only is that company desponsible for his death but that it is grossly negligent in maintaining a similar condition of affairs throughout the city, it is high time that drastic steps be taken by the authorities to remove the menace for all time. The Daily Press has frequently called attention to the situation and has never given up the hope that sooner or later the public utility concerns will be compelled to place their wires underground.

George J. Stewart On Double Anniversary Given a Punch Bowl.

George J. Stewart, a member of the Union County Board of Registry and Elections, and one of the Union County Republican executive committee, Monday night, at his residence, 122 Jefferson avenue, Elizabeth, celebrated the dual event of his birthday and wedding anniversaries and entertained as his guests a number of Union County politicians of both parties.

Among those present were County Registrar Frank H. Smith, chairman county Republican committee, and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city; Freeholders Benjamin King, Clerk S. Rusling Ryno and Geo. B. Cladek, of Rahway; County Clerk James C. Calvert, Assistant Postmaster James White, Fire Commissioner Robert J. Kirkland, Freeholder Thomas J. Pierson, former Freeholder Jacob Brucklacher, former Fire Chief Oliver Conlon, George J. S. Murphy, secretary of Elizabeth's Fire Board; Captain Timothy F. McCarty, Daniel P. Rogers and John F. Dugan, of Elizabeth. The election board, headed by its president, Robert H. McAdams, was also much in evidence.

After the tables were cleared came the presentation of a cut glass punch bowl to Mr. Stewart.

JAMES B. DUKE WEDS MRS. WILLIAM INMAN

CEREMONY PERFORMED IN BROOKLYN IN PRESENCE OF ONLY FEW GUESTS.

James B. Duke, president of the American Tobacco Company, whose home is in Raritan, yesterday afternoon married Mrs. Nannaline Holt Inman, widow of William Inman, of Atlanta, in the residence of Mrs. William Schuyler Stackpole, No. 210 St. John's place, Brooklyn. The Rev. Dr. David J. Burrell, of the Marble Collegiate church, Manhattan, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed only by members of the families of the bride and bridegroom and a limited number of intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Duke departed immediately afterward in an automobile for the former's country place, near Somerville, where Mrs. Duke for several weeks prior to her wedding had been a guest with her mother, Mrs. William Holt, and her son, Walter Inman, twelve years old. Mrs. Holt and the boy attended the wedding.

Mr. Duke's previous marital experience was unfortunate. When he began an action for divorce two years ago against Mrs. Lillian B. Duke, his first wife, he alleged that she had been guilty of misconduct prior to their wedding and subsequently with Major Frank T. Huntoon, of New York. Letters and cablegrams to Major Huntoon from Mrs. Duke, bearing dates when she and Mr. Duke were in Europe on a wedding journey, were produced as evidence against her.

In granting a divorce to Mr. Duke the Vice Chancellor of the New Jersey court referred in very harsh terms to Mrs. Duke and in harsher terms to Major Huntoon, who had sought to be made a joint defendant in the action. Huntoon was directed by the Court to pay $3,000 counsel fees and one-half of the cost of the suit.

Mr. Duke's efforts to divorce Mrs. Duke were not unresisted, and she made grave accusations against her husband. Among other charges she declared her husband was under the influence of Mary Smith, his housekeeper, and of her sister, Mrs. Margaret Smith, his secretary. Mrs. Duke fought the case bitterly even after her first defeat, and at least delayed confirmation of the decree, which did not come from the Court of Appeals until June 17 last.

The present Mrs. Duke is a member of an old Southern family and was noted for her beauty even when as a young girl she won the affections of William Inman, a wealthy cotton operator. He died five years ago. After his death Mrs. Inman was prominent in Atlanta society. Mr. Duke recently purchased one of the finest residences in Fifth avenue, though he already owned a house there.

FIRE STARTS A PANIC IN DEPARTMENT STORE

CLERKS AND CUSTOMERS FLEE WHEN THE BLAZE BEGINS.

Fire which started in the annex of the Levy department store on Second street, the largest mercantile establishment in Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, and threatened for a time to destroy the entire structure, caused a panic among the several hundred employes and customers in the store at the time. In the rush for exit which followed when smoke began pouring into the various departments, about a score of women and girls were hurt, none seriously, however. Stock to the value of $10,000 was damaged by fire and water.

The department store takes up the entire block from Wall to Bond street, the various departments being connected. The buildings are three-story brick structures and many tenants live in the upper floors. Among these ensued a panic, but the buildings were vacated in a jiffy and the half dozen women who followed custom by fainting, were revived without much difficulty.

The blaze started in the stateroom and soon communicated to the main building, where the flames were making rapid progress when the firemen arrived. Four engine companies and two trucks responded and a second alarm had to be sent in for help before the flames were gotten under control. A girl in the women's department first saw the flames and spread the news among the employes, causing a hurried exit. It was not long before huge volumes of smoke came rolling from the storeroom into the regular departments of the store.

R. R. COMMISSION DIVIDES STATE INTO 3 DISTRICTS

SOMERSET IN THE FIRST AND UNION IN THE SECOND DISTRICT.

At the meeting of the Railroad Commission at the State House at Trenton yesterday, a resolution offered by Commissioner Whiting to divide the State into three districts was adopted. The purpose of the resolution Mr. Whiting explained was to make it more convenient for the people to take matters up direct with the commissioner in their district and thus save time and expense in traveling to Trenton. The districts are made up as follows:

First District—Bergen, Passaic, Sussex, Morris, Warren, Hunterdon, Somerset and Mercer.

Second—Hudson, Essex, Union and Middlesex.

Third—Monmouth, Ocean, Burlington, Camden, Gloucester, Atlantic, Salem, Cumberland and Cape May.

The first district is to be in charge of Commissioner Congdon, the second, Commissioner Whiting and the third, Commissioner Wilson.

For the reason that the railroads have openly violated the order of the commission in reporting accidents that occurred during the past week, the acting secretary was directed to at once ascertain the reasons:

"This matter of reporting accidents must be complied with," said one of the commissioners. "If the railroads do not intend to carry out the law and the orders of the commission we will be compelled to take means to compelll lthem."

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company have not as yet made any reply to the commission in connection with the Bloomfield accident. This matter, too, will be dealt with at the next meeting.

The acting secretary was also directed to apply to the secretary of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners for the admission to membership of the New Jersey Board.

The board adopted a form of circular letter to be sent to every municipality throughout the State with a view of obtaining data in connection with grade crossings. The information is to be used by the board in helping it to formulate a plan of ascertaining just what is the best plan to follow in the abolition of grade crossings.

The board has decided to be governed by the same rules and practices as govern the Interstate Commerce Commission in so far as the law of this State will permit.

All of the commissioners were present except Mr. Wilson. James Mayberry, who was recently appointed assistant inspector, will act as secretary until the commission elects a permanent secretary.

ELKS WILL GO TO COURT.

Enjoin Negroes From Using Their Order's Name.

Trenton Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will go to the courts to oppose the continuance of Sunlight Lodge, No. 114, Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, chartered te Trenton, yesterday, by a number of negroes of the city.

An application will be made for an injunction to restrain the new organization from the use of a title so nearly akin to that of the organization of white Elks. Some legal authorities declare that such restraint can be secured, while others are of the opinion that the use of the word "improved" removes the new order from prosecution on the charge of infringement.

BIDS FOR COUNTY WORK

Several Contracts Awarded By the Somerset Board of Freeholders.

W. T. KIRK GETS ONE

They Build New Bridge In Warren Township—To Examine Rocky Hill Road.

A special meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders was held in the court house in Somerville yesterday afternoon, when some important business was transacted. Director Henry W. Baird, of North Branch, was absent when the members got together, as was also Richard W. Hoagland, of Neshanic Station. Joel Codington, of Warren township, was chosen to fill the chair.

Bids were received for the construction of a new bridge on the road leading from Finderne to the mountain, the structure known as the Dumont bridge. These bids were opened: W. T. Kirk Co., of Plainfield, $578, for the superstructure; John W. Scott, of Flemington, $785; Dover Boiler Works, of Dover, $765. On the substructure, John W. Scott, of Flemington, $5.85 per cubic yard; Andrew R. Holcombe, of Neshanic, $6.37; John C. Cooper, of Warrenville, $7.75. The bids were referred to County Engineer Doughty and Member Joseph Fitzga, who lives in the township where the bridge is to be built, for examination.

After they had reported the contract for the superstructure was awarded to the W. T. Kirk Co., of Plainfield. The contract for the substructure was awarded to Andrew R. Holcombe, of Neshanic.

Bids for removing the wall at the bridge at Burnt Mills were received. The county has contracted to remove the wall at that point with the understanding that the Bedminster Township Committee will erect a new retaining wall there to keep the road from washing in times of high water.

Bids for removing the wall were opened as follows: John C. Cooper, of Warrenville, $4.85 per cubic yard; Thomas Moore, of Far Hills, $2.75; Floyd Hoffman, of Pottersville, $3.41; Andrew R. Holcombe, of Neshanic, $3.78; Philhower & Kinkle, of Peapack, $4.52. The contract was awarded to Thomas Moore.

The Board has decided to meet at the Sachs' bridge in Warren township on Wednesday, July 31, at 11 a. m., to see whether the structure can be repaired, or whether it will be necessary to erect a new bridge there.

Th Board will meet at Harlingen on Monday morning, to go over the road at Rocky Hill for examination of its condition.

FARMER A SUICIDE.

Elmer E. Dickerson, of Pleasant Hill, Near Chester, Hangs Himself in His Barn.

Chester, July 24.—Elmer E. Dickerson, a farmer, of Pleasant Hill, near this village, committed suicide Monday by hanging. Mr. Dickerson, after breakfast, told his wife that he would go down to the barn and get his grain cradle and start his harvest.

As he did not return shortly Mrs. Dickerson went to look for him. She found him hanging in the cow stable. She ran to a nearby neighbor, procured help and cut down the body. The body was still warm.

The physician, after working for a brief time, pronounced the man dead. Mr. Dickerson was about sixty years old. Early this spring he had a severe attack of the grip and this, it is believed, weakened his mind. Besides a widow he leaves several children.

West Point Excursion, July 31.

A popular priced excursion up the Hudson to West Point on the steamer Sirius, under the auspices of the New Jersey Central, will leave Plainfield at 8:44 a. m., on July 31. Tickets are $1.00. This provides a beautiful trip for a little money.

VOORHEES PRESIDENT OF STATE COMMISSION

CHOSEN AS HEAD OF THE NEW POTABLE WATER BODY.

The Potable Water Commission met at the State House, Trenton, yesterday and elected former Governor Foster M. Voorhees president. Former Assemblyman George F. Wright was elected temporary secretary. The election of a permanent secretary was laid over. Morris Sherrerd, of Newark, was selected as engineer.

The acting secretary was directed to confer with the State House Commission for the purpose of having suitable rooms assigned to the commission.

After the organization was effected the commission adjourned subject to the call of the president. At the next meeting it will request the flood commissioners and State geologist to furnish data that may aid the commission in its work.

The commission was very much surprised that the Legislature did not make any appropriation for the carrying out of the work of the commission. An appropriation of $10,000 was made for the flood commission, but it is extremely doubtful that this can be applied to the Potable Water Commission.

In all probability the Governor will consent to furnish sufficient funds to carry out the work from his contingent appropriation. The commission will have an office in the State House and will be open every day.

P.S.C. BLAMED FOR DEATH

of the condition in which he found Mr. Weekes. John A. Shaw, a machinist, of 999 Leland avenue, who saw the body of Mr. Weekes as it lay on the sidewalk, was also called as a witness and testified to what saw.

Frederick W. J. Brooks, brother of Mrs. Weekes, residing at 842 Berkeley avenue, testified that the morning his brother-in-law was killed, his sister notified him of that fact and he viewed the body. He also stated that he saw the ends of the broken electric light wires suspended over the sidewalk in the street.

One of the most important witnesses was James Ellis, a lineman employed by the P. S. C., who described at some length the methods in force to maintain the electric light wires throughout the city and the inspection of wires and lights. He explained in answer to a question that a fuse will not blow out unless there is a short circuit of the wires.

Mr. Ellis said that from the condition of the wires when he arrived at the scene it indicated that the two wires had been burning in the nearby trees and that as the result of the contact they had burned off. He said that the night inspector may have inspected these wires a few nights before, but he had no knowledge that he was there the night previous to the accident. In answer to a question from Mr. English as to whether the inspector reports cases of insulation being off the wires, he replied that he did, except in trivial cases.

The witness declared that he was on Berkeley avenue the week previous to the accident on a case of trouble, a broken wire being reported. He failed to find the break.

Mr. English called the attention of witness to the wire in the room and asked him whether he considered the condition of it sufficiently poor to report it and he replied that he did not.

Mr. Ellis explained further that Neils Anderson is the night inspector and that he takes one half of the city one night and the other half the following night, Park avenue being the dividing line. It requires about five hours to make an inspection with a horse and wagon. Mr. English attempted to prove by the witness that one inspector could not properly cover the territory in the prescribed time.

Mr. Martine asked the witness if there was not a standing order in the P. S. C., that in the case of an accident similar to the one on Berkeley avenue, that all wire is to be collected and evidence of any blame to be removed. He denied that there was such an order. He also said that the piece of wire, supposed to have caused Mr. Weekes' death would compare favorably with the rest of the electric light wire in the city.

Mr. Ellis was the first man, outside of the neighbors, to reach Berkeley avenue the morning of the accident, and he said that all wires were supposed to be dead at that time, word having been given to shut off the power.

Robert H. McCready, of 1236 Denmark road, but who resided at Ravine road and Berkeley avenue, the time of the accident, testified to meeting Dr. Westcott, the county physician and other officials at the scene of the fatality. Mr. Weekes' body had been removed to the house and the broken wires had been taken down. He asked William Crowley, the lineman, to pick out the wire which was supposed to have caused Mr. Weekes' death, and he did so. Then Mr. McCready marked his initials with a lead pencil on a portion of the wire, but when he examined the wire yesterday he could not find the markings. However, he believed it to be the same piece of wire.

Mr. McCready offered a photograph of Mr. Weekes, taken in his bed, after death, showing how badly his right hand was burned. This photograph, the map made by H. C. VanEmburg, rubber shoes, pieces of wire and branches of a nearby tree through which the wires ran, were all offered in evidence by Mr. English.

This concluded the inquest, and Mr. English in addressing the jury reminded them that it was simply an investigation that they were supposed to make and he asked them to find a verdict according to the testimony. He informed the jurors that they might find it to be a case of accident, avoidable or unavoidable, or unavoidable, one of gross negligence with a reckless disregard of human life and if this should be the conclusion they might return a verdict of manslaughter, but they could not go beyond that. On the other hand they could be as lenient as they saw fit.

GOVERNOR IN QUANDARY.

No Money to Pay for Presentation of Silver to Battleship.

The presenting of the $10,000 silver service to the battleship New Jersey has been worrying the Governor and members of the commission very much, especially as the battleship is about to be sent to the Pacific coast. There is o appropriation for paying the expenses of the presentation, and the Governor has been loathe to take the amount out of his emergency fund. Now that the ship is about to depart for the Far West, with chances small of being in Eastern waters for many years, many are of the opinion that his is a matter of emergency. But the Governor has not moved as yet.

However, it is possible that the United States government will allow the New Jersey to visit some port of this State as soon as her overhauling at the Brooklyn navy yard is over, and the presentation can then be made on "Jersey soil." Many think it a good idea for the ship to visit a port of the State, say, Jersey City, after which she has been named, the honor of her visit being repaid with the rich silver service.

STEALS COLLECTOR'S RIG.

John Allen Confesses to Disposing of It for $30 and Arrests Follow.

Elizabeth, July 24.—While Abraham Segal, who is collector for an instalment firm of Newark, and resides at 176 South Orange avenue, was in this city on Monday afternoon on a collecting trip his horse and buggy, which were standing outside a house at Sixth and East Jersey streets, were stolen.

Mr. Segal notified the Elizabethport police and Monday evening Police Captain O'Leary and Detective Mulcahy arrested John Allen, who confessed to taking the rig and driving to Westfield and Morris avenue, Elizabeth, where, in a saloon, he sold it to William McArthur for $30. The latter was arrested later at First avenue and the Long Branch Railroad crossing, Elizabethport, and locked up, while the rig was placed in a livery stable.

Both prisoners were arraigned in police court yesterday morning and each held in $500 bail for the grand jury.

$500 Tip for the Waitress.

London, July 24.—The passing of Crosby Hall, a well known lunching place in this city, because the building in which it is located is to be torn down, has been a lucky incident for Miss Sage, a waitress in the place. A number of city men whom she regularly attended at luncheon subscribed a purse of $500, which they presented to the waitress. It is believed to be a record "tip" for London.

TRAINED TO FACE DEATH.

Much Care Taken in the Drilling of Cavalry Horses.

Cavalry chargers vary from 15 to 16 hands in height, and sharp rules have been laid down about their shape, action and treatment. There are regular schools where the raw four-legged recruit is trained, and his education embraces the fearless swimming of deep and wide rivers, where possibly the enemy have destroyed the bridges. It is extremely interesting to see a thousand four-legged recruits drawn up in a vast ring around the instructor, who opens the proceedings with a sharp shot from an army revolver, writes William G. Fitzgerald, in the Circle. The animals are taught to gallop fearlessly up to a line or square of infantry who are blazing away with their rifles, of course loaded only with blank cartridges. Lastly comes a charge upon batteries of quick-firing cannon. It is worth noting that, when smokeless powder came into general use, it was found that thousands of horses which would face without flinching the smoke or guns using black powder balked and shied at the sinister flash and roar of cordite and melinite. There appears to be as much individuality among horses as among men. Some take the flash and report very quietly, and are passed on to more severe trials, while others rear and try to bolt in abject terror.

CHAOS IN A FERRY HOUSE.

Young Man Got Even with Crowd Which Pushed Him Aside.

A big crowd was waiting in the St. George ferry house, Staten island, for the New York boat, all more or less bored and listless, when a young man came in and wandered idly about the room, says the New York Press. He finally stopped in front of a penny-in-the-slot phonograph machine and dropped in a coin. A lively tune immediately started up. The crowd woke up and several loafers collected in front of the machine in order to enjoy the strains more thoroughly. More of the bored ones joined the collection till, to the surprise of the young man, he was elbowed out of the way and stood on the outside. He stared at the crowd in some resentment. Then a thought seemed to strike him. He fished up a bunch of change from his pockets and walking around the room, calmly proceeded to start every machine in the place going, including two banjo-picking machines. The bedlam that ensued was indescribable. With a grin of triumph the youth left the scene of his villainy and went outside to light a cigarette. He had his revenge.

Better Than the Mule.

At a dinner the other night little Algy offered a toast to women. Said Algernon: Here's to woman, beautiful, fascinating woman. Made after man, and has been after him ever since. Ha! Ha!" "And here's to man," responded the ingenuous debutante. "Man is the paragon of animals. On his own ground he surpasses the lion in magnanimity, the fox in acumen, the parrot in wit, the monkey in versatility, the ant in thrift, the spider in all that goes to make it a valued member of society. Briefly, man is more of a success than the mule." She vowed that, inspired by Algy, she made it up right off the wheel. At any rate, none of the other women present has as yet lauded it either in the ladies' home journals or "Heart to Heart Talks with Women," so maybe she did. She is clever enough about other things, dear knows.

"Nothing Doing."

"Nothing doing!" Is that slang? I thought it was until last night, when I came upon the words in Dickens' "Dombey & Son." In chapter IV., old Sol Gills is explaining to his nephew Walter why the shop must be closed and the business abandoned. "You see, Walter," said he, "in truth this business is merely a habit with me. I am so accustomed to the habit that I could hardly live if I relinquished it; but there's nothing doing, nothing doing." So you see, the phrase had its pathetic fitness half a century ago, and is not slang at all.—Watson's Weekly Jeffersonian.

Saved.

M. Jacques Bonhomme et sa femme were entertaining a company of select friends. They had just got seated at table when Baptiste, the waiter, rushed into the room in a state of wild alarm, exclaiming: "Quick! a glass of wine." Everybody stared, but his wish was complied with, and Baptiste swallowed at one gulp a glass of wine poured out by the lady of the house, who inquired what was the matter with him. "Oh, madam, I am dreadfully upset. That glass of wine has done me good; it has brought me round. Only think! I have just had the misfortune to break your two large dessert dishes of Sevres porcelain."

Cargoes Worth a Fortune.

It might be supposed that the great ocean liners bring in the most valuable cargoes. They don't. The little steamers that ply between here and the mighty Amazon river bring the richest cargoes that reach the port. It is safe to say that $500,000 is the value of an average ocean liner's cargo. The steamship Graagense recently brought 4,369 cases of rubber. On a basis of $500 per case this alone was worth $2,184,500. This is outside the value of the skins, nuts and cocoa on board. Sometimes the ships bring egret plumes that are worth a fortune.

FREAK STATUARY TO ORDER.

Sculptor Tells of Queer Orders Given Him by His Patrons.

A sculptor was talking about freak statuary. "I turn out a lot of it," he said. "Not that I like to. I have to. So many of our millionaires have uncouth tastes. I made last fall portrait busts of a western millionaire and his wife. The wife wears spectacles, and nothing would do but I must put spectacles on her bust. I argued, but in vain. That bust stands in the millionaire's spacious library to-day and spectacles rest on its nose. I did last month a bust in colors, a bust of a young girl. The marble hair I gilded, the marble eyes I painted blue, and the marble lips and cheeks I flecked with red. A hideous thing, yet the family was immensely pleased. The freakiest of my freak statues stands in a Boston garden. It is the statue of the owner's grandfather, an old Presbyterian divine. The aged man stands in the center of a bed of jonquils, and out of the top of his plug hat a jet of water spurts, falling into a marble basin that he holds in his hands, a basin wherein swim half a dozen goldfish. The idea of treating one's grandfather like that!"

HAD PREPARED FOR ORDEAL.

Christening Rehearsal Struck Clergyman as New Idea.

"These college girls," said a clergyman, as he gazed at the white and superb ranks of beautiful graduates, "are a boon to the race. They introduce new ideas. I christened the other day the first baby of a married college girl. Now, babies usually cry while they are being christened, but this one was as quiet as a lamb. Throughout the ceremony it smiled up beautifully into my face. 'Well, madam,' said I to the young wife at the christening's end, 'I must congratulate you on your little one's behavior. I have christened more than 2,000 babies, but I never before christened one that behaved so well as yours.' The young mother smiled demurely. 'No wonder he behaved well,' she said. 'His father and I, with a pail of water, have been practicing christening on him for the last ten days.' The idea of rehearsing a baby for a christening! Who but a college girl would think of such a thing?"

Irreverent Yankee.

Adam Engel, a few days before he closed his historic chop house in Herald square, lunched with a Denver correspondent. "The loss of this chop house will be a great loss to New York," said the correspondent. "It will be like," he went on eloquently, "the obliteration of some historic light." "I hope," said the modest Engel, "that it won't be so bad as that. Speaking of lights, by the way, I hope that my chop house's departure won't inflict any such loss as a certain Yankee, by an uncontrollable impulse, once inflicted on a Buddhist temple in Japan. They say, you know, that a priest, showing this Yankee over an ancient shrine, led the man reverently to a small silver lamp. 'This lamp, sir,' he said, 'has not been extinguished for seven centuries.' The Yankee puffed out his cheeks and blew. 'Well,' he said, 'I guess she's out now, anyway.'"

Provocation Enough.

A deaf old gentleman dined with a family where grace was always said. When the guests were seated the host bowed his head and began to repeat the accustomed verse in a subdued, reverent tone. "Eh? What's that?" demanded the deaf old gentleman, who sat beside him. The host smiled patiently and began again, in a louder, more deprecatory voice. "Speak a little louder. I don't catch what you say," the old gentleman persisted. A low ripple of laughter went round the table. The host, his face crimson with embarrassment, raised his voice and repeated the verse. The deaf gentleman did his best to hear, but failed. He placed one hand upon his host's arm. "What did you say?" he demanded irascibly. The host cast him an angry glance. "D—n it, I'm saying grace," he snapped.—Lippincott's Magazine.

"Beauty Doctors" Copy Old Rome.

Juvenal, the Roman satirist, writes indignantly of the absurd waste of time given to the care of the complexion, of the lotions and jellies and powders for the preservation of the skin. "But anything overlaid with so many oft-changed cosmetics, and a poultice with flour, both baked and boiled, shall we call it a face or a sore? This thing, swollen and ridiculous, the unfortunate husband has to contemplate—only for her lovers does she wash her skin clean." The modern beauty doctors, writes Mrs. H. W. Nevinson in the Fortnightly Review, have plagiarized their methods from ancient Rome—the massage, the stroking, the oiling—and would be willing to admit that some of the most valuable secrets, including the "Roman mask," which eradicated wrinkles, are lost to them.

Easily Adjusted.

Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission, told in New York the other day a French railway story. "A traffic manager," he said, "came to the president of the line and exclaimed disconsolately: 'We are having no end of trouble with the public, sir, about those old dark blue cars. Everybody says they bump so frightfully in comparison with the new light blue ones, which, of course, run very smooth.' 'Humph,' said the president; 'we must attend to this matter at once. Have all the old cars painted light blue immediately.'"

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.

No opposition to this unseemly outcome was made by Uncle Jud or Aunt Mandy. They knew, or hoped, the leaven of bygone memories and association would change the hermit-like impulse of Old Cy, and all in good time a better ending of his life would seem possible to him. To argue it now was apparently useless. A man so set in his ideas as to remain a homeless wanderer for almost a lifetime, was not to be changed in a month, or perhaps in a year.

Neither did Old Cy seem in a hurry to visit Christmas Cove.

"I don't look nat'ral or feel nat'ral in them new clothes," he said to Aunt Mandy one day, "an' while I want to see Abby, I've lived in the woods so long I'm sorter 'shamed to go 'mongst respectable people. Then I look like one o' them wooden men dressed up in a store winder with that new rig on, an' jest know folks'll all be laughin' at me. I've got to go, I callate, but I'd like to make the trip in a cage. I'm sartin sure Abby'll laugh at me arterwards." From which it may be seen how hard it was for Old Cy to fit himself into civilized life once more.

He nerved himself for the trip to Christmas Cove in a few days, however, and how he met and renewed acquaintance with his old-time sweetheart shall be told in his own words.

"Abby hain't changed near so much as I callated," he said on his return; "a leetle fuller in figger, but jest the same easy-spoken, sweet sorter woman I always knew she'd be. She was 'lone when I called, an' fer a minit arter we shook hands neither on us could speak ag'in. Then she kinder bit her lip 'n' swallered her feelin's, keepin' her face turned away, an' then we sot down 'n' begun talkin'. It was techin', too, the way she acted, fer she kept tryin' to smile, 'n' all the while the tears kept startin'. It was like one o' them summer days when the rain patters while the sun is shining'. I don't think she noticed my clothes much, either, an' we sot up till 'most midnight talkin' over old times. It all turned out 'bout the way I 'spected—a sorter funeral o' old hopes with us two fer mourners. She's powerful considerate, too, Abby is, for the time we was talkin' she never once spoke o' Cap'n Bemis, 'n' I didn't. It was jest ez if we started in whar we left off, 'n' skippin' the gap between. She 'lowed she hoped she'd see me soon ag'in, that she felt like a mother to Chip; an' when I bid her good-by, she kinder choked once more.

"I didn't see much o' Chip, either, which sorter hurt me. Take it all in all, my visit thar upsot me more'n I callated, 'n' I guess when Chip's settled, I'd best go to the woods 'n' forgit all that's past. My life's been a failure, anyway."

And Old Cy was right; but it was grim and merciless Fate that made it so, and for that he was not responsible.

Love in youth is a sweet song of joy and hope and promise. But love that spans a lifetime, that reaches and caresses our heartstrings once again as we enter the final shadows, has only the pathos of parting and the tender chords of almost forgotten melodies in it. Vainly do we strive to enter the enchanted garden once more. Vainly do our heart throbs beat against its adamant walls. Vainly do we hope to catch just one more of the old bygone thrills. It is useless, for none can live life over, and once age has locked the portals of youth and fervor, they are never opened again.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

With September came a supreme event in the lives of Chip and Ray, when Mr. and Mrs. Frisbie, Aunt Comfort, Miss Phinney and Hannah, Uncle Jud and Aunt Mandy, and Old Cy, all gathered in Aunt Abby's quaint parlor to see her aged pastor join their hands and lives. Then came the kisses, the congratulations, the rice, and old-shoe throwing, and then solitude and tears for Aunt Abby. All the wedding guests except Old Cy hied themselves away with the new pair, and he left for Bayport.

And thus closes the history of Chip McGuire, waif of the wilderness and slave of Tim's Place.

Bless her!

Two days later Old Cy returned.

No one was in the house when he knocked at Aunt Abby's door, and then, led perhaps by the invisible chord that spanned 40 years, he slowly strolled up the path beside the old-mill pond, which he and she had often followed in the old, old days.

His heart had led him aright, for there, at the foot of the ancient oak that had once been their trysting-place, she sat.

"I thought I'd come over 'n' bid ye good-by, Abby," he said gently, as she arose to meet him. "I've been doin' a good deal o' biddin' good-by to-day. I bid good-by to the old graveyard whar my folks is; it's all growed up to weeds 'n' bushes, I'm sorry to say. But that can't be helped. It's the way o' natur. I've been down to the p'int whar you 'n' I used to go, an' I bid that good-by," he added, seating himself near her. "Ye 'member it, don't ye, Abby, 'n' them days when we went thar to watch the waves?"

"I do, Cyrus," she answered, her voice trembling. "I remember all the old days only too well."

"They all come back to me, too," he continued in a lower tone, "an' I wish I could skip back to 'em, but I can't. I'm an old man now, an' no use to nobody, 'n' not much to myself. . . I've been a wanderer many years—ye know why, Abby. I've had a short spell o' joy, kinder helpin' this boy 'n' gal into sunshine 'n' a home. They've gone their way now 'n' sure to forgit me an' you. It's nat'ral they should, 'n' all that's left me is to go back to the woods 'n' stay."

He paused a moment, glancing up the narrow pond to where it ended in shadow, and then continued: "It's curis, Abby, how life begins with how-de-do's 'n' smilin' friends 'n' cheerin' prospects, 'n' then ends with good-bys 'n' bein' forgot. It's what we must callate on, though, an' a good deal like a graveyard is left to weeds 'n' bushes."

Once more he paused, closed his eyes, and remained silent for a time.

"Wal, I-might as well be goin'," he said finally, rising and extending his hand, "so good-by, Abby. I wish ye well in life."

"But is there any need of it?" she answered, turning her face to hide the tears as his hand clasped hers.

"Why, no, only to fergit my sorrer," he answered; "I can't do it here."

"But who will care for you there—at last—and—must you go?" Then she turned to him again.

And then he saw, not the gentle, saddened face upraised to his, but the tender face of sweet Abby Grey of the long, long ago.

"Must you leave us—me?" she whispered once again.

"Wal, mebbe not," he answered.

PROPOSALS FOR BRICK PAVEMENT.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Common Council at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at 8 o'clock p. m., on the fifth day of August, 1907, for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the paving contemplated in the ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with permanent and durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council July 1, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1, 1907, and as provided for in the specifications on file in the office of the Street Commissioner.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $300, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

15,792 sq. yards Brick Pavement.
500 lin. ft. 3 inch drain tile,
150 lin. ft. 18 inch surface drain,
265 lin. ft. 15 inch surface drain,
250 lin. ft. 12 inch surface drain,
2 Manholes.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents thereof in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of said prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

A separate price must be named for each street, and proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Brick Paving."

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

When you are real hungry dine at Timbo's restaurant on North avenue. Anything you want at reasonable prices.

Order your coal now from L. A. Rheaume's yard, South Second and Fourth streets and have it delivered while you're away at the country.

Gas light in the dining room means heat at meals. At Gavett's, on West Front street, you can get candelabra, which will reduce the heat and beautify the dining table for the evening meal.

If you are interested in the best line of dry goods stop at Putnam & DeGraw's store on West Front street. Men and women will find a large desirable stock of goods at popular prices.

C. M. Naegle, the West Front street druggist, wants you to know that he keeps a full line of drugs and medicines and that anything to be found in an up-to-date pharmacy can be secured there.

It is an inconvenience to have painters at work around the house. Give the contract for your house painting to Woolston & Buckle, the North avenue painters, and have the work done while you are on your summer vacation.

L. W. Randolph's pharmacy, on West Front street, is the place to purchase first class drugs, medicines, toilet articles and have your prescriptions compounded. Mr. Randolph is now making a specialty of Dr. Clayton's famous dog medicine.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Over 5,000 foreign missionaries work without salary.

England has 144 churches forevery 100,000 people. In Russia there are only fifty-five churches for a similar number.

Today there are in Great Britain alone about 10,000 Wesleyan chapels and preaching places, with accommodations for more than 2,000,000 hearers.

In 1786 the pope appointed Rev. John Carroll of Baltimore the first apostolic vicar in the United States. Later he became the first Roman Catholic arch-bishop of the United States.

The salary of the archbishop of Canterbury is £15,000, of the archbishop of York, £10,000; of the bishop of London, £10,000. The next wealthiest English sees are Durham, £7,000 and Winchester, which is £6,500.

TALES OF CITIES.

Danbury, Conn., makes over 75 percent of all the stiff hats turned out in this country yearly.

Barcelona, the metropolis of the Spanish peninsula, has a population of nearly 750,000 and is the great commercial and industrial center of the country.

Pretoria promises to be the social center of the Transvaal. Most of the great mining men either own or are building houses there, and the social season will be when parliament is in session.

Statisticians declare that in 1950 Vienna will have a population of 4,000,000. The city council, looking far ahead, is already considering how best to preserve for the coming generations a goodly supply of open air spaces. It is proposed to surround the city with a broad girdle of forest lands and meadows.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reynolds, of Adelphia, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Judson, of John street.

Miss Georgiana Galloway, of Netherwood avenue, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation out of town.

SO DIFFERENT.

Lots of Claims Like This But So Different—Local Proof Is What Plainfield People Want.

There are a great many of them. Every paper has its share.

Statements hard to believe, harder to prove.

Statements from far-away places. What people say in Florida.

Public expression from California. Ofttimes good indorsement there. But of little service here at home. Plainfield people want local proof. The sayings of neighbors, friends and citizens.

Home indorsement counts.

It disarms the skeptic; is beyond dispute.

This is the backing that stands behind every box of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, says: "For a long time I was troubled with a lame and weak back and I never found anything which gave me any relief until I obtained Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store and began to use them accordinfi to directions. It was only a short time before I felt the good effects and from that time on I improved steadily under the treatment. My back pained me and was so weak and sore that I dreaded to bend and when I had a cold or over-exerted myself I suffered severely. I used several different kidney remedis, but got little if any relief. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for my improvement. I think they are a fine medicine for a lame back."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Laurels, of Bound Brook, and Raritan will clash at Raritan Saturday and it is said that the Somerset county boys will show a decided reversal of form for the better.

GOLF.

Continuation of play for the Golf Committee, Green Committee and Scratch cups will be the events at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, followed in the evening by the usual dinner-dance.

The social features at the Park Golf Club, this season, are greatly enjoyed by the members and friends. Nearly every Saturday night dinner parties are given.

Juniors to Play Ball.

Baseball teams have been organized among the members of Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., and the first of a series of three games will be played Saturday afternoon on the field back of the Pond Machine Tool Works.

MOTORCYCLE CRASHES INTO SIDE OF TROLLEY.

Two Men Riding Machine Barely Escape the Wheels.

A motorcycle ridden by John Madden, of West Fifth street, and Charles Eckhardt, of East Front street, came down the steep grade on East Third street and crashed into the side of a trolley car on Watchung avenue, last night. Both men were thrown down but fortunately escaped going under the wheels. Madden was quite badly hurt and had to be assisted to the office of Dr. Clawson for treatment, after which he was taken home. Eckhardt emerged from the tangle with only a few bruises.

Since the New Jersey Central's new bridge has been in course of construction over Watchung avenue, trolley cars have had to get under through their own momentum, the wires being removed. A flagman has been stationed at the intersection of East Third street to prevent anyone coming down as a car shoots by but it is said he failed to give Madden and Eckhardt any warning. They believed the way to be clear and were unaware of their danger until the vehicle suddenly appeared in front of them. The motorcycle was slightly damaged.

ORDAINED AND MADE PASTOR AT BEDMINSTER.

Rev. E. R. Kruizenga, a Native of Michigan, Formally Takes Charge of Church.

Rev. E. R. Kruizenga, of Spring Lake, Mich., was ordained and installed pastor of the Reformed church at Bedminster yesterday with appropriate exercises by the clasis of Raritan. He becomes the thirteenth pastor of this church in a period of forty-nine years, succeeding Rev. T. Walker Jones, who resigned last October and went to Brooklyn to make his home.

The exercises began yesterday, when the ordination took place. Those who asked the questions were: Theology, Rev. Dr. William S. Cranmer, of Somerville; Hebrew, Rev. B. V. D. Wyckoff, of Readington; Greek, Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, of High Bridge; Bible literature, Rev. Henry T. Jones, of Whitehouse Station; government, Rev. Thomas M. Simanton, of Peapack; past theology, Rev. Rockwood McQuesten, of Annandale; church history, Rev. Isaac Sperling, of South Branch.

The installation exercises yesterday afternoon began with Rev. Thomas M. Simanton, of Peapack, president of the clasis of Raritan, in charge. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. William Stockton Cranmer, pastor of the First Reformed church, in Somerville. Rev. Lucas Boeve, pastor of the Reformed church at Lebanon, charge the pastor, and Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, pastor of the Reformed church at High Bridge, charged the people.

Somerville Man Won.

By clever juggling of the twelve letters in the words "Conway Pianos," Alfred G. Savacool, of Somerville, succeeded in forming 302 words in a contest announced by the Hallet & Davis Piano Co. and was today awarded a piano worth $365 as a prize for the contest. The contest closed Saturday night. Corra Ryno, Chauncey F. Colthar and Chauncey F. Stout were the committee to determine the award. The piano has been on exhibition at the sales rooms on East Front street.

Dunellen Court.

On complaint of Mrs. Gustav Barfuse, who lives next door to Bob Fitzsimmons in Dunellen, action has been brought by John M. Dayton, overseer of the poor, of Piscataway township, against her husband. The charge is non-support. There are two children, less than three years of age. The hearing is before Judge R. P. F. Von Minden at Dunellen today. Another case is that of Pauline Ruhl vs. Jacob Stuckley; the action comprises landlord and tenant proceedings for possession of premises.

—Variety is the spice of life and that is why Neuman Brothers offer such a wide assortment of fresh vegetables. Always the largest display in the city.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

Lots selling rapidly—Prices very low—Great investment or speculative opportunities.

TO REDISTRICT THE STATE

Constitutional Amendment to Divide It Into Assembly Districts to be Advertised.

LEGISLATURE TO ACT

Lawmakers to Pass On Proposed Change Before It Is Submitted to the Voters.

President of the Senate Minch, Speaker of the House Lethbridge and Secretary of State Dickinson met yesterday in conference and selected the New Jersey newspapers in which will be carried for three months advertisements of the constitutional amendment dividing the State into districts for the election of Assemblymen.

The next Legislature must pass on this before it can go to the people for a vote the following fall. No other constitutional amendment can come before the people for five years. This means that the judiciary reform, the separation of State and municipal elections and other constitutional changes advocated by the Governor will have to go over.

All these reform measures were indorsed by the Senate, but the failure of the Democratic House to agree to them leaves them far behind in the contest for final adoption. Had the Democratic House adopted these amendments at the same time it adopted the new Assembly District amendment all of the series could have been voted on by the people in 1909.

The State Road Commission met at the State House yesterday and decided to divide the State into three districts—one for each of the three com issioners.

Gen. Joseph Congdon will have charge of the First District, comprising Bergen, Passaic, Sussex, Warren, Hunterdon, Somerset, Mercer and Morris counties. Commissioner Borden D. Whiting will have charge of the Second District, which will consist of Essex, Hudson, Union and Middlesex counties. The Third District will comprise all the southern counties, and these will be looked after by Commissioner Edmund Wilson.

Inspector Maybury has opened an office at the State House and will be acting secretary until Assemblyman Barber, of Trenton, can be appointed at the conclusion of his legislative term.

The commission has decided to make railroads comply strictly with the law requiring reports on accidents, to begin a vigorous crusade against grade crossings and to become identified with the National Association of Railway Commissioners.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will meet tomorrow night, when the deputy grand regent will be present. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

The members of Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., had a watermelon feast in its rooms in the Scheuer building Monday evening. A program of vocal and instrumental selections was rendered by phonograph while the water flowed.

At the regular meeting of Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, Fraternal Order of Eagles, held last night in Eagles' Hall, on East Second street, one proposition for membership was received, and W. W. Cleaves was elected worthy trustee to fill the unexpired term of R. P. Kampf, resigned.

Burned By Gasolene Explosion.

Joseph Kmosko, a tailor, residing at 1219 North avenue, is at Muhlenberg Hospital, being treated for general burns about the face, hands and chest, the result of a gasolene explosion at his home on Saturday. He was cleaning a suit of clothes at the time with gasolene, when a quantity of the stuff went up and Kmosko's person happened to be so close he could not escepe. His condition is not serious.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins was the guest of City Clerk James T. MacMurray last night.

Miss Rubey Rippard has returned after a visit with relatives in Easton, Pa.

Mrs. J. D. Moon, of Grandview avenue, is entertaining Mrs. Minnie Hance, of Liberty Corner.

DEATH HAS TNBERCULOSIS.

Man Who Is Serving Prison Term For His Part In Paterson Tragedy Very Ill.

Trenton, July 24.—William Death, of Paterson, who is serving thirty years in State prison for complicity in the Jennie Bosschieter tragedy, is very ill and now under the care of the physicians of the prison.

Confinement has told on the young man. When he first entered the institution he was apparently in robust health. He is ill at present from what the doctors have diagnosed as tuberculosis and his condition is such that it is doubtful if he will live the year out.

Recently Death was transferred from the department where he has been employed to another section of the prison. He spends his days in the open in a small garden behind the women's wing of the penitentiary. The outdoor air has done him little good as his condition does not improve at all. He says he contracted the disease during the Spanish-American War.

GIRL NEARLY DROWNS.

Miss Anna Merz Has Narrow Escape at Lake Hopatcong.

Lake Hopatcong, July 24.—While bathing in the lake, off Maxim Park, Monday, Miss Anna Marz, of Anchor Lodge, was barely saved from drowning by Hudson Maxim. A number of girls were in bathing, when Miss Susie Williams, an employer of Mr. Maxim's, and an unexperienced swimmer, floundered beyond her depth. Miss Marz, who is an excellent swimmer, saw her plight and swam to her assistance.

She was clutched by the floundering girl and dragged beneath the water. The cries of the bathers quickly brought Mr. Maxim to the spot. Although he has but one arm, he plunged into the water and dragged the girls to shore, where the Williams girl was soon revived. In Miss Marz, however, signs of respiration had ceased, and it was an hour before respiration was fully restored. The nervous shock, combined with physical exhaustion, has left Miss Marz in a critical condition.

STATE'S MEN OF MARK SEE THE GOVERNOR.

Senators Wakelee, Bergen; Robbins, Burlington, and Hutchinson, Mercer, were at the State House at Trenton yesterday, and all called on Governor Stokes. They came only to pay their respects, and nothing of a political nature developed.

Former Governor Voorhees was another distinguished visitor, and everybody greeted him with the warm welcome his presence always inspires. Former Senator J. Harry Bachellor, of Essex, was another visitor. He and Governor Voorhees came down to attend the meeting of the potable water commission.

NEWSPAPERMEN'S DAY AT SEA GIRT.

Governor Stokes has invited his newspaper friends to luncheon at Sea Girt next Fridaf, the day having been set apart for entertaining the scribes. Every man at all acquainted about the State House has received the bid of the governor to attend, and the gathering will be like a meeting of the Legislative Correspondens' club.

Quartermaster General Murray has also promised the boys a good time, and Major Domo Gordon will preside over that which every one likes in the newspaper ranks.

NORTH PLAINFIELD'S COMMISSION RECOMMENDS JOINT USE OF PLAINFIELD SEWER SYSTEM

After a Thorough Investigation Borough Body Urges That a Ten Years' Contract Be Entered Into With City.

SUGGEST BOND ISSUE

Approximate Cost $124,000—Mayor Smalley Displeased Over Report—Council to Act at Next Meeting.

Recommending that North Plainfield build a sewage system along the lines suggested several months ago by Herring & Fuller and that the city's offer for disposal be accepted, the borough sewer commission rendered its report at a special meeting of the Council, last night. It detailed in a concise and systematic manner an outline of all its exhaustive investigations, dwelling on the comparative benefits of dependent and independent plants, original cost, maintenance, method of securing funds for the work and other information. The report was accepted and the commissioners were discharged with thanks. Their findings will be acted upon formally at the August meeting of the Council.

The commission was composed of Charles W. McCutchen, William J. Buttfield, Edwin S. Hooley, Dr. J. H. Cooley and Charles L. Nichols, all among North Plainfield's largest taxpayers. They were appointed by the original committee of fifty first named by Mayor Smalley, it being considered that the larger body would prove too cumbersome in arriving at a concrete conclusion. Because of his wide experience in engineering matters, Joseph O. Osgood had worked with them and his assistance proved of great value. The commission has worked along for months and the report was submitted after every feature of the problem had been inquired into from an impartial standpoint.

It was intended to have the original committee of fifty at last night's session and to first have the result made known to them, but so few appeared that it was decided to read the report to the Council and those who were there at the same time. When Clerk Rowley finished reading the commission's statement, somewhat of a stir was occasioned by Mayor Smalley declaring that the recommendation not to build an independent plant was a great surprise to the Council and himself. He asserted that he had expected a different report and that personally he was disappointed at their conclusion.

The Mayor's remarks led to an impromptu discussion, in which Mr. Osgood, Mr. McCutchen, Mr. Buttfield and Elston M. French took part. Without going into details, the members of the commission made reply by giving additional facts as to why they had settled upon using the Plainfield beds. Mr. Buttfield reviewed at some length, the commission's communications with Dunellen's citizens, in which the latter had made an earnest appeal to the borough not to locate additional disposal beds in their midst.

"They asked," continued Mr. Buttfield, "that if we did decide to build our own beds that they be placed on Rock avenue, as near the city's plant as possible. They would then not have to say to prospective residents that 'we have sewer beds to the north of us and sewer beds to the west of us.'"

Councilman John H. VanWinkle was the only member of the body who spoke at any length on the report. He expressed the opinion that it showed a great deal of personal effort on the part of the members and that they were to be congratulated on the thoroughness with which the investigation was conducted. He concluded by saying that he believed the recommendations to be good ones.

The report in detail is as follows:

"Since our report under date of March 1st last, this Commission has continued its work along the lines therein suggested and is now prepared to submit its conclusions and recommendations.

"In addition to the legislative amendments needed as pointed out in our previous report, it was found that there were other defects in the laws governing the subject now un-

TWENTY-TWO COACHES FILLED WITH EXCURSIONISTS

HUNDRED OF METHODISTS AT THE SEASHORE TODAY.

Twenty-two coaches, thirteen on the first section and nine on the second, were required to take the Methodists of Plainfield and Dunellen, and the members and friends of Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, to Asbury Park, this morning. The coaches comprising the first section were well filled with excursionists from Dunellen, Clinton and Grant Avenues, and but little room was left for those from this city and the borough, in fact no attempt was made to take them abroad here, as the second section followed closely.

This section was made up of eleven coaches, but only nine of them were used, the other two being dropped at Roselle. Conductor Frank O. Webster, of Duer street, was in charge of the first section, and Walter Durling, of Somerville, the second. The Sunday-schools included among the excursionists were those from the First, Grace and Monroe Avenue M. E. churches; Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, and the Dunellen Methodist church.

HUNT CLUB PRESIDENT'S RESIGNATION IS ON FILE

MR. MARSHALL'S POSITION TO BE VACATED—LIQUADATING INDEBTEDNESS.

Plans are now underway looking toward a reorganization of the Watchung Hunt Club, and much success has been reached in the efforts put forth to liquidate the indebtedness of the organization. It is hoped that eventually the club will be stronger than ever. It is now between seasons and little outside of reorganization is possible until fall when the hunts will be resumed.

A member of the club, in discussing plans yesterday, mentioned the fact that the resignation of Charles C. Marshall, as president and steward to take effect on or before August 1, has been on file with the Board of Stewards for several weeks. No action has yet been taken by the Board.

ITALIANS SERENADE MAYOR, CELEBRATION CONTINUES.

Concert and Fireworks at Concert Park Last Night and Tonight.

More than 1,500 people were at Concert Park last night to attend the band concert and witness the fireworks display held in connection with the local Italians' celebration of the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. Grands stands erected were only partially filled. The band, twenty-two in number, rendered the following program: Sinfornia, "Raymonda" (Chony); Zeseonda, (Pauchielli); "Cavalleria Rusticana," (Mascagni); Pagliarci, (Lancavelli); Craviato, (Verdi); Causioniero, (Avitabrill). The fireworks display was rather a disappointment. There were no accidents and the program was run through without a hitch.

Today is the last day of the celebration. V. Maisto Bersaglieri's Italian Band, of New York, has been rendering street concerts during the day. Early this morning the band, headed by Salve Velard, marched to Mayor Fisk's residence and serenaded. There was a celebration of mass at St. Mary's church at 8 o'clock, and the band marched out in a body. Tonight will be a concert and another fireworks display in Concert Park. The pyrotechnics for tonight's display are said to cost $200.

Borough Dogs Beware!

Dog-catcher Jim Babbitt has completed his arrangements for a horse and wagon to transfer the dogs from the streets to the pound and will begin work in the borough tonight. Acting Chief Marshal Lemuel Pope has secured a lot of collars and chains which were turned over to Babbitt today so that everything is ready to start the crusade tonight.

Belvidere Apollo Changes Hands.

The Belvidere Apollo, which was established in 1824, by George G. Sickles, father of General Daniel E. Sickles, has been sold to J. Madison Drake, Jr., son of J. Madison Drake, of Elizabeth. Mr. Drake will take charge of the newspaper tomorrow.

POLITICS IN SOMERSET

Few Offices to be Filled But Booms Galore in That County Already.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES

Both Republicans and Democrats Have a Number to Pick From for Assembly Surrogate and Sheriff.

The political pot is boiling in Somerset county all right. Candidates are looming up, and the indications now are that two very warm county conventions will be held this fall, and the election to follow will be the most hotly contested of any in the history of old Somerset county. Both the Republicans and Democrats at present feel confident of victory, the latter particularly in the contests for the offices of surrogate and sheriff.

Somerset county will elect this fall an assemblyman, a sheriff and a surrogate, and possibly a coroner or two. In the Republican ranks Assemblyman William W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, is ahead so far for the candidacy. The habit of sending the Member of Assembly back for a second term seems to stick closely to Somerset and it is conceded that he is very likely to be the candidate on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Smalley's friends declare that he made an enviable record for himself in the Lower House last winter, and that he should be the standard bearer this fall.

Candidates for the Assembly on the Democratic ticket seem to be looming up quite numerously. They are imbued with the idea that there is a splendid opportunity for election. It is generally believed throughout the length and breadth of Somerset county that the most logical and forcible candidate would be Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, if he could be prevailed upon to accept the nomination.

Frederick C. Sutro, a New Yorker who owns a fine country residence in Bernards township, takes a deep interest in the welfare of Somerset county, and the contingent in the upper part of the county are in favor of his being given a show on the Democratic ticket. It is said that Mr. Sutro is willing to make the canvass, but he wants the nomination to come to him without any great amount of opposition in the county convention, or he will not accept it. Just at present, no other Democrats seem to have the Assembly bee buzzing in their bonnets.

A number of Republicans are grooming themselves for the shrievalty nomination in the fall and just who has the inside track now it is hard to guess. It is alleged that Charles Sebring, of Green Brook, will be nominated to succeed Edward E. Cooper, the present incumbent. It is said that three years ago Sebring was out after the nomination, but when he found Cooper had a majority of the delegates pledged to his support he withdrew. Now he expects Cooper to support him, but whether he will or not is a question.

Frederick Buist, of Bernards township, has been mentioned quite frequently for the nomination for sheriff, but how his candidacy would be taken out of his own bailiwick has the leaders in a quandary. The present deputy, Ellsworth Brokaw, of South Branch, is the man who has caused some of the knowing ones to see a light, it seems. They argue that the appointment of Brokaw during these last days of the present incumbent was a move so that he could familiarize himself with the duties of the office in order that he might be a more acceptable candidate.

Several names of prominent Democrats have been mentioned as candidates for sheriff. Frank T. Ross, formerly assessor in Bridgewater township, is regarded as a strong possibility. He has a host of friends who will back him for the position. While defeated once before for the same office he made a most creditable run considering the tough proposition he was up against, and his friends regard him as the logical candidate, although there are others who have their sails to windward. Thomas E. Gibson, of Franklin township, has a host of supporters, too, and his name on the ticket for sheriff would not throw a very great surprise into the camp of his friends, who would work for him tooth and nail.

Mr. Gibson is the present member of the Board of Chosen Freeholders from Franklin and every time he has run for the office, or any other office, for that matter, he has carried that rock-ribbed Republican district by a good, substantial majority. In fact, he is looked upon as one who could command sufficient strength to land him in the office of sheriff.

From the same section of the county is another available man, who is no other than A. V. D. Polhemus,

CURTIS FLAYS PERKINS

Anti-Saloon Speaker Attacks Union County Assemblyman at Fanwood Meeting.

BEGINS HOT CAMPAIGN

Republican Leader Alleged to Have Straddled the Liquor Question—Classifies Liquor Advocates.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who has a legal residence in Union county, although practically a member of Bergen county's population, was the target at which Emmet H. Curtis, of the Anti-Saloon League, aimed his shafts of political oratory, at an open air mass meeting at Fanwood last night. The local option people are out after Perkins' scalp as stated in The Daily Press a few nights ago and according to a statement made by Frank J. Burke to The Daily Press man yesterday they are going to keep their attack leveled on him until after convention day at least and if he is nominated again until after the election is held.

The nominal Westfielder came in for a good share of severe criticism last night for the manner in which he is alleged to have straddled the liquor question. Mr. Curtis divided the enemies of local option into three classes, "the brewer, the retail liquor merchant and the legislator who is nominally a church member but who votes with the liquor interest." The assemblymen from Union were censured by the speaker for "voting against the church people."

It is reported on good authority that from now on a vigorous campaign will be waged in Union by the local option people with the idea of showing up Mr. Perkins' entire record in the Assembly, which, it is claimed, is not a credit to the county.

COUNTRY IS PROSPEROUS

Bright Outlook Says Former Senator Dryden in Commenting on Progress.

PEOPLE CONSERVATIVE

President of Great Life Insurance Company Has Confidence in the Future—Yankee Grit a Factor.

"Pessimism and radicalism are fast giving way to conservative optimism. In spite of the extremists and alarmists we are maintaining our reputation as the most progressive nation on earth. Our speed-limit has been somewhat reduced by certain untoward developments of the past two years, seriously shaking public confidence in some quarters but I can see no dangerous pitfalls ahead which the good, sober sense of the American people can not successfully avoid."

Thus spoke former United States Senator John F. Dryden, president of the Prudential Insurance Company, when asked today for his opinion of the general business conditions of the country.

"The country will continue its progress," continued Mr. Dryden, "not only because we deserve to, but because we are inherently rich in everything that contributes to a nation's welfare, and of especial importance at this time in men of brains and energy who are going ahead with true Yankee grit and spirit in their various industrial enterprises, full of confidence in themselves and in the future, regardless of socialistic agitation and unwise legislation.

"With everybody employed who is able or willing to work; with demands for labor increasing; with our farms producing fair average crops; increased mining productions; factories working everywhere; savings banks deposits largely increasing; the soundness of our financial institutions so manifestly emphasized by recent experiences and with the courts as bulwarks against ill considered and socialistic legislation, recent and threatened, it is with a feeling of confidence only that I view the future business outlook."

Inspecting Disposal Beds.

Mayor Lawrence and members of the Common Council and Board of Health, of Hasbrouck Heights, came to this city this morning for the purpose of inspecting the local sewage disposal plant. After being greeted by Mayor Fisk they were escorted to Rock avenue by Engineer Andrew J. Gavett and John J. Kenney.

BOYD OUR NEWEST MAYOR

Citizens Ticket Wins at First Election Held in Kenilworth Borough.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

"An Office for Everybody and Everybody in His Office" is the Motto in That Place.

Kenilworth, the hustling baby borough of Union county, and the smallest in the State, started in on its career as a municipality with a real live mayor and several city fathers yesterday, the result of the election held Tuesday being announced. Because fourteen Republicans were unable to get away from work and to the polls in time to vote, the Citizens' party won out handsomely, and so the new borough enrolled itself as the "reform" column. Incidentally, because of the tardiness of those fourteen Republicans, a whole lot of Kenilworth sports won't go to Coney Island this Sunday, for the betting was five to one on the Republicans.

Charles D. Boyd was elected mayor, defeating Dr. H. L. Beck. The other officers elected, comprising the whole Citizen's ticket, were; Assessor, John W. Codd; collector, S. S. Ruth; justice of the peace, B. C. Wilbur; constable, H. O. H. Schmitt; councilmen, O. Nitski, Frank Rosa, David Stern, William Hutchins, Louis Finkle and John Hillier.

The Citizens' party, it is true won, but most of those elected are out and out Democrats, which shows how the wind blows, say the Republicans. The negro vote had a lot to do with deciding the result. There are offices to fill, and they will be probably dished out among yesterday's defeated candidates, so there is no bad feeling over the result. "An office for everybody, and everybody in his office," is the revised motto down in Kenilworth.

HAS ANYONE A SWING?

If So Baby Camp Will Appreciate It.

There is urgent need for a portable swing at the King's Daughters' baby camp on the mountains and any person having one which they would like to give or sell to the camp, are asked to communicate with Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, of Stelle avenue, or Mrs. Frank W. Jones, of Mountain avenue. Inquiries have been made at the local stores, but not a swing of the kind desired is to be had and the camp committee is informed that it would be impossible to get one at the factory as the supply is exhausted.

The camp is also in need of oil, flour, two strong express wagons for the children, toys and blocks of all kinds. Prompt response on the part of people having such things to donate to the camp will be greatly appreciated. Donations of money are received at The Daily Press office and all such will be acknowledged.

Family Quarrel Settled.

Many colored people of city and borough massed in attendance at the session of the borough court last night in the hearing of Adelia Taylor, a colored woman, arrested for obstreperous behavior at the house of her father, Caesar Young. The woman was arrested by warrant by Acting Chief Marshal Lemuel Pope yesterday. The witnesses, neighbors and friends, testified of lively times in the house, when daughter called on father, and numerous incidents of hard words and disturbances were cited. Recorder Dolliver heard the testimony, which was lengthy, and then delivered a lecture on peaceful family relations, after which the case was dismissed.

Miss Banahan a Winner.

William J. Buttfield, was the only Plainfielder to take a prize at the opening of the Monmouth County Horse Show Association, yesterday. He captured a fourth in Class 1 for roadsters, with Miss Banahan. E. C. Rich's "Amanda Brown," was first in this class. J. W. Harriman won three of the thirteen blues; Charles Watson, of Baltimore, and P. F. Collier, of New York, each won two blues, while Alfred G. Vanderbilt scored his only win in the tandem class.

Another in a Week.

If you haven't been able to go to the shore with an excursion yet this season plan to make the trip to Asbury Park next Thursday with the big excursion from Trinity church and Marconnier chapel.

Freeholder Wilbur an Officer.

The Certigue Mining and Dredging Company, at its annual meeting held at the company's offices, 80 Wall street, yesterday, elected Freeholdre S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, as treasurer.

NEGRO GETS OFF WITH LIGHT SENTENCE FOR ATTEMPTING TO DESPOIL LITTLE WHITE GIRL

Charles Hopes Who Was Arrested When About to Attack a Three-year-old Girl Given But Two Years in Jail.

FULL PENALTY 12 YEARS

Prisoner's Counsel Makes a Strong Plea for Leniency, Which Is Heard By the Court.

Charles Hopes, the Plainfield negro, who enticed the three-year-old daughter of George W. Mead, of East Front street, into the New Plainfield Theatre, several weeks ago, and was arrested while about to commit a heinous and most revolting offense, was arraigned for sentence in the Union County Court, this morning. After a strong plea was made in behalf of the prisoner by his counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, Judge Atwater gave the man the exceedingly light sentence of two years in State Prison. The full penalty for the crime is twelve years, and the leniency shown by the court has occasioned the greatest surprise among those interested in the case.

Mr. Swacknamer appeared before the court pleading leniency for the negro. He stated that he had taken the case at the request of the prisoner's mother, and after several conferences with both the mother and the prisoner, he felt convinced that while the negro's act was indiscreet, he really did not mean any harm.

In his plea Mr. Swackhamer cited the previous good record of the prisoner, and the fact that he had received a number of personal letters from influential citizens of Plainfield testifying to the previous good conduct of Hopes. One of those letters, Mr. Swackhamer said, came from James R. Joy, whom he described as a philanthropist, and whose word he was sure would have great weight with the court in pronouncing sentence.

Following Mr. Swackhamer's earnest plea, Judge Atwater declared that while the court had the highest respect for counsel, that the public should be considered. The act of the negro was against the good morals of the community and he could not fail to recognize this fact. He then sentenced Hopes to two years in State's prison.

Afterward, Mr. Swackhamer expressed great satisfaction over the sentence, believing that it would be even more severe.

YOUNG TRAIN WRECKER CAUGHT IN ELIZABETH

OPENED A SWITCH AND DERAILED TWO PASSENGER COACHES.

Walter Donegan, aged 14-years, of Elizabeth, was arrested last night, charged with causing a wreck of two passenger coaches on the New Jersey Central, in that city. The "Singer" train brought the usual crowd of employes of the works to the railroad station, after which the engineer started to shift the train on a siding near Armour's Beef House. The first two coaches went off the track and crashed into the beef house doing considerable damage.

An examination showed that the switch had been left open and nearby stood Walter Donegan and Theodore Martin, a companion. Close questioning elicited the information that Donegan was responsible for the accident. He said that he was playing brakeman and had opened the switch for fun. Both boys were arrested, but Martin was released later, there being no charge against him. Donegan will probably be put in charge of the probation officer.

YOUTHFUL TRIO NABBED BY PLAINFIELD POLICE

ARMED WITH REVOLVER WERE BOUND FOR THE "WILD AND WOOLY WEST."

Making his rounds through West Eighth street at 1 o'clock this morning, Patrolman Arthur McGinley came upon three young men holding a conference beneath an electric light. All had the unmistakable evidence of coal train riding about them and one had a revolver fastened at his side. They were unable to give a satisfactory account of themselves and the officer took them to Police Headquarters.

At the station they described themselves as John Watson Davis, of New Orleans; John Winckler and John Miller, of Brooklyn, each nineteen years old. Davis, who was the possessor of the revolver, appeared to be an intelligent youth and acted as spokesman. He stated that the three had left Jersey City on a Lehigh Valley coaler yesterday with the intention of going West. They got tired when South Plainfield was reached and alighted to explore the surrounding country.

The prisoners were arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning and were released on suspended sentences after promising to return home. Davis informed Chief Kiely he would like to get a position in Plainfield and he is being detained at headquarters while officers are looking about for a place.

Special Musical Service.

The choir of the First Baptist church will give a special musical service Sunday night under the direction of E. J. Fitzhugh, who is acting organist during the absence of Howard Case. The choir will then take its vacation until September. The program will comprise selections from the Holy City; the anthems, "Until the Day Breaks," by Gounod; "O, Mother Dear Jerusalem," by Shelley; "To Christ, the Prince of Peace," by Fitzhugh, and "The Day is Gently Sinking to a Close," by Hyatt.

New Walk Leading to Station.

Employes of the New Jersey Central are now engaged in laying a stone walk from the eastbound station to Fourth street, independent of the winding path, which has always been there since the station was built. The new walk makes a short cut from the street to the station or vice-versa. Work has also been started laying a new drain in front of the eastbound station to carry off surface water.

Y. M. H. A. Will Hold a Picnic.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association at a regular meeting, last night, decided to hold a picnic at Gillette on August 18, and this committee of arrangements was appointed: Max W. Goldstein, chairman; Meyer Molodesky, David Wolf, Isidore Rothberg, Harry Siegal and Samuel Rothberg.

House in the West End.

Work has been commenced on a frame house to be erected on Mabel avenue, near Clinton avenue. Miss Anna White is the owner. The building will measure 20 by 26 feet. Fred L. Lancaster is the architect.

KEAN MUST GO DRY!

Mattano Club Withdraws Its Application for a License.

As far as the Elizabeth Mattano Clubs accommodations are concerned, Senator Kean, Congressman Charles N. Fowler and many of the most prominent men in Union county must go dry. As a result of the publicity which has been given to the legal obstacles which stand in the way of its being granted a license, the club formally withdrew its application for one yesterday morning.

Yesterday had been set for the hearing by Judge Atwater. The withdrawn was made by Clark McK. Whittemore.

Trip to Ellis Island.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church arranged for a trip to Ellis Island yesterday afternoon under the guidance of Kenneth Robbie, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. They were accompanied by friends interested in the study of the book, "The Incoming Millions." The party consisted of the following persons: Miss Fountain, Miss Dunham, Miss Biglow, Miss Runyon, Miss Boice, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Shreve, Miss Shreve, Miss Combs, Miss Tapping, Miss Moore, Miss Van Vliet and Miss Combs, of York, Pa.

Will Not Make Another County Road

The members of the Union County Board of Freeholders have decided not to make South Broad street, Elizabeth, a county road. The idea was first suggested by Freeholder Woodruff, but as the change seemed to be only one advantage to Rahway, the question was decided adversely.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $4 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Travelling men find best accommodation at the Hotel Kensington on North avenue. Excellent cuisine.

Ordered your winter supply of coal yet? If not do so at once and let TenEyck & Harris fill the order with the best anthracite mined.

Start an account at the Plainfield Savings Bank at once and you will never regret it. This institution pays liberal interest on all accounts and offer every facility for banking.

Dudley Miller, the Park avenue druggist, is making a specialty of Rexall goods, also his own preparations guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. His soda is refreshing these days.

Before leaving town for your vacation, take your silverware and valuables to the City National Bank and have it put in a safe deposit vault. It will fool the burglars if they break in while you're gone.

Iced tea is the best beverage for hot summer days. The Oolong and Formosa teas are delicious when iced. 'Phone your order to the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company on West Front street and try it tomorrow.

Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, has the reputation for doing first class repair work whether it be watches or clocks. He also carries a complete line of jewelry and silverware, and maintains an up-to-date optical department.

S. Scheuer & Co., the West Front street grocers and butchers, are constantly offering the best goods in the market and at such prices that everyone, no matter how limited their means, can secure them. The firm also handles fresh vegetables and fruits, including all kinds of berries and pineapples. Prompt deliveries are made.

A STRANGE DUEL

By CAPT. JAMES WELLS.

I was in love with the little Spanish beauty before I had been at the hacienda three days. But Capt. Almarez, the Chilian swashbuckler, already had been there a week, and I was sure that he had the better chance. She smiled at him as she never smiled at me. It made me angry. That was why I challenged him to duel, with pistols. I thought he was a coward and that he would not fight.

"Ah, captain," said he, "let us not mess up the hacienda with shooting one another. Let us settle it another way."

He led me out into the yard where the senor had two condors chained to iron posts. Great birds they were, with wings that spread perhaps ten feet. The senor had raised them from chicks, they told me.

"The birds, captain—they give me an idea. They never have flown, but their strong wings will bear them far. If a basket were fastened to them, they could lift a man in the air—perhaps. It would be worth trying."

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"Since you wish a duel to the death, let us toss for it—the loser to voyage into the air with the birds."

It was a foolish idea, but I would not be bluffed by the Chilian.

"All right, Almaraz," I said.

It is a queer country down there at the foot of the Andes. When Inez and the senor heard about it, instead of trying to prevent the odd duel between Alamaraz and myself, they encouraged it. The neighbors rode in from nearby haciendas, and all the servants and riders on the rancho gathered to see the senor toss the coin.

"Tails," said he. "Capt. Wells wins. Almaraz will make the voyage."

Pretty Inez kissed the Chilian goodby, and I almost wished that I had lost.

"Adois, dear one," she said. "The saints and the blessed virgin will save you."

Almaraz climbed into the wicker basket which had been harnessed to the giant birds. The senor unfastened the chain and the condors took wing.

For an instant it seemed certain that Almaraz would be upset from the basket. The birds resented their close partnership, and 50 to 100 feet in the air he performed like an acrobat keeping them together. There were some angry attempts at swooping on the part of one of them, with talons splayed, and quite a bit of condor music.

But the bigger of the two was a steady-minded bird, with its eye on the snowy peaks of the Andes in the west. The rebellious one, after a minute's hesitation, saw the point, and they went rapidly aloft and westward together. With a superb sweep of their wings they rose and rose, so near each other that the tips of their pinions seemed to touch.

We leaped upon our horses and galloped after them. The horror of it was upon us. I was sorry that I had challenged my rival. The girl loved him, and why should I have been so selfish as to interfere with his happiness? I vowed that if he ever came down from his mad flight in the heavens I would be his friend forever.

The condors rose tirelessly. They were a half mile, a mile high. They became two tiny specks in the blue South American sky. Almaraz looked like a toy—like a doll. Yet with sublime nerve he stood upright in the basket and guided as best he could his feathered steeds toward the distant crags.

I soon outstripped the others, for my horse was a thoroughbred. Mile after mile we went, and still I kept in sight of the dizzy voyagers. With my field glasses, which I put to my eyes now and then, I could see them plainly.

As the harnessed condors neared the first crag, I could see Almaraz above me, waving his white handkerchief at me, and I answered him with shouts which he doubtless did not hear. The condors circled with majestic grace and then swooped down and settled upon the crag—a mere splinter that pierced the heavens. The basket bumped against the stone, and was still. It seemed almost that Almaraz was doomed. He was 1,500 feet above the earth, where no human help could reach him.

My glasses surveyed him, and I saw him wave his handkerchief again. Then I saw him take his revolver from his pocket, and pointing it at the nearest bird fired.

I could not hear the sound, but I saw the puff of white smoke and understood his plan. He had killed the smaller bird. It toppled over toward him. The weight of the dead bird and of the basket was too much for the big condor. He clung to the crag for a minute and then dropped off and attempted to fly.

Down the huge evil bird came like a parachute, beating the air with his mighty wings—down, down, down. I galloped my tired horse around in circles and shouted mad words of encouragement.

Strange as it may seem Almaraz reached the ground in safety, stepped from the basket in front of me, smiled, waved his hand politely—and fainted.

He married Inez at the hacienda that afternoon. He deserved his happiness.

And to think how mistaken a man may be! I had sized up that Chilian as a swashbuckler and a coward.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

GEO. B. WEAN, City Clerk pro tem.
Plainfield, N. J., July 15, 1907.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend An Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance Relating to the Morals, Peace and Good Order of the City of Plainfield," Approved April 27, 1874, as Amended.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 11 of the Ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "Sec. 11. For unnecessarily obstructing the streets or byways of the city with any kind of vehicles, or with boxes, lumber, timber, wood or any other thing, any sum not exceeding ten dollars; and for continuing any of the above obstructions after having been notified to remove them by the Street Commissioner (or any other officer of the city government authorized to give such notice), any sum not exceeding ten dollars for each day of such continuance, not exceeding one hundred dollars on any one conviction; provided that the provisions of this section shall not be construed to prevent persons who are building from occupying one-half the width of the sidewalk and one-third the width of the roadway in front of the place where they are so building, upon their first obtaining from the Street Commissioner or the Common Council written permit so to do."

Office of the Street Commissioner,
City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

To MARIA D. ULRICK, or unknown owner of No. 143 and No. 145 East Fifth Street.

Pursuant to the requirements of Sections 4 and 6 of the ordinance of the City of Plainfield, entitled, "An Ordinance concerning the construction, maintenance and repair of sidewalks," approved April 10, 1899, amended by ordinances approved August 4, 1902, June 6, 1905, June 6, 1906.

You are hereby notified and required on or before September 25, 1907, to curb the sidewalk abutting on the premises owned by you, situate number 143 and number 145 East Fifth Street, in the City of Plainfield, Union County, and State of New Jersey, which curbing shall be of bluestone not less than four inches thick in the thinnest part, sixteen inches in depth, all return curbs to have a radius of six feet, no piece to be less than three feet two inches in length, and all curbs to be smooth and even on the surface and laid under the direction of the Street Commissioner.

In default of compliance herewith, the Common Council is authorized by law to order the required work to be done and paid for; to make the amount of the expense and costs a lien upon the said abutting lands in front of which said work is done, to be collected in the manner provided by law and to bear interest at the same rate as other assessments; or payment may be enforced by action any court of competent jurisdiction, as provided by the statute.

ANDREW J. GAVETT,
Street Commissioner of the City of Plainfield.

J. SACHAR,

TWO PATIENTS

MRS. MALONEY had eight children. This is sufficient explanation of the fact that she remained calm in the face of the unexpected and that her nerves withstood the shock of childish illnesses. When one has entertained everything from measles to typhoid in one's own family it takes more than a cough and the sniffles to arouse one's alarm.

Mrs. Maloney, as she prepared to leave for her day's work in the laundry at the home of the Benningtons on the boulevard, took time to bestow a thoughtful look on her youngest, aged three, whose voice was reduced to a growl, whose eyes ran constant tears and who was engaged in coughing at the command of the next oldest, who liked to hear it.

"Mary," said Mrs. Maloney to the young person, aged 12, who was left in charge of her younger brothers and sisters, "Denny's got a cold. You'd best put an onion poultice on him." So saying, the good woman departed.

Over at the Bennington's she found all in confusion. A housemaid summoned her into the presence of Mrs. Bennington herself, who was looking becomingly distracted in the perfection of pink house gowns.

"Oh, Mrs. Maloney!" she cried. "You can tell me what to do before the doctor gets here. You have children and know all about them! It's David! He—he's dreadfully sick!"

"What's the matter with the darlin'?" asked Mrs. Maloney as she turned to David Bennington, Jr. He was a pale, reserved little boy of four years. To-day he sat listlessly among his toys. To the casual eye he appeared to be in his normal condition.

"He sneezed twice just now!" Mrs. Bennington half gasped. "And once he coughed. I shall never forget that cough! Why doesn't the doctor hurry?"

"I think," said Mrs. Maloney, after picking David up to get a better view of him, "I think he just has a cold in his head, ma'am. I wouldn't worry. He'll be all right. Maybe an onion poultice, now—"

The doctor on his arrival repeated Mrs. Maloney's verdict in more complicated terms. Yes, if she liked, Mrs. Bennington might put David to bed. At least he would catch no more cold that way.

So, propped up by pillows with the sunlight beaming upon him, young David passed the day. His nurse sat near to amuse him. His worried mother canceled a luncheon engagement. He had two alcohol rubs during the afternoon.

Mrs. Maloney, as echoes of the proceedings above stairs trickled down to the laundry, spoke her mind to the housemaid. "Do she always act this way when the child winks?" she asked.

"Always—and more," the housemaid made answer.

"Humph!" commented Mrs. Maloney. "Wait till she's had eight! I left Denny this mornin' with a cold that was newmony and lung fever compared with this! She'll worrit the child to death!"

Then Mrs. Maloney went home to the eight and an evening's work getting their supper. She found that Denny had cast off the onion poultice as soon as his sister's back was turned and had spent the morning playing in a neighbor's small duck pond, with the temperature in the 40s. In the afternoon he had run away without his hood and coat and had been gone two hours. He was red-cheeked from exercise and a slight fever, hoarse as a crow and still damp from the duck pond. Mrs. Maloney, after kissing him, spanked him for good measure and put him to bed. Then she nonchalantly proceeded to cook the evening meal and settle the quarrels of the seven other young Maloneys.

When, a week later, she again went to the Bennington's, Denny's cold was a thing of the past. Mrs. Maloney also had forgotten little David Bennington's case of sniffles when she beamingly descended on the kitchen.

"Hadn't you heard?" the housemaid asked, wiping her eyes. "Little David—he died four days ago. They had five doctors, but he just went away. It was pneumonia."

Mrs. Maloney sat down heavily. "Poor woman!" she said at last. "I said she'd do it! She just worried him into it! Now, if she'd only tried an onion poultice! It cured my Denny."—Chicago Daily News.

Plainfield, N. J., July 25, 1907.

TO DAILY PRESS READERS.

Arrangements have been made by The Daily Press—Plainfield's leading newspaper—for the publication in its columns of one of the greatest stories of modern times from the fascinating pen of that giant of finance, Thomas W. Lawson, the author of "Frenzied Finance" and the internationally renowned enemy of "The System." The masterpiece of fiction, which has already appeared in book form, is entitled "Friday The 13th." It is a story of today; a story of passionate love; a story of money-madness. This most fascinating tale will be presented to The Daily Press readers in serial form, beginning on Monday.

Another attractive feature which this paper has in store for its readers is a series of high class detective stories by Captain Patrick D. Tyrrell. The series is entitled "Stories of the Secret Service." The first installment will be "The Lincoln Tomb Robbers." It is a true account of the desecration of the grave of the Martyr-President at Springfield in 1876 and the capture of a daring gang of counterfeiters that preceded it. This series will be begun on Saturday.

The custom inaugurated in the spring of bulletining the results of the National and American League games by wire service immediately after the contests are ended has met with such a hearty reception on the part of the "fans" that the scheme will be made permanent. In the fall the results of the college football games will be displayed in like fashion.

BITTER ATTACK ON PRESIDENT.

In so many words the New York Times makes a bitter attack on President Roosevelt today intimating that his apparent non-action in the North Carolina trouble is due to self-interest and that he has proven himself a coward. Under the caption "If Jackson Were President," the Times says editorially:

"When Andrew Jackson was President and South Carolina threatened nullification of a Federal law, the Administration's precedure was swift, stern, and effective. Under the Administration of Theodore Roosevelt a Governor of North Carolina trumpets it through all the land that he flouts the Constitution of the United States, and will resist the enforcement of the orders of a Federal court. As his sole response to this threat, President Roosevelt dispatches to North Carolina Assistant Attorney General Edward T. Sanford to propose a compromise and 'peaceful settlement.' Sometimes, not conscience, but calculation and self-interest, make cowards."

BOOM FOR SWACKHAMER

Samuel "Swing-arm" Swackhamer, as he has been facetiously called, has a friend over in Middlesex county who appreciates his ability as a leader of men, as an exchange in that section has this to say of the North Plainfield "Lincoln:" "The Democratic boom factory has thus far ignored the claims of its most picturesque possibility—the Hon. Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield. This Lincoln-like gentleman sat in the House of Assembly for two years and was several years ahead of present Democratic members in advocating their pet reform movements. When minority leader he made Colby's leadership of the Republican majority look sickly, and his history makes the present Lethbridge-Klenert-Hahn leadership of the Assembly look childish. Mr. Swackhamer was an accident, hence he was an unbossed Democratic legislator, and maybe he didn't make things hum for a while in the Capitol. We guess he was a little too independent for leadership of the Smith kind and that is why no movement for him this year is allowed to show its head."

SENTENCE TOO LENIENT.

It is generally regretted in Plainfield that Judge Atwater should have dealt so leniently with Charles Hopes, the negro who attempted to assault a three-year-old white girl. The offense of which he was guilty, the vilest form of crime, would warrant the full penalty, twelve years in State's prison, and a sentence of but two yeads is not calculated to deter others from committing like offenses.

IS THIS JUSTICE?

A drunken man attempts to break in a front door and gets three years in State's prison. In the same court, a man who attempts to despoil a three-year-old child, receives two years.

Plainfield newspapers think that Mayor Charles Fisk is of Gubernatorial size. It begins to look as though every spot in the State might have a "favorite son" pretty soon—possibly even Hoboken—New Brunswick Home News.

Yes, we have a bushel of them ourselves. Take for instance men like Alexander Gilbert and Ernest R. Ackerman—wouldn't they be ideal Governors?

"The oldest inhabitant" will be interest in the items culled from The Constitutionist and reproduced in these columns daily. See page three of this issue.

Say, neighbors, wouldn't you like to have a C. J. Fisk as mayor?

one of the best citizens of Franklin township. While he has not had a great amount of experience in the political arena as yet he is very popular and would poll a wonderful vote, the knowing ones say.

There does not seem to be any great stir over the nomination for surrogate on either side of the house. It has been the custom to accord two terms to many of the surrogates and the general belief is that this is properly so. The present incumbent, William J. De Mond, will, without doubt, be nominated for re-election on the Democratic ticket. No candidates have appeared in the field against him so far. He is exceptionally close to the leaders and is very popular among the masses. Surrogate De Mond has made a painstaking and conscientious official during the five years he has been in office and his friends are legion.

In the Republican ranks there are a number of men, who, it is said, are in a receptive mood for the nomination for surrogate. North Plainfield sports two, both of whom would make good officials. They are Tax Collector George F. Brown and Borough Clerk Frank Rowley. The former is being quietly boomed and the latter is said to entertain aspirations to capture the office.

Then there is a rumor that the present sheriff, Edward E. Cooper, of Warren township, would take the nomination for surrogate on the Republican ticket. Many seem to doubt whether he would or not, but if he should he would make a great run, as he is very popular particularly in the rural precincts. As far as can be learned he has not expressed himself definitely on the subject.

Heptasophs Did Not Install Officers.

Because the district deputy failed to put in an appearance, the officers-elect of Protective Conclave, Improved Order Heptasophs, could not be installed last night. This will be done later. A committee comprising Robert Barnhard, chairman; Allen Vanderhoff, Charles Harral and Frederick Spellmeyer was appointed to arrange for an entertainment in the fall, and Mr. Barnhard was also appointed a committee of one to attend a meeting of the Orange Conclave, next week, when matters of importance are to be discussed.

P. S. C. Laying New Rails.

The Public Service Corporation began this morning of laying new rails on West Front street, starting at Park avenue, it being the purpose to replace all of the old rails in the business section of West Front street, between Park and Madison avenues, before the city lays the brick pavement. The rails now in use have been in the service for many years and are much too light for the present heavy traffic.

—Patrick Purcell, arrested on Park avenue last night for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was released on suspended sentence by Judge Runyon this morning.

THE FORUM.

Remarkable Woman Indeed.

Editor, The Daily Press:

As a railroad man of wide experience, I was much amused at an account in another local paper last night, of how a young woman had caught a train at the North Avenue station yesterday morning as it was travelling at the rate of twenty miles an hour. From a newspaper standpoint it sounded good but the writer evidently overlooked the following facts:

(1) No man (let alone a woman) has even been known to catch a train going at twenty miles an hour and live to tell about it afterward.

(2) While the work of putting new bridges over Park and Watchung avenues is in progress, none of the New Jersey Central's trains pass between Madison avenue and Richmond street at a speed greater than ten miles an hour, having to switch at both ends.

(3) How far did the young woman run before she swung aboard a car, as since the train started from the North Avenue station I know from experience that it would have to go a pretty good distance in order to gain a speed of twenty miles an hour.

If these details could be explained to me, I would appreciate it very much. If I am mistaken in my conclusions and the young woman really did catch the train going at the speed mentioned, she doesn't need to worry about losing her job for being late. Wealth and glory would be hers for the mere trouble of entering the National speed contests, wherein men carry off pots of gold for developing a much lower speed than she is credited with.

Yours in perplexity,
ALLEN J. ROSS.

Sons of Jacob Elect.

The Sons of Jacob met in their hall on West Front street, last night, and elected these officers for the ensuing year: President, M. J. Leitner; vice president, Leo Slonim; secretary, Louis Steigman; financial secretary, Samuel Rothberg; treasurer, Marcus Silbert; sergeant-at-arms, Adolph Brandt. After the election the members and their wives enjoyed a social hour and refreshments were served.

Assemblyman Drake for Pitney.

Assemblyman W. L. Drake, of Stilton, Middlesex county, made a flying business trip to High Bridge yesterday. In speaking of the political situation he said: "I advocate the nomination of Mahlon Pitney, of Morris, for Governor. Without a doubt he will carry the Republican party to victory in November."

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. D. Z. Laidlaw, of Watchung, who recently bought the Foote farm from Mr. Waldron, of Bayonne, will take possession within a few weeks. She is planning extensive improvements.

Signs have been posted along the mill dam by the Middlesex Water Co. prohibiting any one bathing in the lake, as much of the water is used to supply families with drinking water.

Since $500 reward has been offered, the boys have not broken the boatlocks or damaged them in any way.

Mrs. William H. Manning has gone to visit her daughter at Asbury Park.

Several new boats are being built, and will be launched shortly.

Mrs. Alfred Springer has gone to Asbury Park to recuperate.

Mrs. Thompson, of Newark, is visiting relatives in town.

TWO BARNS BURNED NEAR WHITEHOUSE.

Mrs. Hoffman, at the Risk of Her Life, Rescues Her Pet Horse from the Flames.

Barns on the farms of Henry C. Hoffman and J. Emmett Rinehart, between New Germantown and Pottersville, were destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The farms adjoin each other, and Mr. Hoffman's barn went first. He was awakened at about 10:30 p. m., when he discovered that a barrack of rye near his barn was on fire. He ran out in his night-clothing, but could do nothing to prevent the flames from reaching his barn, which was soon ablaze. With the aid of neighbors he got out all the horses and some of the machinery. A large quantity of grain and hay was consumed.

Mrs. Hoffman has a horse that is an especial pet, and she rescued it at the risk of her own life. When the fire was raging fiercely she entered the barn and untied the horse, which was nearly frantic with fright. The animal plunged toward the doorway, and in doing so knocked her down. She was stunned and lay for a few moments before she had sufficiently recovered to make her escape, severely burned about the head and neck.

Nearly all the neighbors had returned to their homes, excepting J. Emmett Rinehart, a nephew of Mr. Hoffman, who, in looking across a large field to the barn buildings on Mr. Rinehart's farm, a sheet of flames was seen belching through the roof of his barn. Jumping into a wagon he and Mr. Hoffman reached the place in time to rescue Mr. Rinehart's horses and nearly all of his machinery. The neighbors for a second time awakened by the alarm of fire were soon on hand again, and the work of saving Mr. Rinehart's other outbuildings was carried on successfully.

The loss on the two barns burned will foot up to nearly $6,500, which is almost wholly covered by insurance. It is believed the fires were of incendiary origin.

VIGILANTES AFTER FIRE-BUG.

He Seemes to Have Spite Against Old Church in Rahway.

Residents of the second and fifth wards of Rahway, are organizing a vigilance committee to capture the incendiary who has caused the many fires in that section during the past few months.

He seems to have a spite against the old First Presbyterian church, one attempt having been made to burn the sheds in its rear, and the office and tool-house in the Rahway cemetery, which is the property of the church, having been burned three times.

—The Hopewell Presbyterian Sunday-school will run their annual excursion to Willow Grove, near Philadelphia, The Fairyland of America, Wednesday, Aug. 7. Trains leave Weston at 8:05 a. m.; leave Bound Brook for Weston by 7:40 train.

COMMISSION'S REPORT

der review and at our request the Attorneys for the City and Borough Councils prepared and obtained the necessary legislative enactments, authorizing the City and the Borough to mutually contract for the disposal of the Borough's sewage by the City, and also authorizing the issuance of longer term bonds against the improvement contemplated, as well as a minimum sinking fund of one per cent. to retire such bonds at their maturity.

"As before indicated the comparative financial advantage between the installation by the Borough of its own plant as compared with a contract for disposal of the Borough's sewage by the City, is in considerable and further negotiations with the City have resulted in a tentative proposition, which, in respect of the life of the contemplated agreement, is more favorable to the Borough and overcomes what otherwise would prove an unsurmountable obstacle to such a contract.

"To obviate possible litigation, it was deemed advisable to secure the consent of the North Plainfield Township Committee to the location of purification works within the limits of said Township, should it be deemed advisable for the Borough to install its own disposal plant. With this in view, an option was secured upon a suitable site, fairly remote from any built-up section. Application was thereupon made to the Township Committee for its consent, in return for which this Commission suggested that the Borough might agree to dispose of the Township sewage free of charge for a term of years. No favorable response to this application has been received. Furthermore, the Borough of Dunellen —whose co-operation was expected —has entered a protest against any disposal works at the location selected.

"While the figures of Messrs. Herring & Fuller indicate a saving of about $6,000 during the first ten years in favor of a Borough disposal plant, we would point out that a large proportion of this saving is obtained by figuring the amount annually set aside for sinking fund, against cost (about $35,000) of the Borough's own disposal works, as representing a permanent investment; whereas, it seems to us this should be written off to depreciation. We are of the opinion that the most up-to-date system of sewage purification will in the course of ten or fifteen years become obsolete or at least uneconomical when compared with more improved methods which science and ingenuity will doubtless evolve. Furthermore, we are inclined to believe that house connections with the collecting sewers will not be made as rapidly as planned, and for this reason the average daily flow for the first ten years and consequent payment to the City will be less than that indicated in Herring & Fuller's report. The present time is not opportune for economical construction nor for sale of bonds on a favorable basis, and therefore we favor the Borough saving the extra amount—of about $65,000—which would be envolved by building its own purification plant and outfall sewer thereto, pending the time when a final solution of this problem can be made in conjunction with the City and possibly other municipalities.

"In view of the foregoing, this Commission is in favor of a contract with the City of Plainfield upon the following terms and conditions: The City and Borough to enter into a contract providing for the disposal of the Borough sewage by the City at a rate for the next ten years of $25 per one million gallons. At the expiration of said ten years and at the end of each ten years thereafter, contract shall be renewed upon terms and conditions to be fixed by appointing a joint Commission, composed of one representative from the City and one from the Borough; these two to select a third or should they be unable to agree, the selection of a third Commissioner shall be made by the Court usually charged with similar appointments. Should at any time the City deem it necessary or advisable to remove its disposal plant to a more remote situation, then the City and Borough shall jointly construct an outfall sewer and disposal works, the cost and maintenance of which shall be borne by the two municipalities pro rata, according to the valuation of their respective ratables, in lieu of said rate of $25 per million gallons, or other terms agreed upon for use of the City's present disposal works.

"We advise that collecting and outfall sewers to the City's works be installed in accordance with Messrs. Herring & Fuller's general specifications and plans previously submitted by us, that Messrs. Herring & Fuller be retained to prepare detailed specifications and to oversee the work until its completion; and that real estate in the Borough shall be assessed for cost of all house connections from sewers to curb line and for 60 cents per running foot of collecting sewer i. e. 30 cents per foot frontage on each side of all streets sewered. To otherwise provide for the cost of the improvements, we advise the issuance and sale of Borough Sewer Bonds bearing interest at the rate, if possible, of 4½ per cent. per annum to be retired at maturity by creation of a sinking fund at the rate of say 1.183 per cent. per annum. After deducting the assessments just mentioned the cost to the Borough of installing, collecting and outfall sewers including syphons to City's works is estimated at $124,000; and for the first ten years the average annual expense for maintenance, payments to the City, interest and sinking fund is estimated at $13,500. This annual charge is predicated upon the ability of the Borough to sell its 40 year bonds on a basis of 4½ per cent.

"We therefore recommend:

"(A) That a formal contract between the City and the Borough for disposal of the Borough's sewage be drawn up and submitted to the Borough Council for approval; that the same be endorsed by the City Council and finally sanctioned by the Borough's property owners and voters as required by law.

"(B) That Messrs. Herring & Fuller should prepare detailed specifications, and plans, and form of contract for the work.

"(C) That proper steps be taken to insure a favorable sale of the Borough's bonds sufficient to cover the proposed improvement.

"(D) That a special Committee be appointed to supervise all work connected with the installation of the sewers, including that of securing the necessary consent of property owners—preparation of agreements with the City and contractors —securing rigid inspection of all work and that of obtaining the best terms for the necessary issue of Borough Sewer Bonds.

"Respectfully submitted,
"C. W. McCUTCHEN,
EDWIN S. HOOLEY,
CHARLES L. NICHOLS,
J. H. COOLEY,
W. J. BUTTFIELD."

JERSEY CENTRAL'S BIG WAREHOUSE FINISHED

STRUCTURE AT NEWARK OCCUPIES CITY BLOCK—6 STORIES HIGH.

The opening of the immense building at Mechanic, Lawrence and Ward streets, Newark, which the Newark Warehouse Company has constructed for the better handling of freight coming into the city on the New Jersey Central has been set for the evening of August 1st. The warehouse company has prepared 5,000 invitations which will be sent to prominent business men and their wives, asking them to be guests of the company on that date. The affair promises to be a notable commercial and social event in New Jersey. Refreshments will be served, and there will be music to entertain the visitors. The building, which will be decorated with flags and bunting and several thousand electric lights, will be thrown open for inspection, between 7.30 and 10 o'clock.

Railroad men say that the warehouse is unique, and that there are few buildings in the country better adapted for the purpose for which it has been built. The cars of the New Jersey Central will be switched into the ground floor of the structure, where their contents will be unloaded and lifted by means of a complete elevator system to various floors set aside for the different classes of merchandise, there to be stored until the consignee wants them, or else unloaded directly onto trucks.

The entire building is of re-inforced concrete. There is nothing in its construction that can burn. If the merchandise stored there should by any means, catch fire, there is in addition a complete sprinkler system so that the risk from flames is reduced to a minimus.

An idea of the size of the structure, which occupies a city block and is six stories high, may be gained from the fact that there is 370,000 square feet of floor space. The total weight of steel used in construction is 6,000 tons. There are fourteen elevators and eighty gravity conveyances. Fifty freight cars can be accommodated on the tracks inside the building and there is room for the storage of 1,200 carloads of freight.

S. T. Sarson, of Watchung avenue, has returned from Manasquan Beach, greatly improved in health. He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Haberle at their summer home.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. E. H. Curtis, general representative of the Anti-Saloon League, of New Jersey, will occupy the pulpit at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning, and will also speak at the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon.

G. H. Van Nest, of Whitewood avenue, the borough, entertained the Baraca Class, of Faith chapel, of which he is president, at his home Tuesday night. The program was an informal one, after which refreshments were served.

Reports of the remarkable manifestations at the Rock Springs' Convention, held recently at Lancaster, Pa., will be given at the meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the rooms on Madison avenue.

The place of worship known as the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle, has been changed and will hereafter be designated as the West End Mission. Several new workers have been interested in the religious enterprise and plans are being perfected for enlarging its scope.

SEARCHING FOR JAIL-BREAKER

Negro Takes French Leave When Cook Comes Round.

Sheriff George Shaw and posse were searching all yesterday for James Ardie, a negro, 18 years old, who escaped from the Morris county jail early yesterday morning.

Ardie was held pending transfer to Rahway, having been sentenced to the reformatory for the theft of jewelry from Mrs. Scharendorf, proprietor of the Melrose boarding house, by whom he had been employed. His absence was discovered just before breakfast, and it is thought that he slipped out when the cook took the meal into the jail.

—John Venable, colored, was one of several persons who assisted Mrs. Adam Sachs and her sister, Mrs. Kate Pabt, of Mount Bethel, whose rig collided with that of Thomas Cogan, of West Seventh street, under the Park avenue railroad bridge, Monday night.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

July 28: "Enriching Others."—II Cor. viii, 9.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Mark x. 45; Phil. ii, 9-11; Dan. xii, 3; I Tim. iv, 15.

"For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might become rich."

Selfishness is self destructive. The rule "Look out for number one" is the acme of foolishness as well as the epitome of selfishness. There is a sentiment abroad that all care for and help of others is just so much subtracted from one's own personal good and is to be charged to the account of profit and loss, but always on the loss side of the ledger. It is one of the most serious of falsities. It is quite possible that its open advocacy in recent times is due to the unwarrantable emphasis placed on the physical side of being, an unphilosophical and untenable theory of evolution which knows nothing of spirit except as some sort of material product.

If human existence was nothing but a struggle for food, and life had no other significance than the propagation of the species, and its highest law was the survival of the fittest, and that fittest was merely the strongest physically and nimblest mentally, even then selfishness would be the certain road to destruction. If one cares to study life at all it is well to have proper regard for facts as they are and try to fit theories somewhat closely to the facts, for they have at sundry times been found to be stubborn things and have even been known to be destructive of some very pretty theories which but for their contradiction of the nature of things might have had some standing room.

Now, one of the most persistent of facts, which ever and anon obtrudes itself, even where least welcome, is this: Human nature has a social side as well as a physical one, and its needs are very insistent. We also have a religious element in our composition whose demands are sometimes clamorous. There are times when these inner powers grip us so hard that we lose all care and indeed all sight of physical wants. We are not all stomach, though some of our teachers would have us think so and some of us act as if we half believed them at times.

We all have some sane moments when the deep things of our nature get a chance to speak out. Then we know that we have deep care for others. Life's supremest joy comes not in getting, but in giving; not in being loved, but in pouring out unstintedly our soul's deepest affection. We crave companionship, fellowship, more than we hunger for bread and meat. It makes little difference whether you call all this by the name of altruism or how you style it, the truth remains the same, even if we have no name for it. We must give our thought to others, we must work for others, we must lavish our heart affection on others, for we are made that way and the inner nature must have outward expression.

It has been said that self preservation is the first law of nature. Deeper than this in our constitution lies the law of self impartation. This may at times necessitate self denial, which is ever a path of hardship, because it entails self repression. More frequently it rises to the supreme heights of self sacrifice, which is the fullest self expression and yields boundless satisfaction and delight. The body may suffer, but the soul exults and triumphs in the pouring out of itself to the fullest, knowing that another is blessed thereby. Only thus is any soul able to come into its own and find the enriching of its own nature. "Give and it shall be given unto you again."

To Enter Heaven.

If we do not enter the kingdom here, we shall not hereafter. If the good in us does not begin now, we have no reason to suppose that it ever will. If our mind does not begin to take on some resemblance, however faint, to the mind of Christ, we may suppose that it never will. While the kingdom of heaven is primarily a condition rather than a country, it is also a country, because there must be a place where those who have entered it live in the world to come as well as in this world, and the separation which begins now, in the next life is continued, intensified. That being so, the only way for us to enter it then is to enter it now. Let us take, then, to ourselves these solemn words of Jesus, looking into our souls, asking of ourselves the questions: "Am I in the kingdom, or am I trusting to what I believe? Am I trying to do as the Master did? Do I love him, and am I a subject of the kingdom of truth and of righteousness and of love?"—Rev. Wolcott Fay.

Endure—to Win.

Accustom yourself to submit on all and every occasion on the most minute no less than on the most important circumstances of life to a small present evil to obtain a greater distant good. This will give decision, tone and energy to the mind, which thus disciplined will often reap victory from defeat and honor from repulse. Having acquired this invaluable habit of rational preference and just appreciation, start for that prize that endureth forever; you will have little left to learn. The advantages you will possess over common minds will be those of the lanista over the tyro and of the veteran over the recruit.—Rev. C. C. Colton.

Danger of Self Indulgence.

One of the worst perils of Christian lives lies in the line of self indulgence. We take too good care of ourselves. We keep ourselves back from hard tasks and stern self denials. Consequently we do not find the joy that is possible in Christian living.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 28.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Home missions; the progress of work among the Mormons.—Matt. vii, 15-23; xxiv, 11.

The history of the Church of Latter Day Saints, who are commonly called Mormons, is more or less familiar to all the Christian people of our land. Mormonism was organized by Joseph Smith in New York. The Mormons settled in Ohio, but were practically driven out of that state and immigrated to Missouri. There they grew and flourished for a number of years, but aroused the enmity of the gentiles and Joseph Smith, the president, was murdered, a very unfortunate affair, for because of internal strife the Mormon church might have become disrupted. But Smith's death made a martyr of him, and the church rapidly increased in numbers. Under the leadership of Brigham Young the Mormons again went westward as far as Utah and entered the narrow pass which opens into the beautiful valley surrounding Great Salt lake, one of the most beautiful places in the United States. Here Salt Lake City has been builded, and the entire state of Utah is controlled politically by the Mormons, and they are factors in many of the surrounding states. It has been claimed that the aim of the Mormons is to control enough states in the west to hold the balance of power in the United States senate, but this is doubtful.

The greatest menace of Mormonism has been polygamy. The present president, also named Smith, has a number of wives and a large number of children. For years this sin against God and humanity, and especially against womanhood, openly flourished and was preached and practiced. One point of progress made in the missionary salvation of Utah has been the enactment of a national law against polygamy and its decrease by Christian instruction of the youth. Very few young men in Utah are polygamists, but the testimony of our missionaries declares that all polygamy has not ceased, and their knowledge on this subject cannot be disputed.

Great missionary progress has been made along educational lines in Utah. The missionaries constantly emphasize the fact that Utah can be saved only through the reaching of the children and the youth. The salvation of any people falsely trained is in the youth. Older people cannot so easily change their ways and, at least in Utah, do not seem to have much desire to do so. But it is a more easy task to reach the young and to instruct them in the proper ways. The three great tasks before the church through the schools is to show the superiority of the Scriptures over the Book of Mormon, their Bible. This is not a difficult matter when the opportunity is afforded. The Book of Mormon cannot compare with the Bible. It was largely taken from a romance written by a Presbyterian minister in western Pennsylvania concerning the ten lost tribes of Israel and makes a poor substitution for the word of God. A second work is to give the young a true conception of God. The Mormons speak of God, but to them God is a man, and all men may become gods. This idea is such an absurdity that great progress is made among the young in this respect. The third great work is to point out the shame and sinfulness of polygamy. Nor is this a difficult matter. Most of the young people are familiar with the evils of plural marriages. They desire to keep the law, and they are fast coming to believe that the ideal marriage is between one man and one woman. Thus the missionary and the teacher are doing much to bring about a change among this sinful and benighted people and should receive our heartiest support.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xiv, 20; Ps. ii, 1-12; xxxiii, 12; lxxii, 17-19; cxix, 105-121; cxxxv, 15-21; Isa. liii, 7; Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; Acts i, 1-11.

In Duty.

I am a Christian Endeavorer because I want to do something. A reverend and much loved brother walked into my study one day and asked me the meaning of "Endeavor." I immediately turned up my big lexicon and found that it comes from two French words, en (in) devoir (duty). What a splendid motto for a society! In duty. In duty. Duty is that which I am bound to do. Young men and women around me, boys and girls, old and feeble, sick and poor, are crying to me for help. The Christian Endeavor shows me how I can help them. I never allow my Christian Endeavor meetings to be frittered away over useless twaddle or matters of business. Time is too precious. Lives are at stake. Soul lives are being thrown away. Men and women are perishing, and I am "in duty." I must find "work" in God's world. No one can find it for me. If there is not an open door, I must knock a hole in the wall. There is a word of praise to be given, a buttonhole of flowers to be placed in the pulpit, a token of love for some one who wants it, and because I love to be always "in duty" therefore I am a Christian Endeavorer.—Dr. Torr in Australian Golden Link.

Notes From Afar.

There are now sixteen Christian Endeavor newspapers in Europe. These are found in twelve countries.

A friend in Lodz, Russian Poland, writes that even with all the stirring times they are having there Christian Endeavor keeps right on and new societies, especially Junior societies, are being formed.

During a recent period of eight months the Endeavorers of the Chittoor union, India, preached the gospel to 2,330 people in seventy-three places.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

It will be a red-hot contest at Crescent Oval on Saturday between the Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains teams. These nines are fighting hard for first place, which is now held by Clinton Avenue, and will make the effort of their lives to win Saturday.

The fact that Clinton Avenue does not play a league game on Saturday will help either Y. M. C. A. or Scotch Plains to improve their position. The result will be watched with more than ordinary interest by the fans.

Hal Chase's record of safe hitting in consecutive games is twenty-five. Not since June 24 has he gone into a game without getting one or more safeties. He has climbed up close to the .300 mark.

Johnny Evers has missed only three games in the last two years and his work has been of the highest order.

Larry Doyle, the new second baseman of the Giants, is rapidly getting accustomed to his team-mates and surroundings. On Tuesday he put up a fast article of ball against Chicago, securing one hit besides.

Because Boston was kind enough to beat Pittsburg on Tuesday, the Giants were permitted to return to second place, yesterday, and it is to be hoped that they will stay there for awhile.

Clarkson pitched for Cleveland against Washington on Tuesday, winning his game by a score of 3 to 1. He allowed the Senators but two hits. This is the first time Clarkson has showed good form in months.

Baseball teams from Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., will play their first contest of a series near the Pond Machine Tool Works, Saturday afternoon.

Fred Burchell, the fast pitcher with the Baltimore Eastern League club, still continues to win games. On Tuesday he shut Rochester out by a score of 5 to 0.

The Highlanders have returned from the West and will entertain the Metropolitan fans for some time while the Giants are on the road.

GOLF.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers is still following the game of golf and is a familiar figure on the local courses. While her son has been enjoying a furlough from army duties, they have spent much time in playing the game.

There continues to be a notable absence of women in the various golf competitions at the Plainfield Country Club. Perhaps, the fact that many are away from the city may account for the scarcity of the fair sex, but even in the spring and fall there are not many of them that participate in the game.

Beginning in September the women will hold the championship golf tournament at the Plainfield Country Club, and this may have a tendency to bring out a large field. The schedule provides for clock golf and play for the Patterson cup, as well as the championship event. There will also be a competition for the consolation championship cup.

The amateur and professional golf tournament will begin on the Van-Cortlandt Park course on Wednesday, July 31, and there promises to be a very large field.

During the recent amateur golf championship at Cleveland, thousands of dollars changed hands. After the qualifying round private pools were sold at a rate that would have done credit to a grand circuit trotting meeting. Hugo R. Johnstone, the wealthy Hyopia golfer, had Walter J. Travis, while A. F. Austin, the Canadian millionaire, kept bidding up George S. Lyon, of Toronto. A Pittsburg combination, which held the Jerome D. Travers tickets, was credited with cleaning up about $2,500.

Willie Dunn, who led the professional golfers in this country a dozen years ago, has had his ups and downs since then. He returned to Great Britain last year and recently took charge of the Luccombe estate green on the Isle of Wight.

The Western Golf Association has started to investigate certain reports concerning alleged irregularity of scores handed in during the recent open championship, under the auspices of that body. With competent scorers troubles of this kind never occur.

J. D. Travers, of Montclair, the national champion, has not decided as yet whether or not he will take part in the annual invitation tournament at Shinnecock Hills next month. Travers won this tournament a year ago, defeating W. J. Travis, in one of the early rounds, and Howard W. Perrin, of Philadelphia, in the final.

Several of the leading players in the Hudson River Golf League failed to compete in the recent championship at Poughkeepsie, and as a result Gilman P. Tiffany had the easiest kind of a win. He has won the Hudson River title four years

"THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE"
MARKET, HALSEY & BANK STS.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

We are justly proud of our mail order system. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger mail order system is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking effort. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly by mail as in person. There are no delays—no errors—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

Special July Sale

We are now in the second week of our July Sale of Slightly Used and Second Hand Upright Pianos, Square Pianos and Organs. Already during the past week a host of people have taken this unusual opportunity to secure a fine Piano at a very low price. There are still left several very fine instruments of well known and standard makes to select from and we have added to the list a number of instruments which we have taken in during the past week; also a number of slightly shop worn instruments. We will dispose of every one between now and August 1st at remarkably low prices and terms. If you have been delaying or waiting for an opportunity to add a Piano to the beauty and happiness of your home you should come to us at once and decide the matter now. You can make a first payment of from $5 to $10, according to the price of the instrument selected, the balance in small monthly payments. In the purchase price is included a stool, scarf or cover, free delivery to your parlor and one year's tuning.

The Stock Clearance Sale

Thousands of men and women filled this house to its capacity all last week—they came expecting to buy their needs at a saving—they purchased and were satisfied. No matter what their needs, if it was here it was at a saving. Every item of this big stock was marked over to make it a real stock clearance and the public was not disappointed. It is imperative that you know us from the outset—that you know our methods—for we are here to be with you as citizens and merchants. We are going to be frank with you at all times. If you see it advertised here you will know it is just as we claim for it. We are going to work to keep the trade of Plainfield, and its natural tributary shopping, in Plainfield—there will be values of the right sort to keep you here.

Last week, while you were eagerly purchasing of the many bargains here, our buyers were as busy scouting the market for good merchandise under value. As a result, we have many good things to offer you this week, in addition to the Boehm stock, at less than the actual wholesale value today.

RICHEST JERSEY CITY COP.

Patrolman Duffy Gets Legacy of $30,000 from An Aunt.

Because he is a Jersey City cop, Patrolman Hugh Duffy, of the Seventh Street Station, in that city, has been bequeathed a moderate fortune of $30,000. This was left him by his only aunt, a Miss Duffy, of Manhattan. She had no direct heirs.

During her illness the policeman volunteered his services as a nurse while off duty, and when his aunt learned that he was one of Jersey City's guardians of the peace she changed her will and left him the legacy. He is now known as the richest policeman on the Jersey City force.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of April 22, 1869:

Under the headlines "Vox Populi," "Plainfield a City," "Truth, Light, Cleanliness and Order Triumphant," and "171 Majority for City Charter," with a wood-cut of a crowing rooster comes the item "We have only time to announce in brief terms the result of the election for or against the 'Act to incorporate the City of Plainfield,' held yesterday. The vote polled was full and as follows:

Number of votes polled 683
For the Charter 427
Against the Charter 256

Majority 171

"We congratulate the people of the (?) City of Plainfield upon a result so auspicious, as we sincerely believe, for their future welfare. We will say more hereafter."

"The newly elected members of the Plainfield Fire Department met at the office of J. B. Coward Monday evening last for the purpose of reorganizing and electing officers, as provided for in the act passed by the recent legislature. J. B. Coward in the chair, and J. H. Platt, secretary. The following officers were chosen: E. R. Pope, president, for 2 years; T. F. French, secretary, for 1 year; J. B. Coward, treasurer, for 1 year; John W. Murray, manager, for 3 years; Jonas H. Platt, manager, for 1 year; A. Titsworth, manager, for 1 year."

"The adventists are preparing to go up on the 10th of July next, sure pop. There is to be no fooling about it this time, they say. Would it not be a good idea for those indebted to us to call and settle before that time."

"A runaway and general smashup of wagon and groceries occurred on Front street Monday morning last. It appears that the horse attached to the grocery wagon of Messrs. Gardner and Cutter got away from the driver and came tearing through the alley next to above gentlemen's grocery store, into Front street, and finally brought up on the opposite side of the street. For a few moments there was a conglomeration of horse, wagon, harness and groceries, but nobody was injured. We are happy to state that Messrs. Gardner and Cutter still continue at their old stand, and sell groceries at their usual low rates."

"MARRIED.—On the 20th inst., by Rev. William Day, at the residence of the bride's parents, Albert Pierson, Esq., of Rahway, to Miss Sarah, daughter of Ephriam Ryno, Esq., of Plainfield.

"MARRIED.—April 15th, by the Rev. Wm. Day, Robert Stewart to Miss Georgiana Larew, both of Plainfield.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Laura Burt and Henry Stanford, who have been playing in "Dorothy Vernon of Hadden Hall," will open in a new play in September.

Shipman and Calvin hope definitely to announce the first American tour of Julia Neilson and Fred Terry in "The Scarlet Pimpernelle" and other plays.

"The Port of Missing Men" is being dramatized by Edward Rose and will get an early New York opening A select cast will be "thrown together."

A new play which will be produced in October is "The Wearing of the Green," in which the main character is supposed to represent Charles S. Parnell.

Besides "Tainted Money," which is the renamed Shaw play, "Widowers' Houses," Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon are to appear in two new plays, one of which is an English success called "Peter's Mother."

Ada Lewis, famous for her eccentric characterizations, has made a big hit as Winnie Wiggins in "Fascinating Flora." Miss Lewis plays the role of a green American girl who wants to be a great prima donna and in her queer makeup goes to the Paris Conservatoire for that purpose.

THE ROYAL BOX.

Emperor Wilhelm of Germany stopped on his way to the Naval Academy at Kiel to play tennis with some girls, who defeated him roundly.

It is rumored in Madrid that King Carlos of Portugal is about to abdicate in favor of his brother, the Duke of Oporto; another report says in favor of his son, the Duke of Braganza.

The Queen of Roumania is ardently pursuing her philanthropic idea, which first took practical shape last year, of collecting the blind of her country in one city, which her majesty has given the name of Vatra Luminosa.

The vigilance with which the Japanese guard the approach to the emperor is shown by the fact that the director of the household department was turned away from the gate the other day because he did not have his pase.

HORSE SHOW HONORS FOR J. W. HARRIMAN.

Wins Three Blues at Monmouth—A. G. Vanderbilt and P. F. Collier Get Two Each.

J. W. Harriman headed the list of winners at the opening of the fourteenth annual exhibition of the Monmouth County Horse Show at Hollywood Park yesterday afternoon, by capturing three of the thirteen blue ribbons awarded. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, C. W. Watson and P. F. Collier shared second honors with two blues each.

For the opening day the attendance was larger than it has been in the history of the show. Mr. Harriman, with Lady Eccles, won the blue in the class for ponies to traps, took first award in the harness class with Flashlight and won the class for pairs to victoria with Lard Burleigh and Lord Brooks.

Mr. Vanderbilt won with Polly Prim and The Youngster.

C. W. Watson's May took the first award in the harness class to trap and Ringing Bells carried off first honors for harness horse to rumble phaeton. Mr. Collier won with Hayseed in the class for polo ponies and captured the closing event on the card, a running race at one-quarter mile, with Princess. E. C. Rich's Amaneecle C. Rich's Amanda Baron won the first award in the roadster class.

Harvey S. Ladew's Pettel Pem broke defeated a formidable field in the class for ponies under saddle, children to drive. R. L. Patterson's Durham was first in the saddle horse class, ladies to ride. Jaconite, owned by Sidney J. Donnelly, got the blue in event for hunters and jumpers. The firs ribbon was awarded Mrs. M. H. Kohn's roan Wilkes in the class for station work.

Dr. B. VanD. Hedges and Dr. F. C. Ard will go to Allenhurst on Saturday to remain over Sunday.

Harrison Fahn, of the borough, has returned from a two wees' vacation spent at Asbury Park.

NO JOBS FOR PLAIN GIRLS.

St. Petersburg Postoffice Service Attractive, but Not Efficient.

The Slovo of St. Petersburg recently asked its readers: "Have you ever noticed that the lady assistants in the general post office at St. Petersburg are almost without exception good looking?" Most people might consider this a mere coincidence, but that this is not the case is shown by Miss Petrowa, who writes to the newspaper to tell how two friends of hers recently applied for clerkships in the general post office. After a time, the application papers were returned with a formal note to the effect that at present there were no vacancies. The returned documents, however, revealed marginal notes which had been imperfectly obliterated with rubber. One read: "She looks to be over 30, is small, plain and flabby." On the other paper in microscopical characters were the words: "Old maid, tall, bony." The Slovo asks what might have been the marginal notes on the papers of successful candidates and who are responsible for them. It adds that the selection of youth and beauty for this branch of the public service has by no means improved the unsatisfactory condition of the general post office.

KNEW BETTER THAN THAT.

City Youth Could Believe Much but There Was a Limit.

The younger son of a well-known politician of Chicago has spent pretty much all of his life in the big city by the lake, and, consequently, knows little of country ways and things. Not long ago he visited a man he had met in Chicago, and who maintains a big farm near Cairo, whither he had insisted the youngster come for a lengthy stay. One day the Chicago youth was wandering about the farm, closely examining the top, ends and sides of a certain trim, well-made object fenced round in the paddock. "What are you searching for, Jimmy?" asked the owner of the place, with a quizzical smile. "Where are the doors and windows?" asked Jimmy. "Doors and windows! Why, Jimmy, that's a haystack. "Look here, old man," exclaimed Jimmy; "I may be only a green person from the city, but you can't bluff me that way. Hay doesn't grow in lumps like that!"—Harper's Weekly.

Real Forbidden Fruit.

In some countries there grows a kind of fruit belonging to the shaddock family and which is commonly called "forbidden fruit." It is similar to grape fruit, but is larger and the inside is somewhat coarser than the delicious acid delicacy of which we are so fond. The name forbidden fruit was given on account of three dark brown stains, like finger marks, which invariably show on this variety of the shaddock. The stains are close together on one side and are believed to be the marks of Eve's fingers left as a brand on the apple whose eating caused so much trouble in the world. Forbidden fruit is much liked by people who are able to get it fresh, but so far it has not been shipped abroad as extensively as its cousin, the grape fruit and shaddock.

Great Land Owner.

The Duke of Northumberland is the largest land owner in England. His estates stretch almost from sea to sea, and he can ride 100 miles and not once leave his own domain. In appearance he is tall and thin, with reddish hair and flowing whiskers. He is old-fashioned in manner, and shows many of the attributes of a grand seigneur. And he has all the pride of the Percys and keeps up to the full their Olympian traditions. He was once heard to say: "You will have to go a long way back in our record to find a Percy who was either idle or a spendthrift." In religion he is an Irvingite, like his father, and he has converted the duchess to his own belief.

Fritz on the Dachshund.

Little Fritz was told to write an essay on his favorite dog and he wrote the following on the dachshund: "Der dachshund vas a German dog dot looks like a bologna sausage mit legs. Vonce fader had a dachshund dot vos so long ven ut ran arount der block ut had to hold up its head to keep from running over uts hind legs. Der dachshund vas an obedient dog, but ven you call him to come quick he is always long. He can't help ut—he vas born dot vay. Above all, der dachshund ves der only member uf der dog's family whose breath comes in long bants. All der rest cames in short bants. Hurrah for der dachshund!"

They Moved Down to Boston.

Mrs. H. G. Wells and other grown-ups have had their merry gibes at Boston, but here is a little miss whose unconscious irony puts their best efforts to shame. "Why," asked Dorothy the other night on going to bed; "why can't we see fairies?" "Because they do not live in the fields and woods here any more," replied her nurse. "Where are they, then—in heaven?" "Perhaps so." "Oh, I know," said Dorothy after a moment of silent thought. "The angels got tired of their old mansions in the skies, so they let the fairies have them and moved to Boston."—Judge.

By THOMAS W. LAWSON
Author of "Frenzied Finance"

A Story of Passionate Love and Money Madness

The hero is a daring young broker who retrieves the fortunes of the family of the woman he loves, a beautiful daughter of the south (they have been victims of "The System,") with the greatest "coup" in the history of "The Street." The fever of money madness and the curse of speculation run throughout the story. This terrific conflict between character and money, and the shifting and glittering background of frenzied finance, makes a novel which would be absorbing to every man and woman were it by an unknown author. Being by Mr. Lawson, it will undoubtedly be the most discussed story of our generation.

YOU MUST NOT FAIL TO READ IT.

It will begin exclusively in The Daily Press on Monday, July 29

Truth That Is Stranger Than Fiction

That is what we are going to give our readers in the series of stories we have arranged to print, entitled:

STORIES OF THE SECRET SERVICE

By CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL

Captain Tyrrell is an old secret service operator. He was prominent in the service during the years that the Government brought to justice some of the greatest criminals this country has ever known, and it is of these criminals, their method of operation and their capture that Captain Tyrrell is to tell our readers. Then, too, he is not telling of what someone else accomplished, but of what he did, and he relates it with an interest that is sure to captivate his audience. We are to print five of these stories under the following titles:

The Lincoln Tomb Robbers
The Bothamley Murder Mystery
The Missouri Land Leaguers
The Biebush Band
The Boscobel Koniackers

Watch for the first installment of these interesting tales. It will appear in these columns on Saturday, July 27.

JOS. B. COWARD, WEALTHY LAWYER, DROPS DEAD WHILE WALKING IN FRONT OF BANK HE FOUNDED

Former Assemblyman and a Prominent Church Member Fatally Stricken on the Street Last Night.

ONCE IN THE COUNCIL

For a Brief Period City Clerk—Owned Much Property—Seventy-two Years Old—A Leader in the Comunity.

Joseph B. Coward, one of the best known citizens of Plainfield and prominent throughout the county as a lawyer, dropped dead in front of the Plainfield Savings Bank on East Front street, shortly after 6 o'clock, last night, while on his way home from his office. Several bystanders ran to Mr. Coward's assistance when they saw him fall and Dr. J. B. Probasco was summoned, but before the physician arrived life was extinct. The body was carried to police hearquarters and shortly afterwards County Physician Westcott arrived. The remains were removed to the home on East Front street. The cause of death was heart trouble.

For some time Mr. Coward has not been in good health. He frequently complained and it was only a few weeks ago that he was detained at home by illness. While in Elizabeth yesterday afternoon he stopped in the office of Frank H. Smith, county registrar of deeds, suffering from an attack of indigestion. After resting for awhile the trouble seemed to pass over and he stared for Plainfield, reaching here about 6 o'clock. He stopped at the office of City Engineer Andrew J. Gavett for a few minutes on business and then proceeded to his office before going home. It was about 6:15 when he was stricken. It was a co-incidence that he died so close to the Plainfield Savings Bank, of which he was one of the founders.

A person who has been closely associated with Mr. Coward for nearly a quarter of a century, remarked this morning that he was one of the most careful and painstaking lawyers in the county, and he had the reputation as a searcher of deeds and all legal documents, always doing the work himself. In the county clerk's as well as other county and city offices papers filed by him were always considered accurate, and his word was recognized to be as good as his bond.

Joseph Bloomfield Coward, son of John H. and Phoebe E. (Cadmus) Coward, was born in Plainfield, in 1836. The father was a native of Monmouth county. He was a resident of this city and a hatter here from 1835 to 1860. He died in November, 1896, aged ninety-two years. The mother died in 1890. Two children were born of this union, Deborah S., wife of John B. Arrowsmith, of Monmouth county, and Joseph B. Coward.

Mr. Coward received his education in the public schools of this city, after which he studied law in the office of Cornelius Boice, one of the most prominent lawyers in the State. He was admitted to the Bar in 1858. Within this same year he went to Keyport, Monmouth county, but in 1864, he returned to Plainfield, where he continued the practice of his profession.

In politics Mr. Coward was always a Republican, and held prominent positions of trust in the gift of his party for many years. In 1878 he was a member of the Assembly from the Third district of Union county, where he performed valuable services. He was also prominent in city affairs for a long time, having served as a member of the Common Council and from 1890 to 1892 he was city clerk. At various times he was an active member of the City Republican Executive Committee and the County Republican Committee and none worked more zealously for the success of his party in city, county and State than he. He was always faithful to every trust reposed in him. In the days of the Plainfield Volunteer Fire Department Mr. Coward was treasurer of the organization.

He was connected with the management of the Plainfield Savings Bank, as a member of the board of managers since its organization in 1868, and he was also a director of

MILK DEALERS MISS MANY OF THEIR BOTTLES

CERTAIN ONES NOT CAREFUL TO COLLECT ONLY THEIR OWN PROPERTY.

What promises to be a civil strife among local milk dealers may come to a sufficient head to bring about legal proceedings within a short time. The trouble is among the dealers, both city and borough, who supply their customers with milk in bottles. Each firm has its own bottles, and charges the customers no deposit for the use of them. There are certain milkmen, who are under careful watch by the rest of the fraternity, who have formed a habit of "pinching" the empty bottles of other firms wherever they find them. One local milkman reports the loss of forty dollars' worth of bottles within a month.

The solution for this trouble, aside from proceedings in the local courts, which may be commenced as soon as evidence enough has been collected against certain suspects, would lie with a dairy inspector. Most of the leading firms have their names blown in the glass of their bottles.

A certain milkman was seen, one morning this week to leave his wagon, enter a dooryard and deliberately "pinch" two milk bottles from the porch. There is a possibility of the local dealers uniting to protect themselves against such loss.

CO. K BOYS TO LEAVE FOR CAMP TOMORROW

PLAINFIELD MILITARY TO SPEND A WEEK AT SEA GIRT.

Everything is in readiness for the departure of Co. K for Sea Girt tomorrow. The members will leave here in a special train over the New Jersey Central at noon. The train will stop at Westfield to pick up members residing there. During the week that the local company is in camp the usual routine will be observed. Major W. B. Martin has been detailed tactical officer of the camp.

One of the features of the camp week will be the annual muster and inspection, scheduled to take place on Friday, August 2. It has been customary to hold their inspection at the various armories during May of each year. The change at Sea Girt was decided upon because the United States inspection of the national guard, under the Dick law, takes place in February or March, and the two came very close together.

It is expected that this department will be appreciated by the soldier boys and that the division of the inspection into periods of winter and summer will give the officers a better chance of seeing just how their commands are progressing. A review by Governor Stokes will be another of the chief events of the week. The companies will also do considerable work on the rifle range.

Company commandants will be held responsible for the condition of arms and accoutrement in possession of their companies and for the defacement of canvas and state property in the company streets; they will each day detail a non-commissioned officer in charge of quarters, and two privates as kitchen detail; in making ration returns they will include two cooks and such servants as may be assigned to their companies by proper authority; will have meals reserved for members of the guard, to be served at convenient times; will forward morning reports and ration returns to the adjutant's office not later than 8 a. m.; will give personal attention to the preparation and serving of meals, that due care is exercised in the distribution of the daily rations, and to prevent waste, and to see to it that there is a sufficiency for each meal, and that all refuse is deposited in cans provided for that purpose.

Wanted to Ride on Special.

When the first section of the excursion train stopped at Elizabethport on the return trip last night, a man got aboard, doubtless mistaking the special train for one of the regular trains. He was informed of his mistake by the guard, but thought he was being "fooled" and refused to leave the train. After some delay, the train proceeded with him, but at Elizabeth the cars again stopped and he was forceably ejected.

CITY TO COMPLETE SEWER

Common Council Directs Engineer Gavett to Finish the Southside Contract.

IT WILL COST $15,000

Work to Be Started At Once—Contractor Morgan Will Not Recover From Illness.

The Common Council, at a special meeting last night, took steps toward the completion of the Southside sanitary sewer, where it was abandoned on July 9 by Thomas J. Cusack, acting attorney for Peter Morgan, who had the original contract. City Engineer Andrew J. Gavett was authorized by a resolution offered by Councilman W. L. Gleak, and adopted, to proceed with the contract, to employ such labor and materials as he deems necessary, and complete the work as quickly as possible.

The meeting was called for the purpose of receiving a report from Engineer Gavett as to the present status of the work and to direct that he complete the same. Two letters were received and read, one from Frank B. Lowne, representing Mr. Morgan, which stated that he is now suffering from tumor of the brain and that he will never be able to work again. He further stated that when taken ill, Mr. Morgan put the contract in the hands of his brother-in-law, Thomas J. Cusack, having every confidence in him that he would complete the contract to the satisfaction of the city. Mr. Lowne asked the city to furnish him with a detailed statement of affairs for the benefit of Mr. Morgan.

The other letter was from Dr. J. E. McCambridge, who is attending Mr. Morgan. He described his illness as a progressive tumor of the brain, and said that in his opinion Mr. Morgan would not recover.

As requested by the Common Council, Mr. Gavett presented a brief statement showing that the work has been unreasonably delayed and urging that action be taken to complete the contract. It was the opinfon of Mr. Gloak, speaking for the street committee in the absence of the chairman, Councilman Ginna, that the work should be undertaken at once, and he offered a resolution which was adopted, authorizing Mr. Gavett to proceed with the contract by engaging such help and material as will be needed, the same to be charged up according to the provisions of the contract.

In response to a question from Mr. Hibbard, Mr. Gavett stated that the original contract was for $25,000, that about $10,000 had been expended, leaving work to the amount of $15,000 to be finished. He further declared that he had consulted with Corporation Counsel Marsh, before the latter went away, and was informed that this was the proper procedure should such a difficulty arise. It was the opinion of all the members that the course is a wise one.

Mr. Gavett has completed arrangements whereby John Sutcliff, a consulting engineer and contractor, of Poughkeepsie, will undertake the contract at once and rush it as rapidly as possible.

While Mr. Gavett has the authority to go ahead there are other features of the trouble which are likely to handicap the street department for a time. The Warren Foundry Company, which furnished pipe for the job, recently secured an attachment on its material, and the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company also secured an attachment on materials furnished for the work.

It is possible that both companies may be willing to lift the attachments now that the city is undertaking the contract, but in case they do not, it will be necessary to secure pipe and other materials elsewhere. This may not be so easy to do on short notice, but at all events the street department will make every effort to proceed and secure an adjustment of all claims.

The Dunellen Cement Block Company, which secured the sub-contract to build the station wherein the pumps will be located, is moving along slowly with its work. Now that other plans have been perfected for doing the main sewer work, it is believed it will afford some encouragement to the Dunellen company.

In the absence of President Daniel, Councilman Tolles acted as presiding officer at last night's meeting. The other members present were Councilmen Gloak, Buxton, Hibbard, Charles C. Randolph and F. L. Montgomery.

LENIENCY OF COURT A BIG DISAPPOINTMENT

Mild Punishment Meted Out to Negro Who Attempted to Assault Little Girl Causes Criticism.

COMMENT OF CITIZENS

State Magistrate Who Committed Offender Regrets Judge Atwater's Leniency.

No end of adverse comment has been caused in this city by the action of Judge Edward S. Atwater, of the Union County Common Pleas court, in letting off with a mild two years' sentence, Charles Hopes, a negro, aged nineteen, who pleaded non vult to an indictment charging him with having committed a heinous offense on a three-year-old white girl, named Annie Mead, daughter of George W. Mead, of this city. Indignation at the court's action is freely expressed among the general public as well as on the part of some of the authorities, because the facts of the case sufficiently revolting to, expect the full penalty of twelve years in State's prison being dealt out to the negro fiend. When taken into custody the prisoner admitted the crime, explaining how he had coaxed the little girl into a local theatre and was in the very act of committing a criminal assault when the police smashed down the door.

S. S. Swackhamer, who represented the defendant, made an eloquent plea yesterday in court for leniency producing several letters from Plainfielders urging the clemency be shown by the court. One of these letters came from James R. Joy, assistant editor of the Christian Advocate and a resident of Somerset county, and the lawyer rested on it largely for a mild punishment. Judge Atwater made the sentence two years.

In discussing the unexpected sentence of the court, Tax Collector John M. Murray, Jr., for many years a member of the Union County Board of Elections, and a prominent residence, said to the Press reporter that such sentences put lynching at a premium. He pointed out that this was the second arrest within a brief period here for a crime of that sort, adding that if such leniency were shown the honor of hundreds of little girls is in danger. He predicted that it would have a bad effect here.

Judge W. N. Runyon, who committed the Hopes man to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury, took a similar view. "I think," said Judge Runyon, "that if Judge Atwater was put in full possession of the facts the sentence is inexplicable. So far as the case came under my observation there was not an extenuating circumstance In matters of this sort the only thing that can hold in check public violence is confidence in the courts and if, as seems to be the case, crimes of this kind are to be dealt as leniently as the theft of a loaf of bread, the chances are that the next offender of this sort will receive short shrift."

George W. Mead, the father of the little girl, was frantic when he heard of Judge Atwater's action. "It's an outrage; oh, it's terrible." To a friend, Mr. Mead made threats against the life of Hopes if he can ever lay his hands on him. "I went down to see Judge Atwater and I told him everything, oh, I'm crazy over this affair."

When Mr. Swackhamer, counsel for Hopes, was asked how he could explain the sentence, he declared that he had worked hard over the case and had merely done his duty as a lawyer. "I know the prosecutor feels bitter about the matter," said he.

Schell—Richardson.

Friends of Miss Alice May Richardson, daughter of Mrs. Caroline Richardson, of Somerville, and Frank L. Schell were surprised to learn this week that the couple were married on March 2, 1907, at Cranford. Mr. and Mrs. Schell made their wedding known and then started on a delayed honeymoon trip to Asbury Park.

Mrs. John Kane.

Mrs. John Kane, a former well known resident of this city, died yesterday at the home of her daughter in Philadelphia. She was the mother of Thomas Kane and the late Dennis Kane. The body will be brought to this city for burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

POUNDED A FELLOW SLAV

Two Held for Grand Jury on Charges Preferred by Michael Bellow.

GANG ATTACKED HIM

Pair Are Released But Other Two Identified and Must Face Trial In County Court.

Michael Bellow, who claims that he was assaulted and beaten by a gang of fellow-Slavs on East Third street, Monday night, was the complainant in Justice Hand's court, this morning, against George Hirocka, John Chaba, John Nigrac, John Daniel and John Rabe. Rabe, alone, escaped. No case was made out against Nigrac and Daniel, and they were dismissed, while Hirocka and Chaba were held in $50 bonds for the Grand Jury. Judge William Newcorn represented the complainant and W. S. Angleman the defendants.

The account of the mixup was so confusing that the services of two interpreters were required, George Becker and Joe Manhattan. The trouble with Becker was that he didn't interpret. Manhattan got along much better.

Dr. Frederick Hughes briefly told how the man came to his office in company with several friends on Tuesday, and that he discovered two or three cuts on the head, evidently inflicted by a blunt instrument. He closed up the wounds, but had not seen the man since.

When the complainant was called troubles of counsel began in getting a straight and connected story from him. As near as could be learned Bellow did nothing to warrant the attack. He had not been drinking, did not speak to his assailants and did not know why he was attacked. He could not identify Nigrac or Danfels and they were promptly dismissed. Bellow picked out Hirocka and Chaba as being among the two who assaulted him. Rather strangely, the complainant did not appear to understand ordinary questions, but when it was intimated that he had been drinking or that he licked the other men, he exclaimed most emphatically: "No, no," in as good English as anyone.

Mr. Angleman closely questioned Bellow, but failed to get him to acknowledge that he was in any way to blame. For this reason he told the court that the story seemed most incredible. He pleaded that in view of the fact that the accused were men of families that they be not held in default of bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. It was then decided to place Hirocka and Chaba under $50 bail, which was satisfactory to counsel. Mr. Angleman said that while he had been unable to get a straight story of the affair he thought that Raba was probably the one who committed the assault.

NETHERWOOD FRESH AIR HOME NEEDS A HORSE.

Would Accommodate One While Owner Is Summering Out of Town.

Anyone not knowing what to do with the horse while away on his summer vacation, can help charity by turning it over to the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp. The camp officers are badly in need of a horse to carry New Yorkers to and from the depot and guarantees good care and accommodations to an animal if intrusted to them for the summer.

In charge of Miss Sara Curry, the matron at the camp, more than fifty children, who have been sojourning at the camp for several weeks were taken back to their homes in New York city yesterday and a similar number were brought out for a few weeks' relief from the heat of the East Side tenement districts. There are now 210 children at the camp.

There has been great improvement in the condition of the baby so near death at the camp last week. The crisis is passed successfully and the little girl now seems on the road to recovery.

"Black Hands" Threaten Boynton.

C. W. Boynton, the proprietor of Boynton Beach, received a "Black Hand" letter two weeks ago, informing him that unless he left $500 in a designated spot his pleasure resort would be blown up. Last night was the time designated for the destruction but though Boynton failed to hand up the money, the beach was intact at noon today.

Edward Laing Seriously Ill.

Edward Laing, the stationer, who was taken ill last night with a severe attack of dysentery, is reported today by his physician, Dr. J. B. Probasco, to be slightly better. During the night Mr. Laing was in a state of collapse as a result of the attack and his condition was considered critical.

LIEUTENANTS OE NOTORIOUS "BLACK HAND" LEADER CAPTURED BY THE PLAINFIELD POLICE

Fleeing From the Scene of Many Crimes in New Castle, Pa., They Sought to Hide in This City.

CLEVERLY ROUNDED UP

Pinkerton Detectives Gave First Intimation That They Were Here and Chief Kiely's Men Soon Had Them in Custody.

Working on slender clues furnished them by the Pinkerton detective agency, Chief of Police Kiely and members of his staff, yesterday, accomplished one of the most important captures ever made in the city. With but three days in which to lay their plans, thew drew a drag-net that brought them two ringleaders in one of the strongest branches of the "Black Hand" society in the country. Robbery is the specific charge against them but it is probable that when they are returned to the seat of their crimes, murder and many other acts of lawlessness will be added. Two others of the gang who have been in Plainfield at intervals for the past two weeks, escaped the close-in but the chances are for their arrest in a short time are good.

The men who were caught are Nicola Lobianco and Joseph Novetta, alias Joseph Novello, both of whom have been terrorizing their countrymen in Newcastle, Pa., for the last six months. They were the representatives there of John Jati, head of the American branch of the Mafia and partner of Mussillino, the bandit for whom the Italian government offered thousands of dollars in rewards. By writing "Black Hand" letters and also by direct hold-ups, they have been bleeding the Italians at Newcastle of large sums, one man giving up $2,600 in a few weeks. The victims selected were notified in various ways to leave money in designated spots, death being the penalty in case of failure.

Most of the men preyed upon were employes of the Bessemer Limestone Company at New Castle and the officials of this concern employed the Pinkerton agency to ferret out the gang. A dozen detectives were placed at work and at the first of the present month they made a raid in the town, bagging twenty of the lesser lights. Confessions wrung from several of the more timid ones under threats of sending them to the scaffold revealed the fact that Jati was the leading head of the "Black Hand" and that Lobianco and Novett and two brothers, Rocco and Francisco Aijiro, were his lieutenants. The leaders all escaped but the Pinkertons went on with their work and in a week Jati was captured at Lima, O.

On July 13, a Newcastle man who refused to give up $1,000 as directed, was waylaid by members of the gang and had his throat cut from ear to ear. More arrests were made and again it was asserted that Jati's lieutenants were at the bottom of the crime and that they were given instructions from somewhere in New Jersey. The sleuths took to the trail with renewed vigor and eventually it led to this city.

On Tuesday Chief Kiely received word from the Pinkertons that the men they were after were either in Plainfield or North Plainfield and they requested that he put his detectives at work until their own could reach the scene. The chief imparted the information furnished to Detective Brancati, his special man for Italian cases, and he started out with Detective-Sergeant John Flynn. From information picked up piece by piece they learned that Lobianco and Novetta were stopping at an Italian boarding house in the Notch, near Wilson's stone quarry, and that the Aijiro brothers visited them every few days. They also learned that the former two came to town every day.

When these facts were placed before Chief Kiely he decided to make a quick move and land the quarry at once. A watch was kept about the city yesterday and after a long wait Lobianco, Novetta and two others were seen to enter the store and call for some goods. Word was sent to police headquarters and while Chief Kiely and Brancati jumped in one door, Detec-

LIGHTED FIRECRACKER MAY COST HIS HAND

PETER BROOM, OF RACE STREET, HAS HAND TORN BY EXPLOSION.

Peter Broom, an Italian living on Race street in North Plainfield, was badly injured last night in the street in front of his house by a large firecracker which exploded while he was holding it in his hand. The accident happened early in the evening. Broom, who is a bootblack, had some firecrackers, which he was setting off in connection with the celebration of the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel.

He had been setting off a bunch of the crackers together. Part of them exploded all right, but a few d iddit exploded all right, but a few did not go off. Broom picked up one of these which he believed was extinguished. He was holding it in his right hand when the short fuse sent the spark to the powder and the cracker exploded in his hand. His index finger was badly torn and the hand painfully broken. Dr. Hughes was summoned and dressed the injury, picking out the powder grains. This prompt action may be the means of saving the man from tetanus, but it is probably that at least one of his fingers will have to be amputated.

MRS. MAUDE BROKAW FREED FROM HUSBAND

GRANTED A DECREE ON THE GROUND OF DESERTION BY COURT.

In the Court of Chancery, yesterday, Chancellor W. J. Magie signed a formal decree granting an absolute divorce to Maude Brokaw, of North Plainfield, from Marion H. Brokaw, of Newark, formerly of Plainfield. Desertion was the charge made in testimony taken before John H. VanWinkle, Sr., as special master in chancery. Mrs. Brokaw was represented by Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.

In her petition, the plaintiff stated that she and Marion H. Brokaw were married at Watervliet, N. Y., in 1902, following a week's courtship, the defendant at that time being a member of a theatrical company. He left her without just cause in 1902 and since then had refused to contribute to her support, although able to do so.

Captured Man Wanted in New York.

Acting on instructions from the New York police, Chief Kiely caused the arrest yesterday of Michael Bridebex, a polak who has been working for a local bottling company. He is wanted in the metropolis for committing a murderous assault on a man three months ago, the victim being in the hospital yet. Chief Kiely located the man and he was nabbed yesterday by Detective-Sergeant John Flynn. He is being held at police headquarters pending the arrival of requisition papers.

Celebration Ended.

The Italian celebration of the Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel was brought to a conclusion last night with a display of fireworks and a band concert by V. Maisto Bersaglieri's Italian band, of New York, in Concert Park. There was a big crowd out and the stands were filled to their limit of accommodation. The fire works, such as they were, were set off without accident and were well received. Local Italians claim they lost money by the celebration.

Thomas W. Lawson Wrote It.

Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, who donated one of the handsomest cups offered by the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, is the author of "Friday the 13th," a story of money madnes and passionate love, which will appear in The Daily Press beginning on Monday. Mr. Lawson is the author of "Frenzied Finance," and is the most conspicuous figure in the world of finance of the present age.

Body to Be Sent to New York.

The body of John Patt, the young man who died in Muhlenberg hospital Wednesday night, following an operation for appendicitis, will be sent today to the home of his parents in New York. Patt was nineteen years old and came to Plainfield to solicit subscriptions for a New York publication. He made his home with Mrs. Haffner, of East Fifth street.

Mrs. William Ackerman and the Miss Arlowme and Genevieve Ackerman left yesterday for a three weeks' visit with friends in New York State.

Routine business was transacted in quick time at the regular monthly meeting of Defender Fire Co. in the borough building last evening.

Miss Ruth Speer and Master Howard Speer, of Paterson, are visiting their cousin, Miss Sarah Cole, of New Market.

A party of members of Friendship Circle spent yesterday picnicking at Branch Brook Park.

Mrs. P. Wyckoff Voorhees is able to be about again after a few days' illness.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Percy Vail are entertaining out of town friends.

Lemon, Custard, Chocolate

These are the three varieties of Preparation which are creating so much favorable comment everywhere. Each package is put up according to the strictest Pure Food Laws. It does not require an experienced cook to make good pies from "OUR-PIE." Just the proper proportions of all ingredients are in the package ready for your immediate use. At grocers, 10 cents.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

Episcopal Deputies Now in Sympathy with Dr. Crapsey.

It is reported by an authority in the Episcopal church that a study of the names of the deputies of the general convention to be held in October, at Richmond, Va., shows that it is to be an orthodox body, although there are in the list of deputies some men who have not before sat in general conventions and whose sympathies are as yet unknown.

There are in the list, however, practically no men, either clergymen or laymen, who were open in their support of the Rev. Dr. A. S. Crapsey in his trial for heresy, so it is asserted there is no fear that the coming general convention will interfere with the finding of the Crapsey court.

The Episcopal General Convention meets once every three years and the coming meeting will have to deal with several important problems. Leaders in the church are therefore expressing their pleasure that the list of clerical and lay deputies indicates that the convention of 1907 will prove a conservative one.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

SLEEPLESSNESS.

Do you know what makes people lay awake and toss and roll about at night?

MRS. GEO. WEISEL.

Doctors tell you there are various causes. I tell you it's stomach trouble. I know it because I've seen thousands of cases and watched them.

A stomach that is over-crowded with undigested, decaying food matter ejects every organ of the human body. It causes nervousness, headaches, constipation, impure blood, poor circulation and dulls the mind. It makes one restless and uneasy. When your stomach is working right you feel right. You sleep well and you eat well.

People come to me day after day and tell me they can't rest after eating. They have a dull headache. At night they go to bed simply because they are exhausted. They catch a few cat naps and get up in the morning feeling as worn out as they did before.

I have recommended Cooper's New Discovery, a regular diet, regular habits and invariably these same people come to me afterwards and tell me they feel much better because they eat well and sleep well.

Herewith is a sample.

A letter I received from Mrs. Geo. Weisel, 1121 Providence Road, Scranton, Pa., says:

"I suffered for three years from stomach trouble, inactive liver and rheumatism. Everything I ate disagreed with me and I lay awake night after night. I had no pleasure in life and could scarcely do my work about the house. I heard from a neighbor of Cooper's New Discovery and I bought two bottles of it. It helped me right away. Now I have a good appetite and never suffer from indigestion. I sleep well and awake refreshed. I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for what this medicine has done for me."

The Cooper medicines have a larger sale than any medicine on the market.—Our customers speak highly of them.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Tomorrow at Crescent Oval there will be a real test of strength when the Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains teams will meet to decide which will remain in second place. Either Minford or Dupee will be on hand to twirl for the association boys, and Frentz or Hewitt will be the slab artists for the 'Plains aggregation. Both nines are in the best of condition now and if the batteries do good work, the contest may go several extra innings before it is decided.

The only other game in the amateur league tomorrow will be the one between the Laurels, of Bound Brook and Raritan, at the latter place. Thus far the Raritans have not displayed any great ability, but they are due at this time to win, and their friends will turn out in large numbers to cheer them on to victory.

The Clinton Avenues will play at Perth Amboy, tomorrow, not having any game in the amateur league. The nine will be accompanied by a number of local fans.

The Elizabeth Atlantic League team is scheduled to play every day from now on until the end of the schedule. Yesterday the team returned home, opening with Pottsville, which team they will also play today. On Sunday the Invaders will play a double-header with Easton. They will play Brooklyn at the latter place Monday and Tuesday.

It is reported that Luyster's thirty-day suspension being up he has again joined the Hartford team, and left the Elizabeth Invaders. If this is true the county seat boys will lose a fine twirler.

The Brooklyn Nationals are making the other teams in the league sit up and take notice these days, and the margin between them and the Phillies is so uncomfortably close that Manager Murray is not at all pleased. Both the Giants and the Brooklyns started west this week in excellent condition and should make a fine record on the trip.

Willie Keeler, who has been out of the game for several weeks on account of an injury to his finger, expects to return in a few days. Gradually the hospital list is being abolished by the Highlanders.

GOLF.

Members of the Plainfield Country Club will play for the Golf Committee, Green Committee and Scratch cups tomorrow, and some low scores may be expected. The Golf Committee has shaved the handicaps of several Class B players in view of the good scores returned last week.

At the Park Golf Club tomorrow there will be play for the President's, Park Golf Club and July cups. This will be the last competition for the July trophy and Charles B. Morse is now known to be the sure winner, the nearest contestant being unable to overtake him.

There will be no special play for a trophy during August at the Park Golf Club, owing to the fact that so many of the members are away from town. This special competition will be resumed in September.

Continuation of play for the Governor's cup will be the attraction at the Westfield Golf Club, tomorrow, and the concluding qualifying rounds for the August competitions.

All records for the Garden City Golf Club course were broken on Tuesday by Walter J. Travis in a match against the best ball of C. B. Macdonald and John M. Ward. He made the round in 69 strokes, which surpasses any score ever made on the old or new course by either an amateur or professional. On the old course, which means before the cross bunkers were razed and side traps substituted for them and the changing of several putting greens to undulating ones, there had been for a long while a race between Stewart Gardner, the professional, and Travis for the low score honors. At first they were tied at 74. Then in the spring of 1906 Travis gained 72 and Gardner 73, but later, just before the work began on the changes, Travis achieved the supremacy with 70.

The old course had a playing length of 6,444 yards and the par of 75. The course as now played is of 6,438 yards, with a par of 38, 38—76. Scoring in the spring tournament, in which Travis beat Travers on the thirty-eighth green, were so high on the average as to prove the course more exacting than formerly. Since his return from Cleveland, however, Travis established a record of 71 and on Tuesday he broke all previous records with 69. Going out it was a close race between Travis and his two opponents; Travis had the 350 yard third in 3, but the "best ball" evened matters by a 3 on the fifth. A 4 on the 543 yard seventh again gave the lead to Travis, but the partners took the eighth in 4. They were square at the turn, each side being out in 37.

Coming home Travis picked up the eleventh and twelfth, the partners gaining the 500 yard thirteenth in 4. The great sequence of three 3s, the distance being 338, 393 and 414 yards respectively, now, electrified the opponents and won the match for Travis by 4 up and 2 to play. They halved the bye holes in 4 and 3, which brought Travis in with 32 and 38 for the "best ball."

TENNIS.

A tennis event of special interest will be held at the Plainfield Country Club today, when the Plainfield championship, men's singles, open to all players in Plainfield and North Plainfield will be the attraction. It is understood that a large number of entries have been received and there should be some fine tennis play.

By THOMAS W. LAWSON
Author of "Frenzied Finance"

A Story of Passionate Love and Money Madness

The hero is a daring young broker who retrieves the fortunes of the family of the woman he loves, a beautiful daughter of the south (they have been victims of "The System,") with the greatest "coup" in the history of "The Street." The fever of money madness and the curse of speculation run throughout the story. This terrific conflict between character and money, and the shifting and glittering background of frenzied finance, makes a novel which would be absorbing to every man and woman were it by an unknown author. Being by Mr. Lawson, it will undoubtedly be the most discussed story of our generation.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Artists will be pleased to know that they can secure materials and works of art at the Plainfield Art Store in the Y. M. C. A. building, at low prices.

William Hand & Sons, of East Second street, contract to move goods of all kinds to any part of the country and trucking in general. The charges are right.

A Turkish bath at the Brookside Sanitarium on Somerset street will prove an exhilarating tonic and nerve treatment after a week of work in the city's heat.

For all the little accessories of dress that add so much to the charm and daintiness of woman's appearance in the summer, the local headquarters is Peck's, West Front street.

An Edison phonograph or a Victor talking machine will help you to pass many pleasant hours and H. K. Lister, of North avenue, will be pleased to show you both and let you hear the latest records.

Can't be too careful about the milk in the summer time. Take no chances, take Marchant Bros.' milk. Temporary quarters on Watchung avenue, near Fourth street. Purest milk, richest cream.

A. M. Griffen carries a full supply of housefurnishing goods at lowest prices; also hardware and builders' materials, and if you want sanitary plumbing, heating or tinning Mr. Griffen will do the work satisfactory.

The finest and safest deposit vaults in the city are at the Plainfield Trust Company. Take your silver and valuables there for safe keeping while you are out of town. The banking department statement just issued will interest you. Have you seen it?

As you look over the winter clothes when you are packing them away in camphor for the season, you may find something too good to throw away, but unwearable. Take it to Mary A. Brown's, on West Second street and have it cleaned and dyed.

The Woodhull & Martin Company is offering an exceptionally fine line of summer goods that will interest every householder in the city. The women will also be interested in the large display of seasonable dress goods of the proper weight and pretty designs. The men will find the department devoted to their furnishings an ideal place to get anything from a pair of suspenders to the finest underwear made. The prices are reasonable throughout the whole store.

"The Old World and Its Ways."

Colonel William Jennings Bryan announces a new book of travel entitled "The Old World and Its Ways," which recounts his recent tour around the world and his journeys through Europe. It is profusely and elegantly illustrated with 240 artistic engravings representing men and things seen in the various countries of the earth during that noted journey. The engravings are made from photographs taken by him or his party specially for this publication. It is the monumental literary work of his life, and is published under his special supervision. He has, by special contract with his publishers, made the retail price low down with the view to putting it within the easy reach of every reader and book buyer.

The book gives his experiences—what he saw and did—whom he met and his impressions and conclusions He made a profound study of men and things as he saw them in the noted journey around the world. He gives governmental, educational, religious and other conditions, from the standpoint of a student and one profoundly interested in all the people of the earth.

While Col. Bryan traveled as a private citizen he went with the prestige of having made two memorable contests for the Presidency of the United States, and he was everywhere recognized and entertained as a great representative American, having a leading part in the direction of American affairs. He was given opportunity for observations never before accorded to any one traveling in private capacity.

If one wants to see the world, and the people who are at the head of affairs in all countries, as well as the masses, he has in this book an opportunity of seeing them through the eyes of Col. William Jennings Bryan. It is sold by subscription, and the Thompson Publishing Company, of St. Louis, Mo., are the fortunate publishers. They offer an especially inviting opportunity to solicitors in another column of this issue. c

Plainfield, N. J., July 26, 1907.

ON WITH THE WORK.

Four recommendations are made by the North Plainfield Sewer Commission, in its favorable report on the proposition for joint use of the city's model system, as to the course for future action. For years this all-important matter has been in abeyance but now that the investigators of the scheme, five of the most prominent and influential men of the community, have mapped out a definite plan, no time should be lost by the borough council in going ahead with the work. Approval of the report is unnecessary; the signatures of the excellent committeemen are a sufficient guarantee and will carry the proper weight. The men who submit the report are

C. W. McCUTCHEN,
EDWIN S HOOLEY,
CHARLES L. NICHOLS,
J. H. COOLEY.
W. J. BUTTFIELD.

And these are their recommendations:

"That a formal contract between the City and the Borough for disposal of the Borough's sewerage be drawn up and submitted to the Borough Council for approval; that the same be endorsed by the City Council and finally sanctioned by the Borough's property owners and voters as required by law.

"That Messrs. Herring & Fuller should prepared detailed specifications, and plans, and form of contract for the work.

"That proper steps be taken to insure a favorable sale of the Borough's bonds sufficient to cover the proposed improvement.

"That a special Committee be appointed to supervise all work connected with the installation of the sewers, including that of securing the necessary consent of property owners—preparation of agreements with the City and contractors—securing rigid inspection of all work and that of obtaining the best terms for the necessary issue of Borough Sewer Bonds."

On with the work!

That newsy sheet, The Dunellen Call, has entered upon its sixteenth year. There is no weekly in the State, published in a borough of the size of our pretty little suburb, that compares with it in the quantity and quality of local happenings chronicled for its readers.

Miss Daly to Engage in Business.

Miss Kate M. Daly, for the past seven years manager of the millinery work-room at I. H. Boehm's store, has tendered her resignation, and in the near future will engage in business for herself at 170 East Front street, opposite the Woodhull & Martin Company store.

JOS. B. COWARD DEAD

the City National Bank for many years.

He is the last member of the original board of managers of the Plainfield Savings Bank.

Aside from his efforts in behalf of the Republican party, the greatest part of his time was devoted to a quiet office practice of law. He was the trustee and executor for many estates during his life time, the most recent being that of Catherine Webster. He was very exact and methodical in the transaction of all business and it was for this reason that he was trusted so implicitly.

From the time he attained his majority he was always identified with the best interests of the city. He assisted in securing the city charter and in many ways helped to advance the city's interest. He owned considerable property, especially in the business section, including the building on Park avenue, occupied by the Exempt Firemen's Association, where his offices are located, and he was part owner with John W. Murray, Sr., of the building occupied by the police department on East Front street.

In 1859 Mr. Coward was married to Miss Sarah A. Boice, daughter of Cornelius Boice. Three children were born to them, two daughters, the Misses Lillian and Helen A. Coward, and one son, Harry H. Coward, who holds a clerical position in the City National Bank.

For a great many years Mr. Coward was an active member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and at various times held different offices there.

The funeral will be held at his late home Sunday afternoon at 3:30.

CAPTURE BLACK HAND MEN

tive-Sergeant Flynn came in the other. The four Italians were grabbed before any one of them could pull a weapon or make an effort to escape. The sudden onslaught made by the chief bore two of them to the floor and they were helpless when jerked to their feet.

Word was immediately telegraphed to the New York office of the Pinkertons and Assistant Superintendent Fuller hurried to Plainfield. He readily recognized both Lobianco and Novetta but the others he could not place. There was no direct evidence that they were connected with the case and they were afterward released. Fuller had pictures of the leaders and it could be seen from these that no mistake had been made. In addition, Lobianco smiled broadly when his own photograph was shown him and he exclaimed, "datta me." Novetta also acknowledged his portrait.

Chief Kiely wired Sheriff J. W. Waddington, of Lawrence county, Pa., in which Newcastle is located, and this morning received a message in return, requesting him to hold the prisoners until officers arrived with papers to claim them. The pair was arraigned before Judge Runyon and afterward remanded in order to comply with the legal formalities.

After Lobianco and Novetta were safe behind the bars, the police received a "tip" to the effect that the Aijiro brothers were apt to arrive in the city at any time. News of the capture was suppressed and a watch was set on the railroad stations but the men failed to show up. The Pinkertons are all busy, however, and they may be landed at any time.

In conversation with a Daily Press reporter this morning, Superintendent Fuller expressed great satisfaction over the arrests and asserted that they were the most important "Black Hand" captures he has known in this section in years.

"Jiti was the ringleader or chief," he said, "but never appeared on the ground where the crimes were committed. Lobianco and Novetta, on the other hand, wrote letters, arranged assaults and in other ways did the actual work. The people in Plainfield can hardly realize the widespread terror this gang has caused as Newcastle's plague is only one part of it."

"And let me add," continued the officer, "too much praise cannot be accorded Chief Kiely and his men for the manner in which they rounded up these two desperadoes. It is one of the hardest things in the world to get an Italian to tell anything he knows about the "Black Hand," so great is his fear of it, but we had hardly sent word to this city before the chief was directly on the trail. When his message reached the New York office we were not expecting a favorable reply so soon and you may be sure it came as a pleasant surprise. I have been all over the world in my calling as a detective and I must say in all my experience I have never encountered a more gentlemanly set of officers or people who were more willing to help us that what we have found here."

Wife Wants $5 a Week.

Gustave Barfus, a wealthy citizen of New Market, who owns an automobile and otherwise lives on the luxuries afforded by a large income, must pay $5 a week for a year to Mr. Dayton, overseer of the poor, for the support of his wife and children. Barfus paid him $400 as a forfeit in case he fails to keep the order of the court. Justice Von Minden having made the edict.

TROUBLES OF FREEHOLDERS

Union's Administering Board in Clover Compared With Middlesex's

BRIDGES ON THE BRAIN

Raritan Span Brings All Sorts of Protests, While P. S. C. Work Ruin Elsewhere.

While the Union county freeholders are worrying over bridges, road extensions and repairs, they may derive some consolation from the fact that they are not alone on the path of official trials and tribulations, for the Middlesex county freeholders still claim the record for assorted troubles. During the past few months they have been placed in a position to thoroughly appreciate the adage, "uneasy lives the head that wears a political crown," and as soon as one batch of troubles is disposed of, another is ready to give them reasons for casting their eyes in the direction of their constituents.

It is probable that no one item of responsibility for the freeholders in this section of the State has rested so heavily on official shoulders as the new county bridge over the Raritan river at Perth Amboy, and while the structure is now apparently on the way to satisfactory completion, the Middlesex freeholders are still on the ragged edge of uncertainty.

Uncle Sam's officials objected to the original plans for the construction, calamity howlers throughout the county raised a wail over the contract price, factory owners along the Raritan registered a protest on the grounds that the new bridge would choke the river with ice during the winter, and last, but far from least, C.A.Bloomfield secured his injunction which threatened to tie up the opening of the bridge indefinitely by holding up the contract money.

The county bridge over the Raritan was in use only a short time when it became evident that a serious mistake had been made in providing for piling construction throughout the entire distance from the shores to the draw span, and as the outcome of more heated sessions bids for steel spans were advertised for.

Again Charley Bloomfield made a claim that the bids submitted were about $20,000 too high, but the freeholders were obliged to accept the lowest bid offered and the steel span work is now under way. Those who were clamoring for the spans are now complaining because the bridge has not been kept open for traffic.

The span work is now nearing completion and when the bridge is again thrown open to the public, a new instalment of protests will probably be ready for the freeholders.

While the new county bridge has been giving the freeholders food for sleepless nights, the bridge over Woodbridge Creek at the township line has been doing its share to reduce the members of the board to mere spectres of former political giants, and in proportion to its size, the Woodbridge Creek bridge need not fall into second place for any trouble breeding structure of its kind in this section of the State.

The freeholders assert that Public Service cars have jarred the bridge into a condition bordering on collapse, and they have had several conferences with P. S. C. officials of late with a view to having the corporation install a motor for the operation of the draw. So far there are no results, and Freeholder John Hanson is wearing out autos and breaking speed records in his efforts to keep the bridge in operation for a day at a stretch.

REGRET THAT THEY MARRIED SO YOUNG.

McCabe, Seventeen, and Wife, Fifteen, Live Under Separate Roofs.

Matrimonial troubles have begun early for one young couple, at least, of West Orange, who met, wed and parted within a year. To Mr. and Mrs. McCabe, of 300 Orange street, Newark, aged 17 and 15, respectively, the little blind god has caused a world of trouble, and the parting of their ways seems imminent, and, although mutual friends are endeavoring to reconcile the youthful couple, the girl-wife says she will never- never live with her boy-husband again, while he is equally sure that he will not "make up" with her.

The trouble which came between them is the world-old one of too much mother-in-law. At least the wife so avers. The husband says that this is untrue, and that the real cause of their disagreement was pride on the part of his mate which led her to decline to make her home with his mother, and there the principals cannot agree.

It all started a year ago, when Cupid first entered into their lives. She met him at an entertainment, and fell in love with him directly. Three months after their first meeting they stole away together one fine day, and were quietly married in St. Mark's Episcopal church, West Orange. The confident boy-husband then started his home at 300 Maine street, Orange, by purchasing some furniture from a local instalment house, and all went merrily.

Their happiness was short-lived, however, and ended abruptly when he left her to make his home with his mother on February 4. He says she was asked to come with him, but refused, maintaining that it was his place to furnish a new home for her. Mrs. McCabe went back to her mother in Canada.

Yesterday she returned to Orange, her heart full of forgiveness, to seek a reconciliation. When she reached the city she learned for the first time that he had inserted an advertisement in a paper, saying that he would not be responsible for any expenses incurred by her. Then all thoughts of forgiveness left her, and she was busy yesterday seeking advice from her friends as to what steps she would have to take to secure a divorce.

Both parties charge desertion on the part of the other. Mrs. McCabe was Miss Lillian Alberts before her marriage. She also says that inasmuch as she is a Jewess (although she has since become a Catholic), while her husband is a Catholic, he no longer cares for her. Friends are endeavoring to bring about a reconciliation.

NO PRESENT RELIEF IN SIGHT.

Cleansing of Disease-Breeding Elizabeth River Must Wait.

That the work of improving the Elizabeth River, the unsanitary condition of which has been pronounced a dangerous menace to the public health, will not be started for at least a year, in spite of the many promises made and the fact that plans and specifications have been drawn, was admitted yesterday by many city officials, who blame the condition of the money market for the delay.

Everybody admits that the cleansing of the Elizabeth River is the most important problem Elizabeth has to solve, and during the heated spell especially its condition constitutes a most decided menace and a possible source of malignant disease. The stench which arises from the stream is unbearable, and property in its neighborhood has decreased greatly in value on this account.

DUKE TO BUILD NEW LAKE.

Tobacco King Razes Buildings on Three Properties.

James B. Duke, president of the American Tobacco Company, is paving the way for the construction of another large lake on his magnificent country estate near Somerville. He recently purchased the Hoffman, Disborough and Van Cleef properties, which adjoin his big farm, and yesterday he sold the farmhouses and other buildings on them.

The sale was attended by a large number of county officials and contractors from Plainfield, Newark, Elizabeth and Somerville, and was under the direction of David J. Smith, superintendent of the estate. About twenty structures were disposed of at prices ranging from $25 to $300. The buildings are to be removed between August 1 and September 15.

AUTOS DO QUEER STUNTS.

Chauffeur of One is Fined For Recklessness at Long Branch.

Long Branch, July 26.—An auto driven by Frank Hodges, a chauffeur with a party of friends out on a lark, skidded at the corner of Ocean and Lincoln avenues, this city, about 1 o'clock this morning and all the occupants were thrown out. the machine was smashed against an iron lamp-post, but by a miracle no one was badly hurt.

Recorder Van Doren fined the chauffuer $15 yesterday morning for reckless driving. About the same hour a runabout containing Arthur Cook and a girl was hit in the rear and wrecked by another machine. Cook and his companion were slightly bruised.

"MASHER" SENTENCED TO NINETY DAYS.

Bayonne Justice Sends Italian Who Chased Young Girl to Snake Hill.

Marion Cassidy, fourteen years old, daughter of James Cassidy, of No. 682 Boulevard, Bayonne, pressed a complaint in the police court yesterday morning against Joseph Fink, twenty-four years old, an Italian. According to the story told by the girl, on Tuesday Fink tried to flirt with her as she was going to her home. The girl became frightened and ran, and she said the Italian pursued her, but failed to catch her. She told her father of the incident and Fink was arrested. Fink said he was not running after the girl, but was in a hurry to reach his home, as it was then past his dinner hour.

"There is too much of this talking to young girls without waiting to be introduced," said the court. "Such men as you, Fink are making it unsafe for young girls to be on the street even in broad daylight. We will make it safe for them. They have every right to walk on the streets and not to be molested by men of your type. I am going to begin by making an example of you. Ninety days at Snake Hill.'

RAHWAY HOTEL LOOTED.

Two Thieves Escape, but Newark Junkman Is Caught.

Forest Park Hotel, of East Grand and Barnett streets, Rahway, Wednesday night, was saved from being completely looted by a mere chance. The owner of the building, Christopher Manderville, accompanied by Charles Fritsche and another man, on their way from Trinity, in passing the hotel, was surprised to find a wagon partly loaded standing in front of the building and three men inside packing up the goods in the building.

At Manderville's appearance two of the men jumped through a window and ran away, but the man who owned the wagon, Raphael Scritella, of Newark, a junkman, was taken to police headquarters, where he said he had been hired for $3 to come from Newark to this city and get the goods. He was held for the action of the Grand Jury.

An investigation showed that all the bar glasses, fixtures and plumbing in the building had been packed up for removal. The damage to the building amounts to several hundred dollars. The building has not been occupied for several months.

BISHOP McFAUL SAILS.

Will Spend Six Weeks In Ireland in Search of Health.

The Rt. Rev. James A. McFaul, bishop of Trenton, sailed from New York yesterday for a six weeks' trip to Ireland, his native land. He is accompanied by James McFaul, of Rocky Hill, a nephew of the bishop and a student at Fordham College.

The prelate will spend his entire time abroad in Ireland, visiting every part of that country. Some time will be spent in Larne, County Antrim, his birthplace. He came to this country when he was six months old, but has made numerous visits to his native town. Last year when the bishop made his trip abroad he spent ten days in Ireland, the balance of the time being spent in Rome and elsewhere in Europe.

The labors of Bishop McFaul during the past year have been the most arduous of his life, and he feels the need of a complete rest. It is for this reason that the trip is being made, as the ocean voyage is expected to have a beneficial effect on his health. He will arrive in Queenstown about Wednesday.

WHOLE STATE KNOWS OF INTER-STATE FAIR.

Mahlon R. Margerum, secretary of the Inter-State Fair Association, who has been at Camp Stokes, Sea Girt, the past month, is expected home next week to take active charge of the arrangements for the next annual exhibition of the association.

Previous to departing for the State camp Secretary Margerum started the advertising force working, and already the "Big Show" is well heralded throughout the seashore resorts and northern New Jersey. The advertising force will thoroughly bill eastern Pennsylvania and all sections of this State and part of Delaware.

The catalogues for the exhibition have been sent broadcast, and various advertising devices, such as postal cards in sets of ten, key rings bearing the advertisement of the fair on a minature bronze and silver engraved horse head have been sent to various parts of the State. Poster girl cards are also being mailed.

The office will be moved to the fair grounds Monday, August 5. The fair dates this year are September 30-October 4. Present indications are that the exhibition will fully equal, if not surpass, previous exhibitions.

REPORT ON RAHWAY SCHOOLS.

Superintendent Says All Pulls Should Be Eliminated.

Superintendent of the Rahway Schools William J. Bickett, in his annual report for the second year ending June 30, 1907, as submitted to the Board of Education at the meeting last night, gives the following statistics. Number of days schools were actually in session, 193; number of boys enrolled, 780; number of girls enrolled, 776; number of pupils enrolled during the year, 107; total number of cases of tardiness during the year, 923; percentage of daily attendance, 6,955.

Superintendent Bickett recommends the adoption of a new salary schedule providing for regular increases, and that a reasonable plan or scheme for the classification of teachers, be adopted at an early date. He says pulls, favoritism, nepotism and political or partisan considerations should be entirely eliminated in school matters.

WANTS ROOSEVELT ARRESTED.

Trenton Lunatic Says He Will Not Stop Wireless Murders.

M. Mulally, who yesterday wrote two postal cards from Princeton to Sheriff Church, demanding that Thomas A. Edison, Marconi and other famous men be arrested for murdering people with the wireless telegraph, yesterday called on the sheriff of Middlesex county and demanded the arrest of President Roosevelt because he had not stopped the murders.

He submitted a list of names of prominent people whom he wanted arrested, including John W. Griggs, Prosecutor George Berdine and Betzler, a brewer of Philadelphia. He was locked up and will be sent to the asylum.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to Vacate a Portion of Prescott Place," a copy of which, subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at eight o'clock p. m., on Monday, the fifth day of August, A. D. Nineteen Hundred and Seven, at which time and place prior to the adoption of said Ordinance, said Ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed Ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.

J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., July 3, 1907.

AN ORDINANCE

To Vacate a Portion of Prescott Place.

Whereas, The Portion of Prescott Place between West Fifth Street and West Sixth Street, as shown on a map entitled, "Map of Building Lots for sale by the Plainfield Land Improvement Company, City of Plainfield, N. J., June, 1895," filed in the office of the Clerk of Union County, New Jersey, September 23rd, 1895, although never opened or used, was in fact dedicated as a Street; and

Whereas, Mary E. Spangenberg, Emma D. Harrison, John J. Praed, Charles E. Lyles, Alfred Hanal, Jr., and Albert E. Park are the owners of the fee, and of all property abutting anywhere on such portion of said street, and have applied to the Common Council of said City to vacate such portion of said Street, pursuant to Chapter CXGXIII, P. L., 1888, and other laws governing the matter, and it is to the interest of the City that such Street should be vacated;

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the portion of Prescott Place lying between West Fifth and West Sixth Street, as shown on map entitled, "Map of Building Lots for sale by the Plainfield Land Improvement Company, City of Plainfield, N. J., June, 1895," be and the same is hereby vacated, pursuant to the Acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided.

LOVE AS A SIDE DISH

"Why do you blush when he passes?" I demanded reproachfully, stooping to pick up Kitty's fan as Clement Carter disappeared into the house.

"I didn't," declared Kitty, indignantly.

"You fluttered," I retorted. "And that's the same thing."

Kitty sat up straight and gazed at me in consternation.

"The insult," she declared furiously, "which you have offered to—to my sex! Just as if I were an old maid!" she added with true feminine paradox.

"Aren't old maids of your sex?" I asked in gentle surprise.

"They're the only ones who flutter," asserted Kitty, positively.

"Not at all," I retorted. "I've known plenty of widows who changed color and their conversation at the mere entrance of a man upon the scene; and dozens of debutantes who became tongue-tied or tremulous the moment a decent-looking chap appeared in the drawing room. Even most married women," I added, "lose their poise and the point of their remarks at sight of the approach of a masculine creature. It doesn't seem to be a matter of a woman's age or her condition, but—"

"Of the importance she accords to men," broke in Kitty scathingly. "There are individuals of both sexes," she added witheringly, "who are too easily impressed by the opposite six."

"Not at all," I objected. "I never knew a schoolboy so insignificant and homely and inconsequential that he didn't scorn girls. You see, to men, woman is a sidedish, a mere incident, while to a woman, man represents the whole menu of social existence, the piece de resistance, the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end."

"Of course," proceeded Kitty, ignoring my thrust, "there are plenty of women who overrate men and—and look at them through magnifying glasses—"

"And who 'flutter'" I put in hastily, "at their mere presence."

"But," she continued coldly, "they are women who don't know them."

"What?"

"Old maids," returned Kitty, "and widows whose husbands have been dead a long time and young girls who have no brothers to help them get a true perspective on the masculine creature. And there are other women so abnormally self-conscious and vain that they can't be their natural selves in the presence of any man."

"It's awfully flattering," I began enthusiastically, "to think that we can be so agitating—"

"Oh, it isn't the man that really agitates the—" retorted Kitty.

"No," I rejoined promptly, "it's the set of their skirts, or the tilt of their hats, or the curl of their hair, or the thought of whether there is any powder on their noses, or of what they shall say to be scintillating, or—"

"Isn't this the seventh waltz?" asked Kitty suddenly, rising and looking earnestly at her program. "I must go. Mr. Carter must be looking for me"

"Oh, no," I retorted, "I just saw him come out with the Tredway girl. Are you going to 'flutter' again, Kitty?" For Kitty had sat down with a sudden exclamation and was nervously pulling the remains of her fan to shreds.

"The idea," she exclaimed indignantly, "of accusing me of—of anything like that. Only unpopular women 'flutter.'" Kitty flung out the word scornfully.

"They are unpopular because they do flutter," I contended calmly, lighting another cigarette.

"Of course," I said, relenting a little, "there are plenty of women who do take men as a side dish; but they are either those who are born with a 'mission' or those who are like yourself, Kitty."

"What?" Kitty looked up suspiciously.

"Who have so many side dishes," I explained, "and are so constantly in the company of men that they lose that awe of the sex—"

"Sh!" cried Kitty, as a dark form emerged from the vines and passed so near us that he swept Kitty's ruffles. "There he goes!"

"The devil!" I ejaculated.

"No, Clement Carter," corrected Kitty.

"Kitty," I exclaimed reproachfully, "you're tearing that fan to pieces."

Kitty dropped the bauble nervously.

"There!" I exclaimed, picking up the scraps, "you were fluttering."

"I wasn't."

"And at the near sight of him!" I looked my disgust.

"Oh, no," declared Kitty hastily, "not at the sight of him. It was for fear he might catch sight of me, Mr. Curtis."

"What?"

"And you," added Kitty.

"That's very sweet of you," I began.

"And because," continued Kitty, carefully fitting the sticks of her fan together, "he once said that whenever he wanted to find me, he had only to look in a dark corner—"

"For you!" I exclaimed in feigned surprise.

"No—for you," retorted Kitty.

"Clement Carter," I declared, beligerently, "is—"

"Stop!" cried Kitty. "You shan't talk about my friends."

"Is the most envious man I know," I finished carefully. But somehow, I couldn't muster any hard feelings against him just then.

MEATS

A Daily Arrival

of Beef, Veal, Mutton, Lamb, Pork, Chicken, etc., makes fresh Meats and Poultry a certainty here.

The source of supply is carefully considered, and we buy only from packers that have earned a high reputation from the quality of the goods they send out. Inferior grades of Meats never enter our store.

Proposals for Stone Roads.

Proposals are asked for the construction of telford and macadam stone roads, on St. George Avenue, from Grand Street southerly to the Middlesex County line, and on Leesville Avenue from St. George Avenue westerly to the Middlesex County line, all situated in the City of Rahway, Union County, N. J.

The above work covers a length of road of about 10,368 lineal feet. The width of the stonework is to be 16 feet.

The estimated quantities of the items of the work are as follows:

Earth Excavation, 2,425 cu. yds.
Earth Embankment, 420 cu. yds.
2-inch Macadam pavement, 10,222 sq. yds.
6-inch Macadam pavement, 467 sq. yds.
12-inch Macadam pavement, 6,159 sq. yds.
12-inch Telford Macadam pavement, 1,400 sq. yds.
Crushed stone furnished additional, 700 tons.
3-inch Drain Tile, 4,000 lineal feet.
Rock Excavation, 0.

Plans, profiled, and specifications for this work may be examined at the office of the County Engineer, 215 Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Bidders must enclose with their bids a certified check for $1,000.00, made payable to the Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, as a guarantee that if the contract be awarded to such bidder, the bidder will enter into an agreement with the Board of Freeholders for the carrying out of the work.

Bids for this above described work will be received by the County Road Committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, at the Court House, Elizabeth, N. J., at 12 o'clock noon, on Thursday, August 1, 1907.

The Board of Chosen Freeholders or its Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, as they may deem best for the interests of the County.

TRY A PRESS WANT AD

BY THE GENTLE CYNIC.

We are constantly adding wings to our castles in the air.

The cost of experience is generally money well invested.

A girl doesn't need a fountain pen to write a gushing letter.

The trouble with the average bread-winner is that he wants cake.

A man doesn't necessarily have to marry in haste to repent at leisure.

Small boys are divided into two classes—the bad ones and the dead ones.

You couldn't broaden out some men by running over them with a steam roller.

Marriage is a lottery, and the only lucky gamblers are those who don't play.

When a girl refuses a fellow and he doesn't go to the bad it is a bitter blow to her pride.

The pure-food people should get onto the fact that most of the love is adulterated with filthy lucre.

If women were only as perfect as they expect their husbands to be, heaven would be at our very doors.

There's a lot of difference between forgetting what we ought to know and knowing what we ought to forget.

When a man likes to be different from other people, the other people are generally quite satisfied to have him so.

Many a statesman loves his country with the disinterested affection felt by a foreign nobleman for an American heiress.

PEOPLE AND MANNERS.

Women would certainly like more color, more romance, in men's dress.

Good manners are fast decaying among men.

No woman admires a man with whiskers.

Irishmen are popular because their flatteries are sweet.

The trait women most heartily abhor in men is meanness.

The jealous man is out of fashion—love accompanied by jealousy is not worth having.

The ideal man in woman's estimation is ever ready with the quite trivial gallantries.

Some women would prefer a bad man with good manners to a good man with bad manners.

A woman likes a handsome husband because he is a tribute to her powers of charm. She can then say, "I secured him; other women tried, but I won."

I am sure that some women are still primitive enough in feeling to admire the main who would seize and ride away with them, in spite even of their own opposition.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Happiness is often nothing but conceit.

And it is better to be a has-been than a never-was.

It takes a mighty good Christian to pray for the ice man.

Admiration is a woman's first love and devotion is her last.

One can't always judge a woman's truthfulness by what she says.

Many a man's empty pockets are due to his wife's fondness for change.

When a man starts to blow in his money his friends like to get wind of it.

The more good qualities a man possesses the less he has to say about them.

A woman's idea of economy is to have her husband waste $3 worth of time putting up a 10-cent kitchen shelf. —Chicago Daily News.

STORIES OF THE SECRET SERVICE

By CAPT. PATRICK D. TYRRELL

A series of stories that though true read more like fiction than half the best novels of the time. They are extensively illustrated with portraits of men who made the criminal history of a quarter of a century ago, and with drawings. We will print five of these stories under the following titles:

The Lincoln Tomb Robbers
The Bothamley Murder Mystery
The Missouri Land Leaguers
The Biebush Band
The Boscobel Koniackers

Remember this interesting series will begin in our next issue, and do not fail to read them. You will be interested.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was——Is——Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

Lots selling rapidly—Prices very low—Great investment or speculative opportunities.

Local Golfers in Exciting Match.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and "Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, met George Lowe and Miss Frew on the course at the Baltusrol Golf Club yesterday, and the match was close and exciting from start to finish. Although at one stage of the match Lowe and Miss Frew was 8 up and 5 to play on their opponents, when the eighteenth hole was played it was found that the players were all even. It was arrange dto play another eighteen holes on the same course today.

SHE PAID WEDDING FEE.

Bridegroom, Married in Court-room, Had Forgotten His Money.

Justice of the Peace Vreeland, of Jersey City, performed yesterday a marriage ceremony for Elizabeth Beebe, a Newark widow, and Albert Hofman, also of Newark. The ceremony took place in the First District Courtroom, in the City Hall. The bride is thirty-five years old and the bridegroom twenty-nine.

When Hofman felt in his pockets for the fee he was noticed to fumble and look exceedingly embarrassed. The bride noticed this and diving into her handbag drew forth a roll of bills from which she reeled one of more than the ordinary denomination, which she handed to the smiling judge. The bridegroom had forgotten his money.

Kane Prefers a Charge.

Alex Kane, who looks after the welfare of Fillmore avenue, yesterday preferred a charge of assault against Michael Longoso, the man who struck him because he said he sold liquor illegally. The case was set down for today in the city court but at Kane's request it was adjourned until next Monday. Kane says he will also have his witnesses on hand at that time to show that Longoso has been running a "speak easy."

TAILOR ACCUSED BY MANY LITTLE GIRLS

MOTHER OF ONE HE KISSED THREATENED TO KILL HIM IN SHOP.

Malcolm Daglian, a tailor of Grand street, Paterson, was arrested by Patrolman Kelly yesterday afternoon fro his actions toward Hendricka Van Peer, a nine-year-old girl living at No. 12 Jackson street, Paterson.

The child was sent by her mother to Daglian's shop with a pair of her sons's trousers. Daglian, it is alleged, kissed the girl and otherwise acted so that she ran screaming out of the store to her home. She told her mother, who became frantic.

Going to Daglian's store she threatened to kill him, but Patrolman Kelly came along and took him into custody. Mrs. Van Peer made charges against the tailor before Acting Recorder McCran.

When questioned by Desk Officer Robinson, Daglian admitted kissing the child, but denied all other charges.

Rosie Coogan, another small girl, came to police headquarters with Mrs. Van Peer for the purpose of testifying that Daglian had winked at her and tried to strike up an acquaintance.

Another woman living in the same neighborhood informed Mrs. Van Peer that Daglian had acted similarly with her daughter, but she feared to make a complaint.

MAN'S FACE AS MUCH HIS PROPERTY AS NAME.

In an opinion filed in the court of chancery by Vice-Chancellor Stevens in the suit of Thomas A. Edison against the Edison Polyform and Manufacturing Company, the latter is enjoined from using a likeness of the face of "The Wizard" on its output, which is accompanied with a certificate alleged to have been signed by Edison.

Vice-Chancellor Stevens hold that a man's face is as much his property as his name is, and in his discussion of this novel legal point he says:

"If a man's name be his own property, as no less an authority than the United States supreme court says it is, it is difficult to understand why the peculiar cast of one's features is not also one's property, and why its pecunary value, if it has one, does not belong to its owner rather than to the person seeking to make an unauthorized use of it."

HOUSEKEEPERS ARRESTED.

Charged With Looting Bernardsville Home of Mrs. Sterling.

Jacob Rush and his wife, Ella, were arrested yesterday by County Detective Totten and arraigned befor Jusice Guerin at Bernardsville, on a charge of having committed a series of robberies at the home of Mrs. Susan P. Sterling, a member of the New York colony at Bernardsville.

The Rushes had full charge of Mrs. Sterling's summer home, and it is alleged that they stole a quantity of silver, jewelry and other articles of great value. It is said that some of the stolen articles were recovered from Mrs. Rush's daughter, who lives in Newark. Justice Guerin held the offenders in $300 bail each to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Priest to Tell Jerome.

Following on the disclosures which the Armenians who were at the District Attorney's office, New York, yesterday made, Father Levont Martoogessian went in answer to a summons before Assistant District Attorney Manley this morning to tell what he knows about the society that was at the bottom of the death of Tavshanjian, the Armenian merchant who was shot in Union Square. The determination to have the priest down for examination came after a visit from another Armenian, who brought a letter which interested the District Attorney very much.

Unknown Man Found Drowned.

Bordentown, July 26.—The body of a drowned man was found on the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware river last evening by Harry Stratton and Peter Monaghan, of a dredging machine lying nearby. The man is about five feet four inches in height. He wore a dark suit of clothing and a black derby hat and blue shirt. There is a duck boat, with one seat, which is ashore close by. The body is still on the Pennsylvania side of the river, opposite the railroad wharf. A coroner will be notified.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED BY A PURSUING TRAIN

FRIGHTENED HORSE STARTED ALONG TRACKS AHEAD OF LOCOMOTIVE.

Two men and a horse were killed yesterday by a Pennsylvania Railroad train near Perth Amboy. The men were Frank Elias and Stephen Watko, each about thirty-five years old, of Woodbridge. The men were loading groceries from a car to a wagon near a siding. The express train which leaves Long Branch at 8:05 a. m. came along.

The horse attached to the wagon shied when it heard the train approaching and dashed up the track ahead of the flier. The men made efforts to stop the animal, but the train was on them in an instant. eithed had a chance to jump and both were thrown forward when the engine hit the wagon.

The horse and wagon were thrown to one side of the locomotive and the animal was badly cut. The body of one of the men was carried about 500 feet and that of the other about 800. It was fully 1,000 feet beyond where the wagon was hit that the train was stopped.

The engineer made desperate efforts to stop the train and put on the brakes so hard that many of the passengers were thrown from their seats. The comparatively short distance in which he stopped the flier for some unknown reason caused the train to be enveloped in a thick cloud of black smoke for about five minutes. Many of the passengers thought the smoke was due to something in the wagon, acid perhaps.

As soon as the train stopped the crew went down the tracks and picked up the bodies of the men.

TAKE BALL FROM BRAIN AFTER A YEAR'S TIME.

Lancaster, Pa., July 26.—A bullet was lodged in the brain of Israel Anderson nearly a year ago was removed yesterday at the Columbia Hospital. Anderson was accidently shot by his brother, the bullet entering above the left eye. Physicians were unable to locate it. It was considered a remarkable case, surgeons marveling that such a large bullet should enter the brain and not cause instant death. The young man will recover from the effects of the operation.

Little Girl Attacked.

A 5-year-old girl, Annie Falkoweko, was attacked in Linoleumville, Staten Island, last night, and her condition is most extremely precarious. The man accused of the offense is Joseph Noewiak, once a close friend of the girl's father. He is a Russian and is employed as a firemen in the Linoleumville oilcloth mills. He will be arraigned today in the New Brighton Police Court.

NEW IDEA CAMPAIGN PLANNED FOR THE FALL

Nominating Committee, Already at Work, to Report Early Next Month—Result of Its Investigation.

SOMMER FOR GOVERNOR

Strong Opposition of Assemblyman Moxon and Tillman Against Councilman Gloak, Buxton and Montgomery.

Plans for a vigorous campaign this fall were outlined at a meeting of the "New Idea" Central Committee recently, every ward in the city being represented by large delegations, and a committee on nominations was selected to investigate the records of present officeholders who are likely to seek renomination and to select desirable timber for the primaries in September. This committee, which is made up of eight delegates from each ward, will report at a meeting to be called early next month.

Not only will the committee agree upon clean candidates for the city but for the county and State as well. This much is quite certain; Sheriff Frank H. Sommer, of Newark, will be the choice of Plainfield's powerful Colbyite organization, for Governor. Equally positive, it is reported, will there be united opposition to the renomination of either Assemblyman John R. Moxon, of Elizabeth, or Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway. The former's action in voting for John F. Dryden for re-election to the United States Senate when his constituents were almost solidly arraigned against the insurance man, has killed his chances with the New Idea men. As might be expected Tillman is opposed because he is considered a creature of the leaders against whom the New Idea has been making its fight. As to Perkins, no definite line can be had for the New Idea people seem to be pleased with his apparent independence at times, although they are vexed at some of his attitudes on important measures.

As far as the local situation is concerned, the New Idea will not favor either Councilman Buxton, of the Fourth ward, nor Councilman Montgomery, of the Second, should they seek renomination. The same is true of Councilman Gloak, of the First ward.

On the other hand their support is expected for Councilman Ginna, of the Second; and Councilman Daniel, of the Third. What position will be taken regarding Councilman Charles Randolph, of the Fourth ward, cannot be learned.

THREE HURT IN RUNAWAY.

Horse Took Fright at Steam Roller Near Whitehouse.

William H. Reger, Jr., and his sister, Miss Luella Reger, of Whitehouse, and their guest, Miss Atwater, of Red Bank, were driving on the road between Whitehouse and North Branch, which is being macadamized, when the horse took fright at a big steam roller and made a plunge over an embankment. The vehicle, a basket wagon, was overturned and they were thrown out. All were badly cut and bruised, but escaped without serious injury.

The horse broke loose and ran three miles in the direction of Lamington, where it was captured by Serring Bunn, a farmer. The wagon was almost a complete wreck.

Cornerstone Committee.

Solomon's Lodge, No. 46, F. and A. M., of Somerville, under the auspices of which the new Somerset county court house's cornerstone will be laid on Tuesday, Sept. 24, has appointed John Zulauf, Eliphalet C. Wise and William A. Lindsley to represent it at the traps.

TROLLEY LINES' MERGER

Plainfield-Elizabeth and Elizabeth-Raritan Companies to Consolidate.

A P. S. C. MONOPOLY

Corporation to Transfer Its Roads to the North Jersey Street Railway Company Under One Control.

Application has been made to the Secretary of the State of New Jersey by the Public Service Corporation to approve the merger of the Plainfield, Elizabeth and Central Jersey Street Railway Company and the Elizabeth and Raritan River Street Railway Company with the United Street Railway of Central Jersey.

The first two companies are owned by the Public Service Corporation, and if no obstacles are raised to the merger the corporation will transfer its control of these roads, as well as its lease on the Orange and Passaic Valley Street Railway, to the North Jersey Street Railway Company.

It was explained yesterday that the reason for the consolidation is merely to get all the Public Service railroad holdings and leases under the control of the North Jersey.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN 'PLAINS FAMILY MIX-UP.

Smith, Already Under Bonds for Assault, Prefers Same Charge Against Father-in-Law.

The mix-up in the Smith-Coddington families at Scotch Plains got another airing, last night, when Clifford Smith preferred a charge of assault and battery against his father-in-law, L. B. Coddington. Smith is already under bonds on a similar complaint made by the parent-at-law.

The case was called before Justice Clark at the 'Plains and was practically a repetition of the previous affair. The charge grew out of the squabble at Smith's store last week when he ejected Coddington upon his refusal to quit the place. The father-in-law visited Justice Clark first and had Smith put under bonds and Smith thought turn about would be fair play.

Justice Clark decided the quarrel was too much for him to settle and held Coddington under $100 bonds for the October Grand Jury.

APOPLEXY FATAL.

William Weymouth Expires Shortly After Being Stricken.

William Weymouth, a retired New York merchant who has resided in the borough for the past five years, died early yesterday morning at his home on Rockview avenue. He was stricken with apoplexy during the night and passed away within a short time.

Mr. Weymouth was born at Alna, Me., seventy-nine years ago and went to New York when a young man. Late in life he resided at Washington D. C. and came from that city to Plainfield. He is survived by three sons, William, of New York; Frederick, of Kansas City, and Frank, of St. Louis.

The funeral will be held at his late home Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

Switch Tower Nearly Ready.

The New Jersey Central Railroad Company expects to put its new electric switch tower at the East End of the city in commission on Thursday, when all movements of trains will be handled from that point and not from the Western Union telegraph office as at present. This change will enable Manager Schermerhorn, of the Western Union office, to handle company business entirely and more expeditiously. He will continue to have as his assistant, Peter McDonough, and will not be required to run the office alone, as reported.

No Trace of Hale.

Despite a diligent search conducted by friends, the location of Frank Hale, the contracting carpenter who disappeared last week, still remains a mystery. It is thought now that he evidently went to New Orleans as he declared he would when seen at New Brunswick last Sunday. Miss Sadie Hand, for whom he was erecting two houses, has turned the contract over to McDonough Brothers to finish. If there is any saving it will be applied to the amount Hale owes the firm for materials.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Lewis, of Richmond street, announce the engagement of their daughter, E. Margaret Lewis, to Harold S. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy F. Phillips, of Madison avenue.

On Sunday, August 4, the monthly communion service will be held at the First Baptist chrch, Faith chapel and the Park Avenue Baptist church.

FIGHTS HIS OWN LAWYER

Denies Authority of His Counsel in Filing Exceptions to an Account.

DISPUTE OVER ESTATE

Dr. Zeglio's Claim Ruled Out, He Has Brought Suit in Another Form to Recover.

According to his summer schedule Judge Schenck sat in the Somerset county courts at Somerville yesterday afternoon, when an Orphans' Court case was taken up. In the estate of John Rebman, deceased, of Warren township, the exceptions to the final accounts were withdrawn by William F. Rebman, a son, in whose behalf they were filed by Horace Codington, a lawyer of Somerville.

Rebman asserted that the exceptions were filed without his consent. This was disputed and witness were present on both sides, but the court held that the exceptant was at liberty at any time to withdraw the exceptions filed in his behalf, if he so desired, aside from the question of authority, and consequently this issue of the dispute was not taken up.

William V. Steele, of Somerville, representing Mr. Codington, raised that poine that inasmuch as Dr. P. J. Zeglio, of North Plainfield, whose claim of $401.50 for medical attendance was excepted to, had brought suit in the Supreme Court, the Orphans' Court had no further jurisdiction in the claim.

Judge Schenck held that as the withdrawal was to all the exceptions he could properly dispose of the matter

Codington, it seems, represented Rebman in the contest of the will in the same estate as well as in other matters relating to the estate, and claimed to represent him in the matter of the exceptions, but the Court held that it could not dispose of this part of the case at this time.

The wholesale license of Martin Liddy, of Bernardsville, was transferred to Liddy Bros.

The final accounts in the estates of the late former Freeholder Cornelius G. Van Cleef, of East Millstone, Wiliam C. Sanborn, of Somerville, and John VanCamp, of South Branch were passed and allowed.

LOUIE MEYER'S FUNERAL.

Victim of Fourth of July Celebration Buried Yesterday.

The funeral of Louie Meyer, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Meyer, of Scotch Plains, who fell a victim to tetanus from the effects of a Fourth of July pistol wound, was held at the parents' home yesterday afternoon. It was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends from this city, New York and other places as well as from the town.

The service was conducted by Rev. James Hoffman, of Drew Theological Seminary, and two selections were sung by Miss Hollingsworth. The floral tributes were numerous and included many handsome set pieces.

Burial was made in the Scotch Plains cemetery, the bearers being four of Louie's playmates, Frank Hand, William Stanbery, George Clark and William Reynolds.

One Fiend Caught.

In the arrest today of Anthony Berger, thirty-eight years old, of 89 Manhattan street, New York, by the police of that city, another addition to the long list of brutal attacks on little girls was prevented and the man whom the police believe has been annoying young women in the vicinity of Morningside Heights for some time, taken into custody. The little girl upon whom Berger had designs was nine-year-old Gertrude Schultz, daughter of Oscar Schultz, of 404 West 116th street.

Funeral of Miss Drayton.

The funeral of Miss Sarah A. Drayton was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, on East Ninth street. It was conducted by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church, and was well attended. Burial was made at Hillside.

"Tom" Fay Returns Home.

Thomas Fay, of West Second street, returned home this morning, after a six week's trip to Europe. He reports a pleasant voyage both ways and an enjoyable time while in the King's domain.

AS WOMAN SITS SEWING; CEILING CRASHES DOWN

MRS. BLATCHLEY NARROWLY ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY IN HER FLAT.

While sitting sewing in the living room of her apartments in the Stephenson building on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Blatchley narrowly escaped seriously injury by the falling of the ceiling. She was alone in the room when suddenly there was a splintering noise and a heavy large section of the ceiling crashed down. Mrs. Blatchley was not directly under the part that fell, but was struck by pieces of plaster and sustained several bruises. She was struck in the head by one piece and was knocked insensible.

The noise of the falling ceiling brought several of Mrs. Blatchley's neighbors in the house to the scene. As the group stood looking at the fallen plaster, there was a second crash and the remainder of the ceiling came down. No one in the party was in that part of the room, so that all escaped injury.

The following plaster broke several of the chairs and a table in the room, together with some ornaments. Dust and lime sifted through the other rooms of the apartment and the carpet in the room was ruined as a result of the accident.

NINETY-NINE SALOON KEEPERS TO PLEAD

ALL INDICTED FOR VIOLATION OF THE SCREEN LAW.

Ninety-nine saloon-keepers of Elizabeth, charged with violating the provisions of the Bishops law relative to screens, will be arraigned before Judge Atwater next Tuesday morning. They all face the same kind of indictments and are to be arraigned together.

The offense charged is a misdemeanor and is punishable by not more than three years' imprisonment or a fine, or both, and the law provides that in case of a violation of any of its provisions the license shall be revoked for a year. It is thought that the great majority of the ninety-nine saloon-keepers will be found guilty. Many of them are prepared, it is said, to plead non vult. If the Elizabeth Excise Board does not revoke the license when a violation has been proven it lays itself open to indictment by the Grand Jury.

CO. K STARTED TODAY FOR A WEEK IN CAMP

LOCAL MILITARY LEFT THIS NOON FOR SEA GIRT RANGE.

Numbering thirty-seven men, Co. K left town this noon on a special train for Sea Girt, where they will spend a week in camp. The men were under command of Lieutenant Peterson. Captain Kitchell joined the company and took command. With him were seven other members of the company.

The special arrived at 12:10. On board were twenty-nine members of Co. M, under command of Captain Coler. The two companies proceeded together on the special. They were joined at Elizabeth by the company from that city. Lieutenant Colonel Robert L. Patterson, of Elizabeth, has been assigned inspector of guard duty during the encampment, and Major John H. McCullough has been detailed as field officer from the arrival in camp until he is relieved on July 28.

An elaborate social program has been arranged by Brigadier-General Dennis F. Collins for encampment week, and he will probably do more extensive entertaining than any other regiment commander. The program has not been completed as yet, and no dates fixed, but it includes the entertaining of Governor Stokes and his staff on one day; of Brigadier-General P. Farmer Wanser and staff on another, and Quartermaster-General Murray and staff on another.

The local military wore their new blue fatigue shirts for the first on their trip. These shirts, recently issued to the State companies, are light cotton cloth and are to be worn in place of the flannel shirts which were the regulation service garment last year. The boys are pleased with the new shirts, for they are much lighter.

Rev. William McWilliams, of Ossining, N. Y., will preach in the First Presbyterian church, tomorrow, morning and night.

HOLDING "BLACK HANDS"

Officers From Lawrence County, Pa., Will Make Formal Demand for Them Monday.

PINKERTONS JUBILANT

Superintendent Fuller Confident that Remaining Two Lieutenants Will Soon Be In Custody.

Because of the necessary "red tape" in securing requisition papers, Nicola Lobianco and Joseph Novetta, the two "Black Hand" leaders arrested in this city, Thursday, are still being held at police headquarters. Sheriff Waddington, of Lawrence county, Pa., wired Chief Kiely today that his men had gone to Harrisburg to secure Governor Steward's signature to the required documents and that they would proceed from there to Trenton to get Governor Stokes' acknowledgement. When these preliminaries had been taken care of, they would call for the prisoners, probably on Monday.

Lobianco and Novetta have maintained a stolid indifference since yesterday and are taking their imprisonment as a matter of course. At no time since they were captured have they attempted any extended conversation among themselves and what has passed between them has been spoken in their native tongue. They are in separate cells but it is an easy matter to hold communication if they cared to. Both men are able to speak good English and show by many movements that they know enough to be guarded in their conduct.

Detailed information received late yesterday by Chief Kiely and Assistant Superintendent Fuller, of the Pinkerton's New York office, show beyond a doubt that Lobianco and Novetta were two of the leaders in the Newcastle gang of terrorists and that it is now practically broken up. The only important assistants of leader Jati still at large are the two brothers, Rocco and Francisco Aljiro, who, is was hoped, would be caught in the local drag-net. Chief Kiely has learned that they were in Plainfield Monday and that they were to have returned Thursday night. It is possible that they were "tipped off" and have fled to some remote region.

"I have every reason to believe, however," said Mr. Fuller, last night, "that we will have the pair in a short time. They are the only ones I want now and if we get them the organization will be absolutely without a head. When we made the first raid at Newcastle, all the leaders skipped but we have been getting them one by one. Jati was landed at Lima, O., two of his lieutenants were picked up at Rochester, N. Y., and now we have two more here. The arrests in this city are the most important of the lot."

Sheriff Waddington, who is a brother-in-law of P. J. McAndrews, of this city, intimated in his telegram that Lobianco and Novetta are the men responsible for the murderous assault on a Newcastle man on July 13. He had given up $100 but had refused to make a second donation to the "Black Hands" and was found in a lonely spot with his throat slashed. He is still in a hospital fighting for life. When Lobianco was searched at headquarters a razor with bloodstains on the handle was found in his pocket.

In the Grasp of the Brewers.

"Katzenbach is willing to run for Governor," goes a headline in the Trenton Times. Yes; he had previously been told that as the brewers wanted it this way both Smith and Davis would fall in line if he could show strength in the State convention. The problem is no problem at all. As the brewers direct, so Smith and Davis will subscribe, and Katzenbach is nearer a nomination by the combination today than any other Democrat in the State. Magnanimous and loyal treatment truly for such patriots as Colonel Edwin Stevens, Charles C. Black and James E. Martine.—New York Press.

Anti-Saloon Leaguer to Speak.

Emmett R. Curtis will be the speaker at the First Methodist church tomorrow morning at the regular morning service. He will discuss the saloon question in connection with the work of the local option movement. At the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting in the afternoon at 4 o'clock, Mr. Curtis will have more to say on the subject and on the question of direct vote at the polls for or against liquor licenses.

A Chimney Blaze.

No. 2 hose wagon was sent from fire headquarters to the home of N. Hill, of Arlington avenue, for a chimney blaze at 9:40 last night. A couple of pails of water put an end to the trouble.

Miss Louise Ruggles, of Bayonne, is the guest of Miss Marguerite Ostrom, of Albert street.

MEDICINE NEARLY FATAL

Given Wrong Dose Internally by Mistake, Infant's Life Saved by Doctor's Work.

SANK INTO A STUPOR

Mother Frantic When She Read Directions on Bottle After Administering Dose to Little One.

Ignorant of the directions on a bottle of whooping-cough medicine, Mrs. Arthur Drake, of Lincoln place, last night, nearly caused the death of her fifteen-months' old son. The child was immediately seized with a severe spasm and then passed into a stupor from which the mother was unable to awaken it. Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Drake, read the directions, accompanying the preparation, and learned that it was to be applied externally only. Fearful that she had given the infant a fatal dose the mother summoned Dr. N. W. Currie who, after working over the child for several hours, succeeded in reviving it. Today the boy is reported to be out of danger.

A neighbor had recommended to Mrs. Drake, an English preparation as an excellent remedy for whooping cough, and she decided to try it. Upon securing the preparation she removed the wrapper containing the directions without reading them. She thought that the medicine was to be taken internally and so gave a teaspoonful to the child. After realizing her mistake she read the directions and learned that it prescribed various doses externally for persons of different ages.

The physicians in charge of the case said that the preparation contains a considerable quantity of oil of amber and some opium, which is intended to quiet and relieve the severe coughing attendant with whooping cough, and that a mistake such as Mrs. Drake made, might easily result fatally.

It was due to the prompt work of a physician that the child's life was saved.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE OVER MR. COWARD'S DEATH.

Lawyers Act and Banks Will Do Likewise—Funeral Tomorrow.

Local barristers belonging to the Plainfield Bar Association held a special meeting at John H. Van Winkle's law offices on Front street this afternoon to frame resolutions on the death of J. B. Coward. Mr. Coward has been connected with this association since the time of its formation.

The directors of the City National Bank, at their regular meeting on Wednesday, will take suitable action regarding Mr. Coward's death through the adoption of resolutions, and the directors of the Plainfield Savings Bank will do likewise at their meeting on Monday, August 11. Mr. Coward was identified with the City National Bank for thirty years and with the Plainfield Savings Bank since organization. Both institutions will send handsome floral tributes to the funeral service to be held from the late home at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

BURKE DENOUNCES BUXTON.

Anti-Saloon Man Makes Open Air Speech in Morristown.

At a large open air meeting on the Morristown Green last night J. Frank Burke, superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League, denounced Assemblyman Henry W. Buxton, of Morris county, for his failure to vote for the local option bill. Mr. Burke had sent a challenge to the Assemblyman to meet him at the meeting, but Buxton wrote his regrets, and stated that his reason for not voting for the bill was that during the campaign last fall he had promised not to vote for any change in the present liquor law.

Mr. Burke read a letter from the Assemblyman written immediately after the campaign ended in which Burke called attention to the fact that he was president of the local Young Men's Christian Association and could be depended upon to vote for any anti-liquor measure.

Cop Thought He Looked Suspicious.

Joseph Randolph, a colored youth, was arrested at Park avenue and Second street at 1.30 this morning after Patrolman McCarthy had decided he was acting in a suspicious manner. The prisoner gave a good account of himself to Judge Runyon in the city court and was released.

YOUTH MEETS DEATH IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Machine's Driver Killed Instantly But His Passengers Miraculously Escape the Same Fate.

NEAR BERNARDSVILLE

Mrs. Clinton F. Randolph, of This City, One of the Party—Auto Goes Down a Steep Embankment.

Herbert Erbacher, the eighteen-year-old son of Mrs. Anna L. Erbacher, of Riverside Drive, New York city, was instantly killed near Bernardsville, last night, and Mrs. Clinton F. Randolph, of Truell Court, who with Mrs. H. Van C. Homan, Miss Margaretn Van Homan and Miss Anita DeWitt, of New York, comprised the rest of the party, miraculously escaped with only slight injuries. The dead man and other members of the party are now at Bernards Inn, Bernardsville.

The party was in an automobile owned and driven by Mr. Erbacher, and at a hairpin turn in the road near the private drive of former Senator S. S. Childs, the machine went down a steep embankment. Directly behind the Erbacher auto was one driven by A. H. DeWitt, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York. When Mr. DeWitt saw the first machine tumble down the embankment he stopped his car and hurried to the aid of the party, expecting to find them all seriously hurt or killed. He found the Erbacher auto overturned on the six occupants and heard the women in the party crying for help. He got assistance to move the car and to his astonishment found that the women were only slightly injured.

Young Erbacher lay motionless and a call was quickly sent for Dr. J. Meigh, of Bernardsville. When he got to the scene he pronounced Erbacher dead and said that he had been almost instantly killed. He had held fast to the steering wheel and was caught under the machine. His skull was crushed and one arm and several ribs were broken and he was burned and scalded about the body.

In explaining the cause of the accident later, it was stated that Erbacher got around the first part of the hairpin curve without trouble and jammed his brakes down hard when he was confronted with the second curve. They didn't have time to work before the car was bottom side up on the rocks fifteen feet below.

The Erbacher car was one of several that started out from Water Witch Park, near Monmouth Beach, where the Erbachers have a summer home, and where Mrs. Randolph was a guest for the summer, it being planned to take a night run to Bernardsville. Erbacher was sending his car along at a good speed and he didn't realize that he had to negotiate a curve of twenty-five degrees until the car went spinning into the ditch.

Victor Erbacher, the dead boy's father, died several years ago, leaving a large estate. Herbert had recently come into his share, which was upward of a million dollars.

Japanese Lawn Fete.

The membership committee of the Young Women's Christian Association is planning to give on Monday evening at the association house, an attractive Japanese lawn fete. All the members are must cordially invited to visit Japan in a personally conducted tour on that evening. As many of the pledged members have not called at the association house, the membership committee will welcome them on Monday evening. An opportunity will be given them to see the house and also to pay their membership dues at that time.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Russel will probably be in charge of the curve department for this afternoon's game, when the local nine sorts curves with the Raritans on the Madison avenue grounds. The game will be called at 3 o'clock and there ought to be fast baseball, for the local boys will play a strong team.

A specially organized quartette will render special music at the morning service at the First Baptist church Sunday. The pulpit will be occupied by Rev. Mr. Latcher, of New Brunswick, in the absence of Rev. Frank Fletcher.

The New Market nine will meet the Potter A. C., of Plainfield, on the local diamond in het village. The New Markets trimmed the Hope Chapel boys a week ago by first class baseball and it ought to be a good game today.

A delegation of about twenty members of the Holy Name Cadet Corps marched to St. John's church this morning, where a special communion service was held at 7:30.

Mrs. Morris Coyle, who was injured a few days ago by a fall at the home of Mrs. Catherine Maier, is able to be about again. She sustained several painful bruises.

About twenty-five members of the Piscataway Young People's Social Club left this afternoon in a special trolley for Boynton Beach. They will return late in the evening.

Lester Dutcher, who has been confined to his home by illness for the past two weeks, has again resumed his duties at Pond Tool Works.

Miss Janie Churchill has returned home after spending two weeks at Asbury Park.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The locals and Y. M. C. A. team are battling at Crescent Oval this afternoon. The result of the game means much in the league race. A win puts them in the lead, while a defeat would make them tie with Y. M. C. A. for second place.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be held at the usual hours: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7:15; no evening preaching service.

Mrs. James H. Buckley is enjoying a two weeks' trip visiting points of interest in the South. On her way back she will spend several days at Jamestown at the exposition.

Miss Elsie Rasick, who has been spending a week with Mrs. W. R. Buckley, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

The game of baseball at Westfield between tre Indians and Westfield team was attended by a number from here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gere and children, of Brooklyn, are spending two weeks with Mrs. Frank Hosinger.

John B. Stillger, of Brooklyn, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stillger, of Front street.

Miss Addie Johnston is spending several weeks at Asbury Park.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Services will be held as usual in the Baptist church tomorrow. Rev. Attlee will be in the pulpit. The morning theme will be "Let Jerusalem Come Into Your Mind;" evening subject, "The Sword of the Lord and of Gideon." An orchestra will lead the music. All are welcome. Christian Endeavor, 7:45, led by Mrs. William H. Manning, subject, "Missions Among Mormons."

The Sunday-school of the Baptist church goes for its annual excursion on Tuesday next. The place selected is Bellewood Park, a beautiful mountain resort on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Two other schools join them, one from Woodbridge and one from Amboy. The start will be made at 9 a. m. and the train will stop at New Market a few minutes later.

Great preparations are being made for the Harvest Home celebration to be given by the Good Government Club on Labor Day, September 2. Mrs. Van Nest has granted permission to hold the "fete" on her lawn, as this is the best adapted place in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman took Rev. Attlee and his wife in their automobile to Perth Amboy to spend the day fishing. They caught quite a number of blue and weakfish and returned home in the evening after a pleasant trip.

Patrick McDonough, who broke his arm while playing ball, has returned to the Business College after being laid up for four weeks.

Boating on the lake is quite a pleasant pastime nowadays and boats are to let for a small sum.

Miss Florence Johnson will soon complete a course at the Business College in Plainfield.

WESTFIELD.

The Board of Education has secured options on several houses for extra school accommodations. A special school meeting is to be called in September to vote an appropriation for a new building.

There will be a baseball game at the Westfield grounds this afternoon between the Central Railroad team and the Westfields.

The sum of $907 has so far been subscribed toward the purchase of Clark's Lake and grounds for a public park.

The Relief Association of the Hall Signal Company will hold a social and picnic at Brizt's Grove, Garwood, tonight.

Don't eat so much meat during these warm days. Fruit is better for you. See the choice display of peaches, plums and muskmelons at Alex. Lusardi's stand, Front and Somerset street.

"The Old World and Its Ways."

This the title of a new and profusely illustrated book by Col. William Jennings Bryan, recounting his noted journey around the earth and through Europe, which was so widely heralded through the American Press.

The book is an illustrated and descriptive record of that journey, which is so memorable in current history. The journey embraced a period of a year, and covered practically all the nations of the earth.

Col. Bryan traveled with camera and pencil, and not only described, in brilliant phrase, what he saw, but further illustrated his journey by photographs. The photographs constitute a striking pictorial presentation and lend especial interest to the book. They number 240 and they show in picture the world as he saw it. They constitute just that many striking Object Lessons of the people of all countries in their cities, towns and villages—in their homes and everyday occupations.

The book will interest every reader as a unique presentation of a wonderfully interesting journey. It is sold only through solicitors. The Thompson Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo., are the fortunate publishers. They advertise for agents in another column of this issue.

By THOMAS W. LAWSON

Author of "Frenzied Finance"

A Story of Passionate Love and Money Madness

The hero is a daring young broker who retrieves the fortunes of the family of the woman he loves, a beautiful daughter of the south (they have been victims of "The System,") with the greatest "coup" in the history of "The Street." The fever of money madness and the curse of speculation run throughout the story. This terrific conflict between character and money, and the shifting and glittering background of frenzied finance, makes a novel which would be absorbing to every man and woman were it by an unknown author. Being by Mr. Lawson, it will undoubtedly be the most discussed story of our generation.

YOU MUST NOT FAIL TO READ IT.

It will begin exclusively in The Daily Press on Monday, July 29

Special July Sale

We are now in the second week of our July Sale of Slightly Used and Second Hand Upright Pianos, Square Pianos and Organs. Already during the past week a host of people have taken this unusual opportunity to secure a fine Piano at a very low price. There are still left several very fine instruments of well known and standard makes to select from and we have added to the list a number of instruments which we have taken in during the past week; also a number of slightly shop worn instruments. We will dispose of every one between now and August 1st at remarkably low prices and terms. If you have been delaying or waiting for an opportunity to add a Piano to the beauty and happiness of your home you should come to us at once and decide the matter now. You can make a first payment of from $5 to $10, according to the price of the instrument selected, the balance in small monthly payments. In the purchase price is included a stool, scarf or cover, free delivery to your parlor and one year's tuning.

Plainfield Citizens Assisting in the Good Work.

Day by day and hour by hour the "Little Conqueror" becomes better known and more respected by the public. Nothing in modern times has reached the high pinnacle of popular favor in so short a time; people talk about it, and they have reason to. They tell their experience for the good of their fellow beings and through gratitude. To publish their expressions is but to show you that the same experience awaits you. Here is the experience of a Plainfield resident:

Albert Naylor, music teacher, of 436 East Fifth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I was afflicted with a dull aching in the small of my back and sharp pains when stooping or lifting. I resorted to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills for same, as I had been told that they were a cure for such pain as I had been having. I took only two boxes before the pains left me, and I was soon feeling first class in very respect. I have often endorsed and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to those suffering from backache as I was."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of May 6, 1869:

"We hope our readers will excuse the dearth of local matter this week. Cause—Election."

"At an annual election of the Plainfield Fire Department held on Monday evening, May 30, the following officers were elected: Chief engineer, James F. G. Frazer; first assistant, Wm. H. Voorhees; second assistant, Chas. M. Vermeule.

"In the different companies, the election of officers resulted as follows:

Gazelle No. 1.

"Foreman, Wm. L. Force; first assistant, N. C. Dunn; second assistant, I. D. Ten Eyck; secretary, A. L. Force; assistant secretary, A. H. Martin; treasurer, J. A. Hubbard; steward, Josiah Layton.

Steamer, Plainfield No. II.

"Foreman, Jeremiah Van Winkle; first assistant, Alfred Runyon; second assistant, Philip Breen; secretary, G. Thorn; treasurer, Rufus K. Case.

Zephyr Hook & Ladder Co. No. I.

"Foreman, David S. Pope; first assistant, Alfred Runyon; second assistant, John Chandler; secretary, James K. Arnold; treasurer, Robert C. Conway."

"Marriage. (Lindsley-Royle)—On Saturday, May 1st, at the house of the bride's parents, by Rev. William Day, Mr. John Lindsley, to Miss Eliza, daughter of Thos. Royle, Esq., all of this city."

From the issue of May 13, 1869: Proceedings from Common Council.

"The Common Council held their first meeting on Tuesday evening, May 11th, in the rooms of the Engine House of Steamer No. 2, in accordance with a previous notice. All the members were present—and also His Honor, Mayor Male.

"They organized by appointing Mr. West temporary chairman.

"A committee of seven were appointed to nominate a prominent President of the Board.

"The Committee retired and after deliberation reported the name of E. W. Runyon, who was nominated by acclamation, and duly elected to that responsible position.

"Mr. West then resigned his seat and Mr. Runyon assumed the duties of the chair, in a few appropriate remarks, thanking the members for the honor conferred upon him, in choosing him to preside over their deliberations.

"A committee was appointed to call upon the Mayor, and ascertain if he had any communication to present to the Council.

"Committee reported His Honor had none to make at this time, but would have at an early day.

"A committee on rules and regulations for the government of the Board was appointed. Also a committee to procure a room for the meeting of the Common Council.

"The Council then adjourned to meet on Tuesday evening next, 18th inst., at same place, at half past seven o'clock."

"On Monday evening last, about 11¼ o'clock our citizens were startled by the cry of fire which was found to proceed from the barn situated in the rear of Grace church, in the upper part of the city. The fire companies were quickly on the spot, but had great difficulty in procuring sufficient water. Gazelle No. 1 finally succeeded in getting suction in a well in the rear of the residence of Rev. J. C. Bliss, and got a stream upon the burning building, which was kept up until the fire was subdued. Steamer, No. 2, arrived on the ground ready for action, but could procure no water and therefore had to remain inactive, some of her members, however, with the Zephyr's helping on the brakes of Gazelle. Zephyr H. & L. got their "hooks" on the building and pulled portions of it down. At one time before the companies could get to work, it was thought the small frame dwelling situated near the buring barn would have to go, but by the use of a small garden engine the building was saved. The barn was owned by Mr. John Simpson and was insured in the American Mutual Insurance Company, of this city, for $400; also the contents, for $300. The entire loss was about $1,200. The origin of fire is a mystery."

A PREVALENT ABUSE.

It is just possible that Judge Atwater was prompted to deal so leniently with the nineteen-year-old negro who attempted to assault a three-year old white girl because of misdirected petitions presented to him by a few persons who certainly could not have informed themselves of the facts before seeking clemency. It is an easy task indeed in these days to procure signatures to almost any sort of a petition, the fact having been demonstrated time and again. No matter what the object is, there are always certain people to be found who will listen to one side of a matter and then willingly affix their signatures to a petition which is in readiness for them. Some will even go further and pursue their misguided efforts by writing personal letters couched in vigorous language. The recipients, as a rule, naturally believes that the writers are familiar with the subject they discuss but the fact remains that in nine cases out of ten, they only have a meagre idea of the cause to which they have foolishly lent their assistance. Not only judges but pardoning boards and what not are made unsuspecting victims of those who indulge in this practice. It is high time, indeed, that something be done to correct this abuse.

SECRET SERVICE TALES.

Probably no man in the country is better fitted to tell the tales that he relates than Captain Patrick D. Tyrrell, whose first installment of "Stories of the Secret Service" appears in this issue. Captain Tyrrell is an old secret service operator. He was prominent in the service during the years that the Government brought to justice some of the greatest criminals this country has ever known, and it is of these criminals, their method of operation and their capture that Captain Tyrrell is to tell our readers. Then, too, he is not telling of what someone else accomplished, but of what he did, and he relates it with an interest that is sure to captivate his audience.

We are to print five of these stories under the following titles: "The Lincoln Tomb Robbers," "The Bothamley Murder Mystery," "The Missori Land Leaguers," "The Biebush Band," "The Boscobel Koniackers."

Do not fail to read the first chapters in this true account of the despoilation of the Martyr-President's tomb, which will be found on page seven today, and you will be sure to follow the entire series.

Thomas W. Lawson, author of "Frenzied Finance" and the most conspicuous figure in the financial world at the present time, is responsible for "Friday The 13th," which will run in serial form exclusively in The Daily Press beginning on Monday.

GROWTH OF U.S. IMPORTS

A $200,000,000 GAIN

Of This Vast Growth During the Fiscal Year Just Ended the Largest Increase Has Been from Great Britain.

Washington, July 27.—All the world, or at least all the grand divisions of the world, have profited by the large increase of importations into the United States during the fiscal year just ended. This increase in importations, as already announced by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, amounts to over $200,000,000, as with the immediately preceding year. Of this increase of over $200,000,000 about $115,000,000 occured in the imports from Europe, $33,000,000 in imports from Asia, $25,000,000 in the imports from North America, about $20,000,000 in the imports from South America, nearly $10,000,000 in the imports from Africa and about $5,000,000 in the imports from Oceania. The United Kingdom, Germany, Franch, Brazil, Japan, British India, Cuba, Italy, Egypt and China are the chief beneficiaries in this increase in foreign purchases by the people of the United States.

The largest increase in the imports from any single country is from the United Kingdom, from which the imports increased about $37,000,000 over the immediately preceding year, the fiscal year 1906. This increase in imports from the United Kingdom occurs chiefly in pig iron, pig tin, pig copper, tin plate, laces and miscellaneous manufactures. Pig iron alone shows an increase in the eleven months ending May of Nearly $7,000,000 from the United Kingdom alone, pig tin an increase of nearly $4,000,000, pig copper an increase of nearly $3,500,000, while cotton cloths, cotton laces, silk, crude India rubber and manufactures of various sorts, as well as many other less important articles, show a considerable increase from the United Kingdom.

From Germany the imports show an increase of about $26,000,000. This increase occurs chiefly in beet sugar, chemicals, kid gloves, silks, knit goods, and paper manufactures, the largest single increase being in sugar, which alone shows an increase in the eleven months ending with May of nearly $6,000,000 compared with the immediately preceding year. From France the imports show an increase of about $21,000,000, the gain occurring chiefly in silks, laces, diamonds, kid gloves and other manufactured articles. From Italy the imports show an increase of about $10,000,000, the gain occurring chiefly in raw silk, of which the imports from Italy in the eleven months ending with May were about $3,000,000 in excess of those of the corresponding months of the preceding year. Lemons also show an increase of over a million dollars, while other fruits, cheese, olive oil and miscellaneous merchandise show also an increase. From Netherlands the imports show an increase of about $6,000,000, the gain occurring chiefly in diamonds and tobacco from her East Indian possessions.

From Canada the imports show an increase of about $6,000,000, the gain occurring chiefly in lumber and copper. From Mexico there is an increase of about $5,000,000, this gain occurring chiefly in rubber, copper, and hides. From Cuba the imports show a gain of about $10,000,000, the increase occurring chiefly in sugar; also bananas, tobacco, cigars and iron ore. From Brazil the increase is about $17,000,000, occurring chiefly in coffee, cacao and rubber, the increase in coffee, amounting to over $6,000,000, in cacao to about $1,500,000, and in India rubber to about $8,000,000.

From China the increase in imports is about $7,000,000, occurring chiefly in silk and wool. From Japan the increase amounts to about $15,000,000, the gain occurring largely in silk, of which the imports in the eleven months ending wih May were about $12,000,000 in excess of those of the corresponding months of the preceding year. From British India the importations show an increase of about $12,000,000, this gain occurring chiefly in burlaps, jute bags and manufactured jute. From Australia and New Zealand there is a gain of about $5,000,000, this increase occuring chiefly in wool. From Egypt the imports show a gain of about $6,000,000, the gain occuring chiefly in raw cotton.

The increase in importations is divided about equally between dutiable and non-dutiable merchandise. Dutiable merchandise shows an increase of a little more than $100,000,000, that coming in free of duty a gain of about $100,000,000. Of the great groups, foodstuffs in a crude condition show a gain of about $15,000,000, foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured a gain of about $15,000,000, manufactures ready for consumption a gain of about $55,000,000, manufactures for further use in manufacturing a gain of about $57,000,000, and crude materials for use in manufacturing an increase of about $66,000,000.

TO OUST ALL SALOONS

State League Plans to Get a Constitutional Amendment Against Them.

MAKING ACTIVE FIGHT

Vice President Lincks Says Support Has Been Promised in Many Counties—Authorities Refuse to Act.

The Anti-Saloon League, which came into existence just before the legislative fight over the Bishops' bill, is so elated at the success that has resulted from the efforts of the clergy and active church people that they have decided to proceed a step further and end the saloon traffic, and feel confident of success.

A movement in that direction has been started. Some of the arguments they will advance are that the saloonkeepers do not respect the law, and are not entitled to recognition by the law abiding-body; that the saloon should be eliminated as a pernicious political factor, as its influence is now so potent that county and municipal officials fear it and to curry favor with it permit the laws to be broken.

The leaders of the anti-saloon movement have frankly declared that they do not expect the Excise Board will seriously consider their complaints, which include charges against many leading saloonkeepers, but state they propose to keep on working until they have reached every official whose duty it is to enforce the law. They charge that they have even appealed to the Mayor to direct that the police do their duty.

George H. Lincks, of Jersey City, vice president of the league, said: "A movement has been started whereby we expect to obtain a constitutional amendment against saloons. The people of the State are beginning to wake up. This amendment, if we obtain its passage, will put the saloons out of business altogether. The fight is under way, and we have assurances from many counties in the State that it will be pushed vigorously.

STATE NEWSPAPER MEN VISITORS AT CAMP STOKES.

Ate With Governor, Saw Sham Battle and Target Practice.

Governor Stokes yesterday entertained the newspaper men of the State at his headquarters at the Sea Girt camp. There was a large representation from the State Editorial Association which is composed largely of the smaller papers in the State, and the New Jersey Legislative Correspondent's Club.

At 1 o'clock luncheon was served at the governor's cottage, where the newspaper men exchanged greetings with United States Senators Briggs and Kean, Sheriff Sommers, of Essex; former Sheriff John Toffey, of Hudson, and other well known Jerseymen. At 5 o'clock Governor Stokes, in high hat and frock coat, mounted on a fine horse, reviewed the troops.

United States Senator Frank O. Briggs drove to the grounds from his home at Spring Lake. With him was Captain Frank Evans, formerly of the United States Marine Corps, and brother of Frederick Evans, secretary of the Public Service Corporation, whom the senator introduced to the governor and others as his private secretary at Washington.

Frank Evans was a Princeton man and before entering the United States navy served on the reportorial staffs of the Newark Daily Advertiser and New York Evening Sun.

STATISTICS OF STRIKES

Census Report Just Issued Covers Labor Troubles For 25 Years.

STRIKES WERE FEW 1905

Employes Won In Over Fifty Per Cent. of Efforts to Better Themselves.

The industries of the United States suffered less from strikes during 1905 than in any year since 1892, if the number of employes thrown out of work by strikes and the duration of the strikes be taken as a measure. According to the twenty-first annual report of the Federal Bureau of Labor of the Department of Commerce and Labor in 1905, there were 221,686 employes thrown out of work by 2,077 strikes undertaken by 176,337 strikers in 8,292 establishments, and lasting an average of twenty-three days in each establishment involved. The report in part says:

"The year 1894 stands out in the history of the country as the year most notable for the great number of workers thrown out of work by strikes, over 660,000 employes being thrown out of work by 1,349 strikes undertaken by 505,049 strikers in 8,196 establishments, and lasting an average of thirty-two days in each establishment involved."

The total number of persons who went out on strike during the twenty-five years was 6,728,048, and locked out 716,231. The dependence of one occupation upon another in the same establishments swells the aggregate of employes affected during the period to 9,529,434.

"The importance of the part that organized labor plays in strikes," the report says, "is indicated by the fact that of the total number of strikes in twenty-five years, practically 69 per cent. were ordered by labor organizations. Employes who struck succeeded oftener than they failed, and employers were similarly successful in lockouts. Employes succeeded in winning all the demands for which the strikes were undertaken in 48 per cent. of the establishments, succeeded partly in over 15 per cent., and in only 36 per cent. of the establishments did they fail entirely to win any of their demands."

Strikes for increase of wages have been more successful than those for any other cause. Strikes concerning recognition of union and union rules entirely failed in 43 per cent. of the establishments involved, and sympathetic strikes, the most unsuccessful of all, entirely failed in 76 per cent. of the establishments involved.

During 1901-1905 6 per cent. of all strikes and 12 per cent. of all lockouts were settled by joint agreement, and less than 2 per cent. of the strikes and a little over 2 per cent. of the lockouts were settled by arbitration.

ANTI-SERVANT ORGANIZATION.

Morristown Women Protest Against High Wages Demanded.

Morristown women in order to resist the present high wages demanded by house servants are prepared to organize a housekeepers' protective union. They contend that the prices for help are rising month by month and year by year with frightful rapidity.

One woman interested says that in Morristown in 1901 she paid an excellent waitress $12 to $20. In 1901 she paid a first class cook, who also did the laundry work, $14. Cooks now demand $25 at the lowest and will neither wash nor iron. It is contended that these prices mean $300 a year for one servant which the millionaires can afford to pay but the masses cannot. Said one:

"It is emptying our pockets, making our home life a burden and breaking down many a strong woman and fair young bride. It is an evil that brings no good to any, but the intelligence offices and the undertakers. It is killing our women."

A meeting will soon be held to discuss the question of organizing.

HUSBAND 93, AND WIFE 90, WEDDED SEVENTY YEARS

East Orange Couple Can Still Read Without the Aid of Glasses—Married in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, of No. 40 Clinton street South, East Orange, today observed the seventieth anniversary of their wedding. Their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gave them a reception yesterday. Mr. Anderson is ninety-three years old, while his wife is just ninety. Both are in excellent health, and can read without glasses.

The couple were married in New York city in 1837 by the late Rev. Duncan Dunbar, a Scotch Presbyterian minister. The couple have lived in Orange for twenty-five years.

ASYLUM MANAGERS MAY BE INDICTED.

Counsel for Assembly Committee Will Also Conduct Inquiry Into Death of Inmate.

In addition to the steps which Prosecutor William J. Crossley, of Mercer county, will take to obtain indictments in the case of Enoch Silvers, alleged to have been beaten to death by attendants at the New Jersey State Hospital for the Insane, at Trenton, John H. Backes, counsel for the Assembly Investigation Committee, will also make a searching inquiry into the case.

All of the members of the Board of Managers of the asylum, including Judge Garret D. Vroom, of the Court of Errors and Appeals, have been summoned before the commission to testify concerning the alleged concealment of the crime from the Mercer county authorities. If it is brought out that this concealment was wilful, in an attempt to shield the management of the institution from censure, indictment of the officers as accessories after the fact is likely to be demanded.

Efforts are being made to ascertain the whereabouts of Frank T. Singleton and W. G. Skinner, the attendants accused by Dr. John Ward of having beaten Silvers so badly that he died, but there is little for the police to work on in this connection.

Some of the managers are inclined to place the responsibility on Dr. Ward. The minutes of the Board of Managers show that Silvers death was not due to maltreatment. Dr. Funkhauser, who had charge of the case, gave the same testimony at the board investigation. This, however, is directly contradicted by the testimony of Dr. Ward, at the State Inquiry.

CYRIL CARR BADLY HURT BY A RUNAWAY PONY.

Watching Races at Long Branch Horse Show Trampled When Animal Made Dash.

Cyril Carr, the twelve-year-old son of William Carr, an exhibitor at the Monmouth County Horse Show, at Long Branch, was seriously, if not fatally, injured at the track late Thursday afternoon. Edward Plant's racing pony, Swift, proved a little too swift for its rider, and at the close of the first heat in the pony race, on the second round, the animal made a dash toward the judge's stand.

The side of the track was filled with men. The horse was so quick that few of the spectators had time to get away, and three were knocked down and trampled. They were William Carr, his son, Cyril, and a stableman named Budd Bernady.

Cyril was picked up almost lifeless and bleeding profusely. He and his father were conveyed to a carriage and hurried to the hospital, where examination showed Mr. Carr had not sustained any serious injury. Cyril is suffering from concussion of the brain and his skull is fractured.

Mr. Carr has always been one of the largest exhibitors at the Plainfield horse show and Cyril, as a rule, drove his father's pony entries.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF CHOSEN FREEHOLDERS OF UNION COUNTY.

(OFFICIAL.)

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Wednesday, July 3, 1907, at 2.30 P. M. Roll call showed the following members present: Director King, Freeholders Adams, Cady, Cladek, Darby, Doane, Donahue, Fay, Gruener, Jones, Krouse, Meisel, Perry, Pierson, Robison, Smith, Swain, Wilbur and Woodruff —19.

Immediately after roll call, Freeholder Doane was excused from further attendance at the meeting.

The minutes of the previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted) were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

The following telegram and letter were presented and read:

Plainfield, July 1, 1907.

To Ernest R. Ackerman, Plainfield, N. J.—Possible to get Vanderbilt Cup Race to New Jersey. Would your county like to have it, and would you personally favor it

W. F. Sadler, Jr., President, Assaciation Auto Clubs of N. J.

Senator Ackerman's letter was as follows:—

Dear Major King—In accordance with our telephone conversation I enclose a telegram of Mr. Sadler regarding the Vanderbilt Cup Race in Union county, the same to be considered and passed on by the Board of Freeholders of Union county.

With best wishes, I remain, Very truly yours, Ernest R. Ackerman.

The two communications were received and placed on file.

The following petition was presented and read:

We, the undersigned, hereby respectfully petition and pray your honorable board to cause the road or street known as North Broad street, and Elizabeth avenue, to be made a State Aid road. Beginning at a point in the center of North Broad street, said point being the intersection of North Broad street, with the center line of King street, thence extending in a northerly direction following the line f the aforesaid North Broad street, through the township of Union to its intersection with Hillside avenue and Elizabeth avenue, thence extending in a northerly direction following the line of Elizabeth avenue to the Essex county line. The aforesaid road or section or road to be improved by the construction of a roadbed of telford, said road being less than one mile in length and more than thirt-y three feet wide, and is a connecting road between two permanently improved roads in the cities of Elizabeth and Newark. This improvement is asked to be made under and by virtue of the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Laws of 1905, and the supplements thereto.

Dated Lyons Farms, July 2, 1907.

Security Land and Improvement Company, by H. Heywood Isham, President, Daniel Leeds Miller, Thomas Jardine and Sons, and thirty-one others.

Freeholder Woodruff moved that the petition be referred to the committee of the whole, to go over the same on a date to be hereafter fixed by the Director, which was so ordered without dissent.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the committee on the matter of increase in State School Tax, etc.

Gentlemen— Your committee to whom was referred the matter of increase in the State School Tax, desire to report that on June 17th they visited the Superintendent of Schools and Comptroller at the State House in Trenton, that after a thorough investigation into the question of said tax, they find that the ratables of Union county, upon which was based the State School Tax paid in 1906, was $55,260,709; on this valuation the State School Tax, of Union county paid in 1897 was $98,-778.51.

The ratables of Union county upon which is based the State School Tax to be paid in January, 1908, is $106,259,437. This increase in the ratables is the reason that the State School Tax to be paid in January, 1908, is $219,160.09, as the State School Tax is based on the ratables of the county.

Union county will receive back from the State the sum of $212,-863.60; under the school law it is provided that 90 per cent. of the School Tax raised by each county is paid back and distriuted among the municipalities. What portion of the remaining ten per cent. should be paid back lies within the discretion of the State Board of Education, and we understand that the amount out of this 10 per cent. reserve fund is based on school attendance.

It will be noticed that Union county will receive back the sum of $6,-296.49 less than what it raises by taxation; this loss was the subject of considerable discussion in our interview with the State officials, but you committee were told that an increase in our school attendance was our only remedy for this.

Your committe also desire to report that the attention of the State Board of Equalization of Taxes should be called to the fact that Union county has increased in valuation larger in proportion than any other county in the State and that it is reasonable for the Board to contend that other counties in this State have not complied with the spirit and letter of the laws relating to equal taxation and your committee feels that the increase in valuation, should not be greater than any other county in the State.

Respectfully submitted, John N. Cady, S. P. T. Wilbur, Noah Woodruff, N. R. Leavitt, Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Smith, received and placed on file.

Report of the Committee on New Bridge, South Firt street, Elizabeth, N. J.:

Gentlemen — Your committee would respectfully report that they have examined into the merits of the several types of movable bridges, suitable for construction and use at this place, and they are of the opinion that a bridge should be built at this point of either the moveable lift type or the bascuid type, the draw spans of either of these bridges moving vertically in opening, instead of horizontally, as in the old types of movable bridges. The estimated cost of this type of bridge is $25,000. Your committee would therefore recommend that they be empowered to proceed with the construction of one of the above mentioned types of movable bridges at this point the type to be chosen by the committee at a cost not to exceed the sum of $25,000.

Dated, Elizabeth, N. J., July 2, 1907.

Henry Krouse, John Robison, John N. Cady, Thomas J. Pierson, John J. Donahue, Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By special committee appointed to confer with the New Jersey and Staten Island Ferry Company:

Elizabeth, N. J., July 2, 1907.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen.—Your special committee appointed at a meeting held March 7, 1907, to confer with the officers of the New Jersey and Staten Island Ferry Company, for the purpose of revising the existing schedule or rates of ferriage, etc., over Staten Island sound, between Elizabethport and Staten Island, would present the following resolution as their report:

Be it resolved, That the following r atesof ferriage be and the same are hereby fixed as the lawful rates that may be charged and collected by the said New Jersey and Staten Island Ferry Company for the transportation of travelers, property and effects over the said ferry, namely:

For single fare	$ .05
For sixteen tickets	.50
For thirty-three tickets	1.00
For bicycle rider	.05
For man and led cow or calf	.15
For horse, mule or neat cattle	.10
For sheep, lamb or swine and attendant	.10
For one-horse vehicle not over 12 feet, light or loaded	.20
For two-horse vehicle not over 12 feet, light o rloaded	.40
For two-horse vehicle without horse or driver	.20
For merchandise per cwt.	.15
For one-horse vehicle without horse or driver	.10
For cart or wheelbarrow, one attendant	.10
For automobile (including chauffuer)	.20
For one-horse hearse or undertaker wagon	.20
For two-horse hearse or undertaker wagon	.40
For vans, (light or loaded)	.40

This resolution shall take effect July 1, 1907.

Respectfully submitted, Thomas J. Pierson, Henry Krouse, John Robison, John J. Donahue, S. P. T. Wilbur, Committee.

Freeholder Smith moved that the report be received and adopted, and the committee discharged with thanks which was so ordered without dissent.

By the committee on Westfield avenue culvert, Rahway:

Gentlemen—Your committee on Westfield avenue culvert, in Rahway, N. J., has examined the above named culvert and would recommend the building of a new concrete wall and steel covering culvert, the cost not to exceed $300.

George B. Cladek, John J. Donahue, S. P. T. Wilbur, Committee.

Freeholder Darby moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on Bridge in the Harbor, Union Township:

Gentlemen: — Your committee would respectfully report that they have examined the old bridge and find the woodwork in very bad condition, but the wall are in good conion with a little pointing up and a short portion to be underpinned, we would recommend the bridge be repaired with iron beams and brick arches and the walls repaired at a cost not to exceep $750.

Noah Woodruff, John Robison, Thomas J. Pierson, Committee.

Freeholder Krouse moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on West End avenue bridge, Plainfield , N. J.:

Gentlemen—The committee on the West End avenue bridge, Plainfield, N. J., would report that the wing walls in connection with said bridge have been fully completed within the amount of the appropriation in a very substantial and satisfactory manner. After conferring with the Somerset county committee the joint committee by resolution, accepted the same.

S. P. T. Wilbur, Charles A. Smith, John Robison, Adolph T. Gruener, Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse the report was received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

Freeholder Robison, chairman of publication committee, reported progress on printing of rules, which report was received.

By Freeholder Cady:—Resolved, That the Director and the County Collector be authorized to borrow for the use of the county, in anticipation of the receipt of taxes, a sum or sums not to exceed one hundred and twenty-five thousand dallars.

Freeholder Gruener moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Adams:—Resolved That it is the sense of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of this county that it favors the holding of the Vanderbilt Cup Race in this county under conditions agreeable to the board and to the best interests of the people of this county.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse the resolution was adopted without dissent:

By Freeholder Adams—Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed with power to replank and repair the planking on several bridges spanning the Rahway river at Cranford at a cost not to exceed $300.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the resolution, which was duly seconded.

Freeholder Adams briefly explained that while the resolution was not in conformity with the rules recently adopted, yet it was necessary that the repairs should be made, and he desired to be placed on record in the matter.

The motion to adopt was lost, receiving nine ayes, nine nayes and two absent.

By Freeholder Adams:—Resolved That the plans and specifications prepared by J. L. Bauer, County Engineer, for the improvement and regulation of St. George avenue, from Grand street southerly and southwesterly to the Middlesex county line and also the improvement and regulation of Leesville avenue, from St. George avenue westerly to the Middlesex county line, all situated in the city of Rahway, County of Union, N. J., be and the same are hereby adopted, and

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution, together with a copy of the plans and specifications of the work be submitted to the State Commissioner of the Public Roads for his approval.

On motion of Freeholder Swain the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Krouse: — Resolved, That the committee on new movable bridge over the Elizabeth river, at South First street, Elizabeth, N. J., be and are hereby granted power to proceed with the construction of a bridge at this point, the type of the bridge to be either the rolling lift type, and that the committee be and are hereby granted power to secure plans of the type which they may selece, get bids on the same, and award contracts for the bridge and the necessary approaches, and

Resolved, That the sum of $25,000 is hereby appropriated to be expended as above for the construction of this bridge.

Freeholder Cady moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By the committee on appropriations:

Resolved, By the Board of Freeholders of the county of Union, that the sum of eight thousand dollars be raised by tax for the use of said county, for the year 1907, to be appropriated for the following purpose: For repairs and construction of the roads built under State Road Act, $8,000.00. To be assessed and collected in the manner and at the times prescribed by the laws for the use of the Stte, and the laws for the assessment and collection of taxes in the cities of Elizabeth, Plainfield, Rahway, and Summit, in said county, respectively; and that the board hereby direct the assessors of the respective townships and wards in said county to assess the said sum of eight thousand dollars in addition to appropriations made at the meeting of the board, held May 23, 1907, on the inhabitants and their estates, agreeable to the la wfor the time being for the raising of money by taxation for the use of the county of Union, State of New Jersey; and that the said assessors meet at the court house in the city of Elizabeth, on the second Tuesday of August next, at 10 o'clock A. M., to adjust and ascertain the proportion of said sum to be levied in each township, borough and ward in said county; and that the clerk of the board send a copy of this resolution to each of said assessors.

John N. Cady, Henry Krouse, J. Lo-Logan Fay, Committee on Appropriation.

Freeholder Gruener moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Adams:

Resolved, That the bill of The W. T. Kirk Company for $400 for alteration to the deck bridge over the Rahway river, Cranford, N. J., be paid when properly audited by committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was adopted, receiving fifteen ayes, three nayes, two absent.

By Freeholder Jones:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to consider the advisability and probable cost of repairing the culvert on Elkwood avenue in New Providence, near Summit line, and report at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Donahue the resolution was adopted without dissent. The Director appointed as said committee, Freeholders Jones, Swain and Meisel.

By Freeholder Gruener:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine bridge over the Rahway river, at Monros street, Rahway, to ascertain the advisability and cost to repair said bridge.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered without dissent. The Director appointed as said committee, Freeholders Gruener, Krouse and Pierson.

By Freeholder Wilbur:

Whereas, A number of the bridges over Green Brook in the city of Plainfield, between the counties of Union and Somerset, are very much in need of paint and minor repairs to the iron work, therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to have such repairs made and such painting done in connection with Somerset county, the cost to Union county not to exced $750. A list of the bridges needing said repairs was attached to the resolution.

Freeholder Pierson moved the adoption of the resolution, which was duly seconded. After some discussion Freeholder Wilbur moved that as an amendment to his resolution that the committee, when appointed, investigate the repairs necessary and report back at the next meeting of this board.

The resolution as amended was then adopted without dissent. The Director appointed as said committee, Freeholders Wilbur, Doane and Smith.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed on five bridges or culverts in Roselle Park, to examine them and report the advisability and probable cost at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, the resolution was adopted without dissent. The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Woodruff, Donahue, Fay, Perry and Robison.

By Freeholder Adams:

Resolved, That upon receipts from the State Road Commissioner, of the plans and specifications for the improvement of St. George avenue and Leesville avenue, Rahway, N. J., the county road committee be authorized to advertise for bids for the same and to receive bids for the same, according to law, and to report the result of such bids back to the board at its next meeting.

Freeholder Cady moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That Rule 25 of by-laws be hereby amended. The article now reads, "That no member of this board shall contract for any work that involves the payment of money exceeding the sum of $30, except when authorized by a resolution duly passed, at a meeting of this board."

Be it resouved, That the words "thirty dollars" be changed to read fifty dollars.

Freeholder Pierson moved the adoption of the resolution, which on roll call was unanimously adopted.

On motion of Freeholder Smith, the committee on public grounds and buildings, together with the members of this board from the city of Elizabeth, were requested to confer with the Elizabeth city authorities relative to securing asphalt roadways on the street in front of and on one side of the court house.

STORIES OF THE SECRET SERVICE

BY CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL.

THE LINCOLN TOMB ROBBERS

Being an Account of the Attempted Desecration of the Grave of the Martyr President at Springfield in 1876, and the Capture and Conviction of a Gang of Counterfeiters That Preceded It.

By CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL

[Copyright, 1905, by Marion G. Scheitlin.]

PART I.

In October, 1876, the United States and Europe were startled by the attempt of a band of Illinois criminals to steal the body of Abraham Lincoln, bury it in the shifting sand dunes of northern Indiana and have its recovery effected through the agency of a convict then in the Joliet penitentiary. The plot had two purposes—the release of the convict through the agency of a public grateful for his aid in recovering the sacred remains of the great emancipator, and the securing of $200,000 in the form of ransom, either from the federal government or from a fund which the conspirators believed would be quickly raised to recover the body. This plot—the most ghoulish and daring of its kind in history—is but a faint memory to the present generation. To the men of those days the flashing over the world of the news that ghouls had marked the Lincoln tomb for desecration came as a shock, the memory of which will ever remain with them. North and south alike, as well as Europe, shared the deep indignation and heaped unspeakable anathemas on the members of the band that conceived and sought to carry the plot to its base end. But even at that time, while the country was at the white heat of indignation and details of the affair were eagerly sought by the public, the long and tangled chain of criminal events that had its culmination in the attempted "body-snatching" was comparatively unknown to the public at large.

In a general way it was known that a band of criminals had attempted to use the theft of the Lincoln body to secure the release of a "pal" and, incidentally, to make money. It was known that the plot had been frustrated and the body of the beloved Lincoln rendered secure from any future attempt of the same kind. This satisfied the public and the whirl of workaday life swept the incident from popular attention. I now propose to tell, after nearly 30 years, the criminal operations, plots and counterplots that led to the great "Lincoln body-snatching case."

It was on the 5th day of February, 1875, that a quiet mannered man appeared at the Palmer house in Chicago and registered as "E. Washburn, Washington, D. C." While having a wide acquaintance in Chicago the guest, on this occasion, kept much to himself. Almost immediately on his arrival I received from him an urgent message to meet him at his hotel, and I promptly responded, as the call came from the chief of the United States secret service. No time was wasted by Chief Washburn in getting to the meat of what he had to say, and, after nearly a third of a century, I recollect his words as follows:

"Tyrrell, there are two men the government must get. They are Nelson Driggs and Ben Boyd by name, although between them they have dozens of aliases. Boyd is the most expert cutter of counterfeit plates in the United States and Driggs is the most extensive dealer in 'coney' money in the country. Benson of this department has spent $5,000 in trying to locate them, but has not succeeded so far. If you can get them dead to rights you will break the backbone of counterfeiting in the United States."

"Are they as important as that?" I asked.

"Yes," answered Chief Washburn, "they are the most important 'coney' men in existence to-day. We know nothing about them except that Boyd and Driggs are their right names. The rest is for you."

My chief gave me such information as had been gathered—practically nothing, as he himself had said—and returned to Washington. There may be men who still remember the flood of counterfeit money that had been poured over the west and middle west in the early '70s. In those days scrip in denominations of 10, 25 and 50 cents was in use extensively, and this scrip had been counterfeited till the owner of this fractional money never knew whether his money was good or bad. In addition to this a five-dollar note of the Traders' national bank of Chicago had been counterfeited most cleverly, and these notes were as thick in the middle west as falling leaves in autumn.

Further, to add to the troubles of the treasury department and the secret service, a treasury note of the denomination of $100 had been "shoved" a short time before. This bore the head of Abraham Lincoln, and was as nearly perfect a counterfeit as human skill and patience could have evolved. A $50 treasury note was also gaining circulation. From expert examination of these counterfeit scrip and notes we found that the work had been done by men of the highest skill. In detail, material and workmanship, the notes, from the viewpoint of the "coney" men, were masterpieces. The geometrical lathe work on the treasury notes was fully as perfect as on the original notes issued by the government. There was one conclusion, therefore, to be drawn—that the work was that of highly skilled men, working months and, perhaps, years on the plates by hand or with the crudest machinery.

In the engraving, or cutting, of plates for paper money the workmen in the employ of the government employ the most elaborate and expensive machinery and other paraphernalia that the counterfeiter could not employ without laying himself open to innumerable chances of detection. Our quarry, then, undoubtedly consisted of men who had spent years under efficient tutors in the art of engraving. We also knew that but one of them was doing the actual engraving, this lesson having been learned from experience.

Before counterfeit money finds its way into the pockets of unsuspecting men and women three, and oftimes four, groups of men, each with their specialty, have to do with it. The engraver of a counterfeit plate does the cutting and nothing else, making the plates, and sells them for a specified sum to the dealer. Here the cutter's connection with the business ends, and that of the dealer commences. The latter sometimes does his own printing, but oftener has it done by confederates, who do nothing else, turning the finished product over to the dealer, together with the plates. Then begins the work of the "shovers." In this part of the business two men always work as a team, one of them being the "shover" proper and the other the "boodle-carrier." In a town in which a team is working the two men are supposed to be strangers, and never allow themselves to be seen together.

One note at a time is given to the "shover," who makes a trifling purchase, gets his change in good money, meets the "boodle-carrier" secretly, gives him the good change and is given another bill. It is not my purpose, in this narrative, to deal with the methods of counterfeiters in plying their trade, but the foregoing digression into some of the "tricks of the trade" will be found to illuminate various points in the story to follow.

In the spring of 1875, then, after Chief Washburn had returned to Washington, I found myself confronted with the problem of running to earth two, and probably more, men of great cunning, with practically no clews to work on but the names of the suspects. My task was set and my future depended on my unraveling the problem. In addition to this job I was working on information concerning the operations of bands at Boscobel, Wis., and St. Paul, Minn., and with the three my hands were full.

I am free to say that for a time in the Boyd-Briggs case I was groping in the dark. A single crime confined to one spot, as a murder, always furnishes clews of some kind on which to work; the location of two men of vague description who are supposed to have been parties to the circulation of counterfeit money which has made its appearance in scores of places widely scattered at practically one time, is another matter. At that time John Peter McCartney, a particularly cunning and dangerous counterfeiter, was at large. McCartney was born in 1824 in Shelby county, Ill., and adopted the career of a counterfeiter early in life. In 1864 he had settled in Nauvoo, Ill., and while there engraved the plates from which were printed the counterfeit of the ten-dollar United States treasury note of the greenback variety, issue of March 10, 1862, which notes had had wide circulation, thanks to the energy of the men with whom McCartney was in league.

But this is another digression except as to the settlement of McCartney in Nauvoo, this act having resulted in the establishment in Nauvoo of headquarters for a prolific gang of "coney" men and women. "Pete" McCartney in 1864 had married Martha Ann Ackerman, whom he had first met in Cincinnati several years before. She was the daughter of an old German counterfeiter whose widow with her two daughters had lived in Cincinnati for several years. Martha was pretty and extremely skillful in the printing of counterfeits, her father having employed her in that work when she was as young as 11 years of age.

The McCartney band at Nauvoo had gained gradually in numbers and the extent of their operations since "Pete" had settled there, and among his confederates was Dr. Milton Parker, who, at the time I was detailed to the Boyd-Driggs case, was in an eastern penitentiary for counterfeiting. But Mrs. Parker continued to live in Nauvoo and was a handsome and intelligent woman. There also lived at Nauvoo a counterfeiter named Louis Sleight and his partner, John Frisbie, known to the secret service as the leaders of the "Sleight and Frisbie" gang. Knowing full well that nearly all the western counterfeiters of note at one time or another visited Nauvoo, I determined, in the absence of better or more definite clews, to go to Nauvoo and look around. It did not take long to discover that Driggs had been making visits to Nauvoo, but, so far as could be learned, the magnet that had drawn him thither was the beauty and charm of Mrs. Parker rather than any business plans he might have been working out in connection with Sleight or the other members of the counterfeiting band that flourished in the historic Mormon settlement.

This was the first tangible clew that had been uncovered in weeks of search through three states, and I determined that it was from the residence of Mrs. Parker in Nauvoo that Driggs should be followed.

I MET BOYD, IN HIS SHIRT SLEEVES, DESCENDING.

From further cautious inquiry at Nauvoo I found that Driggs had recently made a visit to Mrs. Parker and on leaving had gone ostensibly to Clinton, Ia. Familiar as I was with the manner in which such criminals as Driggs bought tickets for unintended destinations, doubled on their tracks and went to great pains otherwise to throw the secret service men off their trail, I decided to go to Clinton.

In the latter part of June, 1875, an elderly man and his wife, a good-looking woman many years younger than her husband, made their appearance in Clinton and rented two houses. The man gave the name of J. K. Watson and told the men with whom he negotiated for the houses that he was a retired cattle raiser. He was a Scotchman, dark-skinned, of rather heavy physical mold, and wore a full beard. He dressed as well as or slightly better than a man in his alleged vocation would be expected to dress. His general demeanor tended toward the sanctimonious. He often attended church and was fluent at prayer and in religious discourse. Funds he had in plenty, and he gave substantial evidence of his business solidity by depositing $23,000 in the Clinton bank. "Mrs. Watson" was appareled stylishly and was agreeable in manner. Those who came into contact with them decided that Clinton had made a valuable business and social acquisition when the "Watson" family settled there. The newcomer and his good wife chose the better and more centrally located of the two houses rented for their residence. Into the other house, which was about a mile and a quarter back from the river and the last house on the street, there moved about the time of the advent of the "Watsons" a family of four Germans, the father, mother and grown son and daughter, giving the name of Schafer. This new family, according to the gossip of the town, were in the employ or under the care of "Watson," the exact relations being ill-defined. Both families were unobtrusive, especially the German family, and there was nothing in the known affairs of either family to arouse uncommon interest.

It was shortly before this—a few days, in fact—that I had had my first look at the man I believed from the meager description to be Nelson Driggs. After the trip to Nauvoo I had come up the river and stopped at Fort Hamilton, a small town across the river from Keokuk, where, one day, on the porch of the town hotel, I saw a man answering the description of the notorious dealer in the "queer." He was talking to a man whom I did not know, and I did not allow myself to be noticed by the pair. The man I believed to be Driggs was about 55 years old, heavy, with full beard and the air of a well-to-do farmer. I did not allow him to get out of my sight, and when he went to Clinton I became convinced that I had not only found Driggs, but that my information from Nauvoo was correct. Therefore, immediately after the suspect had been followed to Clinton a man registered at the Revere House, in that city under the name of "C. A. Demarest," an uncommunicative and unobtrusive chap, who attracted no attention. Soon afterward another stranger made his appearance and rented a room in a house directly across the street from the one occupied by "J. K. Watson" and his wife. The following day still another stranger appeared in Clinton.

Between "Demarest" and the last two arrivals there was apparently no acquaintance nor communication; but under cover of the darkness at night and in the most cautious manner possible "Demarest" did communicate with the strangers, one at a time. In fact every item in the domestic routine in both the "Watson" and "Schafer" residences found its way daily to "Demarest." One day while this play was going on "Watson" made an excursion to La Clare, Ia., a distance of seven miles. He had taken his departure without precaution against being followed, for there is no reason to believe that he suspected there were in Clinton three men to whom his every move was of vital interest.

At La Clare "Watson" made his way to an old stone house on the river bank and spent some time in the company of a middle-aged man, who occupied the house with his wife. Leaving the "piping" of the "Watson" and "Schafer" homes to my assistants and in my role of "Demarest" I had taken up the chase of "Watson" on his excursion to La Clare and of the man whom he had gone to meet. This was on August 11, 1875, and during the months I had been working on the case I had not had the slightest clew to the whereabouts of Ben Boyd.

After the visit of "Watson" to La Clare I had little difficulty in establishing in my own mind the identity of the man on whom "Watson" had called as Ben Boyd, the most expert plate-cutter in the United States and the man on whose skill and activity there depended the success or failure of the entire band of "koniackers," male and female, then operating in the middle west. The discovery of the whereabouts of Boyd through the visit of Driggs, who was none other than "Watson" of Clinton, was a long stride toward success in a search that had looked hopeless enough at the start.

From that time the three houses were carefully watched and the movements of the inmates minutely noted. A little later Driggs paid his friend Boyd another visit, and soon after that Boyd returned the calls at the Driggs home in Clinton. This exchange of calls on the part of the two principals convinced me that they were preparing to get down to business, and this conviction was confirmed by the assistant who had been watching the "Schafer" home.

While this maneuvering was in progress an investigation had been prosecuted concerning the "Schafer" family, and the results of that investigation may properly be given at this point. The real family name was Stadtfeldt. Nicholas was the head of the family, the other members living in the Clinton house being Barbara, the wife; Charles, the son, and Mollie, a daughter, who was married to Henry Clinton. Nicholas Stadtfeldt had been a counterfeiter in Germany before he came to the United States to ply the same trade. His wife had been his able assistant, while his son, Charles, a man of 30, had been trained to the trade of his father. Charles Stradtfeldt had been a candy "butcher" with various circuses, and in that capacity had had ample opportunity for working off the output of his father's "mill." He was an adept at the printing and "shoving" of bogus money. At the "Schafer" house in Clinton this "mill" had been steadily grinding, the output during the residence of the family in Clinton being a batch of $95,000 of the counterfeit five-dollar bills of the Traders' national bank of Chicago for "Pete" McCartney. By the mortising method, good counterfeits of the bills of 13 Illinois banks had been made from this plate.

Nelson Driggs had married Gertrude Stadtfeldt, an older daughter of Nicholas, in Dayton, O., in 1874, illustrating the tendency of men in this particular line of criminality, where the utmost secrecy is absolutely necessary, to marry women from counterfeiting families. Driggs had met Gertrude when, as a good looking young woman, she was serving a term in the Ohio penitentiary for passing "queer" money. She had become a printer of bogus money for her husband, and was an important member of the conspiracy.

The establishment of the facts relative to the Stadtfeldt family and the clinching of the identities of Driggs and Boyd had made the future of the case much clearer. During the months under which the principals to the manufacture of the Traders' national fives and other important counterfeits were under surveillance at Clinton and La Clare I was convinced, both from theory and observation, that neither Driggs nor Boyd was actively engaged in the commission of any overt counterfeiting act; but I was equally certain that the Stadtfeldts had been running their mill and grinding out bogus bills for circulation among the unwary, and the subsequent fact was developed, as previously told, that they had run off from their press $95,000 of the Traders' national fives for Pete McCartney.

Aside from any specific information on the subject, however, I would have been firmly convinced that neither Driggs nor Boyd was at that time actively cutting plates or "shoving" bogus money, for this reason: It had been my observation and that of every other secret service man who had had to do with counterfeiting cases that professionals in the fine art of making and passing counterfeit money never held any communication with one another during the time they were actively engaged in their work. The different processes of labor through which a counterfeit bill passed between the cutting of the plate to its actual unloading on the public were devised purely for purposes of safety—in order to break the chain by which secret service operatives might follow them. In addition to this division of the work the universal custom prevailed for the men engaged in the issue of "queer" money to place long distances between each other after the plan was arranged. They made rendezvous in one town or city, perfected the details of the plot, and then scattered as a puff of wind would scatter the down of the dandelion, to meet again at a place agreed on three, six or more months after, as the extent of the job dictated.

In the case in hand I knew that the principals were men versed in all the approved methods of the "coney men," and that it was extremely unlikely that the conferences between Driggs and Boyd were for any purpose other than the arrangement of the details of some big job to be done. Therefore, in addition to maintaining a strict surveillance, the principal task before me was to watch for the puff of wind that was to scatter the "koniackers" to their respective places for work.

While affairs stood thus, one of my assistants, during the course of his daily report to me on the movements of Driggs, said:

"Mr. Demarest, this is a big thing. Driggs has lots of money, and I am satisfied you could make $15,000 by losing him."

I had been somewhat doubtful of the integrity of this assistant for some time, but up to this point had had no tangible reason for thinking that he would do anything traitorous toward the secret service. I asked him how he knew the money could be made, and he explained the circumstances that led him to estimate the probable reward of treachery on our part at $15,000. I then said to him:

"I am here to get these men, and am going to do it. If you make one move that spoils our game I shall kill you as I would a dog."

He seemed convinced that I meant what I said, for there was nothing in his actions or conversation after that time to indicate that he had not done his full duty.

It may seem strange that when we knew $95,000 of counterfeit money was being made in the Stadtfeldt house we did not descend on the establishment, arrest the inmates and confiscate the plant, but it must be remembered that the Stadtfeldts were actors of secondary importance in the drama that was being played. Boyd, as the cutter of plates, was the man on whom the operations of all the others depended, and Driggs, as a man of great shrewdness and large means, was the most dangerous dealer in the country. Besides striving primarily for the capture of these two I had hoped to be able to land Pete McCartney, whose standing in his chosen profession was so high that he was known as the "King of the Koniackers," and who was closely in league with Driggs, Boyd and the Stadtfeldts. To have raided the Stadtfeldt plant, therefore, would have flushed the big game and made them the more wary in a future chase.

The capture of the plates in the possession of Boyd and Driggs was of almost as much importance as the capture of the men themselves, and besides, in order to convict and imprison the principals, it was necessary to catch them in the act they were charged with committing. These reasons I considered sufficient to allow the Stadtfeldts to leave Clinton unmolested, which they did on August 25. The moving of the Stadtfeldts I took to be one of the signs of the approaching flight of the others, and in this my calculations proved correct, for one day about three weeks later mysterious movements were discernible in the Driggs residence.

That evening Driggs and his wife came to the Revere house. Every move made by him was closely watched, and our surveillance was rewarded in a few hours, for after most of the guests had retired Driggs and his wife quietly left the hotel and boarded the midnight train to Chicago. Without going into the details of Driggs' subsequent movements, it is enough to relate that he went to Chicago, where he stopped at the Hatch house for a day; then to Dixon, Ill., from there to Decatur and thence to Centralia, at each step of the journey covering his tracks as carefully as possible.

There will be a Gospel service at the Plainfield Resucue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock.

Rev. James B. Gregg, of the First Congregational church last Sunday, will again preach there tomorrow.

Paul J. Loizeaux will preach the Gospel at the Hall, 209 East Front street, tomorrow night, at 7.30 o'clock.

In view of the fact that the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson, will leave next week on his vacation, it has been arranged to hold the regular communion service at Faith chapel, tomorrow morning.

Under the direction of E. J. Fitzhugh, organist, the choir of the First Baptist church, will give a special musical service tomorrow night. This will be the last service of its kind until fall, as the choir will take its regular vacation.

"Christy" Mathewson is beginning to show his old-time form, and it is possible that he may yet be able to pull the Giants out of the hole that they are in.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was——Is——Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

GOLF.

Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, and Archie Graham, of the North Jersey Country Club, have agreed to team up in a four-ball match against Jerome D. Travers, the national champion, and Marshall Whitlatch at the Montclair Golf Club today. The first two accepted the club's invitation yesterday. This match is a prelude to a testimonial the club has planned to give Travers on Saturday night in appreciation of his unusual achievement of winning the Metropolitan, New Jersey and national championships all in one season. The golf match will be an all-day affair, at thirty-six holes.

It is likely that both sides will return a low best ball, as all have on different occasions shown ability to negotiate the Montclair links. This is especially true of Travers and Whitlatch, who claim Montclair for their home green. Last year Travers lowered the record to 71, but scarcely two weeks ago Whitlatch cut this a stroke. As for Travis, it may be said that he can be counted on at all times, while report has it that Graham is continuing the same sterling golf which earned him a place in the final round of the recent national tournament at Cleveland.

Women members of the Forest Hill Field Club competed in a team match Thursday. Mrs. C. A. Woodruff and Mrs. J. Campbell Corey captained the opposing forces, and the latter's side won by a score of 2 to 1. It is planned to make these matches weekly affairs throughout August.

The Essex County Club, of Manchester, Mass., is to hold another three days' tournament August 29 to 31. A few years ago the Manchester course was one of the most prominent in New England, but competitions have been less frequent of late.

J. B. C. Baker and W. L. Fullerton won their matches in the semi-final for the president's cup at the Arsdale Golf Club Thursday. They will meet in the final round today.

The profession and amateur golf tournament, under the auspices of the Van Cortlandt Park Golf Club, will begin on the club's course, Tuesday morning. Thus far, "Marty" O'Loughlin is the only local player in the "pro" class that will take part in the tournament. He is paired with Charles L. Marshall, the well-known amateur from the Van Cortlandt Park Golf Club. From past performances "Marty" should be an easy winner. He is thoroughly acquainted with the course and should be able to play as strong a game there as at home. The field will be large and will include nearly all of the crack players in this part of the country.

There will be the weekly dinner-dance at the Plainfield Country Club, tonight, and as the open championship tennis tournament for players in Plainfield and North Plainfield will be played this afternoon, it is expected that many will remain for this evening's festivities.

Miss Lydie Loizeaux is the only woman member of the Park Golf Club who takes part in the weekly competitions, and considering the strong field she has to encounter her playing is all the more remarkable. She very often beats some of the best players in the club.

DIAMOND DUST.

Although it has been two weeks since there has been a game in the amateur league, the teams are in first class condition and a fine contest may be expected at Crescent Oval, this afternoon, when the Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains' nines will clash. At present the 'Plains aggregation is in second place and Captain Craig and his men will do all in their power to gain the vantage point. Each team will present its regular lineup and the contest should be of the hair-raising variety from start to finish.

The other league game scheduled for today will be played between the Laurels, of Bound Brook, and the Raritans, at the latter place. While the proposition looks easy for Bound Brook, it would not be surprising if the Raritans should turn the tables and win out.

It will be either Minford or Dupee against Frentz or Hewitt at Crescent Oval, today, and as the twirlers are just itching for a close battle on the diamond, they will no doubt be accommodated. Walter Nelson and Alberts will do the backstop work.

The West Ends, of Somerville, will play Hopewell at the former place this afternoon. Both nines are evenly matched.

"Larry" Doyle, the new second baseman with the Giants, seems to have won favor with the fans. He is handling himself at the middle station like a veteran and manages to get a hit in nearly every game.

The big league managers have given up all hope of securing "Lou" Heyniger, the Princeton twirler, this season. However, he will be watched closely and the first attempt on his part to play professional ball will be followed by a scramble. It is said that he could practically name his price to join the "pro" ranks.

All things considered the teams in the Inter-City Amateur League are fielding and batting comparably as well as any team of this class in the State. This is especially true of Clinton Avene, Scotch Plains and the Y. M. C. A. nines.

New Jersey Democrats Plan to Hold Their Convention at Trenton.

MR. GOURLEY RESIGNS

Secretary W. K. Devereaux Wanted to Retire Also—To Pick New Chairman.

At a meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee, held at the Coleman House in Asbury Park on Saturday, the resignation of William B. Gourley, of Paterson, chairman of the committee, was read and accepted. Another resignation, that of Secretary William K. Devereaux, of Asbury Park, was also offered, but the committee refused to consider it, and it was laid on the table. Mr. Devereaux gave increasing business cares as his reason for asking to be relieved of the secretaryship.

September 17 was fixed as the date for the Democratic State Convention, bun to successor to Chairman Gourley was elected. Another meeting for that express purpose was called for August 10, and a committee named to report on that date a man as Mr. Gourley's successor. The committee consists of James R. Nugent, of Newark; Surrogate David S. Crater, of Freehold, and Edward E. Grosscup, of Gloucester.

General Heppenheimer was made temporary chairman of the meeting. Mr. Gourley's letter of recignation was immediately read. Mr. Gourley gave ill health and his expectation of being out of the country until after the primaries, and, perhaps, the State Convention, as his reasons for resigning. Without debate the resignation was accepter. Peter Egenolf, of Union, making the necessary motion, which was seconded by former Judge William W. Cutler, of Morris.

Judge Carrow, Mr. Egenolf and Secretary Devereaux were appointed a committee to prepare suitable resolutions on recognition of the former chairman's servicefi and present them at the next meeting.

INDIAN CAMPAIGN BADGE AWARDED TO HUGH KNOX

PLAINFIELDER'S BRAVERY IN CAVALRY RECOGNIZED BY GOVERNMENT

As a mark of recognition of efficient service in a campaign against the Apache I ndians in Texas in 1885, Hugh R. Knox, of this city, has been awarded the Indian Campaign badge in accordance with the list of awards recently made public by the Secretary of War. The badges are to be awarded to the officers and enlisted men who served with Troops E., F., and L., Third U. S. Cavalry, from Fort Davis, Texas, and a detachment of Troop M. men, Third Cavalry, from Camp Pena, Texas. At that time, Mr. Knox was attached to Troop E., Third Cavalry, which ine June and July, 1885, assisted in the campaign against the Apaches, when the hostile red men were bent on entering the State of Texas during the government campaign against them in New Mexico and Arizona.

The badge stands for the official recognition of personal bravery, awarded by the government at Washington. The honor has been conferred upon about twenty cavalrymen who served in this campaign, during which time Mr. Knox was active with his troop in Indian campaigns.

Since his active service in the cavalry, Mr. Knox has been connected with various New York newspapers in reportorial and editorial work. He is a cousin of United States Senator Philander Knox, former Attorney General of the United States. For many years, Mr. Knox was the proprietor of a large ranch in Texas and was active as a cavalryman and later as an officer in the historic Texan troubles with the Apache Indians, out of which grew the government's troubles with the red men in Arizona and New Mexico.

First M. E. Pulpit Supplies.

The following ministers will occupy the pulpit at the First M. E. church during the absence of the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea: August 4, Rev. Sherman G. Pitt, of Atlantic City; August 11, Rev. Charles S. Kemble, of Elizabeth; August 18, Rev. Herbert C. Lytle, of Newark; August 25, Rev. Dr. Henry R. Robinson, of Salem, N. J. During August the Sunday evening preaching service will be discontinued.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Chapman and their son, Percy Chapman, of Stelle avenue, have gone to Bread Loaf, Vermont, to spend the month of August.

FUNERAL OF MR. COWARD

Great Throng at Lawyer's Obsequies Conducted by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey.

MANY FLORAL PIECES

Beautiful Music at the Services—His Business Associates Pay Last Respects.

The funeral services of the late Joseph B. Coward, held at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the home on East Front street, was marked by the attendance of a large number of professional men, including members of the Union County Bar Association, the Plainfield Bar Association, directors of the City National Bank, the Plainfield Savings Bank, of which Mr. Coward was one for many years, and a great many business men, as well as old neighbors and those who have known Mr. Coward during his life-time. The attendance was so large that many were obliged to take seats on the veranda.

In the absence of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Coward was a member, Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, conducted the services. He read many appropriate passages from the Scripture and offered an earnest prayer. Following his custom, he did not make any address. During the service, Miss Grace Carroll, the contralto soloist of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, sang, "Abide With Me" and "Lead Kindly Light."

There were numerous beautiful floral tributes, including a wreath, five feet high, from the directors of the City National Bank; a wreath from the directors of the Plainfield Savings Bank, a broken column from the members of the Plainfield Bar Association, a tribute from the Union County Bar Association, and one from the tenants of the Park avenue building, owned by Mr. Coward, together with many smaller tributes, making thirty-five in all.

In all there were eighteen members of the Plainfield Bar Association, and Judge E. S. Atwater and Deputy Surrogate W. B. Parrot, of Elizabeth, represented the Union County Bar Association.

The interment was in Hillside cemetery, and those who acted as pall-bearers were F. A. Dunham, William F. Arnold, Nelson Runyon, L. B. Woolston, J. Fred MacDonald and W. E. Parrot, the latter of Elizabeth.

AUTO AND RIG COLLIDE.

Driver of Latter Arrested and Fined in Police Court.

Turning from Somerset street into Front at a reckless speed, Saturday afternoon, William Emmons, of the borough, drove his horse and buggy into the front of an automobile owned and in charge of John Shepard, of Halsey street, Newark. A mix-up followed in which the machine sustained considerable damage and the rig was badly wrecked.

Emmons was placed under arrest by Patrolman Payne and appeared in the city court today. He acknowledged that the crash was due to his recklessness and paid a fine of $5. He also expressed a willingness to settle with Shepard for the damage to the auto.

FELL THROUGH SHOP WINDOW.

Elizabeth Man's Artery Cut and He May Die.

Harry Metzgar was seized with convulsions while walking on First street, Elizabeth, yesterday morning, and fell through the window of t shoe shop. The glass severed an artery in his right arm, and he lost so much blood that at the Alexian Hospital, where he was taken, little hope is held out for his recovery.

Metzgar is married and was employed in a butcher shop at 91 Third street, Elizabeth. He is 28 years years old.

Successful Dance For Church.

The subscription dance held at Truell Hall for the benefit of St. Stephen's church Saturday evening, proved a great success, netting $60. There were about a hundred people dancing and the affair proved a decided social success. The money will be used to maintain the running expenses of the parish house. The music was furnished by Suhr's Imperial orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCready were in charge of the arrangements.

Social Club Auto Trip.

The members of Mount Bethel Social Club are planning an automobile outing to Jersey City within a few days. The party will consist of several machines and ten of the members are planning to go. Mrs. Dudelsachs is president of the organization and Mrs. Sachs treasurer.

"SILENT ONE" THE TARGET

New Idea Workers, 'tis Said, Attack Smith to Smash Kean Strength.

WANT TO OUST HIM

But Amendment to County Committee Constitution Allows Him to Hold Chairmanship if Not a Member of Body.

That County Chairman Frank H. Smith, of this city, will be the target of the forces within the Republican party which aim to end the domination of the Keans in Union county politics is pretty well conceded and unless there is a sudden change in the plan of campaign the fight will be a bitter one not that Smith himself is obnoxious but that as the recognized instrument of the Keans, Senator John and former County Chairman Hamilton F., he is alleged to be exercising a baneful influence. Long before he became county registrar, when he was still tax collector of Plainfield, Mr. Smith was looked upon as the right hand man of H. F. Kean, who manages his brother's political interests in Union County as well as in the State at large being a member of the State Committee.

The present movement is believed to be a preliminary encounter before the campaign which will be waged in 1909 to prevent the re-election of John Kean to the United States Senate. The New Idea workers have put themselves to a decided disadvantage in the fight, when it is recalled that not long since, the Union county Republican committee amended its constitution so as to allow one other than a member of that body being chairman. The argument advanced in behalf of the passage of the amendment was that such a rule would permit the best and most independent Republican in the county being raised to the position thus removing the office from petty factional strife. The New Idea members of the county committee supported the amendment, which was passed by a good majority.

Their fight to unseat Smith will be of no avail now, however, unless they can command a majority of votes in the county committee for the Plainfield lieutenant of the Keans can still qualify for the position. As the Keans are relatively stronger in Elizabeth and in the rural districts than in Plainfield, the chances of succeeding in the effort would be decreased almost a hundred fold. If the New Idea people do defeat him in the Fourth ward of this city the Keans may still save the day as it seems probable that they will fare better outside of Plainfield so far as county committeemen are concerned.

A close friend of the county chairman in discussing the situation told a reporter for The Daily Press that if Smith was to be made the bone of contention he would willingly step down and out for the sake of party harmony.

SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rendered By Chorus Choir Under the Direction of E. J. Fitzhugh.

Under the direction of E. J. Fitzhugh, acting organist, a special musical service was given at the First Baptist church, last night, by the chorus choir, it being the last service if this kind until fall. The edifice was filled with worshippers and the various numbers were enjoyed. The several special selections included an anthem, "O Mother, Dear Jerusalem," Shelley; solo by Miss Gertrude Hinz, contralto, accompanied by chorus; "No Shadows Yonder," by the chorus; "Thus Saith the Lord," by Gaul, was sung by William Holmes, who tcok the solo part, the chorus assisting. This was rendered most effectively, as was also an anthem, "To Christ the Prince of Peace," by Fitzhugh.

Rev. Charles H. Fountain, of this city, who occupied the pulpit, yesterday, gave a short talk from the text, "The Son of Man Is Come to Save That Which Was Lost," which was filled with timely and helpful suggestions. The offertory anthem was, "The Day is Gently Sinking to a Close," by Hyatt, and "Until the Day Breaks," by Gounod, was rendered by the soprano and contralto voices. The choir will now have a vacation until Sunday, September 15.

In the City Court.

On charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct and also resisting arrest, Joseph Hoppock, of Westfield, was fined $5 or twenty days in the city court this morning. He was arrested on Watchung avenue early yesterday morning by Patrolman O'Keefe. Andrew Ryan, who was found on West Front street in a helpless condition from drink, Saturday night, was released on suspended sentence.

A PHILATELIC CONVENTION

Senator Ackerman, a Leading Member of American Society, will Not Attend.

TO MEET AT DENVER

Plainfielder, Who Is Internationally Noted As a Collector, Is a Fellow of the Royal Society.

The American Philatelic Association, which is to hold its annual convention in Denver, Col., this week, represents the pursuit of one of the most popular sciences of modern times, one of the most ardent devotees being Senator E. R. Ackerman, of this city. That stamp collecting is a science has been royally proclaimed by no less a celebrity than Edward VII. of England. All royal societies in the realm of Edward are devoted to the study of one or another of the sciences, and, after giving the matter considerable thought, the King ordered that the name of the London Philatelic Society be changed to The Royal Philatelic Society, and that the individuals affiliated with it be no longer designed as members, but as "fellows." This action was taken less than a year ago, and since that time stamp collectors everywhere who had been laboring under the burdensome titles of "cranks," "faddists," "hobbyists," etc., have generally been regarded as scientists and doubtless always will be.

Senator Ackerman, himself, is a fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society. The American Association has now a membership exceeding 1,000. Senator Ackerman and H. E. Deats, of Flemington, are among the most active workers in the American Asociaion. Both of them are also fellows of the Royal Philatelic Society of London. Senator Ackerman has the finest known collection of the stamps of Norway and Sweden.

CONEY ISLAND'S BLAZE WORK OF "BLACK HAND"

OWNER OF STEEPLECHASE PARK REFUSED DEMANDS OF BLACKMAILERS

While there is no positive evidence that the fire which swept clean thirty-five acres of Coney Island was the work of an incendiary, there is every reason to believe such was the case, and today Fire Marshal Beers summoned an army of witnesses to headquarters in Brooklyn.

Among the witnesses was George C. Tilyou, owner of Steeplechase Park, where the fire started, who will be asked to tell of the five Black Hand letters recently received by him, threatening the destruction of his property unless a large sum of mone was paid.

These letters began coming to Mr. Tilyou last Christmas and have come from time to time since. Each letter was more threatening than the previous one. On Friday last the fifth letter came. Not only did this letter threaten Mr. Tilyou's property, but he was told that he would be murdered unless the money demanded was paid at once.

The letters were all turned over to Police Captain Langan, of the Coney Island station, and after the receipt of the fifth letter extra guards were put on at Steeplechase Park.

The belief is now that there was more than one attempt to burn down Steeplechase Park on Saturday night.

DISHED WHEELS IN TRACK, AND CARRIAGE UPSET.

Accident to Peter Saudet's Rig While Driving On Somerset Street Last Night.

While driving a party of guests, two men and a woman, to the North Avenue station for a late train last night, Peter Saudet, a Frenchman from the little colony over the mountain, had a narrow escape from accident.

The party was driving down Somerset street and in attempting to turn into Codington avenue, the wheels of the carriage were ditched and those in the carriage were thrown out. The horse took fright and ran through Codington avenue, nearly to Watchung, before it was caught. The carriage was wrecked, but the occupants escaped with slight injuries. The out of town guests proceeded on foot to the station and Saudet took the damaged rig back home this morning.

FORM CIVIC FEDERATION

Local Option Advocates Organize Branch of the New Jersey State Society.

C. B. LA RUE SECRETARY

Emmett H. Curtis Speaks at Two Meetings—800 Contributors In Union County.

For the purpose of securing clean politics and the services of competent and representative men for municipal offices, it is said, a branch of the New Jersey Civic Federation, composed entirely of church member voters, was organized Saturday night. The Federation, a result of the incitement of Emmett H. Curtis and the anti-saloon leaguers who are at present campaigning the State, has endorsed local option, the direct voting for or against a liquor license by the people at the polls, and has authorized the secretary, Clarence B. LaRue, to confer with party leaders and candidates, urging them to stand for home rule on the liquor question.

Emmett H. Curtis, who is conducting an active campaign against the liquor license all over the country, spoke in two meetings in this city yesterday. J. Frank Burke, one of his lieutenants in this work, was to have been in this city and spoken at an open air meeting on West Front street Saturday night, but Curtis was unable to speak and the plans were changed at the last minute, Burke going to Elizabeth, where he made two addresses yesterday.

Curtis was at the First M. E. church yesterday morning in charge of the service there. For thirteen years he was a Methodist minister, giving up the pulpit because he felt called to his present work by the need for advanced temperance legislation in the west. His talk from the pulpit, which was heard by a large congregation, was on the progress of local option. He spoke of the broad spread of this work in the country and of the adoption of the direct liquor vote in nearly all the states. New Jersey, with three of the western states, are the only ones where there is no local option. In several of the western states, it is said, churches of all denominations give their collections on one Sunday of the year to the anti-saloon league. Curtis quoted other facts and figures showing conclusively the progress of the local option campaigns in the west. The collection taken was turned over to the league for the benefit of the work.

In the afternoon, at the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Curtis spoke on the subject, "The Next Christian President of the U. S." He characterized the next chief executive of the nation as a man who will support Christian principles. Purity in politics is coming in throughout the west as a direct result of Christian influence, and there is a growing tendency toward officials by appointment being selected because of church standing in their community. The local option plank will be in both party platforms in the next presidential campaign. The collection was given for the work.

In Union county, 800 pledges of $3 or more have been received for raising funds to secure local option.

FATHER-IN-LAW LEFF ATTACKED BY SOME BOYS.

Gang "Rough-Housed" Him But Son-in-law Sam Came to His Rescue.

Sam Levine, of Watchung avenue, was escorting his seventy-six-year old father-in-law, Abram Leff, home from the North Avenue station, last night, when a crowd of boys picked them out as targets for some fun. Abram's venerable beard and tottering steps offered the least resistance and what happened when the onslaught started seemed to him something like the Kisheneff affair. He claims that a folded newspaper caught him a terrific crack at the base of the skull and that a large stone tore through his derby hat and made a fearful bump on his scalp.

Son-in-law Sam was somewhat in advance when the trouble started and he turned about just as the boys finished up and ran. He took after them and caught Chris Eskerson and Joseph Carroll, both of whom claimed it was the "other fellows" who were guilty. He handed them over to a policeman and they appeared in the city court this morning.

The boys clung to their story that they had done nothing and Judge Runyon let them off on their promise to pay $1.50 for a new hat for Abram. Sam insisted it ought to be $2.50 but Chief Kiely acted as appraiser and made the smaller amount final.

Miss Carrie Boice, of New York, formerly of this city, is stopping for a time with friends in town.

PRISONERS IN A MIX-UP

Thomas Hawkins Disturbs Cellmate's Slumbers; Face Punched

PUNCHER IS FINED $10

Had Previously Hit Another Man and Court Thought He Was Too Handy With His Fists.

The police had an unusually busy time, Saturday night, and as a result the accommodations for prisoners at headquarters were severely taxed. Lobianco and Novetta, the "Black Hand" men, were already in possession of the front "parlor," which is the fancy name for Cell No. 5, and it left only four other compartments for all newcomers.

Shortly after 9 o'clock, Patrolman McCarthy came in with Thomas Hawkins, a funny-looking colored man, who had succumbed to strong drink and fell by the wayside at Front and Grove streets. Because of the surplus of guests it was decided to have him double up with Henry Bundy, also colored, who had been arrested earlier in the evening for punching the face of Joseph Dunlap. Bundy offered no especial objection and was even willing that Hawkins should have the lower berth, which, as Pullman travellers know, is always preferable. The newcomer was stowed away and the cops thought everything would be serene and lovely for the night.

Inside of half an hour, however, Hawkins became fully aware of what had happened and the situation seemed to strike his funny vein. He chuckled and giggled and he guffawed, the confusion of sounds disturbing the slumbers of everyone about him. Being the nearest to him, Bundy was especially annoyed and from the top shelf warned the sleep-killer to stop his noise under pain of having the porter called to eject him. The injunction only served to stir Hawkins to renewed effort. He promptly informed Bundy that inasmuch as his mother had been an Indian and had lived to be 105 years old and that his father was a "mixed Englishman," Thomas Hawkins himself was entitled to some consideration.

To emphasize his disregard for what Bundy had to say, the man below started to sing a Moki chant, passed down to him by his maternal parent. That's where he made a fatal mistake. Bundy is young and strong and he suddenly went at Hawkins with the full vigor of his youth. The noisy Thomas was biffed and banged, keel-hauled and slammed and then chucked into a corner to think it over.

The whole affair happened so quickly the nearby cops had no chance to interfere and the damage had been done when they got into the cell. Hawkins had a puffed-up cheek, a mouth sadly out of plumb and several furrows across his cheeks that looked suspiciously like gashes. When he was brought out into the light for inspection, Novetta and Lobianco got a look at him and exclaimed:

"Huh, jessa like Black Hand do at Newcastle."

Hawkins was patched up as well as the cops could do it and then he was placed in another compartment with a less excitable occupant. For the rest of the night he refused to say a word for fear he might get another trouncing.

When Bundy was arraigned in court this morning, he denied the charge preferred against him by Dunlap for which he was arrested. The evidence showed otherwise and coupled with his onslaught on Hawkins, Judge Runyon thought his conduct warranted $10 fine or thirty days in jail. He sent a friend out for the money but hadn't received it yet at noon.

Hawkins was arraigned later and with his battered face looking funnier than ever in the gaslight, readily acknowledged being drunk. He was reluctant to discuss the cell affair and even hesitated when asked to repeat his statements about his parents. He finally admitted the facts about his mother and father and surprised the magistrate by declaring he was born in 1867. As his mother died seven years ago at the age of 105 everybody in court did some figuring up. The judge afterward let him go on suspended sentence.

NEW CHAPTER IN FEUD

Non-Union Man at Krom's, Alleging He was Attacked, Has Two Haled to Court.

A STREET DISTURBANCE

Close Declares Muldowney Shouted That He "Ought to Be Shot Full of Holes"—Case Adjourned.

Proof to the outside world that the struggle between the union machinists of the city and the officials of the Krom Machine Works relative to keeping "scab" labor at the factory, is still being fought, was revealed in the city court this morning, Henry E. Close, one of the workmen imported to take the place of striking machinists, appeared to make complaint against Thomas Muldowney and Andrew McConnell, charging that they assaulted him on Park avenue and Second street, Saturday noon. At the request of counsel on both sides of the matter was adjourned by Judge Runyon until Saturday morning.

Muldowney and McConnell have been acting as pickets for the machinists union and keep a watch on the Krom shop. According to Close's statement he left the place Saturday to go to town and the two men accosted him. He refused to confer with them in any way and they followed him down North avenue, calling him all manner of names and requesting all the union machinists they passed to join them in hooting.

At Park avenue and Second street, McConnell, Close alleges, suddenly sprang at him and struck him in the face. Muldowney also caught hold him and yelled in his ear that he "ought to be shot full of holes." The non-union man made his escape by running down Second street and then went to police headquarters to drefer charges.

George W. V. Moy appeared in court for the Krom company and William G. DeMeza acter for Muldowney and McConnell.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE IS LIKE A GROWING PLANT

REV. FINN MAKES GRAPHIC ADDRESS AT NETHERWOOD FRESH AIR CAMP

Illustrating the Christian life by the graphic example of a plant growing from the seed, Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, made a forceful address at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp yesterday afternoon. The speaker had with him on the platform a flowerpot, soil, seeds, and a watering pot and his talk was made graphic to the children by his demonstration of the lesson of the seed of the word of God and to growth in the Christian heart.

The speaker dwelt on the growth of the Christian spirit in the heart and its blossoming into flowers, similar to those on the primrose which he displayed. At the conclusion of the talk, he spoke briefly on the life of the plant as a fight against environment and conditions. He says that the plant was beset by bugs, which devoured the foliage and finally killed the plant. He said that their were these bugs at work to undermine the Christian life. The principal ones to beset the young man, he said, were cigarettes and rum. At the conclusion of the address, Dr. Finn presented the plant to Sarah Kadulky, one of the little New Yorkers at the camp.

George E. Hall, vice-president of the camp association, was leader of the meeting. Prayer was offered by Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh Day Baptist church. As usual, singing was a feature of the meeting, which was largely attended. A special choir of local Christian Endeavor Intermediates led the singing and rendered two selections: "The King's Business" and "Keeping Step With the Master." Arthur S. Mosher rendered a violin obligato in connection with the melodian, played by Mrs. Nelson Runyon. Mr. Mosher rendered "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me" as an offertory.

During the service Mrs. William H. Sebring, sang two solos, "What Shall the Harvest Be" and "Not Half Has Ever Been Told." The auditorium was beautifully decorated with wild ferns.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Townspeople are still talking about the legal ruling of Judge R. V. P. Von Minden last week in the non-support action brought against Gustav Barfus by his wife. Barfus' mother had been living at the house of the married couple and the testimony showed that she had been a means of disruption between them. The judge ruled that a married woman is not obliged to live with her mother-in-law. This is a ruling that ought to be made to work in the case of the man as well and perhaps a solution of long-drawn-out visits of mother-in-law may thus be decided by the courts. As the popular song runs "'Taint the first time, nor yet the last time that 'Mamma' has brought trouble."

A watermelon and ice cream festival will be held by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Clawson. The receipts will be devoted to church indebtedness.

WESTFIELD.

Funeral services of Ernest I. Scott, of Westfield, were held yesterday afternoon at his residence. Mr. Scott was formerly engineer of the ferryboat Bound Brook of the Central Railroad and had been a resident of Westfield but a short time. He was in his fortieth year, and leaves a widow and three children. Rev. J. C. Greenwood conducted the funeral services. A delegation of the Ancient Order United Workmen attended.

Thieves are busy at Westfield, breaking open the tool boxes at houses under construction and carrying off the tols. The last to suffer were John Goltra's workmen, who had all their tools taken from a house in Stonehigh Park, Friday.

Rev. H. H. Gurnsey held a closing service at the Westfield Congregational church yesterday morning. Hereafter all services will be discontinued until the second Sunday in September.

Edward S. Tillman has returned from Asbury Park, where he had been spending a week.

Miss Mary Brutcher is visiting her cousins, the Misses McKeon, in Brooklyn.

Miss Margaret Schaub is spending the summer with relatives in Vermont.

Miss Elizabeth Brightbill is the guest of friends in Easton, Pa., this week.

Miss Mary Smith is entertaining relatives from Arlington.

Arthur Niles is spending a month at Delaware Water Gap.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

A fresh air service was held yesterday morning at the Baptist church in the interest of the Netherwood Home. Miss Curry and a number of her little charges were present and took charge of the service, the children rendering an interesting program of recitations and songs, after which Miss Curry made an address. She explained the work and the results obtained by a ten-day stay at the camp for the tired worn out mothers of the East Side and their children. David W. Hand followed with an appeal for the church and congregation to do all possible for the cause. Last year the church and Sunday-school raised $90 for the camp. This year the sum should be at least $100. When he had finished $100 had been pledged by the church, $25 of it being pledged by the Sunday-school through Superintendent Charles H. Vincent.

Saturday's battle on Crescent Oval between the local league team and the Y. M. C. A. was a pretty contest and as exciting as the most ardent fan could desire. With the exception of the seventh, the local team played like clock-work. The change in the lineup made but little difference in the field work. Frentz, while only allowing five hits, was too erratic and walked too many men at critical stages. This and the "balloon ascension" in the seventh told the tale of defeat. The locals scored its two runs on an error of Dupee in the fourth inning. Neither side earned a run and the score shows that it was as fast a game as anyone could desire.

In the case of Anando against Dubill, an action in tort in Justice Clark's court, on Saturday, a nonsuit was granted the defendant, the plaintiff failing to put in an appearance.

Frank Hollingsworth, of Cranford, was the guest yesterday of his father, Loftus Hollingsworth, of Prospect avenue.

Miss Joplin led an interesting meeting of the B. Y. P. U. last night in the parlors of the church. No evening preaching service was held.

The weekly Epworth League meeting was held last night in the Methodist church.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The services in the Baptist church were of unusual interest yesterday as they were the last of the summer season. The church will be reopened on the first Sunday in September. The music yesterday was led by the village orchestra and was particularly good.

Miss Vesta Jones, who has been visiting Miss FitzGerald, has returned to her home in New York city.

Miss McGinn, of New York, is visiting Mrs. Ledden, at the La Tourette house.

The family of Rufus Delafield, who owns the Sunswick Poultry Farm, have rented Joel Manning's farm and will take possession as soon as improvements are made.

"The Dorothea," owned by Mr. Lawrence, of Plainfield, is the trimmest little craft on the lake. Two new boats will be launched in a few days.

Go with the Baptist excursion tomorrow to Bellewood Park and help make it a success.

The Ladies' Aid Society and the Young People's Society of St. Peter's German Lutheran church will meet in the church Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. James B. Turner, of Atlanta, Ga., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Albert Runyon, of East Front street, has left for Atlantic Beach, Florida.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of May 20, 1869:

"On Friday last, Detective Morris, of Elizabeth, arrested a man named Jerome Brown, who has been living in our city for some months past, on the charge of burglary. The particulars are as follows: On Friday week last Brown was arrested in New York, upon the arrival there of the Providence, R. I., boat, on the charge of stealing from one of the passengers, and upon examination of his effects, several valuable articles were found, including a handsome clock, which proved to be the property of Father O'Reilly, of Providence. The prisoner was taken to Providence and there lodged in jail, but succeeded in making his escape the same night. Telegrams were immediately sent to the police in different cities, together with a description of the man, and although Brown was in Plainfield at the time, he slipped through the fingers of our Constables, and in company with his wife was proceeding quietly on his way to New York, when he was arrested at Elizabeth by Detective Morris. On being brought up for examination, Detective Kilcauley, of Jersey City, appeared and charged him with several burglaries committed in Bound Brook, Plainfield, Somerville, New Brunswick and elsewhere, and finding himself at least so caged that escape was out of the question, he admitted the theft in several instances. Messrs. Kilcauley and Morris had him remanded when they proceeded to the residence of the prisoner in this city and made a complete examination of his effects. They found a large assortment of property which had been stolen from different parties. His wife stated that she had been married to him only eleven months and was entirely ighorant of his depredations. His plan of operations was at once novel and ingenious. The property was acquired in the manner alluded to in the different parts of New Jersey, and sent to his residence in thie city, where it remained till a pretty large stock had been accumulated. Then he packed it up in boxes and sent it to Baltimore, addressed to his own name, where it was sold at auction. The auctioneer was informed that the owner, Brown, was a dealer in these articles and purchased largely in New York, Boston, Providence and elsewhere. Brown is about twenty-seven years of age, five feet seven inches in height, and a shoemaker by trade."

"SUICIDE.—On Saturday morning last, Mrs. Ann Dunham, living opposite Peace street in this city, was found to be missing from her home. After some search, her body was found a few rods from her house, floating in the race a few feet above the race gate. Coroner Leeson was at once notified and repairing to the spot with Peter Stryker, drew the body ashore and had it removed to her late residence. A jury was empaneled, and from the evidence deducted, it must have been a most detrmined suicide. A sister of deceased, testified to her being in the habit of occupying the apartment with her as a sleeping room. The previous night shortly after the clock struck ten, she heart Mrs. Dunham leave the room, but supposing she had gone to another room adjoining, paid no attention to it, as she was in the habit of doing so. Nothing more was thought of it until the following morning, when it was found she was missing and after search was found as above stated. Bethune Dunham, son of deceased, testified to having locked the front door at about that time and both front and back door were found locked in the morning, showing that she must have committed the act between ten and half past. The water was only about a foot deep where the body was found, and it seems almost impossible for anyone to drown, no matter how determined. Deceased was very much respected by all who knew her, recently she has acted strangely, in fact insane, caused by the death of a daughter some six weeks since. Appended is the verdict of the jury. The above being about all the testimony taken we, the undersigned, find that Mrs. Anne Dunham came to her death by dorwning. Being an act of her own while suffering under a deranged state of mind.

"Ayers Leeson, coroner; T. J. Gillies, foreman; H. A. H. Martin, Gerome Pack, Isaac Brokaw, D. C. Smith, P. H. Stryker, Henry Stryker, Albert Runyon, Voorhees Vanfleet."

Miss Ida Furman, of Craig place, is visiting relatives in the Bronx, New York.

William Lawson Heath, of Union street, left last week for Maine, where he will remain during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Groendyke, and son, George, of West Front street, have returned from a stay at Rockport, Mass.

By THOMAS W. LAWSON
Author of "Frenzied Finance"

A Story of Passionate Love and Money Madness

The hero is a daring young broker who retrieves the fortunes of the family of the woman he loves, a beautiful daughter of the south (they have been victims of "The System,") with the greatest "coup" in the history of "The Street." The fever of money madness and the curse of speculation run throughout the story. This terrific conflict between character and money, and the shifting and glittering background of frenzied finance, makes a novel which would be absorbing to every man and woman were it by an unknown author. Being by Mr. Lawson, it will undoubtedly be the most discussed story of our generation.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. F. Harman and daughters, of West Eighth street, are at Sugar Hill, N. H.

Clarence Francisco and Bernard McKeon are enjoying a weeks' vacation at Atlantic City.

Miss Elsie Burner and Miss Kitty Ruttledge of the borough, are spending the week at Ocean Grove.

City Clerk J. T. MacMurray spent yesterday at Asbury Park, where Mrs. MacMurray is sojourning.

Miss Emma Cumiskey, of Flatbush, L. I., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hoagland, of West Front street.

Charles Sturtevant, of West Fourth street, who has been ill for the past two months, is able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Hacquer, of East Front street, are spending a week in camp at Halsey Island, Lake Hopatcong.

Miss Phillips, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Juan Babcock, of Clinton avenue, has returned home.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson, of West Front street, will leave early this week for Washington, and later will go to Virginia, where they will spend their vacation.

Mrs. Albert I. Littell, Mrs. C. H. Peterson and Mrs. George L. Apgar, whose husbands are members of Co. K, at Sea Girt, this week, are sojourning on the Jersey coast.

TIME TO ACT.

Closing Days of a Big Event in Jersey's Greatest Store.

The last three days of Hahne & Co.'s July furniture sale will be full of interest to those contemplating the purchase of furniture for any part of the home or office. The reduced prices that effect the entire stock in the big Newark establishment will prevail until Wednesday night. Until then any piece of furniture in the store may be selected at a price not less than 10 per cent. below regular selling figures, and in these closing days many odd pieces are offered at reductions that run from twenty to fifty per cent. The July sale has been a phenomenal success—the greatest in the history of the store, and it is expected that the closing days will be among the liveliest. Any piece of furniture in the house can be bought on the household club plan, which makes it easy for anyone to pay. Victor's band continues to give daily concerts and there are vocal solos Tuesday and Fridays at 3 and 4 o'clock.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

"Marty" O'Loughlin left today for Van Cortlandt Park, where tomorrow he will engage in play in the annual tournament of professionals and amateurs.

The qualifying round competition, Classes A and B, was concluded at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday. The August competition will include handicap match play on the first four Saturdays, among the players who qualified in July. This will be for Classes A and B handicap match play during September. The four lowest net scores in each class on each Saturday to qualify. The handicap match play for the Governor's cup will also be played this month.

With the winning of the July cup on Saturday by Charles B. Morse, the special monthly competitions closed at the Park Golf Club, until September, when there will be play for the September cup, which is offered by the club. The events at the club during August will be the weekly competitions for the President's and Golf Club cups.

Among the crack players of the Plainfield Country Club who are away for the summer and who have been missed on the course, are F. C. Talmadge and Robert Abbott.

Leighton Calkins, chairman of the Green committee, of the Plainfield Country Club, has returned from Manchester, Vt., where he acted as one of the officials in a big tournament held last week.

Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, and Archie Graham, of North Jersey, won a decisive victory in an exhibition four-ball match against Jerome D. Travers, the national golf champion, and Marshall Whitlatch, over the links of the Montclair Golf Club, Saturday, by a score of 5 up and 4 to play, at eighteen holes. It had been planned to have the match a 36-hole affair, but owing to the late arrival of Travis the quartet played only eight holes, for practice, in the morning. As the contestants, after playing out the bye holes, finished on the home green H. H. Spies, president of the club, presented Travers with a handsome gold watch with fob and seal attached. On the inside of the case was the following inscription. "Presented to Jerome D. Travers by the members of the Montclair Golf Club, in recognition of his sterling golf in winning the Metropolitan, New Jersey State and the United States Golf Association tournaments in the year 1907."

It was the hope of "Marty" O'Loughlin that he would be paired with C. B. Morgan, of the Plainfield Country Club, in the amateur and professional tournament which starts at the Van Cortlandt Park course, tomorrow. The two have played together considerable and would have made a strong pair in the tournament.

C. B. Morgan expects to enter the big golf tournament to be held at Deal Beach next month. Last year he was one of the contestants there and returned a good score.

DIAMOND DUST.

"Flick" Luyster has deserted the Elizabeth Invaders, and returned to the Hartford Club. Lee, a well-known pitcher from the Southern League, has been secured in his place.

Disgusted with his careless way of playing, Clark Griffith has suspended Norman Elberfield, his once bright star, and imposed a fine. Elberfield has not been putting up his usual game in a long time.

According to a Detroit paper, Clark Griffith has posted an offer of $10,000 for Pitcher Mullin, of the Tigers, and it has been said that he might as well make the same offer for Lajoie and Ed. Walsh.

It is the opinion of the New York fans that Clark Griffith did not get any of the best of the deal whereby he sent Clarkson in exchange for Moore, of Cleveland. This is not the first time this season that Griffith has been "stung."

When are the fans going to see that contest between Clinton Avenue and the West Ends, of Somerville? Such a game would arouse great interest and draw the crowds out.

Although the Elizabeth Invaders are playing better ball, it is said that the team fails to draw paying crowds, except on Sunday. If it were not for this fact it is highly improbable that the team could exist.

Jack O'Neil, formerly of the Plainfield team, has been helping the Jersey City Eastern League out during the past few weeks. He is exceedingly popular with the Jersey City fans and his work behind the bat is of the best.

Manager McGraw is continually scouting for new players, especially young blood, and is fortifying himself for any calamity that is likely to befall the team.

Plainfield, N. J., July 29, 1907.

A correspondent wants to know "which will it be—Katzenbach or Silzer." Answer: Neither; it'll be a Republican.

Do not fail to read the opening chapter of Thomas W. Lawson's great tale of money-madness and passionate love, "Friday The 13th" to be found in this issue. The story is intensely interesting throughout.

"The only genuine Fairbanks cocktail is straight buttermilk."—The "Sun."

Yes, but, hang it, there are countless imitations.—Jersey City Journal.

We'll take the editor's word for it.

As the respective political checkerboards appear at present, Frank S. Katzenbach has his opponent, George S. Silzer, cornered for the Democratic nomination, while Justice J. Mahlon Pitney has a decided advantage over his most formidable competitor, Justice Fort. That's the situation just now; but there's many a slip, you know.

As the Newark Call tersely puts it, "The complete repudiation by New Jersey of the Perkins scheme for the Vanderbilt cup automobile race in this State is a lesson to Assemblymen who listen too amiably to the voice of the lobbyist. The opposition by the newspapers has been merely the reflection of a well-defined and clearly manifested public sentiment."

BIG REAL ESTATE DEAL.

27 Tracts of Land Acquired by Linden Improvement Company.

The largest real estate transaction in Union county this year was recorded on Saturday at Elizabeth, when title to twenty-seven tracts of land in Linden and Roosevelt passed from the Tremley Improvement Company to the East Linden Improvement Company for $500,000. The land will be cut up into building lots and factory sites. A number of New York real estate men are interested in the Linden Company.

The land purchased covers a very large area, one of the tracts containing 185 acres. Part of the land faces on Staten Island Sound, and will be used for factory sites.

Resolutions of Respect.

Out of respect to the memory of Joseph B. Coward, one of the oldest lawyers in the city and the county, the members of the Plainfield Bar Association has adopted resolutions, a copy of which will be found in another part of The Daily Press. They are signed by the committee, comprising Nelson Runyon, Samuel S. Swackhamer and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.

RISES WITH A COMPLAINT.

Alkali Eye Displeased with Vaudeville Performance.

We went up to Houston ter meet with th' lumbermen, not thet we air a lumberman at all, but we air more er less interested in th' plan o' makin' booze f'm sawdust, an' it was up to us to be astin' these ducks whut they air a-doin' at present with their output; ef they ain't drinkin' it up we'd like ter make them a proposition lookin' ter th' startin' of a distillery. Ef sech a distillery is started we kin guarantee ter dispose of th' output. Whilst we was in Houston we wus th' guessed, th' honored guessed, of th' Majestic th'ater, an' we have ben sufferin' f'm nervous prostration ever since; a' duck who done a chair balancin' act used bottles o' beer ter balance on and his feet was th' most thrillin' one we ever seen; he was li'ble ter fall at any minute an' we'd like to ast what'd become o' thet beer ef he had fell? He'd a-busted them bottles as sure as sbootin'; we was so nervous at th' bare thought o' sech a accident thet we ain't got over shudderin' yet. Later.—Since writing' th' above we hev learned thet them beer bottles wuz empty, an' that fact makes it even more agervatin'.—Alkali Eye, in the Houston Post.

FATHER HAD HOPES FOR HIM.

Bumptuous Youth Got Benefit of a Little Plain Talk.

The following is related of a certain well-known New York business man and his son: The son had just left Harvard and was fired with ambitions which did not include going into his father's office. When he arrived home his parents began seriously to discuss his future. He stated what his ideas were and spoke of the professions as most likely to afford scope for his genius. The law, he thought, would be the likeliest career. His father, however, had not a very high opinion of his abilities, and said so without mincing words. "I think," he declared, "you had better make a beginning by adorning one of my office stools. We can think about your taking up the law afterward." The young man did not see it that way. Office life he loathed, and said it was an existence fit only for a dog. "Well, my son," returned the father, dryly, "you're not a dog yet, but you'll grow."

With a Proviso.

"When universal peace is finally established," said Alfred H. Love, the president of the Universal Peace union, in an interview in Philadelphia, "then many a man who now ridicules the peace movement will claim to have been its lifelong champion. It is always so. We thump and kick a poor, weak, struggling movement at its inception, and when it has succeeded and no longer needs our help, we give it the most solicitous support. There was once a young lady whose betrothed, a very poor young man, was about to set out for South America to seek his fortune in the rubber trade. As he took his leave of her the night before his departure, he said, tremulously: 'And you swear to be true to me, Irene?' 'Yes, Heber,' cried the girl; 'yes—if you're successful.'"

Dog Jealousy.

There is a strong trait of jealousy in a dog's nature. A story is told of a Birmingham dog that had been a great pet in the family until the baby came. There was suspicion that he was jealous, but he could not be detected in any disrespect to the newcomer. It always happened, however, that when the dog was left alone with the baby the baby began to cry. No signs of trouble were ever to be seen upon entering the room, and the dog was always found sleeping peacefully before the fire. Finally one day a peep through the keyhole disclosed the canine rubbing his cold wet nose up and down the baby's back.—Outing Magazine.

Pen Economy.

The merchant before filling his inkwell dropped in two or three old pens and poured the writing fluid upon them. "Thus," he said, "I practice pen economy, prolonging three or four times the life of all my pens. You see, the corrosive power of the ink, which is immensely strong, vents itself on the old pens kept in the well and has little or no strength left wherewith to attack the pen I have in use. Try this scheme, young man, and you will find that your pens will practically never wear out."

He Left the House.

While a lady was feeding a hungry tramp the other day she discovered he was pocketing her silver spoons. Opening the door, she exclaimed, "Drop those spoons, you scoundrel, and leave the house!" "But, madam—" "Leave the house, I say!" screamed the infuriated woman. "Leave the house!" "I go, madam," said the tramp, as he reached the front gate, "never to return; but before I go I would like to say that I did not intend to take your house."—Illustrated Bits.

Yes, But Will She?

Wedderly—"Can the girl you are engaged to swim?" Singleton—"I don't know. But why do you ask?" Wedderly—"Because, if she can, you ought to be happy. A girl who can swim can keep her mouth shut."—Stray Stories.

The Old Question.

"Say, if you put all your money into building a house?" "Yes?" "And an earthquake came along and shook the house down?" "Yes?" "Wouldn't that jar you?"

Held for Juvenile Court.

Charles Barnes, a colored boy about twelve years old, was arraigned in the city court this morning, charged by Mrs. Israel Kadish, of West Third street, with striking her in the mouth when she accused him of hitting her small daughter. The boy denied the charge and said he had witnesses to prove that he was innocent but couldn't recall their names when requested by Judge Runyon to name them. Mrs. Kadish had witnesses to prove her statement and Barnes was held for the Juvenile Court.

Wedding at Scotch Plains.

LURED WIFE FROM HOME TO SHOOT HER

JEALOUS MAN PUTS BULLETS INTO BODY OF THE WOMAN.

Manue Clawson attempted last night to murder his wife, Susie, by shooting, at Phillipsburg. He fired three shots, two of which took effect. Jealousiy was the cause. After the shooting Clawson fled and has not been captured.

Clawson and his wife separated about five weeks ago after a quarrel. Mrs. Clawson found employment at the Standard Silk Mill, this place, and with her three-year-old daughter boarded at the home of James Hunt, on Pursell's Hill. Clawson formerly was employed at the Andover Furnace, but for the past month has worked at a cement plant at Martin's Creek, where he resided.

He came to Phillipsburg last night went to the Hunt residence and asked his wife if she would take a walk with him as he wanted to come to an agreement for them to again live together. Mrs. Clawson accompanied her husband, and after a short conversation he drew a revolver and shot at her. The first shot missed her. He fired two more shots, which took effect in her back.

Neighbors were aroused by the shooting and found Mrs. Clawson in an unconscious condition. She was taken to the Hunt residence and a physician summoned, who extracted one of the bullets. The other other had ranged upward and was lodged in the left breast. After Mrs. Clawson returned to consciousness she said her husband meant to kill her and then commit suicide.

She said she begged him not to shoot. Clawson is thirty-years old and his wife twenty-two. They were former residents of Springtown, N. J. Mrs. Clawson is in a critical condition today.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolutions were adopted by The Plainfield Bar Association at a special meeting called for that purpose and held on July 27, 1907:

"Whereas, In the providence of Almighty God our brother, Joseph B. Coward, has been suddenly removed from the activities of this life and translated to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveller returns, and;

"Whereas, It is becoming to us, with whom he has mingled in varied business and professional relations for many years, to express our sincere sorrow for the loss we have sustained on his death; therefore

"Resolved, That on the death of Joseph B. Coward, Plainfield has lost one of her most valued and respected citizens and the Plainfield Bar Association, its oldest member and one who will be greatly missed by us all;

"Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved widow and children of our deceased brother our deepest heartfelt sympathy for the unspeakable loss which they have sustained;

"Resolved, That these resolutions be made a part of the record of this Association and published in the Plainfield papers, and that a copy be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

Revelations Cause Man's Death.

Heart disease, the doctors say, caused the death of George Johnes, a gardener at the State Hospital for the Insane, at Trenton yesterday, but his fellow workmen declare that Johnes died of a broken heart by brooding over the trouble that has come to the State Hospital as a result of the investigations of the Hahn Assembly committee. Johnes had been employed as a gardener and helper at the hospital for thirty-one years. Johnes dropped dead while performing his morning chores.

AREN'T GIRLS RECKLESS?

When a girl is in love she says:

Not "He is worthy of me," but "Am I worthy of him?"

Not "He will be good to me," but "I will be good to him."

Not "He is perfect," but "I don't care whether he is perfect or not."

Not "I shall be happy with him," but "I shall not be happy without him."

Not "I could live my life with him," but "I could not live my life without him."

Not "I see much in him to admire," but "I see nothing in anyone else to admire."

Not "I could endure poverty with him," but "I could endure nothing without him."

Not "I believe him, because what he says is true," but "I believe him, because he says it."

It may seem to you that you love him too much, but remember that you will need a big bank account of love to draw on for the exigencies of marriage.

The most harrowing thought in the world, next to not being sure that the man you love loves you, is that perhaps you do not love the man who loves you. If you can pass this self-examination and give yourself 100 you may be quite sure that you love him.

WISDOM'S WHISPERS.

A woman considers it a small offense to appropriate the ideas of another individual.

Women have peculiar ideas as to how far they should go in showing affection for a man.

A man's idea of a rest is to do absolutely nothing; a woman takes up fancy work for her rest.

After a woman has had her little outburst of temper she becomes as pleasant as a May morning.

Some men demand all that is coming to them and part of that which should go to the other fellow.

When a woman really is ill there is something pathetic in the patience with which she bears her trial.

The man who takes a gloomy view of married life always declares there is nothing selfish in his disposition.

Men fall into the habit of complaining about the way they are treated with the thought it will bring more to them.

Women talk of ambition as if it were something to pick up and put aside to suit the convenience.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

In the two seconds that it takes a man to light a cigar he is carried 36 miles around the sun.

THE RULE OF THREE.

Three things to govern—temper, tongue and conduct.

Three things to cultivate—courage, affection and gentleness.

Three things to commend—thrift, industry and promptness.

Three things to wish for—health, friends and contentment.

Three things to despise—cruelty, arrogance and ingartitude.

Three Things to admire—dignity, graciousness and intellectual power.

Three things to give—alms to the needy, comfort to the sad, and appreciation to the worthy.—Answers.

MANY DELEGATES ATTEND DEDICATION OF TEMPLE.

Church of God and Saints of Christ, Colored, Now Occupy New Edifice.

With 200 delegates from all parts of the country in attendance, the new tabernacle of the Church of God and Saints of Christ in West Fourth street, between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue, was formally dedicated yesterday. Elder Alexander Trent, who is the head of the Plainfield branch of the sect, was in general charge and was assisted by Prophet Joseph Crowdy, of Philadelphia, nephew of Leader Crowdy, the founder.

At the morning service, the dedication sermon was preached by St. Roswell Roles, of Bellevue, Va., general representative of the chuch. Another sermon was preached by Evangelist Melinda Morris, of Newark, and an address was made by Grandfather Abraham, of Boston. It was intended to have a second service in the afternoon but the morning session lasted longer than was expected and the two were merged.

In the evening Prophet Crowdy was in charge and was the principal speaker while Elder Waters, of Providence, R. I., led a testimony meeting. The other main addresses were given by Elder John Msikyni, of Jersey City, and Father Abraham, while testimony was offered by Elders Delaney, of Philadelphia; Charles Braxton, of Boston; Robert Brown, of Atlantic City; J. Wright, of Newburgh, N. Y., Robert Pearson, of Jersey City, and Alexander Ross, of Monticello, Ga.

During the day, an effort was made to secure the liquidation of $1,500 indebtedness on the building and part of the sum was obtained. St. Roswell Roles and Chief Emma Rochester, of Philadelphia, took active parts in securing contributions.

The congregation has been in Plainfield about three years and now numbers about fifty members. The new building is 28 by 70 feet and has a well equipped restaurant beneath. This is conducted by the congregation and the profits are added to the general treasury. The building was erectly almost entirely by the male members, the debt on it being for materials furnished.

BAD PAIR ARRESTED.

Fled to This City After Nearly Killing Policeman at Phoenixville, Pa.

Stephen and Joseph Kotyo, brothers, were arrested by the local police at noon today, charged with feloniously assaulting a policeman at Phoenixville, Pa., last week. They admitted their identity and are being held pending the arrival of requisition papers.

The two men weere placed under arrest by the Phoenixville officer and while on the way to the station, the prisoners attacked him. He was almost killed before assistance arrived but the assailants got away. It was believed they had gone to Plainfield and word was telegraphed to Chief Kiely. His men have since been and today Detective-Sergeant Flynn and Patrolman Dobson located the pair at the home of relatives on Jackson avenue, Netherwood.

Capt. Hand Retires from Business.

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Hand Storage and Express Company, with a capital stock of $20,000. The incorporators are Fred W. Hand, C. Frank French and William C. Smith. Captain William Hand, who has been engaged in this business for fifty years, retires. The new company will occupy the whole building on East Second street.

Will Be Buried in St. Mary's.

The body of Mrs. John Kane, who died at her home in Philadelphia, last week, will be brought to Plainfield tomorrow on the 1:09 train. Burial will be made directly afterward in St. Mary's cemetery. Mrs. Kane was a former local resident, having lived on West Third street for many years.

A Marriage Announcement.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Pierre Moore, of East Third street, and Miss Anna L. Martin, of Park avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Musson at his home on July 14. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are residing on East Third street.

PERSONAL.

Miss Sadie Searing, of East Orange, spent Saturday at the home of her brother, Edward C. Searing, of Park avenue.

Miss Harris, the soprano soloist of the First Baptist church, will go this week to Swartswood Lake, N. J., to spend the summer. Miss Heintz, of Brooklyn, the contralto soloist, will spend her vacation at Patchogue, L. I.

H. S. Potter, formerly of this city, but now of El Paso, Texas, where he is superintendent of the electric power plant, has been promoted to the position of manager of the company's water, gas and electric light plant at Globe, Arizona, and he and Mrs. Potter expect to leave for that place within the near future. Mr. Potter has shown himself to be thoroughly capable in his present position and the promotion has been won through careful and painstaking efforts on his part.

Blaze in Cadmus Ruins.

An alarm was turned in from box 45 Saturday evening for a fire in the ruins of the Cadmus mill on South Second street. Apparatus from the West End and uptown houses put out the blaze in a few minutes. It is thought to have been started by locomotive sparks dropping in old hay.

Girls Sang at Cranford.

Mary Miller and Elsie and Helen Tudor, the little girl singers now at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, sang at the morning service at the Fresbyterian Sunday-school at Cranford yesterday morning. They made the trip in George E. Hall's automobile.

19 Dead In Tenement Blaze.

Nineteen persons are known to have lost their lives in a tenement house fire at 222 Chrystie street, New York city, early this morning. The lists of injured and missing are as yet incomplete and several may still be buried in the ruined building.

To Adjust Sewer Troubles.

Representatives of the various interests concerned in the Southside sanitary trouble are holding a conference here today, it being another step looking toward a final adjustment, where the different claimants may be satisfied and the work may proceed.

Do You Believe In Signs?

"Rain Monday, clear Thursday," according to the old proverb. That means a clear day for the Trinity excursion to Asbury Park. Are you going?

Rev. J. A. Cubberly, formerly pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church, will preach there on Sunday, August 11. The last two Sundays in August he will preach at Faith chapel.

—Neuman Brothers are still receiving large consignments of fruit and vegetables every morning. They have the most attractive display in the city.

If you are going on a journey—long or short—or want to spend an evening with the most entertaining novel on the market, be sure to get "A Tragedy of Circumstance," by Frank Danby, the author of "Pigs in Clover." This is brought out complete in the June Lippincott's; and for plot of fascinating novelty it has no peer in modern fiction. It presents a vivid picture of "high" society with its myriad temptations and human pitfalls. It is realism without indecency; and in the gay scenes at Monte Carlo the reader is carried along in the mad whirl of chance which threatens to engulf the heroine, whose destiny is in doubt up to the closing pages.

LITERARY

A charming summer story entitled, "Mrs. Clevenger," is the leading feature of the August Smart Set. The author is Grace Eleanore Towndrow, a new writer who reveals great promise. The scenes of this novelette are laid at a Long Island house-party, and the action is brisk and the dialogue brilliant. It is exactly the type of story one wishes to read in the hot weather. Maarten Maartens, the distinguished Dutch novelist, is represented in this issue by a powerful short story called "Prayer." Mr. Maartens has done nothing recently deserving of greater praise. Christian Reid, who has not been conspicuous in the magazines for many years, comes forward in this number with a remarkably fine story called "Paying the Price." Melville Chater in "The Ingratitude of Ernest" tells a very amusing story of young love.

None of the many meetings held during the conference was more interesting and possibly more pregnant with future usefulness than the great gathering of school children which assembled in Carnegie Hall under the presidency of Superintendent Maxwell, of New York. It is the youth of America, rather than the old and middle-aged men who dominated this conference that we must look for any generous or original initiative in the task of bringing the more advanced ideas of practical progress toward international brotherhood before the attention of the other nations of the world. When peace is prosecuted with the skill of a campaign and the enthusiasm of a crusade, the young men and women of the world will throw themselves in to the movement with the energy and the élan of youth. There is much to be done in this direction, and the task from which this peace conference has shrunk may yet be carried to victory by younger and more vigorous hands.—From "The National Arbitration and Peace Congress in New York," by W. T. Stead, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

The July Century is a "Fiction Number," with fiction enough to satisfy the most omnivorous: new chapters of the two serials and a number of short stories, chiefly by popular writers. Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's "The Shuttle" and Elizabeth Robins's "Come and Find Me" grow in strength and in interest. Abby Meguire Roach's "Manifest Destiny" a long short story of a fascinating fellow's multitudinous love affairs, has six pictures in tint by Underwood. Thomas Nelson Page contributes a story of life on the Maine coast, full of character, humor and pathos, entitled "Leander's Light." This has an illustration in full color by Schoonover. There is another of L. Frank Tooker's rollicking Kerrigan stories, "The Freedom of the City;" and James Huneker has a strange tale of eastern magic, with a Parisian cafe setting, "The Magic Lantern." Other contributors of fiction are Florence Moloso Riis, Elizabeth Moorhead, Mary Austin, Dorothea Deakin and Emma Ghent Custis. Of these three are debutantes, at least so far as the Century is concerned—Elizabeth Moorhead with a penetrating portrayal of two women and a physicia, "The Standard of Reality," a very feminine story; Mrs. Curtis with a romantic and altogether masculine Western story of love and adventure, "In the Dark of the Moon," with a picture by Wyeth, and Miss Riis with another Western story, boldly handled, called "The Blood of Vikings." Mrs. Austin's mining story, "The Hoodoo of the Minnietta," also relates to the West. Charles Battell Loomis has a merry account of "The Next Craze"—when the airship comes, with all its dangers.

The August Number of the Woman's Home Companion is primarily an all-story number—except, of course, for the twelve indespensible departments that appear in each issue. The second instalment of Anthony Hope's new love story "Helena's Path," appears in this number, and all the other fiction comes up to the excellent standard of Mr. Hope's novel. Among the contributors are Anne Hamilton Donnell, author of "Rebecca Mary," May Isabel Fisk, in one of her inimitable monologues, Zona Gale, Clinton Dangerfield, Mary Wilhelmina Hastings and Jeanette Cooper. Considerable space is devoted to the vacation problem, and Dr. Edward Everett Hale, Margaret E. Sangster, Anna Steese Richardson and the Editor all give some admirable vacation suggestions. The number is elaborate pictorially with a double page of photographs of children of royalty and of other prominent people with their pet ponies—and illustrations by such well-known illustrators as E. Dalton Stevens, Blanche Greer and Herman Pfeifer.

A most vivacious and diverting short story by Alden Arthur Knipe whose work is familiar to readers of the best magazines, opens The Red Book Magazine's fiction for July. The title is "A Love Story a la Carte" and the author's genius in giving his chapters menu headings is most original. A story which will serve to cast light on certain phases of legal practice is Hugh Pendexter's "The Bride and the Brige," while Isabel Ecclestone Mackay's story, "The Stuff of Dreams," is one of the most original short tales the year has thus far brought forth.

Chapter 1.

"Friday, the 13th; I thought as much, if Bob has started, there will be hell, but I will see what I can do."

The sound of my voice as I dropped the receiver seemed to part the mists of five years and usher me into the world of Then as though it had never passed on.

I had been sitting in my office, letting the tape slide through my fingers while its every yard spelled "panic" in a constantly rising voice, when they told me that Brownley on the floor of the exchange wanted me at the 'phone, and "quick." Brownley was our junior partner and floor man. He talked with a rush. Stock exchange floor men in panics never let their speech hobble.

"Mr. Randolph, it's sizzling over here, and it's getting hotter every second. It's Bob—that is evident to all. If he keeps up this pace for 20 minutes longer, the sulphur will overflow the street and get into the banks and into the country, and no man can tell how much territory will be burned over by to-morrow. The boys have begged me to ask you to throw yourself into the breach and stay him. They agree you are the only hope now."

"Are you sure, Fred, that this is Bob's work?" I asked. "Have you seen him?"

"Yes, I have just come from his office, and glad I was to get out. He's on the war-path, Mr. Randolph—uglier than I ever saw him. The last time he broke loose was child's play to his mood to-day. Mother sent me word this morning that she saw last night the spell was coming. He had been up to see her and sisters, and mother thought from his tone he was about to disappear again. When she told me of his mood, and I remembered the day, I was afraid he might seek his vent here. Also I heard of his being about town till long after midnight. The minute I opened his office door he flew at me like a panther. I told him I had only dropped in on my rounds for an order, as they were running off right smart, and I didn't know but he might like to pick up some bargains. 'Bargains!' he roared, 'don't you know the day? Don't you know it is Friday, the 13th? Go back to that hell-pit and sell, sell.' 'Sell what and how much?' I asked. 'Anything, everything. Give the thieves every share they will take, and when they won't take any more, ram as much again down their crops until they spit up all they have been buying for the last three months!' Going out I met Jim Holliday and Frank Swan rushing in. They are evidently executing Bob's orders, and have been pouring Anti-People's out for an hour. They will be on the floor again in a few minutes, so I thought it safer to call you before I started to sell. Mr. Randolph, they cannot take much more of anything in here, and if I begin to throw stocks over, it will bring the gavel inside of ten minutes, and that will be to announce a dozen failures. It's yet 20 minutes to one, and God only knows what will happen before three. It's up to you, Mr. Randolph, to do something, and unless I am on a bad slant, you haven't many minutes to lose."

It was then I dropped the receiver with "I thought as much!" As I had been fingering the tape, watching five and ten millions crumbling from price values every few minutes, I was sure this was the work of Bob Brownley. No one else in Wall street had the power, the nerve, and the devilish cruelty to rip things as they had been ripped during the last 20 minutes. The night before I had passed Bob in the theater lobby. I gave him close scrutiny and saw the look of which I of all men best knew the meaning. The big brown eyes were set on space; the outer corners of the handsome mouth were drawn hard and tense as though weighted. As I had my wife with me it was impossible to follow him, but when I got home I called up his house and his clubs, intending to ask him to run up and smoke a cigar with me, but could locate him nowhere. I tried again in the morning without success, but when just before noon the tape began to jump and flash and snarl, I remembered Bob's ugly mood, and all it portended.

Fred Brownley was Bob's youngest brother, 12 years his junior. He had been with Randolph & Randolph from the day he left college, and for over a year had been our most trusted stock exchange man. Bob Brownley, when himself, was as fond of his "baby" brother," as he called him, as his beautiful southern mother was of both; but when the devil had possession of Bob—and his option during the past five years had been exercised many a time—mother and brother had to take their place with all the rest of the world, for then Bob knew no kindred, no friends. All the wide world was to him during those periods a jungle peopled with savage animals and reptiles to hunt and fight and tear and kill.

It is hardly necessary for me to explain who Randolph & Randolph are. For more than 60 years the name has spoken for itself in every part of the world where dollar-making machines are installed. No railroad is financed, no great "industrial" projected, without by force of habit, hat-in-handing a by-your-leave of Randolph & Randolph, and every nation when entering the market for loans, knows that the favor of the foremost American bankers is something which must be reckoned with. I pride myself that at 42, at the end of ten years I have had the helm of Randolph & Randolph, I have done nothing to mar the great name my father and uncle created, but something to add to its sterling reputation for honest dealing, fearless, old-fashioned methods, and all-round integrity. Bradstreet's and other mercantile agencies say in reporting Randolph & Randolph: "Worth fifty millions and upward, credit unlimited." I can take but small praise for this, for the report was about the same the day I left college and came to the office to "learn the business." But, as the survivor of my great father and uncle, I can say, my Maker as my witness, that Randolph & Randolph have never loaned a dollar of their millions at over legal rates, six per cent. per annum; have never added to their hoard by any but fair, square business methods; and that blight of blights, frenzied finance, has yet to find a lodging place beneath the old black-and-gold sign that father and uncle nailed up with their own hands over the entrance.

Nineteen years ago I was graduated from Harvard. My classmate and chum, Bob Brownley, of Richmond, Va., was graduated with me. He was class poet, I, yard marshal. We had been four years together at St. Paul's previous to entering Harvard. No girl and lover were fonder than we of each other.

My people had money and to spare, and with it a hard-headed, northern horse sense. The Brownleys were poor as church mice, but they had the brilliant, virile blood of the old southern oligarchy and the romantic, "salaam-to-no-one" Dixie-land pride of before-the-war days, when southern prodigality and hospitality were found wherever women were fair and men's mirrors in the bottom of their julep-glasses.

Bob's father, one of the big, white pillars of southern aristocracy, had gone through congress and the senate of his country to the tune of "Spend and Not Spare," which left his widow and three younger daughters and a small son dependent upon Bob, his eldest.

Many a warm summer afternoon, as Bob and I paddled down the Charles, and often on a cold, crispy night as we sat in my shooting-box on the Cape Cod shore, had we matched up for our future. I was to have the inside run of the great banking business of Randolph & Randolph, and Bob was eventually to represent my father's firm on the floor of the stock exchange. "I'd die in an office," Bob used to say, "and the floor of the stock exchange is just the chimney-place to roast my hoe-cake in." So when our college days were over my able old father stood us up against the wall in his office, and tried us by his tests, and proud we both were when dad said: "Jim, you and Bob have chosen well. You, Jim, are just the chap to step into my shoes, and Bob is cut to a thirty-second and sixty-fourth for the floor." Proud we were, not so much because of what my father's decision meant for our future, for we knew we should get into the business all right, but because our judgment was indorsed by one we both thought as near infallible as man could be in anything pertaining to business affairs.

Bob was then 22 and I a year older—I one of your raw-boned New England lads, not much for prettiness, but willing to weigh in race-day with any of them for steadiness and staying qualities; Bob as handsome as they made them, six feet tall in his gym sandals straight as an arrow, with the form of an Indian, and one of those clean, brave, all-for-heart-nothing-for-policy, smiling faces to which men yield willing friendliness, and women, idolatry. Bob's eyes were as big and round and purple-brown as an English bulldog's, unfathomable, at once mild and stern, with a childish come-and-go perplexity; his nose as straight as though chiseled by a master for a Greek medallion, with thin curved lips to correspond, and a high, broad forehead, whose whiteness was set off by a luxuriance of hair that seemed jet-black, but was of the same rare purple-brown as his eyes. But it was the poise of Bob's head that gave his good looks their crown. Whoever has seen a bunch of two-year-old colts in a long-grass Kentucky paddock, when the darky boy lets loose his shrill whistle at "taking-up time," is sure to remember one that threw up its head and kept it poised to make sure it had caught the call. Grace, strngth and unharnessed wayward leadership are there personified. Some such suggestion was ever in the carriage of Bob's shapely head and vigorous figure, and dull indeed would be the man or woman who failed to recognize the man's rare distinction and masterfulness.

Indeed, as I said a bit back, Bob Brownley was by all odds one of the handsomest men I have ever seen, but besides that, he was a sterling, manly, unaffected fellow, as true as steel, as brave as a lion and the best comrade friend ever had.

Perhaps it was because his father's death had saddled Bob's youth with the heavy responsibilities of husbanding and directing his family's slim finances that he took to business as a swallow to the air. We entered the office of Randolph & Randolph on the same day, and on its anniversary, a year later, my father summoned us into his office for a sort of tally-up talk. Neither of us quite knew what was coming, and we thrilled with pleasure when he said:

"Jim, you and Bob have fairly outdone my expectations. I have had my eye on both of you and I want you to know that the kind of industry and business intelligence you have shown here would have won you recognition in any banking house on 'the street.' I want you both in the firm—Jim to learn his way round so he can step into my shoes; you, Bob, to take one of the firm's seats on the stock exchange."

Bob's face went red and then pale with happiness as he reached for my father's hand.

"I'm very grateful to you, sir, far more so than words can say, but I want to talk this proposition of yours over with Jim here first. He knows me better than anyone else in the world, and I've some ideas I'd like to thrash out with him."

"Speak up here, Bob," said my father.

"Well, sir, I should feel much better if I could go over there into the swirl and smash it out for myself. You see if I could win out alone and pay back the seat price, and then make a pile for myself, if you felt later like giving me another chance to come into the firm, then I should not be laying myself open to the charge of being a mere pensioner on your friendship. You know what I mean, sir, and won't think I am filled with any low-down pride, but if you will let me have the price of a stock exchange seat on my note, and will give me the chance, when I get the hang of the ropes, to handle some of the firm's orders, I shall be just as much beholden to you and Jim, sir, and shall feel a lot better myself."

I knew what Bob meant; so did father, and we were glad enough to do what he asked, father insisting on making the seat price in the form of a present, after explaining to us that a foundation stock exchange rule prohibited an applicant from borrowing the seat price. Four years after Bob Brownley entered the stock exchange he had paid back the forty thousand, with interest, and not only had a snug fifty thousand to his credit on Randolph & Randolph's books, but was sending home six thousand a year while living up to, as he jokingly put it, "an honest man's notch." I may say in passing, that a Wall street man's notch would make twice six thousand yearly earnings cast an uncertain shadow at Christmas time. Bob was the favorite of the exchange, as he had been the pet at school and at college, and had his hands full of business 300 days in the year. Besides Randolph & Randolph's choicest commissions, he had the confidential orders of two of the heavy plunging cliques.

I had just passed my thirty-second birthday when my kind old dad suddenly died. For the previous six years I had been getting ready for such an event; that is, I had grown accustomed to hearing my father say: "Jim, don't let any grass grow in getting the hang of every branch of our business, so that when anything happens to me there will be no disturbance in the Street in regard to Randolph & Randolph's affairs. I want to let the world know as soon as possible that after I am gone our business will run as it always has. So I will work you into my directorships in those companies where we have interests and gradually put you into my different trusteeships."

Thus at father's death there was not a ripple in our affairs and none of the stocks known as "The Randolph's" fluttered a point because of that, to the financial world, momentous event. I inherited all of father's fortune other than four millions, which he divided up among relatives and charities, and took command of a business that gave me an income of two millions and a half a year.

Once more I begged Bob to come into the firm.

"Not yet, Jim," he replied. "I've got my seat and about a hundred thousand capital, and I want to feel that I'm free to kick my heels until I have raked together an even million all of my own making; then I'll settle down with you, old man, and hold my handle of the plow, and if some good girl happens along about that time—well, then it will be 'An ivy-colored cot' for mine."

He laughed, and I laughed, too. Bob was looked upon by all his friends as a bad case of woman-shy. No woman, young or old, who had in any way crossed Bob's orbit but had felt that fascination, delicious to all women, in the presence of:

A soul by honor schooled,
A heart by passion ruled—

but he never seemed to see it. As my wife—for I had been three years married and had two little Randolphs to show that both Katherine Blair and I knew what marriage was for—never tired of saying, "Poor Bob! He's woman-blind, and it looks as though he would never get his sight in that direction."

"Then again, Jim," he continued in a tone of great seriousness, "there's a little secret I have never let even you into. The truth is I am not safe yet—not safe to speak for the old house of Randolph & Randolph. Yes, you may laugh—you who are, and always have been, as staunch and steady as the old bronze John Harvard in the yard, you who know Monday mornings just what you are going to do Saturday nights and all the days and nights in between, and who always do it. Jim, I have found since I have been over on the floor that the southern gambling blood that made by grandfather, on one of his trips back from New York, though he had more land and slaves than he could use, stake his land and slaves—yes, and grandmother's too—on a card game, and—lose, and change the whole face of the Brownley destiny—those same gambling microbes are in my blood, and when they begin to claw and gnaw I want to do something; and, Jim"— and the big brown eyes suddenly shot sparks—"if those microbes ever get unleashed, there'll be mischief to pay on the floor—sure there will!"

Bob's handsome head was thrown back; his thin nostrils dilated as though there was in them the breath of conflict. The lips were drawn across the white teeth with just part enough to show their edges, and in the depths of the eyes was a dark-red blaze that somehow gave the impression one gets in looking down some long avenue of black at the instant a locomotive headlight rounds a curve at night.

Twice before, way back in our college days, I had had a peep at this gambling tempter of Bob's. Once in a poker game in our rooms, when a crowd of New York classmates tried to run him out of a hand by the sheer weight of coin. And again at the Pequot house at New London on the eve of a varsity boat race, when a Yale crowd shook a big wad of money and taunts at Bob until with a yell he left his usually well-leaded feet and frightened me, whose allowance was dollars to Bob's cents, at the sum total of the bet cards he signed before he cleared the room of Yale money and came to with a white face streaming with cold perspiration. These events had passed out of my memory as the ordinary student breaks that any hot-blooded youth is liable to make in like circumstances. As I looked at Bob that day, while he tried to tell me that the business of Randolph & Randolph would not be safe in his keeping, I had to admit to myself that I was puzzled.

"Jim If Those Microbes Ever Get Unleashed, There'll be Mischief to Pay on the Floor."

I had regarded my old college chum not only as the best mentally harnessed man I had ever met, but I knew him as the soul of honor, that honor of the old story-books, and I could not credit his being tempted to jeopardize unfairly the rights of property of another. But it was habit with me to let Bob have his way, and I did not press him to come into our firm as a full partner.

Five years later, during which time affairs, business and social, had been slipping along as well as either Bob or I could have asked, I was preparing for another sit-down to show my chum that the time had now come for him to help me in earnest, when a queer thing happened—one of those unaccountable incidents that God sometimes sees fit to drop across the life-paths of His children, paths heretofore as straight and far-ahead visible as highways along which one has never to look twice to see where he is traveling; one of those events that, looked at retrospectively, are beyond all human understanding.

TIED FOR SECOND PLACE

Y. M. C. A. and Clinton Ave- in Same Position as Result of Saturday's Game.

THE SCORE WAS 4 TO 2

Local Team Scores All Its Runs in the Sixth Inning—Big Contest Next Saturday.

As a result of the game on Crescent Oval, Saturday, between Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains, these nines are now tied for second place, giving Clinton Avenue the lead by a small margin. Prior to Saturday, Clinton Avenue and the 'Plains were tied for first position, but the association boys accomplished their fondest hopes and humbled the pride of the ambitious aggregation from down-the-line, winning by a score of 4 to 2.

White there was some loose playing at one or two stages, the general work of the players was above the average and a large crowd witnessed a contest full of ginger and furnishing plenty of excitement. A strong wind swept the field, making fielding difficult, yet but few errors were recorded in consequence.

The local team scored all its four runs in the sixth inning, after two men were out. Ralph Schoonmaker foul-flied to Alberts, Craig drew a pass, after which Nelson went out to first on a sacrifice. George Dupee then delighted the supporters of the team, when he dropped a ball in center field behind second base, advancing Craig to third. Payne was likewise lucky in drawing a pass and stealing second, when Marsh followed with an infield hit which was fumbled by G. Frentz, allowing him to reach first, and bringing Craig and Dupee home. Gilmore, the next batter, was right there with the goods, driving the ball into the outfield far enough to score Payne and Marsh. Minford then flied out to center field, retiring the side, but giving the team the game.

Minford pitched a fine game throughout, allowing but four hits and striking out ten batsmen. He was caught by Nelson in faultless style. Frentz was not nearly so steady or effective. He generously gave the home team seven passes and five hits. The 'Plains team scored its two runs in the third inning on two errors, one by Craig and another by Dupee, who failed to hold fast a fly ball in his territory. He had a long run and just barely touched the leather with his hands.

The visitors negotiated two fast couble plays, the first being made by Baldwin and G. Frentz and the other by Reick and G. Frentz. The home team was credited with five errors, but they were not so costly.

On Saturday the Y. M. C. A. will meet Clinton Avenue at the Oval, when they will try to lower the colors of the leaders. The game should attract the biggest crowd of the season.

DUNELLENITES WIN FROM RARITAN B. C.

CLOSE GAME DECIDED FOR HOME TEAM IN EIGHTH INNING.

It was nip and tuck for nine innings at Dunellen Saturday afternoon, when the local nine met the Crescent team from Raritan. The score see-sawed for eight innings but in their session with the stick in the next to the last period, the Dunellenites hit safely twice and by clever base running and an error by their opponents, clinched the game by scoring three runs.

Loizeaux, the Plainfield High School backstop, was at the receiving end for the Dunellenites. His playing was the feature of the game, his catching of foul flies and his good wing to catch men at second would have done credit to a major leaguer. He hit safely three times. Other features were a one-handed jumping catch by Schaub, robbing Giles of a sure homer. Dodwell got a pretty assist when he caught Burscher at the plate with a wing from deep right.

Murphy was steadily consistent in the box for the locals, but received poor support, the error column of the Dunellenites totaling to seven. He retired in the eighth, in favor of Russell, who fanned two men in the final session.

Thousand Fans Mob Umpire.

Incensed by his decisions, the spectators at yesterday's game between the Newark and Jersey City Eastern League teams at Newark attempted to mob umpire Sullivan at the end of the contest. Newark was beaten, and the crowd, numbering a thousand persons, swarmed on to the diamond. A body guard of police was necessary to save Sullivan from bodily injury. Robert Cushman, sixteen years old, of No. 124 Monmouth street, and Joseph Sacks, twenty-three years old, of No. 119 Monmouth street, attempted to punch Sullivan, and they were arrested.

Highlanders Defeat Scott's.

The Highlanders, of Highland Park, defeated a team from Scott's Fress Works, Saturday afternoon by a score of 9 to 4. Wunderlich and Curtis formed the battery for the Highlanders, and Stolts and Roseberry for the losing team.

EAST PLAY ON COURTS

Large Gallery Watches the Matches at the Plainfield Country Club

THE RESULTS IN DETAIL

Semi-Finals Next Saturday—Barlow-Eaton Match Was a Feature of Play.

Match play in the Plainfield Country Club tennis tournament for the singles title of this city went to the semi-final round at the club courts Saturday afternoon, W. F. Righter, of the Country Club, W. B. Cragin, the Elizabeth Town and Country Club player who is spending the summer here, and Will Barlow, of the Park Club, winning their day's matches. The fourth man will be the winner of the match between Will Glenney and W. H. Merrihew, which has not yet been played. The winner of this will meet W. B. Cragin in the semi-finals next Saturday, and the other match in the semi-finals will be between W. F. Righter and Will Barlow.

There was some fast tennis in the opening rounds of the tournament Saturday and a good-sized gallery of the club members witnessed the play. The best tennis of the day was the Barlow-Eaton match in the second round. Barlow took the match in straight sets, but the games see-sawed in deuce sets to 10-8 and 11-9. The play was marred by the strong down court breeze, which made the lobbing deceptive and at times raised a dense cloud of dust.

Match play between the four survivors will decide the title Saturday afternoon. The finals will be best three out of five sets. The winner will receive a handsome silver trophy cup, offered by T. M. Day, chairman of the tennis committee at the club and the club is to award a silver cup to the runnerup. Saturday's matches:

Preliminary round—W. Glenney beat W. Brown, 3-6, 6-2, 8-6; J. Martin won his place from W. Kenney by default; W. F. Righter beat H. Brown, 6-2, 6-3.

First round—W. B. Cragin beat W. Bourse, 6-0, 6-1; H. J. Cochran beat H. Foster, 6-4, 6-3; W. H. Merrihew beat W. Otterson, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2; W. F. Righter beat E. Daniels, 6-2, 3-6, 8-6; H. Carter beat A. Lovell, 6-2, 6-3; W. Barlow beat P. Brown, 6-1, 6-0; H. Eaton beat W. Campbell, 6-1, 6-1.

Second round—W. B. Cragin beat H. J. Cochran, 6-3, 6-3; W. Glenney and W. H. Merrihem did not play; W. F. Righter beat H. Carter, 6-4, 6-1; W. Barlow beat H. Eaton, 10-8, 11-9.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Newark Eastern League team is travelling a fast pace these days, and the attendance at the home games show that Newark is willing to support a winning team.

Plainfield A. C. Wins.

The Plainfield A. C. defeated the Tiger A. C. by a score of 3 to 2 on the Johnston Avenue Oval, Saturday afternoon. The feature of the game was Coriell's pitching, who struck out eleven men in five innings. Home runs were made by Denlinger and Luthman.

West Ends, 8; Harrison A. C., 6.

The Harrison A. C. was defeated by the West Ends on the Clinton Avenue grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 8 to 6.

ARMY REGISTER.

22nd Infantry Ordered to Alaska—Captain Horn's Furlough.

The 22nd U. S. Infantry now stationed in California, has received orders to relieve the 10th Infantry stationed at Alaska. Two officers of the 22nd, Captain Chauncey Humphrey, now on leave of absence visiting at the home of O. T. Waring, and Lieut. E. L. Bull, son of Charles P. Bull, of East Ninth street, are Plainfielders.

Captain Tieman L. Horn, 3d Field Artillery, of the regular army, has been granted two months leave of absence, a part of which will be spent in Plainfield.

One person was received on confession at the communion service held at Faith chapel, yesterday.

MORSE GETS JULY CUP

Winner of Trophy Offered in a Park Golf Club Tournament.

COUNTRY CLUB IS DULL

Many of the Players Out of Town and Few Scores Are Posted—The Results in Detail.

The weekly competitions for the President's, Golf Club and final contest for the July cup, at the Park Golf Club on Saturday made several changes in the standing for these trophies. Charles B. Morse was the winner for the July cup with a total of 13½ points. He also has a total of 11 points for the President's cup, while Rev. J. O. McKelvey still holds the lead for the Golf Club cup with 10 points.

The points for the President's cup were won on Saturday by E. A. Lyon, a newcomer, with a net score of 86; A. W. Kenworthy and Charles B. Morse, while Mr. Morse, F. A. Hubbard and Reuben Knox won the points for the golf club trophy.

These scores were returned for the three trophies:

E. A. Lyon, 116, 30—86; A. W. Kenworthy, 106, 18—88; Charles B. Morse, 102, 12—90; R. V. Carpenter, 117, 26—91; J. B. Betts, 121, 30—91; Reuben Knox, 104, 13—91; W. V. Byard, 107, 15—92; F. A. Hubbard, 103, 10—93; Nelson A. Miller, 115, 19—96.

There was a notable absence of golfers at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, a majority of the members being out of town on their vacations. In consequence but few returned scores in the weekly competitions, for the Golf Committee, Green Committee and Scratch cups. George Schoonmaker won first honors for the Golf Committee cup with a net score of 78, and his gross score of 84 won for him a leg on the Scratch cup. These scores were posted for the Golf Committee cup:

George Schoonmaker, 84, 6—78; Frank O. Reinhart, 79, 0—79; W. D. Riggs, 87, 7—80; W. Lester Glenney, 81, plus 1—82.

There were but two scores returned for the Green Committee cup. James P. Murray winning first honors with a net score of 87. The scores:

James P. Murray, 98, 11—87; Harry Williams, 123, 27—98.

Harry Williams, who returned such a low score a week ago, showed a decided reversal of form on Saturday, requiring 123 strokes for the eighteen holes. His handicap of 27 did not help him greatly with his net score.

E. R. Perkins won from J. A. Worth, 5 up and 4 to play, in the play-off for the Governor's cup competition at the Westfield Golf Club, Saturday afternoon. Thirty-six holes were played. No events are scheduled at the club until August 17, when the qualifying round will be played for the club championship.

PERTH AMBOY WANTS BATTLESHIP NEW JERSEY.

Governor Is Asked to Have State's Silver Service Presented to War Vessel There.

Sea Girt, July 29.—Dr. Frank Crowther, who resigned his seat in the Assembly to become a member of the Middlesex County Tax Board, brought before the Governor here at the State camp Saturday a delegation of Perth Amboy citizens. The Governor shook hands with them all around, took them into the big reception-room of the cottage and then looked at them with that quizzical look of his, as much as to say: "What do you want now?"

Dr. Crowther hastened to explain that the delegation was made up of leading citizens of Perth Amboy, who wanted him to get the United States battleship New Jersey ordered to Perth Amboy when the State was ready to present to the ship the $10,000 silver service which is now in the vaults of the State treasurer at Trenton. Then Dr. Crowther let go one of his floods of eloquence, told the Governor what an important place Perth Amboy was, the depth of water in the harbor, more than enough to let the New Jersey in, and dwelt upon the historical associations surrounding the old port of entry.

The Governor said that he would do what he could to have the request granted.

Phonograph at Camp.

Albert V. Utzinger, of Grandview avenue, left this morning for Monticello, N. Y., where he will spend his two weeks vacation.

MAYOR PLEADS WITH AUTOISTS.

Asks Reckless Drivers to Use More Care and Commends Careful Chauffeurs.

Acting Mayor Vreeland, of Summit, has determined to stop the reckless speeding of automobiles in that city, and he has accordingly issued an appeal to users of motor cars. After requesting co-operation with the police department, to the end that careless and reckless driving of machines on the streets of that city cease, he adds:

"To the careful drivers I want to express, on behalf of our citizens and myself, our appreciation for their observance of the law and rights of others. To the reckless drivers, I would warn them that it must cease at once. The warning given by the police, that they drive carefully, having been ignored, no further appeal or warning will be given, but effective measures will be taken to punish them."

PERSONAL.

Stryker Hoagland, of Linden avenue, and Carl Steiner, of Jackson avenue, the latter for several years a Daily Press carrier, left this morning for Lake Hopatcong, where they will spend their vacation in camp.

Miss Edith May Johnson, of Bayonne, daughter of Charles Johnson, is spending a part of her vacation with her father at his home, 103 Duer street. Miss Johnson is with the Postal Telegraph Company as one of their bookkeepers in its New York office.

Mrs. F. W. Morse, of Central avenue, accompanied by a friend, Miss Ella Warren, of South Nyack, N. Y., left today for Old Orchard, Maine, to attend the annual summer meeting of the Christian Missionary Alliance. They will remain in Maine during the entire month of August.

CORTLANDT PARKER DEAD

Nestor of State Bar Known as "The Grand Old Man of New Jersey."

DISTINGUISHED IN LAW

Declined Ambassadorships to Russia and Austria—Active in Hayes-Tildon Dispute.

Cortland Parker, Nestor of the Jersey bar, and first citizen of the State, died at his home, in Newark, last night, at the age of 89 years. His death was due to decline resulting from old age.

Mr. Parker had been ill for several weeks. With the coming of the hot weather, about a month ago, the "grand old man," as he was known among the lawyers of the State, became slowly weaker, until he was unable to appear at the office where his attendance has been as regular as that of his two sons. Hopes were at first entertained for his recovery, but gradually these were abandoned and the family could do nothing but await the end.

With Mr. Parker closes a chapter of legal life that cannot be duplicated in the State. Among his contemporaries were Chancellors Pennington and Haines, Governor-Chancellors Sourthard and Seeley, Chancellors Halsted, Williamson, Henry W. Green, Zabriskie, Runyon and McGill, Chief Justices Green, Whelpley, Beasley, Magie and Depue. He began his career before the fourth volume of the New Jersey Equity was published, and was continuing it almost to the time of his death. His practise began under the constitution of 1776, continued to thrive under the Constitution of 1844, and was still increasing at the time of the amendments of 1875.

During his membership of the bar sixty-seven students have read law in his offices. Most of these men have made names for themselves since leaving him, but one and all of those living have remained his friends.

At the dinner given in his honor a year or more ago by the Jersey Bar Association, members both from this State and from New York gathered to do him honor. One of the speakers at that time said that after all his sixty-six years of professional life he still was as young as the youngest. At 85 years old he still rode his horse through the streets of Newark and his interest in political issues never wavered as his age advanced.

Among his closest friends he numbered some of the greatest in the land, the name of General Grant being one of the first on the list, while General Philip Kearney occupied almost the place of a brother in his affections.

Political office had little attraction for Mr. Parker, although almost every post of honor at the disposal of the State was offered him he preferred to be a lawyer, first, last and all the time. Ambassadorships were declined by him, and the mention of his name for the United States Senatorship brought forth no effort in his part to secure the position.

Though opposed to holding office, Mr. Parker was always at the service of his State and country, and when called upon by President Grant to take a commission which carried with it more responsibility than thanks, accepted it as a duty.

The death of Cortland Parker is not only a severe loss to the bar of Newark and New Jersey, of which he was the oldest member, but also to this community, for as a citizen he took an active part in all movements which had for their object the progress of the city and the betterment of all the inhabitants. He was a charitable man, especially to veterans of the Civil War who were in need and to their families.

As a churchman he ranked high in the council of the Episcopal church of this diocese, and when he spoke at diocesan conventions he was listened to with deep respect. He wrote able communications to newspapers for many years, criticising what he considered wrong in the acts of public officials and bodies and corporations. He was tall and erect as an Indian to the last, and many people thought he was very proud. But is was a natural dignity, and when one got to know him well they found a genial, sociable and lovable nature, a man who would drop his work to do a person a favor.

Bridge Work Progressing.

The work of putting in the second section of the new Park and Watchung avenue bridges was started yesterday, and it is expected that it will be completed the last of the week or the first of next. This section is for the main westbound track, the freight and coal tracks having been changed a week ago. A large gang of men started this morning raising the main westbound tracks eight inches in front of the Westbound station.

2D REGIMENT AT WORK

Soldier Boys on the Sea Girt Rifle Range to Qualify in Marksmanship.

MARTIN WINS PRAISE

Major Congratulated On His Record at Creedmore Ranges—Holds Highest Score.

It had been planned by General D. S. Collins after a talk with Captain Roymand Sheldon, of the Eighteenth Infantry, the United States army officer detailed to the Sea Girt camp, to have the guardsmen undergo training in the science of war as practiced by the regulars.

Under conditions almost ideal with the exception of the discomforture caused by a drizzling rain, members of the First battalion, Second regiment, began work on the rifle ranges yesterday morning, in order to qualify the regiment in marksmanship. With very few exceptions the cards returned in showed excellent scoring on the 200-yard range. Yesterday afternoon work on the 300-yard range was begun. By this time a heavy mist had settled down on the range, and good marksmanship was difficult. However, the scoring was excellent, in view of the fact that it was difficult to see the targets plainly.

The Second battalion will occupy the ranges today, while tomorrow the Third, or Trenton battalion, will take its turn at sharpshooting.

Major William B. Martin, of the Second battalion, is receiving the congratulations of his brother officers over a remarkable record he made on the Creedmore ranges, New York, last week. Last Friday, Major Martin began shooting in the Roe long range re-entry match, and right off the reel made a run of 13 consecutive bulls-eyes. He turned in three cards aggregating a score of 103 out of a possible 105. Two of these cards were for a perfect score of 35 points each. His total score of 103 establishes a record for the match. The best record made previous to the Jerseyman's recent score was made by Lieutenant K. K. V. Casey, then of the 71st New York, who, in 1904, made a total of 102 points.

Major Martin also holds the distinction of making the highest score ever made with a military rifle. In 1904 while qualifying for the All-American team to compete for the Palma trophy, he made a score of 73 at the 800; 72 at the 900, and 68 at the 1,000-yard ranges. His total of 213 out of a possible 225 stands undefeated.

Another record held by Major Martin is his record of 24 consecutive bulls-eyes at 1,000 yards, made on the Sea Girt ranges in the Hayes match in 1905.

Percy Vail, of Co. K, spends most of his time sending souvenir postal cards to friends, while Albert Tranchand is said to be compiling a book on "Military Tactics." "Cuby" Apgar is the Beau Brummell and wherever he is seen a member of the gentler sex is always by his side. Private Sampson has not been selected as an aide to the Governor but his friends say that the appointment is awaiting him at the regimental postoffice.

FREEHOLDERS RECEIVE BIDS FOR BRIDGE REPAIR WORK.

Somerset Members Fail To Appear and They Cannot Be Opened.

The bridge committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders met at the Hotel Iroquois, yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of receiving bids and awarding the contract for iron work on the Watchung avenue and Grove street county line bridges. The members from Somerset County Board of Freeholders did not appear and nothing could be done at the time. The matter will probably be decided at a meeting of the Union County Board members at Elizabeth this afternoon.

Two bids for the work were received yesterday, one from the New Jersey Structural Company, and the other from the W. T. Kirk Iron Company, both of this city. They were not opened at the time they were received and the figures are not known.

Will Tell of Mission Work.

R. Dalzell Schoonmaker, of Central avenue, who is principal of Glen Alpine Springs School, in the south, and who is spending a few weeks at his home, will speak at the prayer meeting in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, tomorrow night, telling of his mission work.

COMING FOR PRISONERS

Sheriff Lawrence is on Way With Requisition Papers for "Black Hand" Men.

PENNA. GOVERNOR ACTS

Lobianco and Novetta Leaders in a Gang of Forty Desperadoes—Accused of Crimes.

Chief Kiely received word from Newcastle, Pa., today that representatives of Sheriff Waddington would reach Plainfield this afternoon with all necessary papers for the securing of Lobianco and Novetta, the Black Hand men being held at headquarters. Some delay has been occasioned in getting the signatures of Governor Stuart and other officials to the documents, otherwise the prisoners would have been claimed yesterday. Lobianco and Novetta will at once be taken to Newcastle, Lawrence county, to stand trial with others of the band who were captured before them.

According to latest information received from the Pennsylvania city, the number of arrests in this particular gang of desperadoes now numbers forty. Thirty-five of these are merely "members," but the remainder, including the two caught in Plainfield, are leaders. The most important arrests were made in this city, Lima, O., Youngstown, O., Sharon, Pa., and Rochester, N. Y. A dozen murders and innumerable robberies are said to have been committed by the band.

The breaking-up of the gang is credited to the activity of County Detective Creighton G. Logan, of Lawrence county; Chief W. W. McDowell, of Youngstown, O., and the Pinkerton detectives, who were employed by the United States Steel Corporation. One of the murders, it is said, was committed by a boy nineteen years old, who boasted of the fact that he was a member of the Black Hand when arrested. The gang was firmly entrenched and has been working unmolested for years. Its headquarters were at Hillville, Pa., a few miles from Newcastle, where one of the Steel Corporation's largest quarries is located.

ZELAYA AND HIS BRIDE TO GO TO NICARAGUA

FORMER STUDENT OF CEDARCROFT A SON OF A PRESIDENT.

Alphonso Zelaya, son of President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, who was a student for some time at the Cedarcroft School, and who has been more or less in the public eye since he was kidnapped about two years ago while he and his bride, then the beautiful Marguerite Baker, were sitting in the parlor of a boarding-house in Washington, planning their wedding, will leave for Nicaragua as soon as Mrs. Zelaya recovers from an operation, which she underwent a few days ago in Columbia Hospital, Washington.

At the time that their elopement and marriage were upset, Zelaya, before sailing, telegraphed Miss Baker to have faith in him and he would return to make her his wife. He came back in six months, and carried out his promise. Shortly afterward Mrs. Zelaya gave out a statement that instead of being the daughter of Dr. Baker, of the postoffice department, as supposed, she was Margaret Lee, daughter of Sidney Smith Lee, of the famous Virginia family. Her mother was a beautiful Spanish woman, it is was said, from whom Mrs. Zelaya inherited a fascinating Spanish accent. Mrs. Zelaya has never met her father-in-law, the chief executive of Nicaragua.

The couple will probably sail for South America in September.

Veteran Employees' Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Veteran Employees' Association, of the New Jersey Central, whose membership is composed exclusively of employees of the company who have been in the continuous service of that corporation for thirty years and more, will be held at Bayonne the second week in September, the exact day not having as yet been fixed by the officers of the association, who are composed of George H. Frech, superintendent of the Southern Division, president; J. M. Shannon, secretary and treasurer and Samuel Phipps, J. A. Haynes and A. F. Shedd, executive cimmittee.

Will Reside in Maryland.

Clifford Schorb and family, of Craig place, left yesterday for Cumberland, Md., where they will reside in the future. Mr. Schorb holds a responsible position with a Board of Underwriters in that city and has been there for some time.

ANOTHER FRESH AIR CAMP

Rev. Dr. A. B. Moldenke, of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, N. Y., Starts New Charity.

FOR PARISH CHILDREN

New Camp Now In Course of Construction Near Watchung.—Concrete Building for Campers.

Plainfield is soon to have another fresh air camp. The younger children of the Sunday school of St. Peter's German Lutheran church at 54th street and Lexington avenue, N. Y. will be provided with an annual two weeks' outing, in the Watchung mountains near Watchung village. The charity is the plan of Rev. Dr. A. B. Moldenke, who is pastor of the church in New York city. He saw the conditions among the poor in his parish and has planned for this summer camp, where the children may be taken in delegations of fifty, for a few weeks of out-door life on the mountain.

It was planned to have the camp completed for use this summer, but there has been so much delay in the transportation of building materials to the site selected, that it is hardly possible that it will be ready for use while the warm weather lasts. Unlike so many of the mountain camps for charity, the little Lutheran parishioners will not live in tents. Under the supervision of D.. Richard Moldenke, a permanent building is being erected of concrete blocks. It is now well under way. The structure measures 30 by 60 feet and is about 20 feet in height. It rests on concrete piers, and is so constructed that a second story may be added if need be. The building will serve as dormitory and play room, and the meals for the children will also be cooked and served there. The camp will open with this single building, but others will be constructed if necessary.

The camp is situated on the summit of the second mountain, near Watchung village. It is located on a tract of 150 acres owned by Dr. Moldenke, who lives at "The Castle," on the Valley road, Watchung. There is an excellent mountain spring near the camp building and a large tract of farm land directly adjourns, where it is planned to raise vegetables for table use at the camp. Several of the New York parishioners have pledged groceries and supplies for use at the camp when it opens. A field directly adjourning the camp building will be turned into a playground, where swings are to be placed and where there is to be a sand pavilion and a ball ground for the children. Several of the women of the New York praish will act as caretakers for the children.

In speaking to a Daily Press Reporter about the camp last evening, Dr. Richard Moldenke said: "The idea is my brother's. He has seen so much need for just such a camp among the children of St. Peter's Sunday-school that we have decided to use some of our land on the mountain, so that those who are top poor to have any vacation during the summer may be brought to Plainfield to spend two weeks in the country air. I am much disappointed that the camp may not be completed for use this season, but we have had that trouble about getting our building materials to the site."

TWO MEN CHARGED WITH ATROCIOUS ASSAULT

RARITAN PAIR HELD UNDER $600 BAIL PENDING GRAND JURY'S ACTION.

County Detective Totten, of Somerville, yesterday arrested Michael Daniels and John Kovacs, of Raritan, on a charge of atrocious assault preferred by Sebastian and Joseph Sheikula. Justice Kitchen held the men in $600 bail for the action of the Grand Jury.

The Sheikulas were playing pool in George Kovacs' saloon at Raritan, Saturday night. The crowd thought they were monopolizing the table and tried to get possession, with the result that a fight ensued. The Sheikula brothers were severely cut on the head by cues said to have been wielded by the prisoners. One of the men held will prefer counter charges against the Sheikulas for injuries sustained.

"Local Option League" Now.

Believing that the name "New Jersey Civic Federation" might confuse the newly formed organization of anti-saloon leaguers with the State organization now petitioning for a constitutional prohibition amendment, the local organization will henceforth be known as the Local Option League.

SMITH WILLING TO RETIRE

County Chairman Will Quit Position if Decided Opposition is Made to Him.

NEVER SOUGHT THE JOB

Says He Holds the Office Because He Believes It a Duty He Owes to the Party.

Expressing his willingness to retire from the office should his continuance in that position cause dissatisfaction in the ranks of the party, County Chairman Frank H. Smith, the right hand man of United States Senator John Kean and the latter's brother, former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean, declared today that the amendment to the body's by-laws whereby a person who is not a member of the committee may hold the office of chairman was not intended for his special benefit. "Silent" Smith, as he is known in political circles in Union county, stated to a reporter for the Daily Press this morning that the change was made in good faith and was not intended as a subterfuge, although the New Idea people have "smelled a rat" in the amendment as passed.

"If they are going to make a fight against me," said the county chairman, "I am perfectly willing to quit the job if that will insure harmony within the ranks. The only reason that I hold the position is that I feel that I owe it to the party to do any work that may be assigned to me inasmuch as I earn my living in politics. As I hold the office of county register I believe that I should perform any task that I am capable of for the party's sake and I have always tried to do my duty in that respect."

"The county chairmanship," continued Mr. Smith, "is no sinecure; it means hard work and ever-increasing responsibility. I did not seek the place and never will. The majority of the committee selected me for the position and as an office-holder it was my duty to accept. Now if there is any sentiment against me continuing in office, I will gladly step down and out and will work just as hard under any other leader whom the county may select."

NINETY AND NINE SAY THEY ARE GUILTLESS

EACH ALLEGED OFFENDING SALOONKEEPER HELD IN $200 BAIL.

There were "Ninety and Nine" Elizabeth saloon-keepers, charged with Sunday violations of the excise law, arraigned in the Union County Court, this morning, due to the activity of the Grand Jury. It was an unusual sight, and everyone of the accused had his friends present to watch the proceedings. They were short, however, for each one entered a plea of not guilty and was held in $200 bail for the October term of court.

The Elizabeth Excise Board yesterday afternoon fixed August 15 as the date for hearing sixty-seven saloon-keepers charged with having violated the excise laws. This makes in all more than 100 cases which will come up for trial before the board, the first batch of about thirty-five being scheduled for August 1.

With the ninety-nine saloon-keepers arraigned in court this morning, and the 100 cases before the Excise Board, the liquor question promises to be the most important topic of conversation in Elizabeth for the next few months, as it has in the last few weeks.

Merchants Adopt Half-Holiday.

The question of the merchants closing their stores Saturday afternoon during the month of August is again being agitated and this time with some success. Among those who have decided to close at 1 o'clock on Saturday during August are J. W. Gavett, S. C. Peck, Powlison & Jones. The dry goods merchants are also considering the proposition and it is believed that they will close at 1 o'clock. It is argued that the merchants in other cities the size of Plainfield have been successful in the adoption of this summer rule and many local merchants are enthusiastic about following it.

Will Argue For Receiver.

William A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, went to Trenton, this morning, to answer to the rule returnable there today as to why a receiver should not be appointed for the Siche Gas Company, which is declared to be insolvent. Mr. Coddington's action is in behalf of his client, George Maurer, an officer and stockholder in the company.

GILFORD MAYER IS DEAD

Veteran Insurance Man Succumbs at the Age of Eighty-one Years.

A FORMER COUNCILMAN

Once Vestryman of Grace Church—A Fire Commissioner—Leaves Wife and Daughter.

Gilford Mayer, a well-known resident of this city for thirty-four years, died at 1 o'clock this afternoon at his home, 1023 Park avenue. During the past three years Mr. Mayer's health had been failing, and especially so in the last two weeks. On Saturday he had a congestive chill and since that time he lay in a semi-conscious condition until the end came this afternoon.

Mr. Mayer was born at Fort Plains, N. Y., in 1826. When a young man he went to New York. For forty years he was employed by the Phoenix Insurance Company, first in the marine department and the rest of the time in the fire department. Five years ago he was relieved by the company on a pension and since that time he lived in retirement.

During his residence in Plainfield he was always identified with the interests of the city. He was twice elected a member of the Common Council, and he also served for several years as a fire commissioner. In 1880, the members of Alert Hose Company, of which he was an officer, presented him with a handsome diamond badge in recognition of his faithful services as a fireman and commissioner. Mr. Mayer was a communicant of Grace church for a great many years and served as a vestryman. During the last few years of his life he was unable to take active part in church affairs on account of his failing health. If he had lived until August 20 next, he and Mrs. Mayer would have celebrated the fifty-seventh anniversary of their wedding. He was held in high esteem by a large number of friends and acquaintances both here and in New York.

Mr. Mayer is survived by a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Wheeler, of this city. Announcement of the funeral service will be made later.

WILLIAM McINTOSH NOW PRESIDENT OF A. R. M. M. A.

Successful Career of Superintendent of Motive Power of the New Jersey Central.

William McIntosh, of Myrtle avenue, superintendent of motive power of the New Jersey Central, who in June was elected president of the American Railway Master Mechanics' Association at the convention held recently in Atlantic City, has had a very successful career since he began railroading. Mr. McIntosh had held the office of vice-president of the association for the preceding year.

Mr. McIntosh has been in the railway service since 1864, his first employment being as locomotive fireman on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad. His advance since that time has been through machinist and locomotive engineer to foreman of locomotive repairs on the Chicago & Northwestern at Waseca, Minn., and Huron, S. D. This position he held for ten years, leaving in 1887 to become master mechanic on the same road at Winona, Minn. In March, 1899, he assumed his present position with the New Jersey Central.

The week at Netherwood.

Regular services will be conducted at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp tonight, Thursday and Friday evening. This evening Clarence H. Titus, of Roselle, will lead the meeting. Thursday evening Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-day Baptist church, will speak, and Friday evening, J. D. Loizeaux will be the leader. Saturday a delegation from the Epworth League and Christian Endeavor Union, of Elizabeth, will be at the camp in the evening and will provide the regular week end entertainment for the children.

A Bad Chimney Fire.

An alarm from box 84 was turned in shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for a chimney fire at the home of Charles Drake on West Third street, near Grant avenue. It required seven extinguisher to stop the trouble. The blowing of the gong made more excitement that the fire as the apparatus went wrong and their was one long toot. Afterward a wire broke and there was more tooting until repairs were made.

In the City Court.

Jeremiah Smith, colored, who was arrested Saturday night for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was released on suspended sentence in the city court this morning.

COP'S TALK IS EXPENSIVE

Counsel for Brothers Wanted for Assault Takes Advantage of His "Tip."

PRISONERS OUT ON BAIL

W. L. Hetfield, Jr., Uses Phoenixville Officer's Statement to Obtain Bail For His Clients.

Successfully warding off extradition for the time being, at least, Stephen and Joseph Kotyo, the brothers arrested in this city yesterday for felonious assault on an officer in Phoenixville, Pa., were released on $200 bail each by Judge Runyon, this morning. The amount was furnished by their cousin, John Sepelya, of Jackson avenue, Netherwood, at whose home they have been staying and where they were caught.

The two men, who are twenty-seven and twenty-five years old, engaged Francis J. Blatz and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., as counsel as soon as they were taken to headquarters. Late yesterday afternoon, Town Officer William H. Walters, of Phoenixville, arrived in this city and readily identified the prisoners. He did not have requisition papers with him but he counted on getting the men to go back with him by using a little persuasive power. Instead, it proved to thwart his purpose and was responsible for the light bail being fixed. Walters has known both men for years and after greeting them cordially through the cell bars, whispered confidentially.

"Say boys, you'd better go back with me and you'll get off easy. Steve Dabinsky, who did most of the cutting, was only fined $15."

The two Kotyos were inclined to accept the statement as a tip to return readily but when they told Counsellor Hetfield about it, the lawyer had his cue. He called for a hearing for this morning and when the matter was brought before Judge Runyon, he asserted that the affair for which the men were arrested wasn't regarded very seriously in Phoenixville, inasmuch as the chief offender had been caught and let off with a $15 fine. Walters attempted to deny that any such assertion had been made but when directed by the court to tell whether or not it was so he admitted the fact.

"But they're a bad set just the same, Your Honor," exclaimed the officer. "They pounced upon Night Watchman Steve Pougraczi and would have killed him but for interference. The trouble happened a week ago Saturday night and he is still kept at home."

Judge Runyon agreed with Counsellor Hetfield, however, that as the man who had wielded the knife in the affray had gotten off with a light fine the Kotyos should be released on small bail. He accordingly made the amount $200 for a term of thirty days.

Walters was greatly crestfallen after the proceedings but declared that he would proceed at once to Harrisburg and procure requisition papers from Governor Stuart.

"I'll get 'em in a jiffy and have these fellows back home," he exclaimed to Chief Kiely and newspapermen, "and I'll see that they get all that's coming to them. Steve and Joe belong to a bad crowd; only last winter they were mixed up in a murder affair at Norristown. Their bunch killed a policeman at a dance and they only got off for lack of evidence."

"That may be so," replied Plainfield's head sleuth, "but when you go after prisoners make sure you don't talk too much."

Capt. Humphrey Ordered to Kansas.

Captain Chauncey Humphrey, who is spending a six weeks' furlough at the home of his father-in-law, O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, has received order detaching him from the 22d U. S. Infantry, and upon the completion of his vacation to report at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, for higher military instructions. He expects to be located at Fort Leavenworth at least one year. Five other regular army officers have also received similar orders, it being only one of the many plans recently adopted by the Secretary of War to prepare the army for any trouble that may arise with any foreign nation.

Will Close Saturday Afternoon.

The first step toward an observance of the Saturday half-holiday here among the merchants of the city, has been taken by the hardware merchants, who announce that during August, they will close their stores at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoons. The change is made for the purpose of giving the clerks an opportunity to get away early and permit them to leave town for over Sunday if they desire.

Miss Dolly Burner, of Jackson avenue, has gone to Ocean Grove for a week's stay.

BAMBERGER'S
"THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE"
MARKET, HALSEY & BANK STS.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

We are justly proud of our mail order system. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger mail order system is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking effort. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly by mail as in person. There are no delays—no errors—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

Run Up from the Seashore to Attend the Last Day of the July Sale of Dependable Furniture!

A whole lot of people who are away from home may, in the midst of their gaieties, have overlooked this great movement of furniture. If such there be, we would strongly advise them to run up from the shore or down from the mountains to pick some of the plums that are ripe and ready in the Furniture Store.

Don't miss this really great opportunity to buy first-class furniture under price.

No sale in any of the New York Stores now or to be run in August compares with this sale, because no other store bases its furniture sales as we do, exclusively on regular lines, and makes its reductions from regular prices.

Remember that practically every piece of furniture in the house is offered this month at reduced prices—not less than ten per cent., and in many cases one-third to one-half being taken from the usual selling prices. Furniture for parlors, libraries, dining-rooms, bed chambers, dens and offices is here in extensive variety to choose from at these liberally reduced prices.

Tomorrow is the last day of this great sale, which has been most gratifying in its results, and we would say "hurry" to any one who has so far neglected this best of all furniture opportunities of the year.

All furniture and floor coverings, though reduced in price, may be bought on our popular Household Club Plan, making it easy to pay for what you get.

Portieres at Half.
Big Lots to be Closed Out.

Here are about 600 pairs of about as pretty portieres as you want to look at—all to be sold at only half price.

They are taken from our regular stock and are, therefore, of the most dependable makes but are in patterns that we cannot duplicate; therefore it is to our advantage to dispose of them at once.

Probably 125 patterns and a very large range of colorings are here to choose from—Velour and Tapestry Portieres; some fringed; some rope edge; others with fancy trimmings.

Former moderate prices were $3.50 to $225.00 a pair.
Special Prices will be $1.75 to $112.50.
Tapestry Portieres worth $3.50 to $20 at $1.75 to $10.
Velour Portieres, worth $30 to $55, at $15 to $27.50.
Silk Damask and Velour Portieres, worth $55 to $90, at $25.50 to $45.
Leather and Velour Portieres, worth $225.00, at $112.50.
Many other odd pieces to go just as cheaply.

Note—A reasonable deposit will secure these curtains for you until Fall when you are ready to put them up, and we will deliver when you say.

Mr. Listman started on his vacation from the association Saturday, intending to spent the month of August at his home in Connecticut.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Seward, Dalton, Bertwhistle, Henriquez, Leonard, O'Neil and Deegan, all local favorites, help to comprise a strong team that Manager Daab has gotten together this season.

The New York Giants lost two games to Cincinnati on Sunday, thereby helping Chicago to increase its lead for the National League pennant, a little bit, as the Chicagoes lost one game to Boston the same day.

The one game of greatest interest in the Inter-City Amateur League will be played at Crescent Oval, Saturday, when Clinton Avenue and Y. M. C. A. will clash in real earnest. Clinton Avenue now holds first place by a small margain, and the association boys are now tied with Scotch Plains for second place. If Y. M. C. A. wins Saturday it will tie them with Clinton Avenue for first place and make the race all the more exciting. All things considered the league race is a pretty one. Saturday's contest at the oval will be the last one between the association and Clinton Avenue nines.

The Laurels, of Bound Brook, and Scotch Plains will cross bats at the Plains on Saturday, and the latter will make the fight of their lives to win and thereby retain their present position in the league with a chance of winning out before the season closes.

GOLF.

After a brief period of inactivity the golfers will stir themselves again this week. The main attraction is the four-day tournament, open to amateurs and professionals, to be held over the Van Cortlandt Park public links, beginning today. The fact that the conditions provide for both classes will make this gathering rather out of the ordinary.

Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the national amateur champion, said last night that he was going to take part. Prominent among the other amateurs who have entered are Archie Graham, of North Jersey, runner-up in the recent national tournament at Cleveland; Findlay S. Douglas, of Nassau; Gilman P. Tiffany, the Hudson River champion; John M. Ward, of Fox Hills; Robert Abbott, of Plainfield; D. Borup, of Yale, and Oswald Kirkby, of Englewood. Up to date seventy-five entries have been received.

According to the conditions, the amateurs will compete at thiry-six holes medal play today, and the prediction has already been made that something unusually low is likely to be accomplished.

Beginning with tomorrow the professionals will appear on the scene to team up with the amateurs in a best ball handicap—that is, the handicap of the amateur will be deducted to ascertain the net total. Travers has arranged to play with Tom Anderson, the Montclair professional. Other pairs have not been announced as yet, although many of the prominent "pros" have signified their intention of being present.

They include Alec Ross, the national open champion; Alec Smith, the former title holder; George Low, the Metropolitan open champion; George Turnbull, Will Gaudin, Isaac Mackie, "Marty" O'Loughlin, Gilbert Nicholls, Herbert Strong, Dave Honeyman, Jack Mackie and Dave Hunter.

The part of the program which more directly concerns the professionals is the seventy-two holes of medal play scheduled for Thursday and Friday. In the open tournament there a year ago Alec Smith won first money. During the last week work on the course has been redoubled, so that the turf through the pairway and on the putting greens is in much better condition than usual.

Although he fears he is overgolfed, Travers has no notion of remaining idle. In fact, the national, metropolitan and New Jersey title holder has mapped out the busiest kind of a program from now until well into the fall. He has arranged to take part in a tournament to be held on the Maplewood Inn links, in Massachusetts, on August 6, 7 and 8. This affair is open to both amateurs and professionals, and Alec Smith will be among the "pros" on hand.

From Maplewood Travers intends to run over to Manchester, Vt., and compete in an open tournament at the Ekwanok Country Club. He won there a year ago. Travers does not know whether he will be able to make the Deal tournament or not. The dates for this are August 17 to 20. Gilman Tiffany won there last year.

Archie Graham is another of the leading metropolitan amateurs who does not intend to get out of practice. He plans to spend a little time at Spring Lake, and then go up to Lake Champlain, where he has been so successful in former years. Graham, however, hopes to get back this way for the Deal fixture. Neither he nor Travers will go to Canada.

Plainfield, N. J., July 30, 1907.

REGULATION NECESSARY.

Holding that it is impossible to control gas, electric light, water and street railway systems by mere competition, a committee of the National Civic Federation, which has made a thorough investigation of public utilities in the United States and England, reports that government regulation is necessary to protect the public from extortionate charges. Public ownership is also suggested as an effective remedy.

The committee's findings, briefly stated, are these:

"Public utilities, whether in public or private hands, are best conducted under a system of legalized and regulated monopoly.

"Public utilities in which the sanitary motive largely enters should be operated by the public.

"The success of municipal operation of public utilities depends upon the existence in the city of a high capacity for municipal government.

"Franchise grants to private corporations should be terminable after a fixed period and mean while subject to purchase at a fair value.

"Municipalities should have the power to enter the field of municipal ownership upon popular vote under reasonable regulation.

"Private companies operating public utilities should be subjected to public regulation and examination under a system of uniform records and accounts and of full publicity."

EFFICIENT POLICE.

While General Bingham is trying some of his men on charges of cowardice, the attention of the local public is attracted to the good work of Plainfield's protectors of the peace. It was only the other day, that the chief and the detective sergeant, at the risk of their lives, captured a quartette of Italians, two of whom are alleged to be the most notorious "Black Hand" desperadoes in the country. This capture was but one of a series of important arrests made by the department within a week. One Italian taken into custody by the detective-sergeant is being held pending the arrival of extradiction papers, the prisoner being wanted in New York to answer for murderous assault. Two Polaks, caught by the same officer and a patrolman, will be sent back to Pennsylvania as soon as extradition papers charging them with the same offense, are made out. Against the Black Hand men, it is said that indictments of murder and highway robbery will be brought as quickly as they are returned to the scene of their alleged crimes. verily, the Plainfield cop has become known as a terror to the evil-doer and those who commit crime will not be likely to seek shelter here where they know that there are no cowards to be found among the guardians of the law.

PRUDENTIAL'S DIRECTORS

Under Provision of New Law Chancellor Appoints Three Policy-Holders.

E. A. STEVENS NAMED

No Stockholder Eligible—Chancellor Magie Files a Lenghty Statement.

Chancellor Magie, acting under the power vested in him by a law passed by the recent Legislature, appointed yesterday Dr. Edward J. Ill and Isaac M. Poe, of Newark, and Col. Edwin A. Stevens, of Hoboken, directors of the Prudential Life Insurance Company. These men are policyholders in the company, but none of them is a stockholder. The law under which the men are appointed gives the Chancellor power to appoint three policyholders of the company, but no stockholder can be appointed.

"At the time application was made," the Chancellor said in a statement he filed, "I suggested three questions worthy of consideration on such an application. First was whether the power of appointment was conferred as a judicial function or as an administrative or executive function. The second was whether the power of the Legislature to alter or amend a charter extends to diminishing the interest of stockholders, by providing for the appointment as directors of persons who are not elected by the stockholders, although otherwise interested as policyholders, while the third was whether the implied power conferred on the Legislature by article 8, which was held sufficient to support the appointment of park commissioners as officers, extends to the appointment of directors, who, if officers, are not officers of the State, or of any municipality, but only of a private corporation.

"I thought it my duty to consider these questions because they may be applications for such appointment in other companies which will not consent as did the Prudential. With respect to the first question, I have reached the conclusion that the power is conferred on the Chancellor as an executive or administrative function. Having reached the conclusion, I think it clear that I ought not to pronounce any opinion on the other two questions.

"In making the appointments I am influenced by two considerations, first of which is the plain intent of the Legislature in passing this act that the office of Chancellor should make the appointment, and in deference to that intention, I ought to make it. The second consideration was that on the application being presented the head of the insurance company, representing the governing body of that company, and the counsel who appear for them, both agree to the appointments and desire them to be made."

SMOKERS

Do you know we have a fine line of goods, well selected, and properly kept?

Have you noticed the Hygrometers in the case? Tells us just the proper moisture all the time for the even keeping of our cigars. The old way—wet sponge in the case—cigars too wet one day, all dried out the next. Result, wrappers brittle, flavor spoiled. We have the finest case made for cigars.

All the old favorites—Glorias, Chesterfields, Thoroughbreds, Dru Murio, Black and White, Cuba-Roma, Lord Carver, Manuel Garcia's, and many others. Come in, and see our outfit.

Cigars always run even from

Every Girl Should Have a Pretty Foot

An illy fitted or badly shod foot detracts from the daintiness of the prettiest Summer gown. In the selection of my Summer Oxfords, I bought the snappiest Ties that the markets afforded, but at no time did I sacrifice quality to obtain style. You'll find every style, every leather and a size that will insure a perfect and comfortable fit, if you'll hurry along.

Remember, if Van Arsdale sells you Shoes you're well shod.

Special July Sale.

THERE ARE NOW LEFT BUT A FEW DAYS OF OUR SPECIAL JULY SALE OF SLIGHTLY USED UPRIGHT PIANOS, SQUARE PIANOS AND ORGANS.

During this sale we have been offering a large number of SLIGHTLY USED Upright Pianos which we have taken in exchange as part payment on our Euterpe Player-Piano and Mathushek & Son Upright and Grand Pianos.

The amount of our sales during these past two weeks have been unusually large and we could hardly expect them to be otherwise considering the quality and prices of the instruments offered.

There are particularly a number of fine Upright Pianos left to select from in various styles, woods and sizes.

If you have been considering the purchase of an instrument you should most certainly take advantage of this money-saving opportunity, decide the matter at once and enjoy the happiness of a beautiful Piano in your home.

THIS SALE ENDS ON WEDNESDAY EVENING AT 9 O'CLOCK.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The roads which have recently been repaired with a top dressing of stone, are in fine condition and might remain so if it were not for the constant hauling of coal.

Mr. Steengraafe was the first in this vicinity to have sweet corn for dinner yesterday. He started it in the hot bed in February and transplanted it in April.

Mrs. Harry Klinger, who has been taking care of her mother during a severe spell of illness, has returned to her home, in Jersey City.

Quite a number from here will accompany Marconnier chapel on its annual excursion to Asbury Park, on August 1.

Philip Smith pitched at Oneonta Park, New York city, and his team won the game.

Fred Lounsberry is making some improvements to his summer home here.

Mr. Lairlaw, who purchased the Foote farm, will soon take possession.

Mrs. Oscar Thorne has been entertaining out-of-town friends.

Victor Athlee will hereafter carry the papers.

JAPANESE FETE HELD BY LOCAL Y. W. C. A.

MISS PIERCE READS SELECTIONS WHICH ARE ILLUSTRATED.

Under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association, a Japanese fete was held at the rooms of the association, last night. The place was decorated with Japanese lanterns. Several members of the committee in charge were gowned as Japanese maidens and acted as hostesses during the evening. They looked as though they had just arrived from the flowery kingdom, but were much at home amid the natural decorations.

Miss Pierce read selections from "The Lady of the Decoration," a popular story about Japan, and the different parts were interpreted by the "Japapnese maidens" in clever fashion. They saluted the "decorated lady" from America, they followed her as she taught them the intricate American method of shipping and then they watched with openeyed wonder as the foreign woman greeted the hero from abroad who had come to take the lady home. Then they listened, and the audience listened, too, while another maiden from Japan, arriving late, sang over the teacupsp a charming little Japanese love song. It was found that one little foreign maiden was clever with the mandolin and she entertained the audience between times. Afterward the hostesses served lemonad and wafers.

This was the first general social affair at the association rooms and it proved most successful. Many more good times are promised in the near future. The secretary, Miss Tapping, will be absent for about two weeks. In the meantime various members will be at the rooms to receive those who call.

Liquor Made Him Profane.

Arthur Johnson, colored, who lives on New street, was arrested on Somerset street late last night by Roundsman Pope, of the borough force, because too much liquor had made him combative and violently profane. At his hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver this morning he was sentenced to seven days in a borough cell and fined $10. He is now serving his time and the ten spot hasn't showed up yet.

OBITUARY.

Edwin W. Schomp.

Edwin W. Schomp, the seven-year-old son of Frederick and Lucy Schomp, of Oxford place, died this morning after a week's illness with membraneous colitis. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Marguerite Wikoff.

Marguerite Wikoff, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wikoff, of West Fifth street, died yesterday afternoon after a brief illness with cholera infantum. The little one was five months and six days old. The funeral will be held at the parents' home and will be private.

DISTRICT COURT JUSTICE METED OUT WITH SPEED.

Short Session Today Because of Judge's Approaching Vacation.

District court cases were quickly disposed of at the regular session this morning. Judge William Newcorn, who left early this afternoon for two weeks at Atlantic City, arranged to have most of the cases postponed, and a dozen hearings, all of minor importance, were carried over until August 14. The six cases settled were claims for accounts outstanding and the two landlord and tenant cases, involving small amounts.

Evidence was taken in the contract case of Doremus vs. Park from a Jersey City witness, and the case was then laid over for two weeks. The amount involved is $300.

MAYOR FURBER FINED.

Ex-Judge Noonan Also Held Up By Metuchen Auto Patrol.

Mayor Furber, of Rahway, and Thomas Noonan, formerly a district court judge of Bayonne, were among those charged at Metuchen yesterday with exceeding the speed limit and fined by Recorder Weber.

Furber insisted that he had not violated the law and that he had always tried to enforce it, but the constable insisted that he had and he payed the fine. Noonan, being a lawyer, showed fight and demanded a hearing, which was set for tomorrow. Many other autoists were stopped and fined.

Hahn Investigator's Results.

Friction between Warden Hayes and Dr. Ward, medical director; thousands of dollars worth of supplies furnished to the institution yearly without advertising for bids; patients cleaning out the filthy night vessels of the typhoid patients in the same wash basin in which they were required to wash, and sensational testimony by Dr. J. Arthur McClintock, the New York bachterologists, were brought out by the Hahn investigating committee yesterday at the state house.

On the Job Again.

Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough police force, who has been on his annual vacation for the past ten days, resumed his active duties again today. He has been spending his time off mostly in town. Roundsman Lemuel Pope has been acting chief in Weiss' absence.

Colored Orphan's Concert.

The Jenkins' Orphan Band, of Charleston, S. C., will give a concert in Y. M. C. A. hall, Friday evening. The musicians are colored boys, who are touring the country to get funds to rebuild one of the buildings of their orphan asylum in the south, which was recently burned.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1907.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, NO. 1.

BE IT RESOLVED (the House of Assembly concurring), That the following amendment to the constitution of this State be and the same is hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendment shall be entered on their journals with the yeas and nays thereon, and referred to the Legislature next to be chosen, and published for three months prior to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next in at least one newspaper of each county, to be designated by the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Assembly and the Secretary of State.

Strike out the proviso in section three of article four, and insert in place thereof the following:

The Legislature shall, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine, and at its first session after each United States decennial census thereafter, and not oftener, divide and arrange the counties of this State into districts for the election therein of members of the General Assembly. Each assembly district so constituted shall contain, as nearly as practicable, an equal number of inhabitants, and shall consist of convenient and contiguous territory, in a compact form, provided that each county shall, at all times be entitled to at least one member, and the whole number of members to be chosen shall never exceed sixty.

The Court of Errors and Appeals is hereby invested with exclusive original jurisdiction and with full power under such procedure as it may by rules prescribe to review any division and arrangement made by the Legislature into assembly districts of the counties of this State for the purpose of determining whether such arrangement and division or any part thereof is in accordance or in conflict with this section, and if in conflict herewith, to adjudge the same, or such part thereof as may be in conflict herewith, null and void. In case said court shall determine such arrangement and division, or any part thereof, to be null and void, the Legislature shall proceed to make a new arrangement and division entire or partial, as the action of the court may require.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of May 27, 1869:

"MARRIAGE—Runyon - Runyon. In this city, at the 2nd Baptist church, May 20th, by the Rev. Chas. Young, Francis S. Runyon to Esther A. Runyon, all of this city."

From the issue of June 3, 1869:

"The Common Council met last night, but we have not heard what was done."

"The admirers of the humourous had a rare treat at Laing's Hall on Thursday evening last. Josh Billings with his 'Natral Histry' was there, and that is enough said. The way he expounded roosters, crows, goats, angleworms, snakes, cockroaches, monkeys, fleas, tree-toads, swine, hornets and 'velocipedes' was convulsive to hear. If laughter is better than physic, the sojourn of Josh in Plainfield for a few weeks would play havoc with the medical profession. He is a brick of the largest size and 'warranted for 60 days.'"

("Cherry Street).—Oh, Cherry street, how hast thou fallen since thou was macadamized. Thy gutters are bridged over, so that all thy filth and dead cats find a lodging place beneath them, creating a stench fearful to endure. Our Common Council are new beginners, and no doubt will do things right when they get the hang of it, but we hope they will begin on Cherry street, for it is a shame that such a thoroughfare should remain in so bad a condition."

"A horse came tearing up Second street on Monday morning last, and was captured and taken to Roselle's stables, where he was claimed after a short time by his owner, who lived near New Brooklyn, from which place the horse had broken away while plowing, and came on a visit to Plainfield."

"The trial trip of the new ferryboat 'Plainfield' will take place on Thursday, June 3d. She is a splendid boat, and we believe has been presented with a fine set of colors by some of the citizens of Plainfield."

"(New Jersey Boys Ahead.) At the New York University Law School commencement on Thursday the New Jersey students took all the honors. The degree of A. B. was conferred upon P. P. Good, of Plainfield."

"(Roll of Honor) of Plainfield Public School, for May:

Academic Department.

"Eva Hart, Carrie Mitchell, Laura Shangle, Lydia Stiger, Maggie Ball, Josie Runyon, Libbie Smith, Annie Day, Esther Gavett, Lydia Arnold, Allie Randolph, Kate McCarthy, Emma Bainbridge, Julia Scribner, Samuel S. Burr, Andrew J. Gavett, Perley H. Mason, Robert A. Meeker, Alfred J. Wilson, Furman N. Platt, Hugh M. Gilligan, Alfred A. Titsworth, Arauna M. Vail, Robert Radford, Craig Marsh, Millie Humpston, Mary Cole, Mary Bainbridge.

Intermediate Department.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Choicest meat at reasonable prices may be secured at the Grandview Meat Market, Somerset street. Wagon deliveries.

For a good cool smoke of superior blend imported tobaccoes, you can do no better than try a Nickle Yara cigar. Made by M. C. Dobbins, North avenue.

Don't lose the opportunity to have your house painted and papered and remember that Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, will do the work for you right.

From the ice box to your home with the shortest possible time on the street, is the plan of Van Sickle, the North avenue butcher, in his delivery service. Best cuts of seasonable meats.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company carry an extensive line of all kinds of hardware, housefurnishing goods, as well as stoves, ranges and builders' materials. The prices compare favorably with those asked in New York, and the goods will give satisfaction.

When you want the best clothing, made right, from the best cloth obtainable, and at prices that will meet the size of your pocketbook, patronize the Weinberger Clothing Company, of West Front street. A full line of men's furnishings is shown, including straw hats, which are marked 'way down.

It makes no difference whether you want meat or seafood, you can get either one at Roth & Co.'s market on East Front street, best quality at low prices. The firm is making a specialty just now of fresh lobsters, soft and hard-shell crabs, while the usual good cuts of meat are to be had at bottom prices. Prompt deliveries made everywhere.

LOOKING THROUGH our stock of Picture Frames and mouldings is a treat to those who admire things of beauty.

It was a beautiful July Saturday noon and Bob and I had just "packed up" for the day preparatory to joining Mr. Randolph on my yacht for a run down to our place at Newport. As we stepped out of his office one of the clerks announced that a lady had come in and had particularly asked to see Mr. Brownley.

Who the deuce can she be, coming in at this time on Saturday, just when all alive men are in a rush to shake the heat and dirt of business for food and the good air of all outdoors?" growled Bob. Then he said, "Show her in."

Another minute and he had his answer.

A lady entered.

"Mr. Brownley?" She waited an instant to make sure he was the Virginian.

Bob bowed.

"I am Beulah Sands, of Sands Landing, Virginia. Your people know our people, Mr. Brownley, probably well enough for you to place me."

"Of the Judge Lee Sands'?" asked Bob, as he held out his hand.

"I am Judge Lee Sands' oldest daughter," said the sweetest voice I had ever heard, one of those mellow, rippling voices that start the imagination on a chase for a mocking bird, only to bring it up at the pool beneath the brook-fall in quest of the harp of moss and watercresses that sends a bubbling cadence into its eddies and swirls. Perhaps it was the southern accent that nibbled off the corners and edges of certain words and languidly let others mist themselves together, that gave it its luscious penetration—however that may be, it was the most no-yesterday-no-to-morrow voice I had ever heard. Before I grew fully conscious of the exquisite beauty of the girl, this voice of hers spelled its way into my brain like the breath of some bewitching oriental essence. Nature, environment, the security of a perfect marriage have ever combined to constitute me loyal to my chosen one, yet as I stood silent, like one dumb, absorbing the details of the loveliness of this young stranger who had so suddenly swept into my office, it came over me that here was a woman intended to enlighten men who could not understand that shaft which in all ages has without warning pierced men's hearts and souls—love at first sight. Had there not been Katherine Blair, wife and mother—Katherine Blair Randolph, who filled my love-world as the noonday August sun fills the old-fashioned well with nestling warmth and restful shade—after this interval, looking back at the past, I dare ask the question—who knows but that I too might have drifted from the secure anchorage of my slow Yankee blood and floated into the deep waters?

Beauty, the cynic's scoff, is in the eye of the beholder, or in an angle of vision—mere product of lime-light, point of view, desire—but Beulah Sands was beauty beyond cavil, superior to all analysis, as definite as the evening star against the twilight sky. In height medium, girlish, but with a figure maturely modeled, charmingly full and rounded, yet by very perfection of proportion escaping suggestion of "plumpness." The head, surrounded and crowned with a wealth of dark golden hair, rested on a neck that would have seemed short had its slender column sprung less graciously from the lovely lines of the breast and shoulders beneath. It was on the face, however, and finally on the eyes that one's glances inevitably lingered—the face rose-tinted, with dimples in either of the full cheeks, entering laughing protest against the sad droop that brought slightly down the corners of a mouth too large perhaps for beauty, if the coral curve of the lips had been less exquisitely perfect. The straight, thin-nostriled nose, the broad forehead, the square, full jaw almost as low at the points where they come beneath the ears as at the chin, suggested dignity and high resolve coupled with a power of purpose, rare in woman. The combination of forehead, jaw, and nose was seldom seen. Had it been possessed by a man it would surely have driven him to the tented field for his profession. But the greatest glory of Beulah Sands was her eyes—large, full, very gray, very blue, vivid with all the glamour of her personality, full of smiles and tears and spirituality and passion; one instant, frankly innocent, they illuminated the face of a blonde Madonna; the next, seen through the extraordinary, long, jet-black eyelashes underneath the finely penciled black brows, they caressed, coquetted, allured. I afterward found much of this girl's purely physical fascination lay in this strange blending of English fairness with Andalusian tints, though the abiding quality of her charm was surely in an exaltation of spirit of which she might make the dullest conscious. As she stood looking at Bob in my office that long-ago noon, gracefully at ease in a suit of gray, with a gray-feathered turban on her head, and tiny lace bands at neck and wrist, she was very exquisite, exceedingly dainty, and, though southerner of southerners, very unlike the typical brunette girl who comes out of Dixie land.

This girl who came into our office that July Saturday, just in time to interfere with the outing Bob Brownley and I had laid out, and who was destined to divert my chum's heretofore smooth-flowing river of existence and turn it into an alternation of roaring rushes and deadly calms, was truly the most exquisite creature one could conceive of. I know my thought must have been Bob's, too, for his eyes were riveted on her face. She dropped the black lashes like a veil as she went on:

"Mr. Brownley, I have just come from Sands Landing. I am very anxious to talk with you on a business matter. I have brought a letter to you from my father. If you have other engagements I can wait until Monday, although," and the black veiling lashes lifted, showing the half-laughing, half-pathetic eyes, "I wanted much to lay my business before you at the earliest minute possible."

There was a faint touch of appeal in the charming voice as she spoke that was irresistible, and we were both willing to forget we had lunch waiting us on the Tribesman.

"Step into my office, Miss Sands, and all my time is yours," said Bob, as he opened the door between his office and mine. After I had sent a note to my wife, saying we might be delayed for an hour or two, I settled down to wait for Bob in the general office, and it was a long wait. Thirty minutes went into an hour and an hour into two before Bob and Miss Sands came out. After he had put her in a cab for her hotel, he said in a tone curiously intent: "Jim, I have got to talk with you, got to get some of your good advice. Suppose we hustle along to the yacht and after lunch you tell Kate we have some business to go over. I don't want to keep that girl waiting any longer than possible for an answer I cannot give until I get your ideas." After lunch, on the bow end of the upper deck Bob relieved himself. Relieved is the word, for from the minute he had put Miss Sands into the carriage until then, it was evident even to my wife that his thoughts were anywhere but upon out outing.

"Jim," he began in a voice that shook in spite of his efforts to make it sound calm, "there is no disguising the fact that I am mightily worked up about this matter, and I want to do everything possible for this girl. No need of my telling you how sacred we have got to keep what she has just let me into. You'll see as I go along that it is sacred, and I know you will look at it as I do. Miss Sands must be helped out of her trouble.

"Judge Lee Sands, her father, is the head of the old Sands family of Virginia. The Virginia Sands don't take off their bonnets to another family in this country, or elsewhere, for that matter, for anything that really counts. They have had brains, learning, money and fixed position since Virginia was first settled. They are the best people of our state. It is a cross-road saying in Virginia that a Sands of Sands Landing can go to the bench, the United States senate, the house, or the governor's chair for the starting, and nearly all of the men folks have held one or all of these honors for generations. The present judge has held them all. I don't know him personally, although my people and his have been thick from away back. Sands Landing on the James is some 50 miles above our home. The judge, Beulah Sands' father, is close on to 70, and I have heard mother and father say is a stalwart, a Virginia stalwart. Being rich—that is, what we Virginians call rich, a million or so—he has been very active in affairs, and I knew before his daughter told me, that he was the trustee for about all the best estates in our part of the country. It seems from what she tells, that of late he has been very active in developing our coal mines and railroads, and that particularly he took a prominent hand in the Seaboard Air Line. You know the road, for your father was a director, and I think the house has been prominent in its banking affairs. Now, Jim, this poor girl, who, it seems, has recently been acting as the judge's secretary, has just learned that that coup of Reinhart and his crowd has completely ruined her father. The decline has swamped his own fortune, and, what is worse, a million to a million and a half of his trust funds as well, and the old judge—well, you and I can understand his position. Yet I do not know that you just can, either, for you do not quite understand our Virginia life and the kind of revered position a man like Judge Sands occupies. You would have to know that to understand fully his present purgatory and the terrible position of this daughter, for it seems that since he began to get into deep water he has been relying upon her for courage and ideas. From our talk I gather she has a wonderful store of up-to-date business notions, and I am convinced from what she lays out that the judge's affairs are hopeless, and, Jim, when that old man goes down it will be a smash that will shake our state in more ways than one.

"Up to now the girl has stood up to the blow like a man and has been able to steady the judge until he presents an exterior that holds down suspicion as to his real financial condition, although she says Reinhart and his Baltimore lawyer, from the ruthless way they put on the screws to shake out his holdings in the Air Line, must have a line on it that the judge is overboard. The old gentleman can keep things going for six months longer without jeopardizing any of the remaining trust funds, of which he has some two millions, and while his wife, who is an invalid, knows the judge is in some trouble, she does not suspect his real position. His daughter says that when the blow came, that day of the panic, when Reinhart jammed the stock out of sight and scuttled her father's bankers and partners in the road, the Wilsons of Baltimore, she had a frightful struggle to keep her father from going insane. She told me that for three days and nights she kept him locked in their rooms at their hotel in Baltimore, to prevent him from hunting Reinhart and his lawyer Rettybone and killing them both, but that at last she got him calmed down and together they have been planning.

"Jim, it was tough to sit there and listen to the schemes to recoup that this old gentleman and this girl, for she is only 21, have tried to hatch up. The tears actually rolled down my cheeks as I listened; I couldn't help it; you couldn't either, Jim. But at last out of all the plans considered, they found only one that had a tint of hope in it, and the serious mention of even that one, Jim, in any but present circumstances, would make you think we were dealing with lunatics. But the girl has succeeded in making me think it worth trying. Yes, Jim, she has, and I have told her so, and I hope to God that that hard-headed horse-sense of yours will not make you sit down on it."

Bob Brownley had got to his feet; he was slipping the shackles of that fiery, romantic, southern passion that years in college and Wall street had taught him to keep prisoner. His eyes were flashing sparks. His nostrils vibrated like a deer buck's in the autumn woods. He faced me with his hands clinched.

"Jim Randolph," he went on, "as I listened to that girl's story of the terrible cruelty and devlish treachery practiced by the human hyenas you and I associate with, human hyenas who, when in search of dirty dollars—the only thing they know anything about—put to shame the real beasts of the wilds—when I listened, I tell you that I felt it would not give me a twinge of conscience to put a ball through that slick scoundrel Reinhart. Yes, and that hired cur of his, too, who prostitutes a good family name and position, and an inherited ability the Almighty intended for more honest uses than the trapping of victims on whose purses his gutter-born master has set lecherous eyes. And, Jim, as I listened, a troop of old friends invaded my memory—friends whom I have not seen since before I went to Harvard, friends with whom I spent many a happy hour in my old Virginia home, friends born of my imagination, stalwart, rugged crusaders, who carried the sword and the cross and the banner inscribed 'For Honor and for God.' Old friends who would troop into my boyhood and trumpet, 'Bob, don't forget, when you're a man, that the goal is honor, and the code: Do unto your neighbor as you would have your neighbor do unto you. Don't forget that millions is the crest of the groundlings.' And, Jim, I thought my friends looked at me with reproachful eyes, as they said, 'You are well on the road, Bob Brownley, and in time your heart and soul will bear the hall-mark of the snaky S on the two upright bars, and you will be but a frenzied fellow in the Dirty Dollar army.' Jim, Jim Randolph, as I listened to that agonizing tale of the changing of that girl's heaven to hell, I did not see that halo you and I have thought surrounded the sign of Randolph & Randolph. I did not see it, Jim, but I did see myself, and I didn't feel proud of the picture. My God, Jim, is it possible you and I have joined the nobility of Dirty Dollars? Is it possible we are leaving trails along our life's path like that Reinhart left through the home of these Virginians, such trails as this girl has shown me?"

Bob had worked himself into a state of frenzy. I had never seen him so excited as when he stood in front of me and almost shouted this fierce self-denunciation.

"For heaven's sake, Bob, pull yourself together," I urged. "The captain on the bridge there is staring at you wild-eyed, and Katherine will be up here to see what has happened. Now, be a good fellow, and let us talk this thing over in a sensible way. At the gait you are going we can do nothing to help out your friends. Besides, what is there for you and me to take ourselves to task for? We are no wreckers and none of our dollars is stained with Frenzied Finance. My father, as you know, despised Reinhart and his sort as much as we do. Be yourself. What does this girl want you to do? If it is anything in reason, call it done, for you know there is nothing I won't do for you at the asking."

Bob's hysteria oozed. He dropped on the rail seat at my side.

"I know it, Jim, I know it, and you must forgive me. The fact is, Beulah Sands' story has aroused a lot of thoughts I have been a-sticking down cellar late years, for, to tell the truth, I have some nasty twinges of conscience every now and then when I get to thinking of this dollar game of ours."

I saw that the impulsive blood was fast cooling, and that it would only be a question of minutes until Bob would be his clear-headed self.

"Now, what is it she wants you to do?" I persisted. "Is it a case of money, of our trying to tide her father over?"

"Nothing of the kind, Jim. You don't know the proud Virginia blood. Neither that girl nor her father would accept money help from any one. They would go to smash and the grave first."

He paused and then continued impressively:

"This is how she puts it. She and her father have raked together her different legacies and turned them into cash, a matter of $60,000, and she got him to consent to let her come up here to see if during the next six months she might not, in a few desperate plunges in the market, run it up to enough to at least regain the trust funds. Yes, I know it is a wild idea. I told her so at the beginning, but there was no need; she knew it, for she is not only bright, but she has the best idea of business I ever knew a woman to have. But it is their only chance, Jim, and while I listened to her argument I came around to her way of thinking."

"But how did she happen to come to you with this extraordinary scheme?" I interrupted.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Bob was slipping the shakles of that fiery, romantic, southern passion.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Brooklyns succeeded in taking one of the two games played with St. Louis on Sunday.

"Willie" Deegan, after an enforced vacation on the bench for the Jersey City Eastern League club, has decided to cast his lot once more with Hoboken, and pitched for Manager Daab's aggregation on Sunday. "Willie" was signed early in the season by Manager Joe Bean, but when he learned that he was not going to pitch regularly he preferred to go with a team where he would at least work once a week.

It seems as though Ernest Linderman, who works in the box for the Elizabeth Stars on Sunday, can do most anything he wants to, and the National Commission simply passes it by. Where before has anyone heard of a blacklisted player being signed by a National League club, pitching for the team one day against another league team, and then on the following day pitching for an aggregation, not recognized by the National organization, against his own team? It is such things that tend to put the National League in disrepute.

HEAVY HITTING WINS GAME FOR INDEPENDENTS.

Down St. Mary's, 8-7, in Uphill Game on Hope Common.

In a contest marked by heavy hitting, the Independents won from the St. Mary's baseball team Saturday afternoon by a score of 8 to 7. The game was played on Hope Common. Neither team scored after the fifth inning. Up to the fifth, the St. Mary's had the lead, but the Independents clinched the game by hammering in five runs in their half of the session. The feature of the game was heavy hitting, Chilton's swipe to deep left in the fifth being good for the round trip. Miller hit for three bases and Cullen and Taylor each making doubles.

This was the first game played by the Independents, a newly organized team. Their next game is with the Tiger A. C. on Hope Common Saturday afternoon.

The summaries:

	R.	H.	E.
Indepen'ts	0 3 0 0 5 0 0 0 0—8	7	5
St. Mary's	0 2 3 1 0 0 1 0 9 0—7	4	5

St. Mary's—Casey, ss; Mottley, cf; Deady, c; Kyle, 3b; Cullen, p; Kilbride, lf; Duffy, 2b; Galbraith, rf; Taylor, 1b.

Home runs—Chilton. Three base hit—Miller. Two base hits—Cullen and Taylor. Base on balls—Off Slocum, 2; off Cullen, 4. Struck out—By Slocum, 6; by Cullen, 5.

PICK JOHNSTON CORNISH AS THE NEXT CHAIRMAN

ELIZABETH DEMOCRATS PREDICT HE WILL SUCCEED GOURLEY.

That Johnson Cornish, State Senator from Warren county, will be chairman of the Democratic State Committee to succeed William B. Gourley, of Paterson, who resigned Saturday, is the prediction made by Elizabeth politicians. Peter Egenolf, of Elizabeth, was one of the committee of three named to draw up resolutions in recognition of the former chairman's services and the committee will probably make some recommendations as to Gourley's successor.

Local politicians declare that the resignation and its immediate acceptance must be regarded as a concession to the "reform" element and that the "old liners" will now demand that they have some voice in the naming of a successor. Cornish, it is said, is the nominee of the old line Democrats who will make a strong fight for his election to the chairmanship.

ORLANDO E. CHAMBERLIN.

Former Local Resident Dies in Chicago.

Word was received from Chicago today of the death of Orlando E. Chamberlin, a former well-known Plainfielder, who died in the former city yesterday afternoon. He was seventy-eight years old and had made his home in the west since the death of his wife a short time ago, with his daughter, Miss Georgianna Chamberlin.

Mr. Chamberlin had lived in Plainfield for many years, his home the greater part of the time being on Madison avenue near West Seventh setreet. He was the father of the late Wilbur, Ernest and Walter Chamberlin, the first two being well-known newspapermen. Miss Georgianna Chamberlin was secretary to President Harper, of Chicago University, and when Mrs. Chamberlin died, Mr. Chamberlin decided to make his home with his daughter.

The funeral will be held at Chicago and for the present the body will be placed in a vault. It will be brought to Plainfield later.

BROKE LEG IN ESCAPING.

Man Caught in a Saloon Raid Jumps From Window.

Joseph Gronzalee, proprietor of a saloon at 59 Pine street, Elizabeth, furnished $500 bail yesterday to await the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of having violated the excise laws yesterday.

Detectives Matson and Mulcahey, of the Second Precinct, found eleven men being served with drinks on the second floor of Gronzalee's place. David Russet jumped from the window to evade arrest, broke his leg on the pavement eight feet below and was taken in an ambulance in an unconscious condition to the General Hospital, at that place. The other ten, who were arrested, were released yesterday on parole for appearance when wanted.

HORSE SHIED AT TOY WAGON AND DR. IS THROWN.

Medical Man Cut and Bruised About Face While Driving This Morning.

While making his professional calls this morning, Dr. A. F. Van Horn was thrown from his carriage, sustaining cuts, bruises and abrasions which will keep him confined to his home for several days. The accident happened on Spooner avenue, at about 9.30. The doctor, who was alone, was driving along when his horse took fright at a small boy racing past with an express wagon. The animal shied and turning sharply, threw Dr. Van Horn from the carriage. He struck heavily on his head, cutting and bruising his face severely. Dr. G. W. Endicott attended him at his home subsequently and an examination showed that the injuries were not serious. The doctor was able to drive home, neither horse nor rig being injured.

"BOB" POSES AS TROLLEYMAN.

Dons Uniform and Photographer Takes a Snap Shot.

Local trolleymen are exhibiting photographs showing Robert Fitzsimmons, the prizefighter, attired in a trolley uniform, standing in front of a Dunellen-Newark main line trolley car, apparently ready to take the car out. The picture was taken a few days ago at the Dunellen car barns, which is near Fitzsimmon's home.

The fighter has become quite friendly with the motormen, and while he was chatting with a group the other day a photographer came along to get a snap at the big fellow, and at the suggestion of the trolleymen he donned the uniform. Fitz looks like a giant alongside of the other fellows.

Weather Wilts Maples.

H. B. Filer, of Newark, and J. E. Martin, who are engaged in the work of spraying trees in this city under the direction of the Shade Tree Commission, have received a letter from Haven Metcalf, pathologist, of Washington, in relation to the wilting of leaves on maple trees. This is not caused by the cottony maple scale, as many suppose, but by another trouble, which is described by Mr. Metcalf as unusual weather conditions. A sample of the maple leaf was submitted and Mr. Metcalf says that he failed to find any fungi or parasites of any sort. He adds that he is unable to recommend any treatment and it is doubtful if any treatment would be advisable. He says that there is no reason to anticipate a return of the disease another year, which is so common this year and which, he declares to be due to weather conditions.

SMITH IS IN NO DANGER

Organization Men in County Committee Say He Can't Be Unseated.

COLBYITES TOO WEAK

New Idea Men Only Strong in This City, Which Has But Nine of the Sixty-eight Members.

Just what part the Colby element in Union county will play in the coming campaign is a question that is interesting politicians in both parties just now.

Six Colby delegates out of a total of more than sixty were elected in Elizabeth to the county convention last year. It is not believed there will be any such fiery contest this year as was waged twelve months ago. A large number of the Colby people have gone back to the regular fold and there were issues a year ago that do not exist now. The opposition to the re-election of United States Senator Dryden gave some impetus to the movement previous to the last primaries. Some men who gave time and money to the Colby movement a year ago have since been estranged from the faction led by the Essex Senator because of the character of some of the policies it has embraced. The initiative and referendum, now part of the Colby platform, is not a doctrine that appeals to conservative Colbyites who were very willing to lend a helping hand in former years to some reforms advocated.

It would not be at all surprising if the Colbyites waged no campaign in Elizabeth this year, politicians say. The men they elected last year for city offices in that place have been on the best of terms with the regulars and if any little ill-feeling existed in the heat of the struggle it quickly passed away. One organization man in Elizabeth said last night that if any of the Colby men elected to office last year came up for a re-election now he would be endorsed by the so-called "machine."

But Plainfield Colbyites are going to put up their usual fight. They will try to get control of the city government by electing a majority of councilmen and will also try to elect the delegates from that city to the Republican county committee.

As told in The Daily Press, political gossip says that the Colby people in Plainfield are after the scalp of County Chairman Frank H. Smith. They contend that by unhorsing Smith they will strike a blow at United States Senator Kean, as Smith is looked upon as a strong Kean supporter. How the Colbyites propose to defeat Smith is difficult to figure out. A resolution passed at a recent meeting of the County Committee provides that a Republican other than a member of the committee may be elected to the chairmanship. Even if Smith were defeated in his district in Plainfield he could still be made chairman if the majority of the committee desired him. In this connection some of the Colby men say they were given a gold brick in the County Committee when this law was adopted. Members of the County Committee pointed out last night, however, that the only two men who opposed the resolution were Andrew McCardell, of this city, and John B. Bunnell, of Union, who is the colleague in the committee of Hamilton F. Kean from Union township. Nobody ever accused Mr. McCardell or Mr. Bunnell of being Colbyites.

There are sixty-eight members in the County Committee, only nine of whom come from Plainfield. Outside of Plainfield nobody believes that more than a half dozen delegates could be elected throughout the county. Members of the County Committee said last night that Smith had made a business-like chairman, and that he would be re-elected when his term expired.

MOLDER ASSAULTS FOREMAN.

Matthew Carle, a molder residing on Lee place, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged with assaulting Henry Peternoid, his foreman, at the Scott foundry. He waived examination and was held in $100 bail for the Grand Jury.

It was stated in the evidence that Peternoid gave an order to Carle yesterday afternoon, that the latter resented. An argument followed and while in a heated passion, Carle struck the foreman with a molder's trowel that he held in his hand. The utensil cut a gash in Peternoid's arm that had to be sewed up by a physician.

Edwin Schomp's Funeral.

The funeral of Edwin W. Schomp, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schomp, who died yesterday morning, will be held at the parents' home on Oxford place, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

DIVORCEE TELLS WHY SHE MADE NO DEFENSE

SAYS LAWYERS PROMISED HER THERE WOULD BE NO PUBLICITY THAT WAY

Mrs. Harry D. Powelson, of Bound Brook, who was a defendant in a suit for divorce and who put in no defense to the suit, declares that published statements of the divorce have done her an injustice as it has not been explained why she defended the suit.

She said hat she received a promise from the counsel of her husband that there would be no publicity incident to the divorce if she did not defend the action, and that as she wished to avoid publicity she did not fight the action. She declares that had she known that the taking of testimony was to be made public she would have had her side of the case presented.

As told on Saturday the testimony in the suit has been forwarded to the Court of Chancery. She denies that the serving of the papers upon her seven months ago was accompanied by any breaking of doors. Such a statement, she declares, is absolutely untrue. Dr. Powelson and Sheriff Cooper, of Somerset county, on that occasion, she declares, were admitted very quietly by her mother.

She also stated that the reason that she did not put in any defense to her husband's charges is because she did not wish to be bound any longer to a man who treated her as he did. She says that she let the matter to go by default only on condition that there be no publicity, which had been promised by Dr. Powelson's attorney.

She says that this promise has not been kept and hence she feels at liberty to make a statement. She declares that she had a good defense to the action.

WARRANT OUT FOR EX-MAYOR SICKEL

TRENTON HEALTH BOARD TO ENFORCE SEWER CONNECTION ORDER.

At the order of the Trenton board of health, a warrant has been issued for the arrest of ex-Mayor Welling G. Sickel, of that city. On September 13, 1906, it is claimed that he was notified that connections with the city sewer should be made at once at 66 Wall street, a property owned by the ex-mayor, and it was ascertained a few days ago that the order had not been complied with.

The warrant was sworn out yesterday and placed in the hands of Constable William Dolton. On two different occasions yesterday Constable Dolton called at the Sickel home, at 56 North Clinton avenue, Trenton, but was unable to get any response to the door bell. He later learned that the family was summering at Spring Lake, and that Mr. Sickel is a daily commuter.

After his arrest ex-Mayor Sickel will be arraigned before Judge Harris, in the First district police court, to answer to the charge of failure to connect the residence mentioned with the city sewer.

Eight other warrants of the same character have been turned over to Constable Dolton and arrests in these cases will take place about the same time.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING FOR BERKELEY HEIGHTS.

Mayor Joseph Kuntz Wins His Fight For a North Side Structure.

The citizens and taxpayers of Berkeley Heights who have been agitating for a branch school on the north side of the railroad at that place, have been successful in their efforts. At a meeting of the Board of Education at Berkeley Heights, yesterday, the plans for the new building on the north side were adopted unanimously.

The new building will be located on Summit avenue, near Springfield avenue, and when completed will accommodate forty pupils. It will be up-to-date in every respect and ready for occupancy on September 10. There was considerable opposition to the improvement from the first, some of the members of the school board believing that the expense could be saved by building an addition to the school on the southside of the railroad. Public sentiment was in favor of the new building and largely through the efforts of Mayor Joseph Kuntz it is to be erected.

WIFE BEATER PUNISHED

Grandley Sentenced to Two Months Imprisonment for Brutalities.

LOCKED HER IN CELLAR

His Crocodile Tears Met With No Sympathy From Judge Runyon Who Gave Prisoner Short Shrift.

Blubbering like an over-grown boy in his efforts to secure clemency from Judge Runyon, Richard Grandley, forty years old, of 909 West Third street, pledged guilty in the city court today to protracted drunkenness and cruelties to his wife. His crocodile tears found little response from the magistrate and sixty days straight in the county jail was the sentence passed.

Grandley was arrested one day last week on a drunk charge and escaped punishment because it was his first appearance before Judge Runyon. From testimony since secured it appears that he returned home and sought revenge for his incarceration by abusing his wife. He not only struck her repeatedly but drove her into the cellar and it was said that he kept her there four days. Neighbors learned of her plight and appealed to Rev. E. E. Roberson to do something in her behalf and the minister informed the police. Roundsman Higgins went to the house yesterday and found the statements about Grandley's conduct to be true. He was immediately locked up.

Grandley begged for another chance when arraigned and the lachrymal outburst grew worse every minute. It only served to increase the contempt of Judge Runyon and the court officers and the former wasted little time in disposing of the case.

"We've got no use for such brutes as you," he exclaimed hotly, "and I think two months at Elizabeth will give you time to reflect if there's any manhood in you."

Grandley was led away snivelling and bemoaning his hard luck. He is a moulder by trade and has been employed in one of the local shops.

WORKMAN'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Passing Engine Tears Piece Out of His Trousers.

John Sharp, a member of the gang employed in constructing new bridges for the New Jersey Central, had a narrow escape this morning from being killed at a point just west of the Watchung avenue bridge. He was sitting close to the west bound track and failed to notice an approaching train until it was so close that the head of the engine grazed him sufficiently to tear a small piece of cloth out of his trousers.

Just as the train reached the point where Sharp was sitting, fellow-workmen shouted to him. The badly frightened man rolled over on his side, but not quick enough to altogether escape contact with the engine. It was fully an hour before he regained his composure.

Bids for Brick Pavement Expected.

The August meeting of the Common Council will be held on Monday night, when among other things there will be received bids for the work of laying the brick pavement in the business part of the city. There is also likely to be a further report on the southside sanitary sewer muddle. During the past few days city officials and others interested have been busy trying to adjust the differences so that the sewer work may proceed.

Hope Chapel Industrial Fair.

Progress is being made with the arrangements for the industrial fair to be held at Hope chapel, in aid of the Memorial Organ Fund, during the second week in October, two matinees and four evenings. Sixteen booths have already been planned for and in addition there will be a high class entertainment given in the gymnasium every night. There will also be an art gallery and many other novelties to instruct and amuse.

Funeral of Gilford Mayer.

The funeral services of Gilford Mayer, of 1023 Park avenue, will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. In the absence of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, Rev. Floyd Appleton, formerly curate of the church, but now of Brooklyn, will conduct the service. The burial will be in Hillside Cemetery.

Naturalization Papers Granted.

Second papers were granted to two persons in the Union County Court, this morning, making four in all who have been naturalized since the new law went into effect several months ago. It seems to have had a wholesome effect as the class of men being made citizens are far above the average in intelligence.

E. M. FRENCH APPOINTED RECEIVER FOR CONCERN

HE WILL TAKE CHARGE OF SICHE GAS COMPANY'S AFFAIRS.

Vice-Chancellor Bergen in Trenton yesterday, granted the rule made on the application of William A. Codington, representing George Maurer, secretary and treasurer for the Siche Gas Company, and appointed Elston M. French, of this city, receiver for the concern, which is declared to be insolvent. The appointment was made without opposition, no one appearing for the company.

The appointment of a receiver carries with it right to sell the property of the company. This will be done within the next thirty days, after certain formalities have been complied with. The estimated liabilities of the company are $6,000 and the assets $3,000.

AMATEURS COMPETE IN A GOLF TOURNEY

W. LESTER GLENNEY ONLY LUCKY ONE AMONG LOCAL PLAYERS.

Seventy-five amateur golfers competed in the thirty-six hole medal play handicap on the public links at Van Cortlandt Park, yesterday, including W. Lester Glenney, of the Plainfield Country Club, who returned a card of 175, 10-165. H. V. Gaines, of the Wykagyl Country Club, won with a score of 154, 20-134, while the second net prize went to G. L. Conley, of Siwanoy, with 164, 28-136. Gilman P. Tiffany, of Powelton, champion of the Hudson River Golf Association, won the gross score prize. He made rounds in 74 and 78 for a total of 152. Second gross score went to Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the national champion, with 154.

Chief interest throughout the day centred in the efforts of Travers and Tiffany, who played together. At the outset Travers had difficulty in getting his puts down on the rough greens, and this prevented him from taking advantage of the short holes. Coming home the national title holder settled down to something like him normal gait, but had to be content with an 81.

Amateurs and professionals will team up today in four-ball contests and handicap conditions will prevail, that is, the allowance of the amateurs will be deducted to ascertain the net total.

Travers will have old Tom Anderson, of Montclair, for a running mate and Tiffany will play with Bob Peebles, the Fairview "pro." Oswald Kirkby, the Englewood champion, will have Dave Hunter for a team mate and Dr. Cleveland, of Highland Park, will play with the far driving George Turnbull. Charles Marshall, a New York player, will try his luck with Martin O'Loughlin, the Plainfield homebred.

Gilbert Nicholls, the Woodland "pro," who was runner-up to Ross in the national open championship, returned an even 70 in a practice round yesterday afternoon. He went out in 31 and home in 39. This equals the professional record, but it does not count as it was not made in competition.

With regard to the open tournament at seventy-two holes medal play arranged for tomorrow and Friday, the committee in charge has invited Travers and Tiffany to compete with the professionals. They have both accepted.

Action on Bids Deferred.

No further action was taken yesterday at the action of the bridge committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders regarding the two bids received for iron work on the Watchung avenue and Grove street bridges. It was decided that inasmuch as there will be a regular meeting of the Board of Freeholders tomorrow it would be better to wait until that time before doing anything. The committee is anxious to award the contract that the work can be completed at the earliest possible date so that the painting, the contract for which was awarded recently, may be undertaken.

Theatre Opening Set.

Manager Counihan announced today that the coming season at the New Plainfield theatre would open on Saturday, August 10. Joseph M. Gaites' big production of "The Vanderbilt Cup," with an unexcelled cast, will be the initial attraction. The alteration at the theatre have practically been completed and when the patrons enter they will find an entirely new interior.

EXPECT TO LAND TROPHY

Co. K Turns in Best Score So Far in Company Shoot for Williams Cup.

NOTES FROM SEA GIRT

Plainfielders Ready for Big Muster Tomorrow — What the Boys Are Doing.

Camp life has meant hard work for the Co. K boys at Sea Girt this week, and up to last night the local soldiers were so busy with maneuvres and shooting at the range that there was no time for "rough housing" and putting the "rookies" through their annual stunts in the company street. It has been a hard week for the boys so far. Hard work and strict military discipline have tired out all hands and they have been only too glad to turn in early and snooze quietly in their tents.

Under bad weather conditions, the picked team of Co. K. boys did some first class shooting from the Williams trophy at the ranges yesterday. With a net score of 604 out of a possible 750 points at 200, 300 and 500 yard shooting, the local team leads any of the competitors by six points in the shoot for the trophy. Their most formidable opponents in their fight to bring the cup home with them was Co. L, of Princeton, but this team turned in a net score of 598 and are out of the race with the local boys, whose 604 is the best yet. The Third battalion is to shoot today, but there are no formidable shots in any of the company teams, and the local boys are already feeling pretty sure of bringing the big cup back to Plainfield with them. The trophy is a handsome silver cup, to be shot for annually by State teams at Sea Girt. It is presented by Mrs. John F. Williams, wife of the late Sergeant Williams, a crack shot. To win the cup means to hold it for a year, and competition for it will be an annual affair at the camp. This is the first year it has been offered. The scores made by the local military in the trophy shoot yesterday follow: Sergeant Phillips, 124; Sergeant Hort, 119; Quartermaster Sergeant Apgar, 120; Sergeant Bilyeu, 118; and Sergeant Tranchand, 123. The day was a bad one on the ranges, and the team, which last year averaged 130 on the shooting, fell down on the shooting. The morning was foggy, and in the afternoon a "fish-tail" wind, shifty and unsteady, developed, making poor shooting conditions.

Quartermaster Sergeant Apgar was in town this morning, rounding up five truant members of the company for the semi-annual inspection to be held tomorrow. Colonel Boltwood, of the regular army, will be the reviewing officer, and the local boys are anxious to have a full turnout and make the best showing. Yesterday the troops went through a shelter tent drill, in charge of Major William B. Martin, ex-Captain of the local company.

"News" reports as to the "doings" of the various Plainfielders come in fast from The Daily Press correspondent at the camp. It is said that Lieutenants Peterson and Littell spend most of their time at Asbury Park, "with Plainfield friends." Sergeant Tranchand is having an awful time. He is entirely subject to general orders issued by his wife, and has to report to her everything he does. He wanders around, when off duty, with that wan, hen-pecked look, and his characteristic reply to all invitations now is "My wife won't let me," or "I would, if I could, but I can't"—and everybody knows "why." Philip E. Winter and Harry Elliott are much in evidence as to stripe. They are signing all their letters "Corporal," now, for the warrants for promotion have been received, and they are "proud as can be." Corporal Niles and Arthur Dowe, drink more "soda" than any of the State troops stationed at Sea Girt, but Private Hartpence goes in heavily for the eating, and is feeding up strong on "real good beefsteak." He has gained twelve pounds on this diet. Rottberg and Bilyeu are little in evidence abroad when off dut, unless on the way to the postoffice tent. According to reports, every man, woman and child in the State must have received at least two picture postals from them since they left Plainfield. It is rumored that the postoffice will have to hire an extra mail carrier.

Policeman's Assailants Sentenced.

Harry Kohl, Hanson Robinson and Warren Gwatney, three negroes from Summit, who were convicted several weeks ago of assaulting Special Officer Poole, of Cranford, were arraigned in the Union County Court, this morning, for sentence. Kohl and Robinson were each given four months in the county jail, while Gwatney was sent to the same place for two months.

HIS SHOUTS FOR HELP SAVED HIS POCKETBOOK

EARL KING, OF DUNELLEN, SEIZED BY HOLD-UP MEN, SCARES THEM OFF.

A daring hold-up and attempt at robbery was made in Dunellen late Monday night in the residential section upon Earl Ising, whose calls for help frightened the robber and caused him to take to his heels without having accomplished his purpose. Village Marshal Owen Mohan has been told of the facts and has made an attempt to find the man, but the light-fingered fellow has doubtless left town.

The hold-up was attempted near Ising's home on Dunellen avenue. He was returning home at shortly after 10 o'clock Monday evening, having just returned from New York city, where he is employed. As he was walking through the residential section near his house, a man came up behind him and seized his arms, at the same time demanding money. Ising shouted for assistance, and fearing that the neighborhood would be aroused by the shouting, the man loosened his hold, and turned and ran. As the attack was made from behind, Ising had no opportunity to see the man's face. He had about $10 in his pockets at the time.

His shouts for assistance brought several residents of the vicinity to the spot, and some fifteen of them, scattering in small groups, set off in pursuit of the man. Others joined them, and a general search tour of the town was instituted. The searchers worked for about an hour, but to no avail. It is believed that the fellow either took to the mountains, or else hopped a freight. Marshal Mohan was informed of the affair, but has been unable to find any clues as to the fellow's whereabouts.

JAMES B. DUKE IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

TOBACCO KING HAS BREAK-DOWN IN DUNELLEN.

Dunellenites had an opportunity to rub elbows with the head of the tobacco trust yesterday afternoon, when something went wrong with the machinery of his big touring car and the tobacco king and his chauffeur got out and repaired the trouble. The accident happened in front of the postoffice early in the afternoon.

Mr. Duke himself was driving his big Panhard in which were seated his chauffeur and a man and woman whose names could not be learned. He attempted to change his gear while passing the postoffice when suddenly there was a rasping jar and the big machine stopped suddenly. The tobacco king and his chauffeur at once scrambled out and sought the cause of the trouble. After a half hour's work with the chauffeur under the machine and Mr. Duke himself handing him greasy tools and giving directions, the trouble was located and the big car started on toward Plainfield. A good-sized crowd of Dunellenites watched the work of repair.

"COUNT" VAN NESS PERTURBED

Justice Preyents Him From Practicing in New Jersey Court.

"Count" J. K. Van Ness, of East Front street, appeared in Justice William A. Woodruff's court at New Providence, this morning, to act for the plaintiff in a suit for dispossess, Smith against Farwell. J. Henry Crane, of this city, who represented the defendant, promptly objected to the "count" practicing in a New Jersey court of law and he was upheld by the justice. The ruling upset the "counts" equanimity and he protested vigorously but without effect.

The case was adjourned for a week, the plaintiff to stand the costs in the meantime.

Annoyed West End Storekeeper.

On a complaint preferred by Miss Elizabeth Klarfeld in behalf of her father, Albert Yaeger, a West End boy, appeared before Judge Runyon in the City Court today. Miss Klarfeld alleged that Yaeger and other boys annoyed her father by congregating in front of his store on West Third street and by calling him names. The defendant admitted the charge and was released on his promise to remain away from the place and to see that his companions do also.

Victim of Misfortunes.

Walter Wikoff, of West Fifth street, whose infant daughter died Monday, was recently the victim of another misfortune. While fishing a few days ago he made a misstep out of a boat and fractured an ankle. He had to be assisted home and has since been confined to the house.

CONFRONTED BY VICTIM

Italian Whom "Black Hand" Subjected to Cruelties Points Them Out.

THREATEN IDENTIFIER

Requisition Papers Served On Chief Kiely and Prisoners Will Start For Newcastle This Afternoon.

Confronted by one of their victims and officers who arrived to take them back to the scene of their crimes, Lobianco and Novetta, the Black Hand men locked up at police headquarters, exhibited the savage side of their nature this morning. They were roused up from their bunks shortly after 9 o'clock to gaze upon Nicholas Curloa, an undersized Italian who had given them "blood," money, County Detective Creighton G. Logan and Captain Gastinger, all of Newcastle, Pa. The prisoners suddenly lost the lethargic appearance they have held since their capture and with fire blazing in their eyes, they shoved their arms through the bars of the cell, exclaiming:

"Ha, Nick Curlao, Nick Curlao, we fixa you some day; we killa you when we get out."

Their infuriated manner had its effect on Curlao and though he was brought to Plainfield to positively identify the men, he at first refused to speak up. He drew back from the cells and sought to hide behind Superintendent Fuller, of the Pinkerton office, his swarthy face showing fright in every line. It required considerable coaxing on the part of the officers to get him to talk but once he started, he gained courage every moment.

He didn't need to tell that the men in the cells were the ones who had robbed him of the savings of years and also had subjected him to all manner of horrible indignities. The excited conversation that passed between them was translated in part by Detective Brancat and admissions made by Lobianco furnished all the evidence necessary. In addition both were partly familiar to Logan and Gastinger.

The officers had the necessary requisition papers signed by Governors Steward and Stokes and they were passed upon by Judge Runyon, in behalf of Chief Kiely. When found to be all right, the formal custody of the prisoners was turned over to the Lawrence county men and they will begin the journey back to Newcastle shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon. The specific complaint against both Italians is robbery and conspiracy, the Pennsylvania laws demanding that charges must be made against fugitives before they are returned to the State. When placed on trial, however, the full extent of their crimes will be brought out.

In speaking with a Daily Press reporter, Detective Logan, reiterated the statement that Lobianco and Novetta were ringleaders of the gang and that their capture has been among the most important since the crusade was inaugurated.

"These men had headquarters at Hillsville, just outside of Newcastle," he said, "and their crimes extend over a period of six or seven years. There were at least forty of them who lived off their countrymen by sending Black Hand letters and threatening death unless various amounts of money were left in designated spots. Their spies were everywhere; they worked alongside the victims in the limestone quarry and a man who informed the police would have swift punishment meted out to him. It was impossible to tell who was friend or foe and we were a long time in getting on the right trail. Two Italian detectives who were placed in the quarry by us were discovered and killed and four citizens of Newcastle met a similar fate.

"This man Curlao who we brought here today, worked in the quarry for years and had saved up a little money. The Black Hands forced him to give up the greater part of it and when he refused to be bled any longer, he came to us for protection. We thought he was not watched but a shadow was at his heels day and night and a few hours after I had a conference with him he was pounced upon in a lonely spot and carried to the mountains. There a court of the Black Hands was convened, Lobianco acting as judge, and he was put on trial for "squealing." Of course, he was found guilty, and after he had been kicked and cuffed until he was a mass of bruises, Lobianco decreed that the punishment should be continued and he was subjected to unprintable indignities. He was finally turned loose without his clothing and in that condition made his way four miles over the mountains to where our detectives were in camp. We made him a member of our staff and he has since been working with us

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The lawn at the home of Mrs. Walter G. Clawson, of New Market, was gay with Japanese lanterns and bright gowned young people last evening on the occasion of the watermelon and ice cream sociable for the benefit of the First Baptist church. The melons and cream were served at tastefully decorated tables, presided over by the young women of the society on the lawn, and there was a rushing business all the evening. About $35 was realized for church work as a result of the affair.

Dunellen young people who plan to attend the Plainfield High School when it reopens in September must obtain application blanks and return the same, properly filled out to Superintendent Messeroll by tonight.

James Sweeney, who has been recuperating from an attack of rheumatism at Nelson's Hotel for the past week after special treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, has resumed his work.

John Fisher has returned from a week's visit with his grandmother, Mrs. Susan Ramsey, of Lebanon.

Alvah Gray has returned after spending a week's vacation in Hunterdon county.

Mrs. Reynier Speer, of Paterson, is spending the week with Mrs. B. A. Cole.

Earl Fulton, of New Market, is entertaining his two cousins from Newark.

RARITAN.

Mrs. Marvel, who had been spending a month with Mr. and Mrs. George Davenport, has returned to her home in Newark.

The Misses Nellie and Marie Partridge are entertaining Miss B. Stoutenberg, of Brooklyn, at their home near Raritan.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leibold, of Moline, N. Y., have returned home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Leibold on Gaston avenue.

Miss Catherine Killiger, of New York, is spending her vacation with her sister, Mrs. Philip T. Hickey, on Somerset street.

BOUND BROOK.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schomp, of Newark, were entertained Sunday at the home of Mrs. Schomp's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey Mathews, in Cedar street, South Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Wiggins, of Plainfield, were guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Wiggins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Staats, in Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook.

Miss Julia Lloyd, of Elizabeth, and Miss Davis, of Jersey City, were entertained over Sunday at the home of Miss Mamie Staats in Main street, South Bound Brook.

Miss Allie Pearce, of Keyport, is being entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Byer in Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook.

After spending some time with relatives at High Bridge, Mrs. Kaziah Corzott has returned to her home in South Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Baxter, of Bound Brook, are entertaining Miss Ardel Ferris and Miss Edith Hyde, of New York.

Mrs. Henry Nolty and children, of Bound Brook, are spending several weeks with relatives at Ashley, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hastings, of Bound Brook, have for their guest, Mrs. A. H. Ryan, of Trenton.

Mrs. C. E. Dunham, of Bound Brook, is spending some time at East Stroudsburg, Pa.

WESTFIELD.

Several members of the Board of Freeholders went over the mountain road Monday to inspect its condition. They report that it will take thousands of dollars to repair the road between Springfield and Plainfield, making good the damage done by automobiles. In some places the foundation stone is laid bare.

The building ordinance before the Town Council of Westfield was not acted upon at the meeting Monday night.

Iron doors have been placed on the entrance to the Westfield town rooms on Elm street.

Dr. Lloyd, of Westfield, will return from his vacation tomorrow.

NORTH BRANCH.

A number of young people from Somerville, with Mrs. James H. Masker as chaperone, have opened a camp along the river at North Branch Depot. In the party are Misses Eva, Verta and Helen Opie, of Somerville; Frank Hazard, of Passaic; Miss Birdie Dilts, of Raritan, and Miss Linda Brink, of Bound Brook. Among the visitors to the camp Sunday were Clark Kellam, Paul Kline, James H. Masker, and Miss Mae Reimers and Jessie Pierson, of Somerville.

Fire started in some rye stacks on the farm of Simon P. Nevius, near this place, and before the flames could be checked they had spread to a barrack, near by. All were burned. The blaze is thought to have been caused by tramps.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown and son, of Somerville, were guests over Sunday of Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Staats, at North Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Beekman, of this place, are entertaining Mr. Beekman's cousin, Russell Beekman, of Plainfield.

Mrs. Mary Conover of Belle Mead, is visiting her son, Van Nest Conover, in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Alexander Nesbit, of Denver, Col., has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Heath.

Mrs. G. B. Van Nortwick is entertaining Dr. and Mrs. Grooves, of Johnstown, Pa.

Miss Porter spent last week in Brooklyn with her brother, Newton C. Porter.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

By winning Saturday's game with Bound Brook, the local league team will improve its chances for the pennant, as either Y. M. C. A. or Clinton Avenue will have to take a drop as the result of the game at Crescent Oval.

The electric light service in town might be improved upon. Several lights have been out on Park avenue for a week. An inspector is supposed to inspect the lights every other night, but he failed to attend to it.

The political bees for the annual fall election, are already beginning to buzz, although the primaries are still a month away.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

The World's Work for June, 1907, has an enlighting article on "The South's Intellectual Expression," showing the enduring qualities of the contributions to American literature of Southern historians, novelists and poets. Most noteworthy of these are Bruce, Woodrow Wilson, Sidney Lanier, Edgar Allen Poe, James Lane Allen, Thomas Nelson Page, Joel Chandler Harris, George W. Cable, Hopkinson Smith, Ellen Glasgow, Mary Johnston and Miss Murfree. By far the greater number of these are fully represented in the Public Library, as the list below will show.

"A point of interest in Mr. Mim's discussion is the difference between the literary tendencies before and after the war, the birth of and development of the real Southern literature, the better American literature of the South. Irwin Russell, listening to an old negro mammy singing a revival hymn in the backyard of his Mississippi home and fitting words to the tune, ushered in the dialect poem. Joel Chandler Harris began to tell stories in the 'Atlantic Constitution,' gathered from the old plantation in his boyhood—and 'Uncle Remus' was soon known around the world. Richard Malcolm Johnston saw in the light of his mature imagination scenes of his boyhood in middle Georgia. George W. Cable depicted with consummate art the scenery and romance of New Orleans. Miss Murfree, with the background of the mountains of East Tennessee, interpreted the life of our 'contemporary ancestors.' In the eighties Thomas Nelson Page wrote out stories of the old times in Virginia that he had told for a number of years in the social circle of Richmond. James Lane Allen, with a finer culture and with an added note of idealism, set forth the remoter life of the Revolutionary days in Kentucky, and the picturesque charm of the blue-grass country. Still later, Miss Johnston explored the fields of early colonial history, and Miss Ellen Glasgow represented something of the transition from the old South to the new."

Animals—Hare or rabbit, November 10 to December 31; gray, black and fox squirrels, November 10 to December 31; deer, closed for two years.

Fish— Black bass, white bass, calico bass, crapple or pike perch, May 20 to November 30; brook trout April 1 toJuly 15; pike and pickerel January 1 to January 30, May 20 to November 30. All these dates are inclusive.

The laws, in abbreviated form, also make it unlawful to take or to attempt to take any game except by the use of guns held at arm's length.

To hunt geese, ducks or any water wild fowl except between one hour before sunrise and one hour after sunset; to hunt any kind of water wild fowl from boats not propelled by oars or paddles.

To catch or keep trout less than six inches in length; black or white bass less than nine inches in length; pike or pickerel or pike-perch less than twelve inches in length; does not apply to grasspike, a small pike frequenting brooks. To take trout, bass, pike, pickerel and pike-perch between 9 p. m. and daylight.

To remove quail, grouse, woodcock, squirrel, hare, English or ring-necked pheasants from the State.

To kill more than thirty marsh hens or mud hens in one day. The taking of yellow and white perch, catfish, sunfish, suckers and eels with hook and line is permitted at all times of the year. Farmers and fruit growers have the right to trap rabbits under certain restrictions.

It is lawful at all times of the year to angle for yellow perch, catfish, sunfish, eels and suckers as long as not more than three hooks are used.

Non-residents must take out license to gun from county clerks. Cost $10.50. Law does not apply to gunning for water wild fowl, snipe, marsh or mud hens.

M'INTYRE'S EXCUSE AS OLD AS ADAM

"I SPENT THE MONEY ON A GIRL; SHE TOLD ME TO GET MORE."

James McIntyre made the excuse that is as old as Adam when he was arrested recently, charged with stealing $145 from his mother:

"I spent the money on a girl, and she told me to go home and get more."

McIntyre, who has reached the mature age of thirty years, had exactly two cents in his pocket.

Old Mrs. McIntyre, who is well-off, alway keeps a good deal of money in her home, No. 210 Young street, Long Island City. She complained to the police Wednesday that "her boy, Jimmy," had taken $145 from a dresser and vanished with it. She added joyously that "Jimmy" had not seen, had not taken, at any rate, $1,500 which was in a bureau drawer.

"Jimmy" was arrested on Greenpoint avenue, Blissville, yesterday. The police say he confessed to taking the money, and added:

"I took a girl to Glen Island Wednesday, and nothing was too good for her. Then we went to Belleville, N. J. One hundred and forty-five dollars ain't so much money as I thought. We were passing a jewelry store and she liked a ring in the window. I bought it—$50. Where the rest of the money went, I don't know, but I said to her this morning:

"'Dearie, I'm broke.'

"She said: 'Are you, lovey? Why don't you go home and get more money? I'll wait her for you.'

"So I was going home," McIntyre concluded.

He was locked up. There's only one thing to be said for him: He would not tell who the girl is.

Voltair'e Church.

Voltaire built a church at Ferney, Switzerland, putting over its doorway this inscription: "Deo Erexit Voltaire" (erected by God by Voltaire). Voltaire was a deist, not an atheist. He always claimed to believe in a supreme being.

Black Hole of Calcutta.

The "black hole of Calcutta" was a foul dungeon eighteen feet square. In this place were crammed 147 British, of which number twenty-three were alive the next morning.

Quality and Price

The two vital questions in your piano purchase are, first, quality; second, price. An unsatisfactory piano, in tone and action, is the most annoying article you can have in your home. You dislike to be expending money on it continually to keep it in playing condition.

Every time you neglect backache,

Allow the kidneys to become clogged,

You get nearer the brink of Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills will save you from danger.

Proof of it in Plainfield testimony.

James Harding, employed at the gas works, and living at 119 West Fourth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Hard backaches, pains in the head, and, at times, dizzy spells, bothered me for several months. The aches became so sharp and painful that I was in no condition to work. Reading of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills I went to Randolph's pharmacy and got a box and began using them. I am very glad to state that they relieved me from all symptoms of kidney complaint and I am of the belief that it was the treatment with Doan's Kidney Pills alone that cured me."

Grocers' Excursion Called Off.

Because of the destruction of Steeplechase Park by fire on Sunday, the Plainfield Grocers' Association has given up its plans to run the annual excursion to Coney Island, on Labor Day. As a majority of those who patronize the grocers' excursion have always enjoyed the amusemens in Steeplechase Park, the committee in charge thought it wise to give up the trip. The fire also ruined many other pleasures on the Island and the outing would in consequence not be as enjoyable as otherwise.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Timbo's restaurant on North avenue is up-to-date in every respect. That's why so many people dine there.

Delicious soda and ice cream at Hodge's Y. M. C. A. pharmacy. The purest of drugs carefully compounded at short notice.

C. M. Naegle's pharmacy on West Front street is an excellent place to secure drugs, toilet articles, cigars or your prescriptions compounded.

Save money by ordering your winter coal now. Prices will go up when the cold weather comes. Place your order with John Johnson, South avenue.

Endress, the West Front street butcher, has an excellent display of fish, slap on the ice. Order by 'phone, he delivers for lunch. Choicest meats and fowl.

Putnam & DeGraw's dry goods store on West Front street is the place to purchase dry goods and novelties of all kinds. The prices are very reasonable.

Special display of low cut shoes in light weight leathers for women at Van Arsdale's East Front street shoe store. Ties and pumps, in tan, black and white. They combine style and comfort most satisfactorily for the summer weather.

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, is making a specialty just now on his famous benzoin and witch hazel soap, the best value for the money yet offered. There is no better soda served anywhere than at this pharmacy and only pure fruit juices and ice cream are used.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

The contest at Crescent Oval on Saturday will be well worth going miles to see. It will be a real battle for honors between the Y. M. C. A. and Clinton Avenue, and will determine for a time at least who is to remain in first place. This will be the last regular game to be played this season between these teams and both will try to make good. As every player is in the best of condition there is no excuse to be offered for poor work and it will be a stubborn fight from start to finish.

McGraw's new second baseman whacked the leather sphere for two safeties on Monday.

The New York Americans are still in the joke column with a high percentage. In the last three games the Highlanders have made twenty errors.

In only one league out of eighteen has the leading team a percentage of over .700, and that one is the National League.

While the American League is the league for real hot pennant fights, the National League is not a bit slow this year in that respect.

Pitcher Keith, a left hander of the Little Rock team, went through a double header recently without giving a single base on balls.

Crawford, Flick and Chase, of the American League, have each made 100 hits this season. Not a single National League player has accomplished this feat, Wagner, of Pittsburg, being the nearest to the mark with ninety-seven.

Criticism is made of the fact that Larry Doyle made his first appearance with the New York Nationals without the initials "N. Y." on his shirt front. But so long as his cuffs were the proper depth and his cap properly poised over the part in his hair, the offence is not as great as it might otherwise have been.

Even on the coaching lines Lajoie has an ease and grace all his own. The next best thing to seeing him in the game is to see the inimitable finish with which he picks up foul balls that come his way when on the coaching line. He couldn't make a hard play if he tried to, because everything he does looks easy.

GOLF.

Some day within the near future there will be a return match at the Plainfield Country Club between Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and "Marty" O'Loughlin, of the home club, and George Lowe and Miss Frew, of the Baltusrol Golf Club. Last week the Plainfield pair was 1 down on thirty-six holes, but Mrs. Rogers was indisposed during the playing of the last eighteen holes and was unable to do her best.

Robert Abbott, of the Plainfield Country Club, has not played on the local course since his engagement in the National tournament at Cleveland, when he failed to make good. He will play this week, however, in the big tournament at VanCortlandt Park.

The Montclair Golf Club has about decided to give an invitation tournament in the fall. Since the course was changed about two weeks ago the officials believe it now affords a better test of golf, the outward journey being especially trying. The New Jersey State championship was held there in 1902.

Among those who expect to take part in the tournament at Deal Lake the latter part of August are C. B. Morgan, Robert Abbott and possibly F. O. Reinhart.

After considering a four days' contest and other innovations the Deal Golf and Country Club has finally fixed upon Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 22-24, for its annual tournament, which this year is to be an invitation and not an open affair. The entries close at 5 p. m., August 19. The commitee consists of William R. Delehanty, Arthur McAleenan and J. Henry Haggerty. The program:

Thursday, August 22—8 a. m.—Qualifying round; 18 holes medal play, medal for best score. First sixteen to qualify for president's cup; second, sixteen for vice president's cup; third sixteen for treasurer's cup; fourth sixteen for captain's cup.

Friday, August 23—8:30 a. m.—First round at match play. Beaten eights in first and second sixteens to play for green's committee and Deal cups.

Saturday, August 24.—9 a. m.—Semi-finals in all classes. 2 p. m.—Finals for all cups. All day handicap—Eighteen holes medal play. First round to count.

There will be no local rules. All match play is to be at 18 holes. Pairings will be posted at the clubhouse Wednesday, August 21, at 5 p. m. Those wishing to play with partners of their own choosing, not members of their own clubs, can do so by notifying the committee when entering.

WATCH OUT FOR "UNCLE JOE!"

Now that State Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen is on the mend, it is quite probable that the State leaders will be awakened to the fact that there is a hustling chap in Somerset county who would make a good governor and is bound to get the nomination by all fair means within his power. The county chairman is not only immensely popular in his own section but has a host of influential friends throughout the State and if the nomination is within his reach, he's sure to land the plum. No one has ever accused "Uncle Joe" of allowing grass to grow under his feet and no one has ever dreamt of his not taking advantage of every honest method of getting what he wants. In short, the father of the New Jersey automobile law is a regular Yankee and it's "do or die" with him every time.

Referring to the Raritan man's candidacy, "Freeholder" in the New York Press says:

"In Somerset and the hill range of counties, there is developing a strong force for Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and the Colonel is in a receptive mood, too. He counts thousands of farmers among his friends, and though he is a strong partisan his inherent love of fair play has made for him many friends among the independents. In the consideration of Sommer and Fort sagacious men are not losing sight of Frelinghuysen and Lewis. Jersey Republicans are 'playing in luck' this year. They have four men in the focus of the public eye, any one of whom can carry the State by a safe plurality."

ROBERT HUDSPETH FOR WM. B. GOURLEY'S POST.

Hudson Man Said to Be Choice for State Democratic Committee Chairman.

Surrogate David S. Grater, of Monmouth; James R. Nugent, of Essex, and Edward E. Grosscup, of Gloucester, the Special Committee of the State Democratic Committee named to nominated a successor to William B. Gourley as State chairman, will meet at Trenton Saturday. Indications are that they will agree upon Robert S. Hudespeth, of Hudson, as their choice.

John P. Dullard, president of the Trenton Board of Tax Assessors, who has been mentioned as a probable successor of Mr. Gourley, is out of the running.

"I do not know that I have been thought of in connection with the State chairmanship. I certainly could not think of accepting the place were it to be offered to me, which I do not anticipate will happen. I could not make the necessary sacrifice of time that would be required, even if I felt myself otherwise qualified. There are scores of men in the State with wider experience than myself, and among these I am sure there can be found one willing and able to devote himself to conducting what I believe will prove to be a successful campaign."

CO. K HARD AT WORK

Routine of Drill and Militia Manoeuvres Begins with a Rush at Sea Girt.

SHAM BATTLE FRIDAY

Officers' School, With Lectures On Sanitation, Makes Bert Littell Glad He Brought Spring Water.

Regular routine of camp life, drills and housekeeping in their company streets has begun for Co. K in camp at Sea Girt. The boys, coming into the hard work of the regular service so suddenly, were pretty much "all in" after the suddenness of their hard routine beginning Monday, but stiffness and "that tired feeling" are gradually disappearing as they get used to settling down to their military work. Regular army tactics occupied most of the soldier boys' time yesterday. The entire regiment, along with other troops camping there, participated in three hours of shelter tent drill yesterday morning under the tutelage of Captain Raymond S. Sheldon, who has been detailed to the camp. The idea of the officers in command at the camp this year is to have the drills consist of those maneuvres which require such space or such special instruction that they cannot be practised in the various company armories.

This morning the shelter tent drill was continued for several hours and this afternoon advance guard, with outpost formation will be the principal feature of the soldiers' work. Tomorrow morning the company will take part in a school in attack and reconnoisance and in the afternoon there will be special instruction in the art of defense and patrolling. Friday morning there will be the general muster and inspection, in connection with the combined field maneuvres, and the day's military tactics will close with a sham battle, in which Co. K will be a part of the attacking force. This sham battle will be the real maneuvre of the week.

A school for the non-commissioned officers has been started by Captain Sheldon, under the direction of General Collins. The sessions are held every afternoon at 3:15, when the officers meet in their mess hall to listen to a dissertation on the best methods of training the citizen soldier. Yesterday's session was conducted principally by Chaptain Sheldon, who spoke principally on camp cleanliness. He recited instances of having seen bits of bread and meat lying on the ground in the company streets and enlarged on the danger apt to arise from such carelessness. He pointed out that it was a very easy matter for flies and other germ carriers to spread disease through the medium of filth, and said that dysentery, typhoid and other camp disorders were frequently the result of uncleanliness in the camp. When the lecture was reported to Lieutenant Bert Littell, he assumed an "I told you so" air, and ordered up another glass of Watchung Spring Water, from his own private case, which he took with him from Plainfield. Bert says he is "taking no chances," and refuses to lap up the liquid of the ordinary mess, being constantly in company with his bottle of the spring water.

BULLDOG HOLDS GUARD OVER MASTER'S BODY.

Trenton Man, Suddenly Becoming Ill, Dies Before Wife Returns From Doctor.

Found dead in his home in East Trenton yesterday morning, Seigel Spencer was for more than two hours guarded by his pet bulldog, that kept away even the coroner and the police until the return of Mrs. Spencer, who had gone for a doctor. It was with difficulty that even Mrs. Spencer could coax the dog away to permit the authorities to make an investigation, which revealed that death had been caused by natural causes.

Even after the body had been prepared for burial the dog made frantic efforts to get to it, all the time howling mournfully and refusing to be comforted.

Spencer and the dog had been chums and companions for several years. The dog slept in the same room with his master, and was with him Monday night when he was taken ill. Spencer continued to grow worse, and yesterday morning Mrs. Spencer went for a doctor.

The coroner was unable to drive the dog away, and called a policeman but the animal withstood all advances until the return of his mistress.

Release from Boise Jail is Ordered—Pettibone to be Tried.

Judge Wood, in the district court, at Boise, Idaho, yesterday afternoon, ordered Charles M. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, admitted to bail in the sum of $25,000.

The trial of George A. Pettibone, one of the alleged conspirators, was set for Tuesday, October 1. No application for bond was made in behalf of Pettibone, the conference of counsel having been fruitless in this respect.

Haywood expects to leave for Denver on Thursday. Moyer may leave Wednesday.

TICKET AGENT DISAPPEARS.

Experts Going Over Books of W. C. Brower, at Perth Amboy.

W. C. Brower, ticket agent at the Central Railroad depot, in Perth Amboy, for the past four months, has been missing since Sunday, and expert accountants are now examining his boks, cash and stock of tickets, to note any shortage. Brower, on Sunday, told Frank Dey, the baggagemaster, that he had received a telegram from New York calling him there immediately, but that he would return in time to open the office Monday morning. That night he left for the city, and has not been heard from since.

Little is known of Brower beyond the fact that when he started work here he claimed to have been employed on the Erie railroad at Hoboken. He is about 25 years old. Yesterday two expert accountants from the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad went over the accounts at the local office, and today two from the Central Railroad were at the office making investigations. All of the accountants are from Philadelphia, and no information has been given out.

$50,000 IN THREE WEEKS.

That Is What Collectors for Dean McNulty Memorial Fund Hope to Accomplish.

The work of raising $50,000 in three weeks to be used in erecting a home of detention, as a monument to Rev. Dean William McNulty, has been begun at Paterson, and the various district bands of collectors will work energetically to complete their labors within the allotted time.

It will be necessary to raise the money in three weeks, because the presentation of the funds to the clergyman will take place at a public celebration in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood and of his forty-fourth anniversary as pastor of St. John's church, on his return from his present trip to Ireland.

IN WELL TWO WEEKS.

The mystery attending the finding of a coat in an out-door closet at the wagon manufactory of the J. R. McCardell Company, at Trenton, two weeks ago, was solved yesterday, when the dead body of the owner of the garment was found at the bottom of the well.

The victim is unknown to anyone about the place, although his body is in such condition that identification is difficult. It is supposed the man fell into the well, as there are no indications of foul play.

to round up the gang.

"Our delay in reaching Plainfield is due to the fact that we first went to Rochester, N. Y., with Curlao so that he could identify another man captured in that city. The man caught at Rochester goes by the English name of Fred Servias and when arrested, had $6,000 in his clothing, the fruits of Black Hand extortion. Curlao readily recognized him and we had him shipped to Newcastle at once. We then came down here by way of Trenton and will return home as soon as possible."

Both Logan and Castinger are clean-cut men and have the reputations of being among the best officers in western Pennsylvania. Logan is credited with having as much to do with rounding up the gang as the Pinkertons and "nothing is too good for him" in that section. He is a young man but has been in the business all his life and has a record of many important captures.

SHE WAS MARRIED TO A WEDDED MAN.

Belle Learns That Fuller Had Previously Taken Another.

Mary McLaughlin Fuller, 25 years old, who has been called the "Belle of West Paterson," and who was a member of the graduating class of trained nurses at the General Hospital in 1905, is in a critical condition at her home, 1 Sheridan avenue, in that place, owing to information that Lyman G. Fuller, 28 years old, of Dumont, Bergen county, to whom she was married on June 2, has another wife and a child. Fuller, who had been employed in the freight department of the Lackawanna at the road's offices in West street, Manhattan, cannot be found.

In August last a good-looking, well-dressed young man called at the McLaughlin home and asked for Mary. She did not at first remember him, but after he had introduced himself she recalled having met him in a casual way several years before. He called frequently after that, and finally proposed and was accepted. The pair were married by the Rev. E. V. King at the parsonage of the James M. E. church, Jersey City.

On July 2 two women called on the Rev. Mr. King in Jersey City and asked him if he married Lyman G. Fuller to a young woman from Paterson. Mr. King demanded her reason for asking and the visitor replied.

"The best reason in the world; I am Mr. Fuller's wife."

The woman said she was wedded to Fuller on July 2, 1902, at the Dumont Reformed church, and produced a certificate, which stated that her maiden name was Annie A. Priddy. She also said she had a boy four years old named Warren, and that a girl died two years ago.

Fuller, at the McLaughlin home, with him hand on a Bible, denied he knew the woman. He comes from one of the best families in Bergen county. He was at one time manager of interline freight accounts of the Lackawanna, and is the son of N. A. Fuller, head of the firm of N. A. Fuller & Co., 601 West Thirty-third street, New York.

At his father's office this afternoon relatives of young Fuller said he had told them he intended to bring an action for separation against his first wife whose whereabouts were unknown.

RAILROADS RELIEVED OF TAXATION.

The New Jersey State Board of Equalization of Taxes, sitting in Jersey City, yesterday refused to make an order directing the railroads with second class property in that city, upon the assessment of which an appeal is being heard by the board, to pay the city a sum of money on account of those taxes. Corporation Counsel George L. Record applied for the order.

The railroad companies owe Jersey City about one and one-half million dollars in taxes. More than one million dollars is due for the 1906 taxes on second class property, and by the refusal of the companies to pay, the city has been forced to borrow money to pay current expenses.

PIN FAITH TO FROG

GERMANS AND SWISS TRUST HIM AS WEATHER PROPHET.

Kept in Bottle Half Filled with Water, He Foretells Approaching Climatic Conditions with Accuracy, It Is Said.

Few animals have survived the attacks made by science upon their reputation as weather prophets. The green tree frog is a conspicuous exception.

He is, to be sure, a croaking prophet, but plenty of people still pin their faith to him. Even so scientific a journal as Symons' Meteorological Magazine has a kind word to say of this little animal.

Here is a picture of the frog's ladder which is provided for this weather prophet in Germany and Switzerland. In many houses the frog is kept in a battle half filled with water and provided with a ladder, and the little fellow is carefully watched as to his behavior in uncertain conditions of the atmosphere. A number of weather maxims are based upon his posture and activity.

If he remains on one of the lowest steps of the ladder it is considered a sure sign that bad weather is coming. If he emerges from the water and rests upon the steps above it fine weather may be expected, and the higher he sits on the steps the finer the weather is sure to be. He is also supposed to give warning of bad weather by croaking loudly before a storm.

The magazine says that there is really some reason to believe that the green tree frog is somewhat experienced as regards climatic conditions and acts accordingly. In fine weather he skips about among the branches of trees, when at liberty, catching flies. At the approach of winter he seek the water and finds himself abed in the mud until the following spring calls him out to resume his war on the flies.

Now the frog on the ladder without doubt watches the weather conditions keenly and rises to look out for flies when the circumstances seem favorable. On the other hand, when the weather is cold and damp he is reminded of winter and instinctively retires to bury his sorrows in the imaginary mud which he seeks at the bottom of his prison.

WIGS OF SPUN GLASS.

Natural Supply Fails and Invention Comes to the Rescue.

The enormous feminine demand for artificial coils and troupees is leading to a famine in human hair. Formerly Swiss, German and Hungarian girls supplied the world of fashionable women with luxuriant tresses of all tints.

But the governments of many countries are now making it illegal for a girl to sell her hair or for an agent to buy it. The supply in consequence is running short and the prices of real hair are trebling.

A series of successful experiments point to spun glass as the most effective substitute for human hair. Wigs made from spun glass are wonderfully light and fine and the texture soft and beautiful.

It is easy to produce any shade desired, while curls and waves can be manufactured at will to suit the fashion of the moment. The imitation is so realistic that it is impossible to detect the difference between it and real hair grown on the head.—London Mail.

Florida's Cold Geyser.

Mr. W. T. Chastain has a drainage well on his place at Seffner which is quite a curiosity for Florida. At intervals it throws streams of water ten to 20 feet in the air; subsiding, spouts again.

The natives say that the well happens to be directly over the devil's furnace, and whenever the devil builds his fires to do his cooking the water in the well begins to boil and spout. This theory is exploded by the fact that the water is not hot but cold; but the natives explain this by saying that the distance is so great that the water has ample time to cool before reaching the surface of the earth.

Had Died Together.

A pigeon was recently seen to fall into the yard of the works department at Deal barracks. On examination it was found that a snake two and one-half feet long had coiled itself round the bird's neck and one of its wings. Both bird and reptile were dead. The head of the snake was tightly held in the pigeon's beak.

NEW FOUNTAIN FOR ASBURY PARK.

Gypsy Chorus for Children's Musical Festival Organizes With Forty Members.

A new bronze fountain has been erected by the Camp Meeting Association in Founders' Park, Asbury Park, near the site where the first religious meeting was held in Ocean Grove in the early 60's. It is a memorial for the late Bishop James N. FitzGerald, for ten years president of the Camp Meeting Association. The fountain will be formally dedicated today—Ocean Grove's annual memorial day.

The gypsy chorus for the children's musical festival, to be held on Thursday evening, August 8, has been organized with forty members, and the first rehearsal was held last evening.

CENTRAL PRODDED FOR REPORT OF ACCIDENTS.

The Railroad Commission reported yesterday that last week there were four deaths and three persons injured in New Jersey on the Pennsylvania Railroad, one death on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and one injured each on the Philadelphia and Reading and the New York and Baltimore.

The failure of the Central Railroad to report a known death by accident in Jersey City caused the commission to get after the road and demand and explanation why the report has not been received. Weekly bulletins of accidents will hereafter be furnished the press.

WINNERS AT HORSE SHOW.

Twenty-nine of Seventy Exhibitors Share in the Cash Prizes.

Twenty-nine of the seventy exhibitors at the fourteenth annual exhibition of the Monmouth County Horse Show Association shared in the division of the $6,000 in cash prizes. Four of that number, Chas. W. Watson, of Baltimore; J. W. Harrisan, of Rye, N. Y.; Alfred G. Vanderbilt, of Newport, and S. J. Holloway, won over $3,600, taking thirty-five blue, thirty-five red, eleven yellow and eight white ribbons.

There were nine exhibitors who won two or more prizes. There were only nine individual first prize winners. The total attendance for the five exhibitions reached 20,000.

FOUR NEW CASES OF TYPHOID.

Sewerage Commission Finds Source of Contamination in Asylum Spring.

The State Sewerage Commission has been making an investigation of the source of pollution of the spring which has been blamed for the typhoid epidemic at the State Hospital at Trenton. Boyd McLean, the secretary of the Sewerage Commission, yesterday stated that the pollution of the spring and typhoid epidemic were due to sewage flowing underground from the Trenton city sewer in Asylum road into the spring, which was used for drinking purposes.

Four more cases of the disease developed yesterday, making a total of eighty-seven.

Woman Strangled Known in Jersey.

A good many persons in Jersey City are inclined to think that the woman found strangled to death at No. 475 West 22d street, Manhattan, formerly lived at No. 349 Communipaw avenue, Jersey City. This woman and an Englishman named Wilson lived at the Communipaw house, and she showed some of the inmates of the house a marriage certificate. The woman is described as something over five feet in height, with a reddish tinge in her hair and a slightly retrousse nose. Some of her teeth showed gold filling. Wilson is said to be employed now in that city.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of June 10, 1869:

"Mr. T. W. Young, residing at the foot of Water street, was aroused Thursday morning by a great commotion among his chickens, and upon repairing to the spot, found that a couple of dogs were among them, killing right and left. Between sixty and seventy fine fowls lay dead upon the ground, some of them of the choicest breed, for Mr. Young is a great lover of pure stock. A gun was brought into requisition, and a charge given to the fowl destroyers, and one of them severely wounded but succeeded in getting away. There is too many worthless dogs in and around Plainfield. Exterminate the dogs."

"Our street commissioner, Mr. Samuel T. Varian, is actively engaged in repairing our streets. He is the right man in the right place."

"POLICE REPORTS. The following arrests were made by Officer Williams, all of whom had a hearing before Alderman Moore, with the exception of one who was brought up before Alderman Staats:

"John and Maria Osburn, for drunkenness. Discharged on promise of leaving town.

"Mrs. Lucy, assault and battery. Gave bail for good behaviour for one year.

"John Stewart, obtaining goods under false pretenses. Charges not sustained. Discharged.

"Rearrested on warrant from Junction. Taken to that place and discharged.

"Wm. Grutton, arrested for finding revolver and refusing to return it to owner. Returned property and was discharged."

"We are among the fortunate ones who enjoyed the hospitalities of the Central R. R. Co. on the occasion of the trial trip of the new ferryboat "PLAINFIELD," on Thursday afternoon last. Some two hundred guests were present. The excursion left Communipaw about ¼ to 3, and proceeded up the North River a short distance, then back to the East River, up which we went as far as Blackwell's Island, thence down the Bay, returning to Communipaw about 5 o'clock, and was pronounced by all present as the most enjoyable excursion ever given by the company. During the trip a bountiful collation was served to the guests, after which the presentation of colors was made to the officers of the boat. Rev. D. J. Yerkes, of Plainfield, in a few very appropriate remarks, presented the colors in behalf of the donors, which was replied to by ex-Senator Charles Winfield, of Greenville, in behalf of the officers of the boat. The colors, which were flying at the bow during the trip, consist of a white ground, with crimson border, and the word 'Plainfield' in blue in the middle, and was purchased by a subscription of thirty-eight signers, through the efforts of Messrs. R. O. Edwards, Geo. Hoadley and R. F. Harriott, of our city, who made up the deficiency in the amount subscribed. The cost was $225. The new boat is one of the finest the company has yet built, the cabins especially are the handsomest we ever saw in the way of decorations. The forward saloons are lighted by three 6-globe chandeliers, and the aft with two supplied with gas from a large gasometre in the hold. The boat was built by Devine Burtis, Jr., of Red Hook, and cost in the neighborhood of $140,000. She is 225 feet long, beam 64 feet; depth 13 feet. The engines were built by Fletcher, Harrison & Co., New York, and have cylinders 53 inches in diameter, with a 12 feet stroke of piston. Her tonnage is 1,051."

Among the "BRIEFS" under—"Cool weather" and—"Eva was Uncle Tom's pet," comes this one: "Lager Beer has been proven to be exhilarating."

Clouded Glass.

To cloud a glass for the sake of protection purposes, as in a bathroom, and yet to preserve the light a man who works in glass says that it is done with a solution of epsom salts and vinegar applied with a brush. This should give a frosted look that becomes very durable if it is gone over at once with damar or white varnish.

Tempered Copper.

Copper is stated to be so hardened as to take a cutting edge by adding to it while in a molten state about 2 per cent of potassium ferrocyanide. The color is not affected. The reason for the change is not clear, but it is supposed to result fro mthe introduction of iron and possibly carbon.

A Costly Railroad.

The most expensive piece of railway line in the world is said to be that of the North British railway which runs over the Forth bridge. This portion of the line, including approaches, is about four miles long and cost $4,000,000 a mile to construct.

The human eye, it is asserted, can distinguish 100,000 different colors or hues and can appreciate and differentiate twenty shades of each hue. It other words, the eye is capable of 2,000,000 color impressions.

"It's this way—her father, who knew Randolph & Randolph through your father's handling of the Seaboard's affairs, learned of my connection with the house, and gave her a letter, asking me to do what I could to help his daughter carry out her plans. She wants to get a position with us, if possible, in some sort of capacity, secretary, confidential clerk, or, as she puts it, any sort of place that will justify her being in the office. She tells me she is good at shorthand, on the machine, or at correspondence, also that she has been a contributor to the magazines. If this can be arranged, she says she will on her own responsibility select the time and the stock, and hurl the last of the Sands fortune at the market, and, Jim, she is game. The blow seems to have turned this child into a wonderfully nervy creature, and, old man, I am beginning to have a feeling that perhaps the cards may come so she will win the judge out. You and I know where less than sixty thousand had been run up to millions more than once, and that, too, without the aid she will have, for I'll surely do all I can to help her steer this last chance into spongy places."

Bob in his enthusiasm had completely lost sight of the fact that he was indorsing a project that but a moment previous he had pronounced insane, and with a start I realized what this sudden transformation betokened. Inevitably, if the project he outlined were carried out, Bob and the beautiful southern girl would be thrown into close association with each other, and further acquaintance could only deepen the startling influence Beulah Sands had already won over my ordinarily sane and cool-headed comrade. As I looked at my friend, burning with an ardor as unaccustomed as it was impulsive, I felt a tug at my heart-strings at thought of the sudden cross-roading of his life's highway. But I, too, was filled with the glamour of this girl's wondrous beauty, and her terrible predicament appealed to me almost as strongly as it had to Bob. So, although I knew it would be fatal to any chance of his weighing the matter by common sense, I burst out:

"Bob, I don't blame you for falling in with the girl's plans. If I were in your shoes I should, too."

Tears came to Bob's eyes as he grabbed my hand and said:

"Jim, how can I ever repay you for all the good things you have done for me—how can I!"

It was no time to give way to emotional outbursts, and while Bob was getting his grip on himself, I went on:

"Come along down to earth now, Bob; let us look at this thing squarely. You and I, with our position in the market, can do lots of things to help run that sixty thousand to higher figures, but six months is a short time and a million or two a world of money."

"She knows that," he said, "and the time is much shorter and the road to go much longer than you figure," he replied. "This girl is as high-tensioned as the E string on a Stradivarius, and she declares she will have no charity tips or unusual favors from us or anyone else. But let us not talk about that now, or we'll get discouraged. Let's do as she says and trust to God for the outcome. Are you willing, Jim, to take her into the office as a sort of confidential secretary? If you will, I'll take charge of her account, and together we will do all that two men can for her and her father."

CHAPTER II.

The following week saw Miss Sands, of Virginia, private secretary to the head of Randolph & Randolph, established in a little office between mine and Bob's. She had not been there a day before we knew she was a worker. She spent the hours going over reports and analyzing financial statements, showing a sagacity extraordinary in so young a person. She explained her knowledge of figures by the hand-work she had done for the judge, all of whose accounts she had kept. Bob and I saw that she was bent on smothering her memory in that antidote for all ills of heart and soul—work. Her office life was simplicity itself. She spoke to no one except Bob, save in connection with such business matters of the firm's as I might send her by one of the clerks to attend to. To the others in the banking house she was just an unconventional young literary woman whose high social connections had gained her this opportunity of getting at the secrets of finance, from actual experience, for use in forthcoming novels. It had got abroad that she was the writer of great distinction who, under a nom de plume, had recently made quite a dent in the world's literary shell—a suggestion that I rightly guessed was one of Bob's delicate ways of smoothing out her path. I had tried in every way to make things easy for her, but it was impossible for me to draw her out in talk, and finally I gave it up. Had it not been that every time I passed her office door I was compelled by the fascination which I had first felt, and which, instead of diminishing, had increased with her reticence, to look in at the quiet figure with the downcast eyes, working away at her desk as though her life depended on never missing a second, I should not have known she was in the building. My wife, at my suggestion, had tried to induce her to visit us; in fact, after I let her into just enough of Beulah Sands' story so that she could see things on a true slant, she had decided to try to bring her to our house to live. But though the girl was sweetly gentle in her appreciation of Kate's thoughtful attentions, in her simple way she made us both feel that our efforts would be for naught, that her position must be the same as that of any other clerk in the office. We both finally left her to herself. Bob explained to me, some three weeks after she came to the office, that she received no visitors at her home, a hotel on a quiet uptown street, and that even he had never had permission to call upon her there.

But from the day she came to occupy her desk in our office, Bob was a changed man, whether for better or for worse neither Kate nor I could decide. His old bounding elasticity was gone, and with it his rollicking laugh. He was now a man where before he had been a boy, a man with a burden. Even if I had not heard Beulah Sands' story, I should have guessed that Bob was staggering under a strange load. While before, from the close of the stock exchange until its opening the next morning, he was, as Kate was fond of putting it, always ready to fill in for anything from chaperon to nurse, always open for any lark we planned from a Bohemian dinner to the opera, now weeks went by without our seeing him at our house. In the office it used to be a saying that outside gong-strikes. Bob Brownley did not know he was in the stock business. Formerly every clerk knew when Bob came or went, for it was with a rush, a shout, a laugh, and a bang of doors; and on the floor of the stock exchange no man played so many pranks, or filled his orders with so much jolly good-nature and hilarious boisterousness. But from the day the Virginian girl crossed his path, Bob Brownley was a man who was thinking, thinking, thinking all the time. It was only with an effort that he would keep his eyes on whomever he was talking with long enough to take in what was said, and if the saying occupied much time it would be apparent to the talker that Bob was off in the clouds. All his friends and associates remarked the change, but I alone, except perhaps Kate, had any idea of the cause. I knew that two million dollars and the coming New Year were hurdling like kangaroos over Bob's mental rails and ditches, though I did not know it from anything he told me, for after that talk on the upper deck of the Tribesman he had shut up like a clam.

He did not exactly shun me, but showed me in many ways that he had entered into a new world, in which he desired to be alone. That Beulah Sands' plight had roused into intense activity all the latent romance of my friend's nature, did not surprise me. I foresaw from the first that Bob would fall head over heels in love with this beautiful, sorrow-laden girl, and it was soon obvious that the long-delayed shaft had planted its point in the innermost depths of his being. His was more than love; a fervid idolatry now had possession of his soul, mind and body. Yet its outward manifestations were the opposite of what one would have looked for in this gay and optimistic southerner. It was rather priest-like worship, a calm imperturbability that nothing seemed to distract or upset, at least in the presence of the goddess who was its object. Every morning he would pass through my office headed straight for the little room she occupied as if it were his one objective point of the day, but once he heard his own "Good morning, Miss Sands," he seemed to round to, and while in her presence was the Bob Brownley of old. He would be in and out all day on any and every pretext, always entering with an undisguised eagerness, leaving with a slow, dreamy reluctance. That he never saw her outside the office, I am sure, for she said good-night to him when he or she left for the day, with the same don't-come-with-me dignity that she exhibited to all the rest of us. I had not attempted to say a word to Bob about his feeling for Beulah Sands, nor had he ever brought up the subject to me. On the contrary, he studiously avoided it.

Three months of the six had now passed, and with each day I thought I noted an increasing anxiety in Bob. He had opened a special account for Miss Sands on the books of the house in his name as agent, with a credit of $60,000, and we both watched it with a painful tenseness of scrutiny. It had grown by uneven jerks, until the balance on October 1 was almost $400,000. On some of the trades Bob had consulted me, and on others, two in particular where he closed up after a few days' operations with nearly $200,000 profit, I did not even know what the trading was based on until the stocks had been sold. Then he said:

"Jim, that little lady from Virginia can give us a big handicap and play us to a standstill at our own game. She told me to buy all the Burlington and Sugar her account would stand, and did not even ask my opinion. In both cases I thought the operations were more the result of a wakeful night, and an I-must-do-something decision than anything else, and I tackled both with a shiver; but when she told me to sell them out at a time I thought they looked like going higher, and the next day they slumped, I could not help thinking about the destiny that shapes our ends."

"Jim that little lady can give us a handicap and beat us to a standstill at our own game."

On my part I tried to help. On one occasion, without consulting her, I put her account in on a sure thing underwriting, wherein she stood to make a profit of a quarter of a million, but when Bob told her what I had done, she insisted with great dignity that her name be withdrawn. After that neither of us dared help her to any short cuts. Bob was deeply impressed by her principles, and, commenting on them, said: "Jim, if all Wall street had a code similar to Beulah Sands' to hew to in their gambles, ours would be a fairer and more manly game, and many of the multi-millionaires would be clerking, while a lot of the hand-to-mouth traders would come down town in a new auto every day in the week. She does not believe in stock gambling. She has worked it out that every dollar one man makes, another loses; that the one who makes gives nothing in return for what he gets away with; and that the other fellow's loss makes him and his as miserable as would robbery to the same amount. Yet she realizes that she must get back those millions stolen from her father, and is willing to smother her conscience to attempt it, provided she takes no unfair advantage of the other players. The other day she said to me: 'I have decided, because of my duty to my father, to put away my prejudice against gambling, but no duty to him or to any one else can justify me in playing with marked cards.' Jim, there is food for reflection for you and me, don't you think?"

I did not argue with him, for, after that Saturday's outburst, I had made up my mind to avoid stirring Bob up unnecessarily. Also, I had to admit to myself that the things he had then said had raised some unucomfortable thoughts in me, thoughts that made me glance less confidently now and then at the old sign of Randolph & Randolph and at the big ledger which showed that I, an ordinary citizen of a free country, was the absolute possessor of more money than a hundred thousand of my fellow beings together could accumulatet in a lifetime, although each had worked harder, longer, more conscientiously, and with perhaps more ability than I.

As to how Beulah Sands' code had affected my friend, I was ignorant. For the first time in our association I was completely in the dark as to what he was doing stockwise. Up to that Saturday I was the first to whom he would rush for congratulations when he struck it rich over others on the exchange, and he invariably sought me for consolation when the boys "uppercut him hard," as he would put it. Now he never said a word about his trading. I saw that his account with the house was inactive, that his balance was about the same as before Miss Sands' advent, and I came to the conclusion that he was resting on his oars and giving his undivided attention to her account and the execution of his commissions. His handling of the business of the house showed no change. He still was the best broker on the floor. However, knowing Bob as I did, I could not get it out of my mind that his brain was running like a mill-race in search of some successful solution of the tremendous problem that must be solved in the next three months.

Shortly after the October 1 statements had been sent out, Bob dropped in on Kate and me one night. After she had retired and we had lit our cigars in the library he said:

"Jim, I want some of that old-fashioned advice of yours. Sugar is selling at 110, and it is worth it; in fact it is cheap. The stock is well distributed among investors, not much of it floating round 'the street.' A good big buying movement, well handled, would jump it to 175 and keep it there. Am I sound?"

I agreed with him.

"All right. Now what reason is there for a good, big, stiff uplift? That tariff bill is up at Washington. If it goes through, sugar will be cheaper at 175 than at 110."

Again I agreed.

"'Standard Oil' and the sugar people know whether it is going through, for they control the senate and the house and can induce the president to be good. What do you say to that?"

"O. K.," I answered.

"No question about it, is there?"

"Not the slightest."

"Right again. When 26 Broadway gives the secret order to the Washington boss and he passes it out to the grafters, there will be a quiet accumulation of the stock, won't there?"

("26 Broadway" is the Wall street figure of speech for "Standard Oil," which has its home there.)

"You've got that right, Bob."

"And the man who first knows when Washington begins to take on sugar is the man who should load up quick and rush it up to a high level. If he does it quickly, the stockholders, who now have it, will get a juicy slice of the ripening melon, a slice that otherwise would go to those greedy hypocrites at Washington, who are always publicly proclaiming that they are there to serve their fellow countrymen, but who never tire of expressing themselves to their brokers as not being in politics for their health."

"So far, good reasoning," I commented.

"Jim, the man who first knows when the senataors and congressmen and members of the cabinet begin to buy sugar, is the man who can kill four birds with one stone: Win back a part of Judge Sands' stolen fortune; increase his own little pile against the first of January, when, if the little Virginian lady is short a few hundred thousand of the necessary amount, he could, if he found a way to induce her to accept it, supply the deficiency; fatten up a good friend's bank account a million or so, and do a right good turn for the stockholders who are about to be, for the hundredth time, bled out of profit rightfully theirs."

Bob was afire with enthusiasm, the first I had seen him show for three months. Seeing that I had followed him without objection so far, he continued.

Men's Union Suits

Biggest Sale of This Kind Newark Has Known.

For a long time we have been endeavoring to secure the mill seconds of the leading makers of Men's Union Suits of Underwear, and at last have succeeded in getting them.

The mill from which these seconds come is devoted to men's combination suits and produce only the highest class garments. Being high class an inspection is most critical, and the slightest defect in any suit causes it to be banished from the regular stocks. Thus you will find many suits in this lot in which the defect is so trifling that you will not be able to find them at all. Few, if any, are seriously affected.

The colors are white, ecru and fancy effects.

Cottons, Lisles and Mercerized Cottons.

Four lots to choose from; full range of sizes.

Lot 1---Reg. 1.25 Union Suits 75c.
Lot 2---Reg. 1.50 Union Suits 1.00
Lot 3---1.75 to 2.00 Union Suits 1.25
Lot 4---2.50 to 3.00 Union Suits 1.50

There are men who have not experienced the advantages of union suits and a number who imagine they are for women only. To these we would say "give the union suit a trial."

Another Sale of Furntiure.

This Time of Discontinued Lines Only.

The reason for this is obvious. Where we have only an odd piece of a suite or where there are single parlor suites, bedroom suites or dining-room suites of a pattern that the makers are about to discontinue, and it is to our advantage to sell it at once and make room for the newer patterns being introduced.

Discontinued patterns are by no means out-of-date designs, but those which have to stand aside when the creators of furniture designs produce other, though perhaps no better, patterns. It is simply progressive manufacturing and progressive retailing.

One-third to One-half Off the Original Prices.

Will be the rule in this August Sale. While you have not as wide choice as you had in the July Sale, when everything was reduced, the odd pieces are plentiful enough to make it very interesting and extremely profitable to those who take advantage of the offerings.

Store Will Close at 3 p.m. each Saturday during August.

DOG GUARDS DEAD MASTER.

Holds Off Coroner and Police Until His Mistress Arrives.

Found dead in his home in East Trenton yesterday morning, Seigel Spencer was for more than two hours guarded by his pet bulldog, which kept away even the coroner and the police until the return of Mrs. Spencer, who had gone for a doctor and been delayed. It was with difficulty that even Mrs. Spencer could coax the dog away to permit the authorities to make an investigation, which revealed that death had been due to natural causes.

Even after the body had been prepared for burial, the dog made frantic efforts to get to it, all the time howling mournfully and refusing to be comforted. Spencer and the dog had been chums and companions for several years. The dog slept in the same room with his master, and was with his Monday night when he was taken ill.

Father Thomas Killeen Dead.

The Rev. Thomas Killeen, one of the oldest and best known priests in the Newark diocese, died last night at his home, 824 Grand street, Jersey City, at the age of 74. Death was due to heart failure, brought on by the heat. During his illness he was attended by Bishop John J. O'Connor. Father Killeen erected St. Mary's church, Bayonne, which is now one of the largest in the diocese.

LITTLE COP GETS TERROR.

Hales Fay, Whom Others Feared, Before Bayonne Recorder.

Peter Fay, who, as walking delegate for the Bayonne Hod Carriers' Union, gained a reputation by knocking out several men with whom he had disputes and sending them to the hospital, was arraigned yesterday before Recorder Lazarus on the charge of having assaulted his brother-in-law, John Lavelle.

The warrant was issued on April 1, and, although Fay was working about the city all the time, none of the cops cared to tackle him until yesterday, when Patrolman John Keating, one of the smallest of the cops, used his club and subdued Fay.

"I do not feel proud of our police force," said the recorder in sending Fay to jail for ninety days. "This man has been roaming the streets for months and none of the officers would tackle him. I was thinking of sending out some boys to arrest him."

"REB" NEGRO WANTS PENSION.

Says He Was Forced to Fight for South and Needs Money.

Declaring that he needed the money just as much as if he had fought in the Union ranks, Stephen Sallie, of Trenton, an aged negro, who fought with the Confederates in the Civil War, yesterday applied to William S. Mills, a local pension agent, for a pension of $10 a month from the Federal Government. It is said this is the first time a Confederate soldier has asked for a pension from the government against which he fought.

Sallie asserts that he was forced into the ranks of the rebels, and says he needs the money to keep body and soul together for the remainder of life. He is too old to work and has no one to look after him. 'Squire Mills has interested himself in the old man's case, but if aid is secured for him it will be from some source other than the Pension Department at Washington.

WEDDING TOUR IN AUTO.

J. B. Duke and Wife Leave Somerville for Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Duke, who have been spending their honeymoon quietly on the Duke estate at Raritan since their marriage in Brooklyn on July 24, left yesterday for a three weeks' auto tour of New York State. They will join a party of friends in New York city, who will accompany the bride and groom through the State to the Adirondacks.

It is understood at Raritan that the proposed wedding tour to Europe in August has been delayed by the recent action of the government against the American Tobacco Company, of which Mr. Duke is president, which will require Mr. Duke to appear in the United States Court when the case comes up in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Duke left their home yesterday in a big touring car, which was followed by another automobile carrying their baggage.

Jersey Girl Weds in Philippines.

George Yarnall, of Belford, near Red Bank, yesterday received from his daughter in the Philippines a cable dispatch saying that she was married on July 4 to Emmet C. Kauffman, one of Uncle Sam's soldiers. Miss Libbie Yarnall left home early in June to make the journey to the Philippines all alone. Her purpose was to marry her present husband, with whom she became acquainted while the young soldier was stationed at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook.

GIRL TOOK FIRE-BOX FOR ONE FOR LETTERS.

Caused Two Alarms and Gave Department Hot Run Up a Steep Hill.

"Mary, I want you to go to the box on the corner and mail a letter," Mrs. George W. Lyle, of Summit avenue, in Hackensack, said yesterday afternoon to her servant, Mary Anderson.

At 2.50 an alarm sounded from fire box No. 45 on the Heights and the firemen hurried up the Central avenue hill in the sweltering sun. Chief of Police Dunn reached the scene as soon as any, failed to see a conflagration and made a few inquiries. He learned that Mrs. Lyle's servant had been near the alarm box and she made this explanation:

"I go to the red box, broke the glass and pulled the bell. I waited a minute and the door did not open so I pulled the thing again. I waited, but it was not open so I went to another box across the street and put the letter in a hole."

Chief Dunn took Mary to the street and showed her the group of angry, perspiring firemen. She cried as though her heart would break when she realized what she had done, and when the firemen heard of the joke, their anger disappeared and they, too, laughed.

Fire Chief Duffy couldn't smile. He was in Bogota, a mile away, when the first alarm sounded. He started for the Heights on his bicycle. When the second alarm sounded he feared the whole section was ablaze and doubled his speed. The chief was all in when he reached the top of the hill.

Shrubb and Longboat May Race.

Alfred Shrubb, the English champion runner, who lowered the two-mile world's record at Boston, Saturday, has entered for the one, three and five mile races at the annual Scottish games of the New York Caledonian Club, Washington Park, Grand street, between Maspeth and Newtown, L. I., on Labor Day. A movement is on foot to pit Longboat, the Canadian champion, against Shrubb on that occasion, in case the latter should adjudge a professional. If these two runners should come together and try conclusions the races in question will be worth traveling miles to witness.

Stevenson Favors Bryan.

Former Vice President A. E. Stevenson emphatically declared, in an interview at Norfolk, Va., yesterday, that he favors William J. Bryan for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. He was also positive that the Nebraskan would again receive the nomination. Mr. Stevenson said he himself was out of politics.

W. H. Clum Marries.

William H. Clum, an architect, was married Sunday night to his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. C. Cole, at Elizabeth. They are now at home at Lincoln avenue, Dunellen.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

Lots selling rapidly—Prices very low—Great investment or speculative opportunities.
